Some People Break Food Parcel Rules

OTTAWA — The Post Office Department reports that conditions for the use of the now-familiar yellow labels on food parcels to Great Britain are being violated, and issued a reminder to senders that the label is to be affixed only to parcels containing food exclusively.

The yellow label, bearing a customs declaration was introduced by the department some time ago in order to expedite shipment of food parcels to Britain. Since then the department reports several instances of articles other than food being sent in the parcels, and warned that this may result in confiscation of the parcel by authorities.

The Post Office also urged that care be taken in the correct filling-out of the Customs declaration.

TONE NOT GOOD

The second largest bell in the world, was cast in 1902 for a Japanese Budhist Temple. Weighing over 130 tons with a height of 26 feet its voice may be heard for miles. Significantly enough, it is only recognized and famous for its size, for the tone of the bell is not clear and not good.

Link Will Be Carried Into Next Generation

LONDON. — The Royal Family's close links with the navy will be carried another generation with the marriage of Philip Mountbatten to the heiress-presumptive, Princess Elizabeth.

George V — even his beard was trimmed in the quarter-deck manner — was actively associated with the Royal Navy for many years and was affectionately known as "The Sailor King".

His son, the present King, has the erect, trim bearing of a naval officer — and rightly. He served with distinction in the First World War, and, when Duke of York, was second-in-command of the forward gun turret aboard the battleship Collinwood in the Battle of Jutland.

On a recent Royal visit to the Home Fleet, drawn up for review in the Clyde, Lieut. Mountbatten accompanied by the King, Queen and Princesses as they went from ship to ship, chatting with the senior officers and inspecting the men and equipment.

The King, resplendent in the uniform of Admiral of the Fleet—"braid 'alfway up 'is arms," mumbled one sailor—led the way along the deck. Several decorous paces behind came Philip, as yet seeming a little uncertain of his part in a Royal visit.

Sunflowers Keep Turkeys At Home

According to the Calgary Albertan rural informant reveals that sunflowers are planted around the edge of turkey-runs to keep the birds from flying over the fence. The seeds are eaten but that is of secondary importance.

Unlike their wild ancestors, modern domestic turkeys cannot attain great altitudes in flight. They're too heavy. But they can and do fly over a six-foot fence. The expense of 10 or 12-foot fences has now been found unnecessary. Just plant sunflowers along the inside of an ordinary low fence.

As the turkeys grow so do the sunflowers. By the time the turkeys can fly, the sunflowers have reached their full height of 10 or 12 feet. Flexing his primary wing muscles, a gobbler eyes the distant world of unknown delights, prepares for the take-off. Then he sees the towering ranks of tall sentinels and changes his mind. He hasn't sense enough to know he could thrash right through the sunflowers and escape.

Residents Liked Their Town's Name

The Edmonton Journal says Whisky Gap in South Alberta got its name many years ago when American whisky runners used a gap in the height of land on the U.S.-Canada border through which to run illicit cargoes to Indians and hunters on the Canadian side. The present-day residents protested so vigorously a few years ago when an attempt was made to foist the name Farnham on them that the authorities backed down. And it is Whisky Gap to this day.

Prices Climb But Canadians Buying More

OTTAWA — Prices may be climbing but when it comes to food and clothing, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics discloses that men and women alike are buying more goods than a year ago.

Retail stores in 14 trades dealing chiefly in food, apparel, household equipment, and personal effects, reported sales averaging seven per cent. higher in June than in the corresponding month last year. Unadjusted index on the base 1935-39 equals 100, was 222.7 compared with 208.8 for June, 1946.

The June figure dropped six per cent. from 247.7 index for the previous month, but the bureau termed this trend consistent with the normal seasonal movement from May to June.

The increase over June a year ago was smaller than the average gain in earlier months of the year, the bureau said, adding that the food store sales advanced only six per cent. in June, compared with 10 per cent. for the year to date.

Men's wear stores reported a 12 per cent. increase during June against the eight per cent. rise shown in the six-month comparison. Shoe-stores joined restaurants and jewelry stores in recording sales declines from June last year, but the reductions for the first two of these trades were only fractional.

June department store sales were 15 per cent. higher than last year. Country general and variety store increases though cut in half from those of the previous month, were almost on a par with their average gains for the year to date at six and seven per cent., respectively.

Family clothing shops and women's apparel stores showed gains of seven and four per cent., respectively, during June. Shoe-store sales remained practically unchanged.

Sales of radio and electrical stores were almost one-third higher in June this year than last. Furniture store sales in June were 12 per cent. higher than in June last year, while June increases for hardware and drug-stores were nine and three per cent. respectively.

The only sizable reduction from June last year was for jewelry stores which reported sales 11 per cent. lower.

Chain candy stores reported sales two per cent. lower in June compared with June, 1946. Retail florists experienced an eight per cent. decline.

Best Customer Keeps Hospital Staff Busy

REEDSBURG, Wis. — When Wilbert Haler, 21, was admitted to the hospital to have his tonsils removed, he didn't have to be introduced to the staff.

Last year Haler won a desperate bout with meningitis. Upon being discharged he was driving home when he broke a leg in an automobile accident. Back he went to the hospital.

While recuperating at home, he was stricken with appendicitis and made another trip to the hospital.

British Columbia Timber Still Tall

A news story from Halifax, records the arrival there of a 126-foot British Columbia Douglas fir. It arrived loaded on three railway flat cars, to make the new flagpole for the City Hall.

It is getting on towards evening of the day of the tall timbers says the Vancouver Province. But there are still active loggers who can remember when it was not very unusual to cut fir timbers 36 inches by 36 inches by 130 feet.

They used to load them on the Fraser, on the old windjammers, through a hole cut in the bows of the ship. They went to Europe, to make the keelsons of the last of the wooden ships.

Still that 126-foot flagpole for Halifax City Hall, would hardly have been cut out of less than a 200-foot tree, a tall, straight tree, a very [illegible].

Some People Willing To Sign Anything

In an Ontario town some time ago a petition was circulated, protesting against imposition of a fine on a young man for reckless driving. It was signed by most of the prominent citizens, but at the hearing the young man pleaded guilty and admitted that he had been caught only after a hard chase, going over 60 miles an hour. The trouble with the petition-signers was that they had not read—or at best had merely glanced over—what they signed.

My boy, I would advise you to deliver your grain to Alberta Pool elevators and to stay with the Pool. It has been a big help to us Alberta farmers. It is our business and it is up to us to make it successful.

I believe in co-operation and I think we farmers should stand shoulder to shoulder to show the world that we can operate our business in the way we want it done.

Our Alberta Wheat Pool operates for the people on the land and not for the investor or speculator. It has cut to the bone the cost of grain handling. It has corrected abuses and is providing a fine trustworthy service.

The Pool put a patronage dividend policy into effect, compelling other grain companies to do likewise. They never would have done so but for the Pool.

Original Pool members put up over $8 millions in cash to build the Alberta Wheat Pool. You can increase your ownership in the Pool merely by delivering your grain. You will get patronage dividends in cash and reserves. Ownership lies in the reserves.

The aim is to keep Alberta Pool Elevators in the hands of operating farmers. Stay with the Pool and you will always be glad you did so.

ETHELWYN NEWS

This bulletin was written for last week's Standard but was received too late for inclusion in that issue. Allowance should be made for time elapsed.

Rain, more rain, just when we need dry weather for harvest, with a little frost added. The writer wishes that everyone had the abundance of vegetables to can that we in this district have. The season seems all too short to take care of everything before the frost.

Mrs. Bowick, Louise and Phyllis of Vegreville are visiting the former's sister Mrs. R. MacDonald.

The following was crowded out of our news last week—Our congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Colin Gallagher on the birth of a daughter Mary Ann on August 1st.

The last meeting of the J.O.H.C. club was held at the home of Joyce Cooper with 5 members and 2 guests present. The guests were Mr and Mrs McBride, Mrs Ommen, Mrs Myers, Mrs McGillivary, Donald and Colin and Jeanie MacDonald. Mrs McBride gave the girls a lesson in basket making. With so much help from the guests most of the girls finished a little tray each before lunch time. Following lunch a short program was given. Donald McGillivary was the accompanist. The tray donated by Mrs McBride for the best performance was won by Penny McClellan of Vancouver who danced the Highland Fling and the sword dance. Plans were made for a trip to Vermilion, also a whist drive and social evening.

You Chatsworth, we too wondered who was responsible for the 10c ice cream cones. Considering the price no wonder the ice cream sat around until it was practically melted before being sold. The fair was grand but people don't like being overcharged especially where the children are chiefly concerned.

FOR CLOTHING DONATED THRU UNNRA — HELP GREATLY

Miss Edna Patterson has received the following letter of thanks from Assunta Castelluccio of Naples, Italy for clothing that lady received through UNRRA. Miss Patterson donated the clothes to the drive in June and the Italian lady got her name and address from some of the clothing. The letter clearly written in English follows, without altering or editing.

Naples, Italy July 11, 1947

Dear Lady

You will be surprise to get these few lines from a country so far from you.

I am a married woman and I have a baby 3 years old. My home was all destroyed with an American bombardment, my husband has been in the war and now he can not go to work because he can not find any job here. I had one more baby and she died when my home was all bombed. A few days ago I have had a package from the UNRRA and in this package I got your address. So now I am going to write to you because you are my good benefactress and I want to thank you from the bottom of my heart.

Your package has been a great relief to me and to my family and we are never tired thanking you for your generosity. We live in very bad conditions and would be grateful if you would send to us a few lines and you will send to us a little relief, directly to us so it is sure we will get it. Everything which you have to throw away, because too old for you send to us send to us old clothe, everthing which is no good for you. It will be very good to us and we can use every thing—will you help dear Lady? I am sure you will, and please don't spend any money for me, I don't want to give you any troubles. I just want the clothes which you have to throw away because they are no good for you. I can use them for me, for my husband and for my little poor baby. And may God bless you, you will do a very good action and your life will be happy forever, this is the wishes which comes from the depth of my heart.

Will you write me a few lines let me know if you like to get this letter of mine and if you like to help me sometime.

I close sending you all my best wishes for your happiness forever in your life with your family and with all my best thanks for your generosity.

This is my address:

Assunta Castelluccio,
Via Cassaire 36,
Fuorigrotta Naples, Italy.

Wildmere Winks

Congrats to Mr and Mrs Wm. Chesnutt Jr of Rosewood on the birth of an 8 pound 2 ounce boy on Saturday Aug 23rd. Both are well.

While the men were out looking at the grain on Monday they came across a porcupine that had been killed and eaten by coyotes. Even the skin had been cleaned off and how it was done without the killers being filled with quills is a mystery to the men. Rabbits and prairie chicken are not very plentiful so apparently our coyotes are hungry enough to tackle anything eatable.

Billie Smith and George Hainsworth both have had windchargers put up. Mr Hanson also has a Diesel engine to charge up his lighting batteries. It's nice to see the farm homes being lighted by electricity and other useful electrical appliances being added to lessen farm work.

Home and School

An appeal to parents to co-operate with educational authorities, issued from Ottawa, is based on the need for continuation in the home of classroom training in such matters as punctuality, team-play and discipline. At school, children learn that they must abide by accepted rules of social behaviour for their personal profit as well as for collective well-being. Parents can further this type of training by ensuring that principles of sportsmanship and co-operation are honoured in the home.

LONDON'S MUSEUM MAY BE MOVED

LONDON. — The London Museum may have to move away from London. Reason: the housing shortage.

For 30 years before the war the London Museum attracted nearly 400,000 people annually to Lancaster House, St. James's.

During the war the building was taken over by the Government. Most [illegible] exhibits—they cover almost all aspects of the London story—were stored in disused passages in the Piccadilly Tube.

Now they lie, still crated, in the basement of Lancaster House; and it appears that they may never return to the great rooms above, although these are empty, most of the time.

They are seldom used more than once a week—for occasional Foreign Office conferences; for Government receptions, and other official social functions.

Rather sadly Museum Director W. F. Grimes says that he cannot tell when the collection will again be seen by the public.

He is collaborating with the Ministry of Works to find a large town house as temporary quarters.

WELLINGTON, N.Z. — The "Aid-for-Britain" conference called by Prime Minister Peter Fraser pledged everything possible to assist the British people in the present economic crisis.

Mountbatten's Work Always Well Done

Many share the glory in the peaceful solution of the problem of India—to no one goes a larger share than to the last Viceroy, now the first Governor General of the Dominion of India.

The war brought Lord Mountbatten many tasks of honor, danger and distinction—hard service in the Navy, head of the [illegible] in Burma, and never was he found wanting. Some reputations came impaired out of the war, but peace found Mountbatten with the great prestige of a gallant and successful leader.

It was the perfect appointment and the last of the Viceroys was equal to the greatest among them.

The King has recognized Lord Mountbatten's unique services by promoting him to an earldom in the peerage. It is an honor no man has better deserved, a gracious tribute to an inestimable service to the British Commonwealth, to India and the world.—Ottawa Journal.

Boy in Chicago Liked Hair Long

CHICAGO — George Estrada, Jr., 14, won't have to put his hair up in pigtails any more when he plays baseball with the other boys—he has had his first haircut. In 29 minutes and 15 seconds, barber Herman Pick snipped off and trimmed George's once waist-length tresses.

George's hair was long because when he was younger his mother didn't want it cut and as he grew older and the hair grew longer—he didn't want it cut. When he played baseball on a neighborhood sandlot, George wore his hair into pigtails and doubled it up with a ribbon so it wouldn't get in his eyes.

Last July 4 Mike dropped dead from a heart attack but he'd remembered his friend before that.

The will of Marcus (Mike) Kalounian, 52, revealed that he bequeathed his tailor shop and $47,000 to Riley. The will made only one request. It said please keep the old sign on the shop.

NEW METAL JUST AWAITING AN IDEA

Zirconium should be a common and popular metal because of its many useful properties. It is a bright, silvery, tarnish-proof metal that can be tempered and annealed, has about twice the strength of copper wire but a very much higher resistance. It resists corrosion not only by dilute chemicals but also by hot acids and alkalis. Although it is nearly three times as abundant as copper in the earth's crust, it is still an expensive metal because, declares W. M. Raynor, of the Foote Mineral Company, in "Mining and Metallurgy", the properties that make it so useful in its refined form are the ones that make it difficult to extract from its ores or to refine by any cheap process. It is a metal, he states that is still awaiting an idea.

BLEEDING GUMS

Bleeding is always a sign that skin has been broken and blood-vessel walls so damaged that blood is escaping. This is true when the gums bleed, too.

One of the commonest preventable causes of bleeding gums is calculus (tartar) under the folded-up edge of the gum, where it hugs the tooth. This rough hard substance cuts and scratches the gum-fold, opening the way for germs which further damage the gums and bleeding occurs. Constant inflammation from the irritation results in bleeding from the raw surfaces on the slightest pressure.

Another cause is shreds of meat and other foods left wedged between the teeth and against the gums, causing injury and infection, and, of course, bleeding results from infections of the gum-fold in unclean mouths causing raw surfaces.

These are conditions which can be corrected and prevented by clean mouth habits, and twice-yearly dental examinations. Don't wait for pyorrhoea.

BROWN SUGAR'S BACK—It wasn't too long ago when a recipe using brown sugar was taboo, because the precious sweetening was just not to be had. But now we may indulge once more in cakes, candies, and cookies rich with the warm, syrupy flavor of brown sugar. If this be your first post-war indulgence in brown sugar cookery, try these Squares. They'll not disappoint you. To keep brown sugar soft and moist as it should be, store it in a tightly covered glass jar. If it has already hardened, put it in a covered jar together with a slice of apple or a very soft piece of bread.

Brown Sugar Squares

2 eggs	⅓ cup shortening
½ cup All-Bran	1 cup brown sugar
¼ teaspoon salt	⅝ cup sifted flour
1 teaspoon vanilla	½ cup chopped nutmeats

Beat eggs until light. Add bran, salt and flavoring and let stand 10 minutes. Blend shortening and sugar thoroughly, stir in soaked bran. Add flour and nutmeats, mix well. Spread in greased baking pan and bake in moderate oven (350 deg. F.) about 30 minutes.

National Red Shield Appeal This Month

Which is most important, the citizen of tomorrow or the citizen of yesterday? "Both are equally important to The Salvation Army", declares Commissioner Chas. Baugh, Territorial Commander for Canada, "because both are human elements which need understanding and guidance and often require institutional care."

Economically, perhaps, citizens of tomorrow are most deserving of attention. Among them will be more than 1800 children of unmarried mothers cared for last year by The Salvation Army. They deserve all the rights and privileges implied by the term 'a born Canadian', says the Commissioner. In its 31 maternity and rescue homes The Army seeks to provide safe surroundings to ensure a good start in life, free from stigma.

But citizens of yesterday make equal claim upon The Army's "human touch and understanding heart," the Commissioner states. He said that aged men and women, having made their contributions to the social and economic life of the nation also deserve consideration. Increase of old-age pensions is a step in the right direction, the Commissioner feels, but often the need goes farther. Protection and congenial accommodation are necessary, and in 16 Sunset Lodges and Eventide Homes operated by The Army over 800 aged people find haven.

To care for Canada's citizens of tomorrow and yesterday, as well as the host of today's citizens who need help, The Salvation Army's national Red Shield Appeal for $1,000,000 will begin across Canada on Monday, Sept. 15th.

The Salvation Army feels certain that the public of Canada, and the hundreds of willing workers who every year give liberally of their time, will assure the success of the Appeal," Commissioner Baugh declared.

Police To Control Farmers' Shooting

Under a change in policy it will be necessary for farmers who want to shoot ducks menacing their crops to obtain a special permit from the R.C.M.P. Hon. N. E. Tanner, minister of lands and mines, said Monday. Such permits will apply only to the farmer and his immediate family.

The order will be applicable in all parts of Alberta, with exception of the eastern irrigation district east of Calgary, where there are largely seed crops, and there is a heavy concentration of ducks.

Under the previous system, farmers were allowed under a general permit to call in hunters from nearby towns or other locations to assist them in protecting their crops when menaced by large numbers of migratory birds.

CLANDONALD

The re-opening of the Sunday school at St. Mary's will take place on Sunday at 2 p.m. This will be a rally service of parents, children and all people who wish to attend. The service will be conducted by the members of the Sunday School. Every child will have a part in the service.

Service will be held in St. John's, Blackfoot at 11 a.m. and in Kitscoty at 7:30 p.m.

The service at Blackfoot is called at 11 a.m. with the congregation of Golden Valley, to allow the minister to take part in the B.E.S.L. Legion Decoration service in Vermilion. He has been invited to speak there by the Legion branch.

Last Sunday the Choir Girls of St. Mary's accompanied the vicar to the service at Irwinville. Those who made the trip were Doris and Eileen Stockwell, Wanda and Wilma Simpson, Mildred and Audrey Barclay, Marion Currie, Lillian Langridge, Donna Young, Mavis Brake. We wish to thank Messrs. Stockwell, Young, Barclay and Simpson for their willingness to take their cars.

There is one happy man and his son in Clandonald — Mrs. Kallcott and daughters arrived on Labor day, so the batching has finished. What do you say gentlemen?

Harvesting is getting under way now. Clandonald and the Landonville districts are very lucky having such fair to good crops to harvest. We hope the weather will hold now till the crops are garnered in.

Schools are in session. Mr. A. Convey and Mrs. Ed Barclay are again the teachers.

Food Shortage Continues

IT APPEARS THAT THERE IS STILL LITTLE prospect of an early end to food shortages in Europe and Asia. Diets in large sections of both these continents have been at low levels since the critical food shortages began during the war and present reports indicate that they may continue so until 1950. In western and central Europe it is feared that unless imports can be substantially increased diet levels may be still lower next year, while in Asia there is little hope of raising the present low standard of living. Authorities are now of the opinion that only some "drastic action" can prevent conditions from becoming even more serious in those parts of the world where the food situation has for so long been most grave.

* * * * *

Needs Expected To Be Greater Reports prepared for delegates to the third annual conference of the Food and Agriculture Organization of the U.N.O., estimated that a minimum of 34,000,000 to 38,000,000 tons of grain will be required to be imported into Europe, North Africa and Asia in the year ending July 1st, 1948. The requirements for the preceding twelve months [illegible]. The need for the increase in the coming year was attributed to crop failures in some parts of the importing countries. The report further predicted that surpluses in countries having grain available for export next year would likely amount to 30,000,000 to 34,000,000 tons and unfavorable crops in any of these countries would obviously cut down their surpluses and further reduce the food stocks for the coming year.

* * * * *

Production Must Be Increased Food production has returned to pre-war levels, but there are now 175,000,000 more people to be fed than there were before the war, and the world's population is increasing at the rate of from 18,000,000 to 20,000,000 every year. It is clear that food production must be increased as quickly as possible beyond pre-war levels. However, memories of tremendous surpluses of agricultural products in the past, with the resultant lowering of price levels, stand in the way of quickly developing world plans for increased production. The F.A.O., report in dealing with this aspect of the problem said: "Any international programme for full production must include some assurance of expanding markets and reasonable prices if governments, business and farmers are to co-operate in carrying them out." It is clear that one of the great needs of the day is a planned increase in world food production, and Canada would be vitally concerned in any such plan.

Indians Stage Dance To Secure Peace

PINE RIDGE, S.D. — The Ogalla Sioux, who danced their ancient sun dance during the war to bring victory, has performed the colorful rite again—to secure the peace.

The dance continued without intermission for 24 hours. None of the Indians was permitted to eat or drink while it went on.

On the pole about which the Indians danced was a painting on a [illegible] of the Sioux. On the reverse side should have been a likeness of their enemy, a picture of Hitler or Tojo occupied that position during the war. This year the enemy side was blank. The Sioux Council voted down a motion to use Joseph Stalin's picture.

Pigeons Guided By Magnetic Fields

SCHENECTADY, N.Y. — Homing pigeons fly home by determining the magnetic intensity they feel when passing through the earth's magnetic field, said Professor Henry Yeagley, Pennsylvania state college scientist.

"When displaced from his home the pigeon need only fly in the direction which brings home more nearly to the magnetic intensity and earth-turning rate he is used to and he will arrive at his home loft," the professor explained.

"Well?" said the uncle, tersely.

"What is the best way to approach you for a loan?"

"If you are sensible," replied the uncle, grimly, "you had better write for it. Then when you get my reply, just tear it up without reading it."

Big Brother: "Paying for it."

"So would I," replied the farmer, "it's a peach tree."

EMPLOYERS IN BRITAIN MUST MANAGE WITHOUT TRADITIONAL OFFICE BOY

LONDON. — The little office boys, those 14-year-old youngsters who have decorated British cartoons and funny stories for generations, are fast disappearing from the English scene.

Before the war, every office had at least one. They were hired when they left school on their 14th birthday, and paid a universal starting wage of $2 a week. They filled inkwells, replaced blotters, toted tea and buns, looked after the mail and, by tradition, got time off to attend their grandmother's funeral whenever a big soccer or cricket game [illegible].

In London, they were as much a part of the Victorian-style business office—which still persists—as the ancient clerks in baggy black jackets seated on high stools before antique sloping desks. But, in 1947, employers have resigned themselves to the fact that the office boy of tradition has probably disappeared for ever.

Today, they can get factory jobs starting at $6 or more as apprentice machine-hands. And those parents aren't likely to let their son work as an office boy for $2, whatever his ultimate prospects, when the immediate earning potential is higher in a factory and the long-term prospect is at least as good, if not better.

Anyway, 30,000 14-year-olds who would normally have left school this summer in the London area will have to stay in class for another 12 months under the new leaving-age rule. When those boys are 15, they will be looking for apprenticeships in industry if they dont' stay on with a view to entering a profession. The city's thousands of offices are having to find some other class of employe to bring staffs their morning cup of tea.

Employers are also finding that there is a famine in stenographers. The reason appears to be similar, there is better pay to be had in industry. But there are other causes, too.

Girls whose homes are in suburban London can see little point in battling their way on to crowded trains morning and evening for a stenographer's wage of $16 to $20 a week when they could probably earn more, and subject themselves to a good deal less discomfort, at some light industry nearer home.

Women who were quizzed on the subject by the London "Evening News" complained that working conditions in London offices are frequently bad, and many older single women remarked that few employers seem interested in stenographers who are over 30. "I need only mention I am 40," said one, "and I have lost the job."

Wear And Tear Do Make Big Difference

The Wall Street Journal tells this story: Radio Star Jack Carson was recalling some very exciting fishing adventures. "My muscles of sinewy steel were more than a match for the denizen of the deep," he boasted. "Finally, after a three-hour struggle, exhausted but triumphant, I landed the ferocious monster."

"Ferocious monster?" sneered Nephew Tugwell. "I saw a picture of the fish you caught. At most it might have been six inches long."

People Are Either Leaners Or Lifters

The Calgary Albertan says: Just as true as they were the day they were written are words of Ella Wheeler Wilcox, "There are two kinds of people on earth today. The people who lift and the people who lean."

Leaners are by no means small in number. Half of us sit back and watch the other half do the hard work. We do not seem to care who does it. We just know some one does it and that it gets done in some way or other.

But we may be thankful for the lifters. And grateful for the tasks they perform so capably. And we know their efforts are not in vain, for they have made this country what it is.

Dog Objects To Music By Bach

NEW YORK. — A dog named Roo in a Melbourne, Australia suburb had a definite ear and taste for classical music with the exception of Bach.

The Australian News and Information Service said the dog is owned by Charles Hume, 22-year-old violin maker. He listens to all classical music with his head resting contentedly between his paws, but starts barking and howling as soon as his master starts to play compositions by Bach.

Sea-Going Reserve For Canada's Navy

Canada's navy is building a reserve that could immediately go to sea in time of war.

From the Royal Canadian Naval Reserve and from University Naval Training Divisions, sea-minded men are reporting to the reserve training base at Halifax and the navy estimated that some 800 will have had at least some sea duty by September.

The officers and men have been reporting to Halifax since the middle of April for two weeks' summer training aboard Canadian warships including the algerine minesweepers Portage and New Liskeard, the tribal class destroyer H.M.C. Haida and until recently, aboard the aircraft carrier Warrior.

During the sea cruises the men stand regular watches in engine rooms, boiler rooms and on lookout. While off watch they attend lectures on torpedo and damage control, depth charges, gunnery, and navigation. Their sea time also gives them several hours operation on radar and anti-submarine detection apparatus.

The navy said while the short training period does not make complete training possible in the various branches, valuable experience is obtained in organization of a ship's company.

The main object, the navy added, is to provide a naval reserve that in time of war would be prepared to go to sea on the first ship out of the battle areas.

Processed Wool Is Death To Moths

There is, I hear, a "moth circus" in the textile section of the British Industries Fair at Earl's Court, London, says a Yorkshire Post columnist. Let no one suppose that the voracious little creatures are made to jump through hoops or pose elegantly on barrels—the circus moth cultivates none of the arts of the [illegible].

The Earl's Court moths are there for a purpose which is, in effect, suicidal, and I cannot believe that if they [illegible] what they were about they would show any enthusiasm. They are there to demonstrate the efficiency of an anti-moth process, designed to protect woollen goods against the ravages of this "terror that flieth by night." Two pieces of wool are displayed, one of which has been processed and is deadly to moths, the other of normal wool such as moths enjoy. On the processed wool no moths are to be seen; they have all settled on the other, where they can be both seen and heard making a hearty meal. Through specially fitted amplifiers it is possible to hear the grinding of teeth biting into the wool fibre.

Cars Looked Alike To Women Driver

Costiannes, a restaurant owner, and Lt.-Col. Jose de Faria Lima, of the Brazilian Aeronautics Commission own black, 1947 cars of the same make.

Mrs. Othelia Pompier, secretary to the commission, was to have driven Lima's car to New York for shipment to Brazil. She parked it on the street to do some last-minute shopping, then returned to Costiannes' car, parked nearby.

She thought it odd that the ignition key didn't fit, but called a locksmith who speedily fixed it, drove the car to New York, and saw it off on a freighter.

Police later found Lima's car still parked where Mrs. Pompier had left it.

Surveyor Will Explore Island In The Arctic

EDMONTON.—Dr. J. L. Robinson, Dominion geographic surveyor and other officials will make an attempt in an R.C.A.F. Canso aircraft to discover the nature of the hitherto unknown interior of Prince of Wales island in the Canadian Arctic.

Dr. Robinson in Edmonton on route to the Arctic said that the interior of the island was not known except possibly by the odd Eskimo.

The island's coastline has been mapped by various Arctic explorers but even coastline mapping has not been done since the middle of the 19th century. The island is about 1,400 miles north and slightly east of Edmonton.

The party will attempt to find an open lake on Prince of Wales to make a landing. A landing offshore is not possible because of permanent ice.

Dr. Robinson will fly to Cambridge Bay, on the south shore of Victoria island, 300 miles southwest of Prince of Wales island, and board the Canso carrying a geodetic survey party headed by Glen Madill, chief of that survey division for the Dominion.

The geodetic party is endeavoring to establish more definitely the location of the magnetic pole, now tentatively located on Somerset island, east of Prince of Wales.

The geographer now is engaged in a survey of the western Arctic, similar to those he has made of the eastern Arctic and the Mackenzie district. He is on loan to the Dominion Government for the summer from his post as professor of geography at the University of British Columbia.

Discarded Inner Tubes Dangerous Fun

Allowing children to have discarded inner tubes to float around on at the beach is a dangerous practice. A puff of wind or the tide can carry the tube far out from shore. It must be remembered, too, that all such tubes are old and have been patched, some many times. At best, the tubes offer only dangerous fun.

FOOD FOR BRITAIN

A special "food armada" of 21 ships will rush 70,000 tons of beef and other food to Britain from Australia within three months. This follows a conference of the British High Commissioner, Mr. E. Williams with Australian food and transport trade unions.

Mr and Mrs Alec Johnston and their son Harry A Johnston and his wife of Vancouver were recent visitors in Kitscoty. Mr. Alec Johnston erected Kitscoty's first restaurant in 1906, also Kitscoty's first school in 1907. Both buildings are still in use. Previous to that [illegible] north of here.

CREIGHTON

The Creighton W.I. met at the home of Mrs H. Robertson with ten members present. The roll call was answered by what the W.I. has meant to us as members. Following the business session Mrs T Bennett gave her report on the Farm Women's Week held at V.S.A. and we got some very useful ideas from her talk. On Aug. 20th at the home of Mrs. Harry Hamilton Miss Lang of Vermilion gave a very interesting talk on "Know your Textiles". The meeting was well attended and everyone felt that they had learned and benefitted much from the talk.

RIVERTON

Mr Frank Needham had the misfortune of getting fine pieces of steel in one of his eyes and had to go to an eye specialist in Edmonton to have them removed.

Holiday week end visitors here were Mrs Betty Mellnis from Edmonton and Miss Christina Durnin of Marwayne.

There was a school meeting held in the school last week with Mr J Robson and Mr Miller from Vermilion present. Various discussions took place. With teachers almost impossible to obtain, Riverton will have a supervisor if one is available.

Eye Examinations Arranged by the Local School Board

A commendable move by the local Board has been inaugurated whereby children of the elementary school are being given free eye examinations. This has been made possible through the co-operation of Mr. Wm Krause, local optometrist. There is no charge made for the first examination. A more complete test is given those having defects at a cost of 50c per child, and a recommendation that remedial measures be taken is sent to the parents.

It is up to the parents to carry on from that point and to see that proper glasses are secured for the child. The parents are free to secure the glasses from whatever optometrist they wish. Mr. Krause agreed to the preliminary examinations at the request of the school board.

Already some 40 Grade 1 children have had their eyes tested and four were found to need a further check. Principal Walker was extremely interested when he noted that these four children were repeaters in Grade 1 and there is little doubt but that they were handicapped by their defective vision.

Parents are urged to take the remedial measures recommended immediately. A child with defective vision cannot make satisfactory progress at school.

Take the Whole Family Flying on Sunday

Party flights may be arranged for Sunday Sept. 14th as a 4-passenger plane will be at the Vermilion air field. It will be [illegible] only.

Decoration Day Service Is Held on Sunday

In spite of Sunday's adverse weather conditions the Legion held their Decoration Day services at the cemetery. Although it was in a more abbreviated manner than had been planned a very impressive ceremony was held and it can go down as a marked success. An excellent turn-out of members, Ladies Auxiliary, Reserve army and air cadets made the journey to the cemetery by car. The parade was formed up and marched to the Soldiers' plot by Comrade Kenny MacDonald. Invocation was given by Adj. C. Stewart of The Salvation Army. A few words "In Memoriam" were then given by our president Comrade Sweatman. Then two minutes' silence and the playing of the Last Post and Reveille by Adj. Stewart brought the ceremony to a close. Had weather conditions favored us there is no doubt that there would have been a very large crowd in attendance. Piper McPhee of Clandonald played "The Lament".

Held First Meeting Fall Season

The first general meeting of the fall season was held in the curling rink on Monday evening. There was a good turn-out and a number of lively discussions were held. In connection with the Decoration Day services the Legion placed on record their expressions of sincere appreciation for assistance given by the Ladies' Auxiliary, Mr. Fred Leversedge and the use of his truck and Adj. Stewart of The Salvation Army. Also recorded were our grateful thanks to the Ladies' Auxiliary for their assistance at our numerous dances and at our Fair booth. Comrade S. C. Heckbert, chairman of the building committee gave a report on the progress being made on our new building. It was very favorable and it is expected to at least have a roof over our heads by Nov. 11. Several items covering our winter program were fully discussed and will be brought up at an early date. The Legion propose to complete the home-coming welcome in the form of a banquet to those who had not arrived in time for their last banquet held in November 1945.

Farewell Chaplain

During the meeting our president, Comrade Sweatman on behalf of the Legion presented Archdeacon Leversedge with a silver cigarette case. Comrade Sweatman very aptly thanked Rev. Leversedge for the valued services he has rendered in the past and wished him all success and happiness in his new post. The Archdeacon responded with a few jovial words and expressed his regret at leaving the district. The members followed this with a hearty three cheers and the singing of "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow".

In closing this week's highlights we would like to point out to those who may be interested that photos of Sunday's Decoration Day service are now available at the Studio of Photographic Arts.

Salvation Army Home Front Appeal Opens Sept. 15th

CAMPAIGN OFFICE AT VERMILION VARIETY STORE

If you heard the agonized cry of "Help! Help!" coming from someone in the Vermilion river, without a moment's hesitation you would do all that you could to give all the help possible. You would not wait to find out the victim's political, religious or racial background — all that you would think of would be that a fellow human is in dire need—I must help and help at once!

It is impossible for the individual citizen of Canada to hear all the cries for help that ascend daily from those in difficulty and distress in the river of life, but the Salvation Army with its 1,583 pairs of ears is constantly hearing these desperate cries for aid.

In the past year this peacetime army has heard and heeded the cry for help from 15,864 babies, the old men and women.

One thousand nine hundred and eighty-four persons were handed over to The Salvation Army by the Canadian courts, and so nearly two thousand first offenders were saved from a jail sentence. Beside this there were 194 convicted offenders paroled under the care of The Army of the Understanding Heart.

There are 21 Salvation Army homes and hospitals in Canada. 350 boys and girls are under the Army's care in three children's homes, and there are 14 Eventide homes and Sunset lodges for aged men and women.

Hon. Gordon Scott of Montreal says "The Salvation Army's magnificent record of the past must truly be a symbol for its future. The principle of service conscientiously rendered by The Salvation Army is an example worthy of imitation by all humanity in the world today."

Air Marshall Wm. A. Bishop says, "The Salvation Army is the only true international army in the world. Due entirely to its great unselfish work, sacrifice and hardship The Army has never failed in its duty, in its belief in God, or in its faith."

During September The Salvation Army goes to the people of Canada for the necessary materials to carry on this never-ending work of mercy. Citizens of Vermilion and district are to be canvassed by volunteer workers and asked to give generously toward Helper at the [illegible] heed the cry for help and give.

The campaign office is located in the Vermilion Variety store. All cheques should be made payable to The Salvation Army.

Mr. W. S. Cash, [illegible] consented to again act as chairman of the Vermilion Home Front Appeal committee. A. M. Watt is treasurer and Ashley H. Cooper is in charge of publicity.

"GREEN ACRES"

PURE BRED SALE

The date for the cattle, sheep and swine sale is set for November 5th at the school of agriculture. The Vermilion Agricultural Society is sponsoring this show and sale in order that district breeders of pure bred stock will have the opportunity of offering their stock for sale locally. Farmers who require breeding stock can buy them at this auction sale which appears to be shaping into quite a big affair.

MARKET POOR STOCK

The spread between good killing cattle and the common stuff is closer now than it may be later on. It would appear to be good advice for anyone having old cows or poor type steers to market them soon. Normally old cows every year fail to live through the winter and are a total loss. It looks like a good time to cull out the misfits and only keep over good breeding stock.

TURKEY LOSSES

Many people seem to believe that turkeys are such good rustlers that they do not need grain. Poor care and feed often results in heavy losses. Nutritional Roup develops in the flock and birds that do not die get a severe set-back. Good feed and water will keep the turkeys laying longer and then less subject to losses of various kinds.

NEW HAY BALER

The new hay baler operated by Homer Campbell is proving satisfactory. This machine bales hay directly from the windrow. The labor and expense of stacking and handling again for baling later on is done away with. Last week two cars of Alfalfa hay were shipped directly from the baler to Saskatoon.

WINTER HOUSING

Expensive barns are not necessary for wintering cattle, sheep and swine. Well constructed straw sheds open to the south are satisfactory. Cattle seem to winter healthier outside provided they have shelter from snow, rain and winds. "A" type hog cabins or 12x14ft. straw sheds well covered with straw are suitable for wintering pigs. Plenty of bedding is necessary and also plenty of feed and water with the chill taken off.

HARVESTERS SCARCE

[illegible] up jobs to industry in the same way as our own farm boys are leaving to work in the cities. It is suggested that farmers make every effort to [illegible] supply of harvesters [illegible] feed.

Jean Caron Is Bride in Pretty Afternoon Ceremony

Pink and white gladioli, with sweet peas and baby breath marking the guest pews was the floral setting in the First United church, Vermilion, Wednesday afternoon, September 3rd, for the wedding of Jean Margaret Caron, eldest daughter of Mr and Mrs. George Caron of Vermilion to Stanley Hugo Neiner, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Theodor Neiner, of Craigmyle, Alberta.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride entered the church to the strains of Mendelssohn's Wedding March played by her uncle, Mr. Henry Eyben.

The bride was gowned in a dress of brocaded satin with double net skirt, the bodice of which ended in long lily points. It was fashioned with sweetheart neckline, long sleeves ending in lily points over the wrists. Her floor-length veil was held in place by a coronet of orange blossoms and she carried a bouquet of American Beauty roses. The bride's only jewelry was a pearl necklace.

The bridesmaids were Miss Kathleen Caron, sister of the bride, and Miss Grace Isley. Kathleen wore shell pink organdy with bustle effect and matching net calot and mittens, while Grace wore pale blue taffeta with peplum effect, and matching net calot and mittens. Both bridesmaids carried colonial bouquets of pink and white carnations.

Little Miss Simonne Caron, cousin of the bride, acted as flower girl. She was very daintily dressed in a gown of daffodil yellow nylon, with a bandeau of white flowers interlaced with sweet peas in her hair. She carried a nosegay of matching flowers and wore white crocheted gloves.

The groom was attended by his brothers Edward and George Neiner, and ushers were Albert Eyben, Harold Fairbanks, Leonard McLaughlin and Harry Armstrong.

Following the wedding a reception was held to 150 guests on the lawn, which was decorated for the occasion with fall flowers and gladioli in sweeping baskets.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Caron chose a dress of Queen's Blue, with black accessories, and corsage of red roses. Mrs. Neiner, mother of the groom wore a black tailored suit and matching accessories, with a corsage of red roses.

The bride's table, laid in white linen was centred by a three tier wedding cake, set amid white tulle. Flowers and tapers completed the setting.

Mrs. H. Eyben, grandmother of the bride, poured tea, while Mrs. A. Caron, the bride's other grandmother presided at the coffee urn. Later Mrs. J. Pettinger and Mrs. Wm. McLaughlin poured. Miss Marge West was in charge of the guest book. Rev. Reikie proposed the toast to the bride which was ably responded to by the groom.

Serviteurs were Mrs. Curtis Martin, Mrs. Ilor Lorea, and the Misses May [illegible] Thelma Westman, Doreen Cameron, Marion Johansson, Gertrude Gow and Louise Baddork.

For a short honeymoon in Edmonton the bride wore a coral wool dress, topped by a pearl grey coat. Black accessories and a corsage of gladioli completed her ensemble. After their honeymoon the couple will take up residence at Lloydminster where the groom is employed with the Halliburton Oil Well Cementing Company.

Out of town guests included Mr. and Mrs. T. Neiner, Miss Irma Neiner and Mr. George Neiner of Craigmyle, Mr. Edward Neiner of Drumheller, Mrs. John Taylor of Edmonton, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Fairbanks of Lloydminster, Mr. Leonard McLaughlin of Mannville, Mrs. A. Caron, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Caron of Wainwright and a number of other relatives and friends from Wainwright and district.

RED CROSS MEETING

The regular monthly meetings of the local branch of the Red Cross society will be resumed on Monday, Sept. [illegible] p.m.

Miss Dorothy Taylor left Wednesday for Arvida, Quebec, where she has accepted a nursing position with the Aluminum company there. Arvida is some [illegible] miles north of the city of Quebec.

Unique Anglican Service Held At St. Saviour's Church

An unusual service which brought together the first minister ever to be appointed to the church, the newly appointed incumbent, taking his opening service here, and the retiring minister of the past 12 years was held at St. Saviour's Anglican church Sunday evening.

The Rev. T. W. Teape conducted his first service in his new parish. Assisting him and preaching the sermon was the Rev. W. E. Gilbert. Mr. Gilbert was the first minister to be appointed to St. Saviour's church. This was in May, 1906. He served here until July 1909. This was also Mr. Gilbert's first parish. Present too was the Ven. Walter Leversedge, D.D. who for health reasons is retiring from St. Saviour's after 12 years of untiring service.

A fourth Anglican clergyman was present in the person of Captain Gordon Gilbert, Chaplain of the R.C.A.F. stationed in Edmonton. He is a son of the Rev. and Mrs. W. E. Gilbert, and accompanied his parents on their trip to Vermilion.

The Rev. W. E. Gilbert is now retired and makes his permanent home in Vancouver. He is presently on his way to Toronto, coming via Edmonton accompanied by his wife to visit their son Capt. Gordon Gilbert, and to renew old acquaintances in their first charge at Vermilion. In the large congregation Sunday evening were numerous old friends, two of whom were present at Mr. Gilbert's first service in 1906. These were Hugh R. Evans and Wm. F. Pilkie.

Archdeacon Leversedge has also a long record of faithful church service. He came to Alberta in 1906 as a lay-reader, being appointed to Bashaw. In 1910 he was ordained. Much of his time since then has been spent in central and northern Alberta. He came to Vermilion from Edmonton in 1935.

Vermilion people on this unique occasion were pleased to see Archdeacon Leversedge looking and feeling well to make or renew acquaintance with the Rev. Gilbert, and to welcome the Rev. Teape to St. Saviour's and Vermilion.

MAYOR MORRISON BACK "ON DUTY"

J. W. G. Morrison, K.C., returned to his office a few days ago after a holiday trip to the coast where he visited in Vancouver, Victoria, Nanaimo and other points. Mr. Morrison says he met several former Vermilion people in all these places and learned of the welfare of many more at other places. Among those who wished to be remembered to friends "back home" in Vermilion were Mr. and Mrs. Whitby, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Davies, Mr and Mrs. H. W. Barnes, Mr and Mrs E. H. Bailey, Mr. and Mrs. V. C. Holman, Dr. and Mrs. Bell, Mr. and Mrs. Neil East and Dr East, Mr and Mrs. David Kennedy, Mr and Mrs. Fred Faunch and Major Douglas, all in Victoria. Mr. East expects to pay a visit to Vermilion this fall. Mrs. Gould had returned from a visit to her son who is a prominent farmer in the Rosalind district. Dr Knapp, formerly of Mannville, has a large practice in Victoria. In Nanaimo are Mr. and Mrs John Selkirk and Mr and Mrs. Bert McKone. Bert is an operator in one of the large theatres there. Mr Selkirk besides having a lovely home has a large cruising yacht with which he can plow the Pacific for fish or loaf along in the thousand inlets on the west coast. At Vancouver Mr. Morrison bumped into Archie MacNeil a former elevator man at Vermilion. A visit to Mr and Mrs John Watts revealed that a day or so before Mrs Watts had celebrated her 85th birthday and still hale and quite hearty. Mrs Watts was the recipient of many beautiful floral tributes on the occasion besides many messages of congratulations from friends there. Ted Davies is now engaged in the real estate and insurance business in Victoria and Fred Faunch in the hardware business not many blocks from the Empress hotel. Other visitors at the time in Victoria were Mr and Mrs. Bill English. They were guests of their son Jack. Mrs. English is remaining over for a few weeks. Eric Alp, son of Frank Alp, formerly of Vermilion, is an official of the War Assets Corporation at Vancouver. He served in the air force during the war. His parents are moving from Edmonton to reside with him in Vancouver.

J. A. and Mrs Kirkpatrick are in retirement at Sidney. O. Marie has been so long now in Victoria that he has gone native. His hobby is bowling on the green with a 'green bowler' to top it off. Mrs Daisy Cummings of Vermilion was visiting with her uncle Frank and Mrs. Leslie. Leslie is in the real estate and insurance business on a big scale and may be remembered as the detective whose work in the Bucher murder case at Mannville finally led to the sentencing of the son for the crime.

Mr Morrison met his brother Roderick of the staff of the Dominion Coal Co., at Sydney N.S., in Calgary. The brother came with him and spent a day in Vermilion visiting Mr. and Mrs. Hill being acquainted with Mrs. Hill's family back in Nova Scotia. He looked over the town very carefully and thinks we have a very nice and picturesquely-situated community.

ISLAY

Old Timer Passes At Victoria

Mrs Harry Young received a telegram from Victoria on Monday stating that John Barnes died suddenly on Saturday afternoon Sept. 6th. He hadn't suffered any illness. Mr. Barnes was a pioneer settler of Islay. He leaves two sons Bill and Hart and one daughter Mrs Eddie Orr (Pearl). His wife and one daughter Ruby (Mrs. George Travers) predeceased him some years ago.

Tony Palamar of Edmonton has returned home after spending from July 10th at the Bothwell farm. Tony is very fond of farming but has now gone back to school.

Islay certainly looks progressive in an educational line. A fine new school building and two busses coming and going each day. One bus brings in the Morrison school pupils and the other Holyrood pupils.

Last Thursday afternoon the Islay W.M. Society held the annual rally at the church when other branches of the society visited. There were 50 in attendance. Mrs. Langston of Lloydminster and Mrs. Stanley of Penham gave interesting readings. Mrs. Stanley's was in humorous vein, being one of Mrs. Nellie McClung's writings entitled "Take Time to Live". Katherine Robertson and Erva Sweet rendered a very pleasing vocal duet and Mrs. Meyers of Vermilion sang sweetly "The Holy City". Rev. Mr. Driver our pastor reminisced on his early missionary experiences in Alberta beginning in 1905. Our president Mrs Mitchell presided and took the devotional period. Rev. Morrison of Lloydminster was introduced and spoke briefly. At the close a social half hour was spent, though a storm brewing made some hurry away.

The firm of Ford and Terrance is changing one of its names. Vic is going elsewhere and his place is taken by Walter McCaughan with his wife. Walter is no stranger here and we hope he and Mrs. McCaughan will like Islay.

Noticed Dalton Terrance home again, working on his house. He has added a bit more to his property.

We are happy to note Rev. Tonge is now in Vermilion and that he will supply at Pleasant Valley church. Some of us plan to go out to P.V. some Sunday to hear him.

Jim Hepburn is farming again, helping Walter Jorgensen. Alex McDiarmid is helping Jim Carey and Robert Martin riding the binder for Dave. Old timers seem to enjoy the work again.

ROYAL TAX COMMISSION —

Vermilion can take some pride in the fact that it has been selected as the location for one of the sittings of the Royal Tax Commission. Nine hearings have been arranged in the province and six of these are in cities.

This commission is set up to conduct an inquiry into the taxation imposed by the province and by municipalities, urban and rural. As our method of heavily taxing property values has long been the target of considerable criticism, and as a favorable Dominion - Provincial agreement has been made, it is the duty of every municipal governing body, councils of towns, villages and municipalities, and of school boards, to prepare and submit constructive briefs. Organizations such as the A.F.U. and Boards of Trade have a perfect right to present briefs on this occasion.

Hopes for more settled weather are held. The 1.05 inches of rain since last week has again held up all harvest operations. This fell Sunday and Monday. Two degrees of frost were recorded Wednesday morning. The weather is now bright and warm with a high of 72 forecast for Friday.

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY—

The Compensation

—By—
LYTLE W. ROBINSON

JOHN McGRAW was a failure. He knew it. He had gone through life and accomplished nothing, really. Retiring now at 65, he realized he'd not made a mark in the world—not one solitary attainment to which he could point with pride. Nothing.

He was not at all happy as he started on the last lap of his route. "His route". Well, it had been his route for six weeks now, but after today it would belong to another—a younger, fresher man. The thought made him feel a good deal older than he actually was, and for a man who had just gained his independence this was no way to feel.

John was a simple man, and he lived a simple life. Some people would call it dull, and he guessed he agreed with them. Everybody can't do what they'd like to do. For 33 years he had carried the mail in Bluff City, and in that time he'd had almost every route in town. Winter and summer, through rain and snow and sweltering heat, he'd trudged along with his heavy bag, always with a kind word for the housewives, a smile for the children; for John McGraw, the postman, loved his fellow man. And he loved Bluff City too. He was born and raised here, and, when the time came he wanted to die and be buried here too. In all these years John McGraw had stood still!

A few more blocks now and he would be through. He pushed the thought out of his mind.

Forty years ago as a struggling young painter he had dreamed of great things; of accomplishing something worth while in life. But those things had never come to pass, and as he grew older the world knocked out the dreams and ambitions of which he had once been so proud. Yes, John McGraw had failed.

At 25 he had married Sara, and Sara wanted security at any price. She was one of those wives who say little and mean much. Yet she was a good woman—so good she made everybody else feel uncomfortable. It wasn't often she lost her temper. On the contrary, she seemed to always have it with her.

He had never forgotten that day in his den many years ago. A splotch of red paint had been dashed on an unfinished canvas, and his favorite brush was missing.

"Yes, I did it," Sara said coldly. "I'm sick of the smell of paint. It stifles me! Don't you ever want to do anything but paint?"

And it had caught him off-balance. He never suspected! He was a selling painter! "Why—no, I don't," he managed to utter.

"I thought not," Sara continued. "Other men work for a living and get some place. And you—you're satisfied with a few measly checks and a two-room apartment!" And she'd turned and walked out of the room.

John stood there and looked at the red splotch on the portrait. He looked at it a long time before he covered it up and put away his materials. He got a job after that and never painted again.

Now he could not paint if he tried. The name of John McGraw would forever mean nothing, for John McGraw had contributed nothing—not even children. And what did he have to show for his years of toil as a public servant? A little white house, an aching back—and Sara!

He shuffled the envelopes in his hand. Tomorrow he would retire on the Government pension he had looked forward to since that first day as a sub. The pension seemed a small thing now. Security? Yes. But it seemed a foolish thing to have worked a lifetime for a pittance only to retire into uselessness on a dole.

Dreamily, he walked down the tree-lined streets he knew so well. He would miss the cheery 'Good Mornings' and the bright smiles of the people who waited for him. He liked to see their faces light up when he handed them the letters they expected; he hated to see the sag around their mouths when he had to say, "No, nothing today!"

Good news and bad he brought to 'his' families these 33 years. He knew their joys and sadnesses; their successes and failures. He had seen the children grow up and go into the world to make their fortunes; and he had hoped for their success and happiness. And John McGraw was still delivering the mail!

"Good afternoon, Mrs. Johnson," he said trying to force a smile as he handed her two letters.

Now take the Johnson's, for instance; Dan Johnson was a success. He had his own business, owned a fine home. He had something to be proud of.

John crossed the street to the Morrows. A big family they were, three boys and three girls. Mrs. Morrow was a splendid woman. Once during a rainstorm she'd insisted on getting him a hot cup of coffee. He hadn't forgotten that, even if it had been five years ago.

As usual, little Theresa raced out to meet him. "Hi," she said smiling timidly up at him.

He handed her four letters and patted her tow head. "How's my little girl?"

"Fine—and thanks," she beamed, then dashed excitedly back into the house calling to her mother.

The Cohens, Simpsons, Balkovics, Smiths and O'Reillys. John knew them all by their first names. He wondered if they knew he existed—except as a machine.

John's shoulders seemed a little more stooped as he walked back to the office for the last time. It was hard giving up the route, but it was harder still realizing he'd never had more than just a route.

He didn't know what to think when he got back to the locker room and found a long envelope tucked under his civilian hat. Slowly he opened it and read the letter inside. He read the last paragraphs three times.

"May we extend our sincere congratulations upon your retirement. Your presence as Guest of Honor at the dinner is desired in order that we may express our appreciation for your years of kind and faithful service to this community.

"And John, come prepared to say a few words - they're giving you a watch.

Your friend
Dan Johnson, President,
The Homeowners Association."

Old John carefully folded the letter and replaced it in the envelope. Then he straightened his shoulders and looked up at the ceiling. 'Guest of Honor' - 'Years of kind and faithful service'! Suddenly his heart filled with pride, and there were tears in his eyes.

In spite of the red splotch, John McGraw had made his mark!

Wedding Was Strictly Inside The Family

BROCKAWAY, Pa. — Nobody had any trouble remembering names at the wedding of Avis Elain Johnson. She married William C. Johnson of Lanes Mills and the ceremony was performed by Rev. T. H. Johnson.

And, since only members of the immediate families witnessed the ceremony, everybody there was a Johnson.

MOSCOW. — Thirty-five carpet weavers in Ashabad have completed a 200-square meter carpet, the largest ever woven in that centre of the rug industry, which will be used as a drop curtain in Moscow's Bolshoi Theatre. The carpet contains 200,000 knots per square meter and weighs more than half a ton.

Architect Says Color Needed For Classrooms

That is what O. H. Breidert, Chicago architect, told the delegates of the 16th annual conference of administrative officers of public and private schools meeting at the University of Chicago.

For example says Breidert, in the boys' athletic dressing room, where the boys lounge and relax, a soft, restful blue should be used. In the room where the "red hot" pep talks take place, the walls should be painted a dashing red color.

A typical elementary classroom should have a landscape-type centre window with two side windows. The entrance to the room should have a glass panelled door with glass side lights. The use of landscape windows brings the outdoors into the classrooms with its light greens, yellows and blues.

Adequate lighting is another important factor. Adequate natural lighting should be obtained by use of large window areas, according to the architect. This may be obtained by long strip windows or vision panels, extending from the sill to a height not to exceed six-and-a-half feet above the floor. Above this height directional glass block extending to the ceiling should be installed.

As for artificial illumination, Mr Breidert recommended fluorescent low glare fixtures either suspended from or attached to the ceiling.

Second Issue of Canada Savings Bonds

Announcement by Minister of Finance

OTTAWA.—The decision to offer a second series of Canada Savings Bonds, forecast some time ago, has been confirmed by the Hon. Douglas Abbott, Minister of Finance. The new issue goes on sale Oct. 14th.

The Minister of Finance stated that the second series of Canada Savings Bonds will be dated Nov. 1st, 1947, and will bear interest at the rate of 2¾% each year for ten years. They may be redeemed at any time at any bank in Canada for full face value plus interest and will be registered in the owner's name—affording protection against loss. Not more than $1,000 of this series may be registered in any one name.

Mr. Abbott pointed out that the new series will enable the continuance of the Payroll Savings Plan now in operation in thousands of organizations throughout the country, and will also permit its installation by other companies who recognize its value. The new Canada Savings Bonds will also be available for purchase by the general public, who may buy them for cash or on instalments.

Mr. Abbott said that the reception given to Canadian Savings Bonds since their introduction last October had provided the main reason for the new offering. Purchases have been made since that time by more than 1,250,000 Canadians. This total includes 622,240 employees who used Payroll Savings Plan facilities provided by their employers.

Although the decision to offer a second series is based primarily on demonstrated public demand for these facilities, it was explained by Mr. Abbott that the Government also has in mind the value of widespread holdings of Canada Savings Bonds in the national economy. Present holdings have already rendered more than a million Canadians better able to meet personal emergencies or to carry out personal plans. Such personal resources are regarded as an element of strength and stability in the nation.

Arrangements for the sale of the second series will be made by the Bank of Canada and will be similar to those followed for the first series. It is expected that authorized sales agents will include investment dealers, and banks and other savings institutions. Enquiry indicates that employers and the executives of labor organizations, who have consistently provided leadership in the development of the Payroll Savings Plan, will join again in ensuring that its benefits continue. It is also apparent that the favorable comment and support of all public information facilities will be maintained. It was pointed out that this support has always been an important factor in the general response to Canada Savings Bonds.

Every appropriate means of informing the public of the details of the new series will be used. Mr. Abbott stated that it is confidently expected that Canadians will again recognize this fine investment opportunity and will make plans to take full advantage of it.

The World of Wheat

By H. G. L. STRANGE

Searle Grain Company, Ltd.

HIGHER WHEAT PRICES COMING!

A most welcome announcement was made by the Hon. J. A. McKinnon at Ottawa on Aug. 27th that the Government will recommend to Parliament, which meets next January, an increase in the price of wheat to be retroactive for the 1945 and 1946 crops. No exact increase was mentioned but unofficial circles in Ottawa are talking about a 20 cent increase to bring the present payment to farmers of $1.35 a bushel basis 1 Northern Ft. William to the $1.55 which Britain pays for Canadian wheat.

This is all as it should be, and this column is proud that its long crusade to obtain higher prices for farmers has achieved some results.

The main price injustice to our farmers still remains, however, to be remedied, which is, as I myself and others believe, that prairie farmers should be paid for their wheat on the basis of the world's market price (as set by the Canadian Wheat Board on Class 2 wheat and which price today is $2.00) instead of on a basis of $1.55 on 160 million bushels sold to Britain and $1.55 on an additional 70 million bushels sold to Canadian millers for making into bread and flour for use of the well-off Canadian people.

Radiograms

Two fun-packed special features will soon be offered CJCA listeners. Shirriff's Fun Parade, a comedy quiz program that's taking Canada by storm is due to be heard locally for the first time 8:30 p.m. Tuesday Sept. 9 and the funmakers behind the Fun Parade will appear in person at the Edmonton arena the very next evening, Sept. 10. Edmontonians will have the double thrill of seeing the Fun Parade cast and of hearing their program every week commencing September 9.

The other fun-packed special is Sweet Pearl's Name My Puppy contest. Full details on how to win first prize of $500 or one of the other 149 prizes will be given on the Happy Gang's first broadcast Sept. 15, 1:15 p.m. Among the 149 prizes are an automatic clothes and [illegible] washer, a motor bicycle, a movie camera and projector, a radio-phonograph, etc.

Facing Life

Posture—"facing up" to life—is important, say the doctors. Holding the body erect, with chest thrown forward not only makes possible better breathing, with more oxygen for purification of the blood, but also provides constant mild exercise for the muscles of the trunk. Authorities suggest that by putting a little snap and vim into the ordinary activities of daily life, one provides a wholesome stimulation to certain bodily muscles too.

Hurt feelings are the children of too much self will.

How Animal Trainer Kept His Act Going

Phil Harris, band leader on the Jack Benny program, met an acquaintance who was an animal trainer, and asked him how he was doing. "I've got a swell act now in the circus," the trainer informed him. "It's a 'Friendship of the Lion and the Lamb act'."

"Sounds good," admitted Harris, "but aren't there quarrels between them?"

"Well, yes," conceded the circus man, "they do have their little quarrels at times. But then we just buy a new lamb."—Magazine Digest.

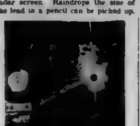
Say Where Or When Rain Due, By Radar

The clouds look like this on the radar screen. Raindrops the size of the lead in a pencil can be picked up.



This radar antenna will enable weatherman to pick up clouds and chart rainstorms within a few minutes and a few hundred yards, experts say.

Good Reason Why Appetite Failed

Dwight Morrow used to explain to his friends that he was not absent minded — only preoccupied. Nevertheless, one day as he hastened down the street he met a friend and accepted his invitation to lunch.

"Excuse me, sir," broke in the waiter, "but you just ate here a few minutes ago!"

VOLUNTARY SOCIETIES

One of the best ways of combatting the drift of the times towards totalitarianism is to encourage the formation and activity of voluntary associations which can influence governments by influencing public opinion. There are many excellent objects in our modern life which cannot be obtained without some measure of government action but which it would be most undesirable to leave entirely to government action.

Perhaps our most outstanding example of this sort of thing is the Health League of Canada, a body of ordinary citizens, unfettered by any ties with the professional organizations or with governments. This body is able to exert an influence upon public opinion which no government whether federal or provincial could possibly equal, and through that influence on public opinion it has in recent years effected great improvements both in government policies and in the attitude of the Canadian public towards them.

It is interesting to find that the Health League—which is an entirely Canadian product and was not inspired by any model elsewhere—is beginning to attract the attention of health experts in many other democratic countries. There have been numerous applications for information and guidance for the setting up of similar bodies elsewhere. Twenty years ago one would hardly have predicted that Canada would soon be giving the world a lead in so important a matter; but the League has had the advantage of an immense amount of devotion and energy on the part of its workers, and a generous measure of support from a large sympathetic public. Canadians may not be as health-conscious as we could wish, but they are a great deal more so than most of even the very progressive nations of the world.

CAN BE SEVERE

The possible severity of hiccups is shown by a recent case in which an attack caused the death of a man in four days and 12 hours. In another case, a woman has had three attacks since 1941, each of which, after a duration of six weeks, had to be stopped by a phrenic nerve operation in order to save her life.

WORK DID IT—"Work and more work", said Robert Reynolds of Brockville when asked for his secret of long life upon celebrating his 105th birthday Aug. 30. A pipe and a shady nook in the garden of his home on the town's outskirts keep him happy. Mr. Reynolds, retired some 30 years ago, went to western Canada as a youth to work on the C.P.R.

The Praying Mantis Excited Bank Clerks

MONTREAL. — When a praying mantis, a southern insect, three inches long and greenish in color, appeared in the open window of the Bank of Montreal a girl clerk screamed, setting the whole place in an uproar; other girls screamed and climbed on desks. What Is Happening In Alberta Towns

Claysmore Clippings

Mr. N. Herning and daughter Shirley from Stapleburst were visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. M. MacMillan Sunday afternoon. Friends will be interested in learning that Jimmy Herning is taking his Grade 11 at Kitscoty and is staying at the boys dormitory there.

School has opened for another year and the pupils from here have a new and larger school bus to ride in big enough to seat everyone comfortably. To date there are 23 pupils attending from this district. The beginners are Gordon Van Nest, Edna Winter and John Duffy.

Malcolm Urquhart who is spending a short holiday with his parents in Vermilion visited friends here Friday. He is a former teacher of Claysmore school and is now at Kingston, Ont., teaching economics at Queen's University.

Mr. and Mrs. Alex Shand spent last week end visiting friends in Claysmore. The Shand's have just returned from a month spent on the west coast and enjoyed a very nice holiday. They met quite a number of old friends including Mr. and Mrs. [illegible] W. Harrison, Wm. Peachey, H. H. Kirkpatrick and Mrs. Goulette, also Mr. and Mrs. Stan Davis formerly of Vermilion. Friends here will be pleased to know that all these folks are well and enjoying the mild climate of the coast. All of them send kindest regards to friends in Alberta.

The heavy rain of Saturday and Sunday has put a stop to all harvest operations for the present. Good dry weather is necessary so that threshing can really get underway and combines get working again.

BARLEY CONTEST SHIPMENTS START

Carload entries in the 1947 National Barley Contest sponsored by the Brewing and Malting industries started arriving in late August at the grain inspection branch in Winnipeg.

A less favorable season than in 1946 may have had some effect on quality. In the southern part of the Western Region barley area, bad weather has deteriorated both yield and grade. In some of the territorial regions prescribed for the contest the results may be disappointing but contestants in these regions at least are all on an equal footing.

Early returns show great variations in yield and grade. Fortunately both are better as one moves north and there is likely to be some good quality product for the final judging.

"Just listen... to Suzy's new engine!"

HER NEW ENGINE has given the "Suzy M." a new lease on life. Now she gets out to the fishing grounds in double-quick time, and the hours saved mean her daily catch is just that much bigger.

A bank loan made all the difference. And the extra money Suzy's owner is making will soon pay off the cost of the engine.

Local bank managers along Canada's coasts are eager to help their neighbours catch fish by making bank credit available for the purchase of engines, nets and other gear. Province To Order 50-mile Speed Limit

Early action of a positive nature is to be taken by the provincial government to curb excessive speed on highways, according to information received by officials of the Alberta Motor Association.

It is planned to issue a proclamation fixing 50 miles per hour as the maximum speed for motor cars on highways. During the summer, the public works department announced that the maximum rate was 50 miles per hour but this was more in the nature of a request which it was hoped would be observed.

Provincial authorities say that high speeds still are being maintained and the number of accidents is on the increase. Consequently the alternative is to proclaim a new speed rate and instruct police officers to enforce it, according to provincial authorities.

The need of greater safety on the highways is a matter that is receiving the continuous attention of the A.M.A. and it is expected to be discussed at the annual branch meetings to be held later this year.

Hail Damage High

Hail damage in Alberta this year has been the worst in ten years according to J. Glen Elder, manager of the Alberta Hail Insurance board. Damage to Alberta crops is estimated to be about $2½ million.

The Hail Insurance board had received a total of 4200 claims by Aug. 19th. It is expected that between one million and two million dollars will been paid out in hail claims. Approximately 400,000 acres have been hit by hail. Much of the area was damaged 7-10 per cent. It is estimated that 25 per cent of the farmers carried enough insurance to cover the cost of labor, seed and other crop expenses.

FS. Harold Bushell Tells Story Of Air Cadet Trip Overseas

As some of the people of Vermilion and district might be interested in the kind of trip the Air Cadets experienced in England, I will try to give the highlights of the visit and the itinerary followed.

My trip actually started when I boarded the Dakota transport at Lethbridge. This plane had started from Vancouver. We flew to Dorval, Que., taking the boys from Vancouver, Saskatchewan, Manitoba and Ontario. At Dorval we were briefed on our coming trip to England, and issued with new uniforms, a blazer jacket and trousers.

After welcoming the English Cadets to Canada we took off in York transports for England. The route followed was: July 30, Dorval, take-off at 9.30, flying was at 9,000 feet, 180 miles per hour, 10:50 we passed over Holmdedin Mt.; 12:00 passed over P.E.I. with increased speed of 202 miles per hour; 2:30 landed at Gander, Nfld.

July 31—Took off from Gander for Azores, arrived at 4:30 and took off at 9:30. About 20 minutes out of London our plane broke through the clouds and everyone was straining to catch their first glimpse of England.

One boy beside me, when he saw the green trees and green fields, said, "Now I know why there'll always an England". As luck would have it, it was raining when we landed at the London airport at 6:30 p.m. Greenwich time. That was all the rain we had during the entire trip.

Immediately on leaving the plane seven boys including myself were interviewed by the BBC Mobile Recording unit. After going through customs we left by coach for Hulton R.A.F. station, 33 miles north-west of London.

August 2nd—Being a rest day most of us spent it in London. Aug. 3rd—Reveille at 6:15. Travelled by coach to Driffield and back, 194 miles taking in all intermediate sights. Monday Aug. 4th—The day was spent in normal camp activities, flying, gliding, etc at Driffield. Aug. 5th—Journey to Scarborough for reception by Lord Mayor of that city, and a tour of the town. From there we went to Butlins Holiday camp for lunch. This camp is not like a small Coney Island. For 7 pounds a week a person gets meals, roller skating, swimming, tennis, boating, dancing and shows, everything imaginable for around $28.

We went for a tour of the Blackburn Aircraft factory and took a test flight in one of their planes. Aug. 6—Left Driffield for Sheffield and a tour of the steelworks for which this city is world famous. We were received by the Lord Mayor. There is no one in the prairie provinces or possibly in Canada who can visualize the vast size of these rolling mills without having seen them.

The next spot was the Duke of Portland's at Welbeck Abbey. In the Duke's ownership are about five beautifully built buildings with the interior covered with beautiful paintings and magnificent carvings.

Aug. 7th—We visited York for a reception by the Lord Mayor. Made a tour of the Kirk Museum and a tour of the Yorkminster. From York we left by train for Edinburgh.

Aug. 8th—Left Turnhouse for tour of Edinburgh Castle and here we spent two hours but only scratched the surface as we could have spent two days here and not seen it all.

Next came the Palace of Holyrood where the King and Queen usually stay while in London. The architecture of this palace, as well as all of the large buildings and cathedrals, is something to marvel at. The interior of Holyrood is lined with paintings, plush carpets and chairs. During the tour of Holyrood a box of the King's stationery was found. 3 minutes later it was all gone. [illegible] of the carpets. From here we visited the [illegible] looked over [illegible]

Letters to the Editor

(This paper does not hold itself responsible for opinions expressed by correspondents.)

Vermilion, Sept. 8th, 1947.

Dear Mr. Editor:

May I have a little space in your widely read paper in order to make a few comments re egg prices, prompted on reading Mr. Buckingham's remarks in "Green Acres" in this week's Standard; he quotes egg prices as being 45c for As and 24c for Cs.

Now, my current check gives me 42c for As and 20c for Cs—I wonder where that difference of 3 and 4 cents, respectively, goes? I do not know but I am quite sure it does not go into the producers' pocket.

My current check has given me 1 A large egg, 10 Cs. This is from a 7 dozen capacity; on taking a check at random which is dated 7th May I have 8 dozen A large and no Cs from a 9 dozen capacity. A large were 31c, C 28c.

While the price fluctuated from 28c to 31c a dozen my eggs were practically all A large, now that the price is almost doubled I have little or no A large, practically all B and C.

Eggs from hens that are consistently fed all year for laying, do not vary in size to any extent, yet, as soon as fall comes and prices are forced upwards by diminishing yields, the grades drop and the producer is still getting a low price. It is rather smart manipulation, really, but maybe the powers who are responsible for this state of affairs—not only in the egg industry but in all other phases of farm production — had better read the "handwriting on the wall."

Farmers are slowly awakening from the lethargy of the past 30 years, a fact which is more noticeable every day.

Arrange Feed and Seed Supplies Now

Crop damage through hail, frost or drought has occurred in many Alberta districts this year. Many farmers may find that they have not sufficient seed for spring planting or enough feed grain to carry their live stock through until another crop is harvested.

Farmers in Eastern Canada purchase large quantities of feed and seed from the West. Since the Alberta crop now being harvested will be moved rapidly to Eastern points those who require seed and feed should arrange for their entire needs at an early date. There may be considerable difficulty in obtaining them later in the season. Feed grain may not be available in the amounts needed.

The Field Crops Branch urges the farmers who have been unfortunate enough to lose their crops to arrange for seed and feed supplies without delay.

Islay District Locals

This bulletin was crowded out last week. Due allowance should be made for time elapsed.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Coombe of Edmonton spent their holidays this year visiting the former's mother at Islay. They were also guests of Mrs. Wyndham Gould (grandmother), and uncle Fred Gould and Mr and Mrs Percy Golby, who are sister and brother-in-law of Ray's.

Mr and Mrs Theo Gould have left for Victoria after having spent a nice holiday visiting with friends and relations. They were guests of the writer who is a sister of Mr. Gould's, for one day.

Three cars left this district to look for blueberries, Mr Jas Gould and son Marvin, Percy and Esther Golby and daughter Babs, also George and Mrs N. Coombe and Helen. A long distance was covered and blueberries and cranberries found in abundance. The entire party made camp near a spring, several others were also picking in the area. A big camp fire in the evening provided cheer and singing was indulged in. Weather proved ideal.

Gardens have made a very satisfactory comeback since the hail and flowers are very good even though late. No apples this year, the early frost having nipped the blooms. Raspberries were also small and scarce due to lack of moisture.

Miss Helen Coombe spent two weeks of her holidays away from home. One week with her father and family at Edmonton and a week at Red Deer. Her cousin Bernard Clare of North Edmonton took her and sisters Nellie and Clara down to camp at the Church of the Nazarene. Helen spent one day at the Edmonton Fair and enjoyed an airplane flight over the city.

Several beginners will be at school in Islay, one of them being little Miss Barbara Golby of Islay District.

A great many people of Vermilion and district also others from Islay have enjoyed the Vespers held in the park at Vermilion on Sunday evening under the direction of Adj. [illegible] of the Salvation Army. It is very encouraging to see so many of the young people take part in the singing and testimonies. This [illegible] the right direction.

Students . . Nursing Calls You!

GRANT CAN BE OBTAINED

With the publication of high school examination results, students are deciding their future career. Nursing is a profession that is interesting, varied and full of opportunity. Nurses are well paid and are more greatly needed now than ever before. Several small hospitals in Alberta are almost desperate for graduate registered nurses. The proposed health insurance developments throughout Canada insure an abundance of employment after graduation. The future employment outlook for nurses is very bright and the opportunity to serve others unlimited.

There are 11 hospitals in Alberta that have Schools of Nursing. In order to be admitted as a student nurse you must meet certain educational requirements. Specific information regarding an individual hospital must be obtained from the Superintendent of Nurses of that hospital.

All high school principals, high school inspectors and district public health nurses have been provided with a [illegible] information pamphlet called "Nursing a Profession" by the Alberta Association of Registered Nurses, and additional copies are available.

There are two sets of MINIMUM education requirements for admission to a School of Nursing. Students must have EITHER one of the following:

1. An Alberta high school graduation diploma with not less than [illegible] credits including English [illegible] Social Studies 2, Chemistry [illegible] Physics 2 or Biology [illegible] equivalent standing elsewhere.

OR

2. 67 high school credits [illegible] the regulations of the Alberta Department of Education which shall include B standing or higher in English 1 and 2, one foreign language 1 and 2, Social Studies 1 and 2, Algebra 1, Geometry 1, Health and Physical Education 1, Chemistry 1, Physics 1 or Biology 1 or equivalent standing elsewhere.

Students interested [illegible] who need financial assistance may apply for a Dominion-Provincial Student Aid grant of $[illegible] through the Alberta Association of Registered Nurses, St. Stephen's College, Edmonton.

Farm Mechanization

MACHINERY HAS PLAYED AN increasingly important part in industry since it was first discovered that by using machines man's work could be considerably lightened, and the time required for accomplishing many tasks could be reduced. Machinery is essential to modern agriculture as it is to all industry and constant work has been done in improving farm machinery and in inventing new types of machines which will increase the efficiency of farm work and cut down on the amount of manual labor which the farmer must do. In Canada, as well as in Britain, acute labor shortages in recent years have increased the interest of farmers in mechanizing their farms.

• • • • •

Farm Owners Have Problem In this connection, however, owners of small farms, of which there are many, are faced with the problem of having to buy a number of high priced machines, each with a specific function, with the result that much valuable equipment may be idle for a good part of the year. The need for farm machines with multiple uses has long been of interest to many farmers, and this subject was discussed by agricultural experts when a demonstration of the latest types of farm machinery was held recently at Macdonald College in the province of Quebec. There it was agreed that if Canadian food production is to be kept at a high level, wider use of machinery will be necessary to offset shortages of labor.

• • • • •

Interest in New Machines Agricultural engineers at this gathering viewed new types of machines designed to do diversified farm work and to meet the needs of the small farms. No comment was given out on the working of these machines, but it is possible that more extensive means of mechanizing the farm may soon be at the disposal of the average farmer who cannot afford a large outlay of money for equipment which will not be in constant use. Increased mechanization in any industry has always resulted in progress, and it is to be hoped that Canadian farmers may benefit considerably in the near future by more and more efficient tools with which to carry on their important work.

Prospective Drivers Require Rigid Test

Authorities admit that a prospective driver should be given a test of not less than an hour and a half's duration. They admit that the driver should be taken on the highway and tested for ability to estimate the speed of other automobiles (a vital factor in safe passing), ability to judge distances and ability to so coordinate his brain and body that his response to crisis will invariably be correct.

Replica Of Famous Tower In Toothpicks

TORONTO. — "How many toothpicks in the Eiffel Tower?" was not exactly an idle question for visitors to the Canadian National Exhibition. Prizes were offered to the person guessing the nearest number of toothpicks in replica of the famous French steel structure.

Made entirely of toothpicks joined together by household cement, the model is 7½ feet tall and one yard square at the base, weighing little more than one pound. It took its builder, Clifford A. Norman, 24-year-old Montreal hobbiest, almost six months to complete.

THE TILLERS —By Les Carroll

I'D LIKE YOU TO HANG A FEW PICTURES FOR ME IF YOU WILL PLEASE, JUNIOR!

FOR AUSTRALIA—Sheriff Malcolm McGregor, Polled Hereford Breeder, Brandon, Man., was recently successful in selling "Rupert Eugene" (181426), to Captain Grant, member of the Australian delegation which is touring the world for stud stock for Australia. On the arrival in Australia "Rupert Eugene" was acclaimed to be one of the very best bulls ever imported in Australia. The above picture was taken at the stockyards at Brandon just prior to loading. Lieut.-Colonel R. C. McLennan, manager of the Manitoba provincial exhibition is shown holding this valuable animal.

FUNNY And OTHERWISE

"I don't believe you know the meaning of the word 'courtship'," said the designing young woman.

"Don't I?" replied the wary young man. "Courtship means running after a woman till she catches you!"

"I can't understand how you manage to keep so calm whatever happens," said Robinson.

"Oh, it's just a matter of training," explained Thompson. "You see, I've a wife, five children, two dogs, and a cigarette lighter!"

"I haven't seen you at church lately, William," said the vicar. "What's the matter?"

"My daughter's learning to play the harp," replied William.

"But what's that got to do with it?"

"Well, I'm not so keen on going to Heaven as I was!"

Vandals Enter Old Tombs In London

LONDON — Vandals have broken into the tombs of the 780-year-old temple church, the Church of the Knights Templar, in search of jewellery they believed might have been buried with bodies interred hundreds of years ago, the city of London detective bureau reported.

The thieves, whose vandalism was believed to have occurred some time ago but which was discovered only recently, also may have been seeking valuable lead, of which many of the coffins were made. The extent of the looting has not been determined.

The medieval church was wrecked in 1940 by German bombs, along with a greater part of the temple—a series of law chambers and a library set in once-beautiful gardens in the heart of the city off Fleet street.

Swedish Invention For Ice-Free Ports

Science News Letter says Russia's endless quest for an ice-free port may have been solved by a Swedish invention.

The invention consists of long lines of perforated pipes laid under the channel to be kept free. As the bubbles rise in streams from the perforations, they pull currents of water upward along with them.

This water, which is above freezing temperature, displaces the thin stratum of cold water immediately under the ice, and melts a clear channel. If used early enough in the winter, it can prevent the initial formation of ice, the inventors [illegible].

Allied Nations Lack Incentive Says Alexander

NEW YORK—Viscount Alexander, Canada's governor-general, declared that the "great incentive of a single purpose" which gave the Allies their victory in war is lacking now in their march to the peace.

But, he said in an address prepared for delivery before the American Legion convention here, "I do not think we should be unduly alarmed or discouraged at this."

"For after all, history teaches us that on the conclusion of all great wars there are serious differences of opinion on all matters connected with peace and its many intricate problems.

"And, if others disagree with us, and if we cannot persuade them to our way of thought, then the next best thing we can do is to settle our affairs with those whose views coincide with our own."

Since he had been in Canada, said Viscount Alexander, he had been "greatly impressed" by the good neighborly relations which existed between the Dominion and its southern neighbor, but he did not think it right to say the two peoples were practically alike.

In fact, it was "much more important" that they be different because the strength in their relationship lay in the fact they should be complementary to each other and that each gave the other something new.

But if someone says "Drink Postum Instead", that really rings a bell!

Yes — Postum is a grand way to stop drinking tea and coffee if the caffein in these beverages upsets your nerves, keeps you awake.

You can drink Postum any hour of the day or night — enjoy as much as you like, as strong as you like — and not miss a wink of sleep. Postum contains no caffein, nor any other drug — can't affect heart or nerves or digestion.

Make Postum right in the cup, just by adding boiling water or hot milk. Costs less than 1¢ a serving.

BOARD OF TRADE RESUMES MEETINGS

Regular meetings of the Vermilion board of trade were resumed Wednesday with George Maxwell, the president, in the chair and 32 members present. A vast amount of accumulated correspondence was looked into and the business generally speaking was to catch up on the holiday months. This was very nearly all taken care of and the decks cleared for new business.

On the agenda for next week is the election of a vice-president to succeed Mr. Charlie Spencer who has left town.

The next meeting will be Wednesday Sept. 17th and an invitation is again extended to all businessmen and citizens to attend.

Among the visitors Wednesday were Mr. S. D. Heckbert of Nova Scotia, a former member of parliament for that province who was introduced by his son, Carl Heckbert; Malcolm Urquhart, assistant professor of Political Economy at Queen's University was introduced by his brother Ken; while warm welcomes were extended two local men, Roger Rowe and E. Warner.

Helen Barbour Becomes Bride of Edward Hawker

IN PRETTY EVENING CEREMONY

Vari-hued gladioli, with sweet peas marking the guest pews, was the floral setting in McDougall United church, Edmonton, Wednesday evening September 3rd for the wedding of Miss Helen Florella Barbour, daughter of Mrs. Gavin Barbour, of Edmonton, and the late Mr. Barbour, to Mr. John Edward Hawker, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Hawker of Edmonton.

Rev. Wesley Bainbridge performed the ceremony.

Given in marriage by Mr. John McDonald of Lacombe, the bride was gowned in traditional white satin, styled on classic lines with sweetheart neckline and long tapering sleeves. The skirt fell slightly on train, and orange blossoms held her full-length veil in place. She carried a bouquet of deep pink roses, with streamers of white carnations. A pearl necklace was her only jewelry.

Mrs. John McDonald, of Lacombe, was matron of honor. She was gowned in pale pink jersey with draped neckline and cap sleeves. Her hat was a cocktail model of tulle and ostrich feathers, and long white nylon gloves completed her ensemble. She carried a cascade bouquet of pink carnations and mauve sweet peas.

Mr. W. E. Hawker was best man, and ushers were Dr. T. Hawker, Mr. H. Hawker and Mr. R. Phillips.

The wedding music was played by Mr. Herbert Will, and soloist was Mr. W. J. Hendra, who sang "The Voice That Breathed O'er Eden", during the ceremony, and "O Perfect Love", while the register was being signed.

The drawing room of the MacDonald was the scene of a reception to 65 guests, where Mrs. Barbour, the bride's mother received with the wedding party.

Mrs. W. E. Hawker sister-in-law of the groom also received, wearing a dress of steel blue crepe-back satin, with black accessories and a gardenia corsage.

Mr. Bainbridge proposed the toast to the bride.

Mr. and Mrs. Hawker left for a motor trip through the mountains, the bride travelling in a sky blue gabardine suit, with black topcoat and accessories and gardenia corsage.

Later, they will take up residence at Vermilion, where the groom is a member of the agricultural college.

Out-of-town guests at the ceremony included Mrs. J. N. R. McDonald, Mr. and Mrs. John McDonald, Miss Barbara McDonald and Mrs. George Brooks, of Lacombe; Mrs. Charles Coote, Clive; Mr. and Mrs. N. H. Bentley, Vermilion; Mr. and Mrs. Glen Wright Bentley; Mr. G. Park, Acme; Mrs. A. Armour, Edson, and Mrs. E. Blair, Glasgow, Scotland.

MAGNANIMOUS GESTURE BY LOCAL ORGANIZATION

What is perhaps one of the most generous offers ever to be made by a local organization in the history of the town was revealed this week with the announcement that the Vermilion Lodge B.P.O. Elks had offered to finance the building of a home for junior organizations of the town, viz. Scouts, Cubs, Guides and Brownies.

The new hall is to be built according to the specifications required by the Scouts and will be 28 feet by 40 feet with a 10-foot ceiling. The Elks have undertaken the entire financing of the project including laying of gas to the building and wiring. Negotiations are now underway with the town council for lease of the necessary property. It is hoped to erect the new building in the west end of the playground park. The hall will be for the exclusive use of the junior organizations just as long as these organizations are active in the town. The Elks also plan to make additions and improvements to the hall from time to time as the need arises.

The Scouts and other junior organizations will solicit help from the public to provide furnishings and equipment.

The Elks will hold their annual fall carnival again this fall with every cent thus raised going into the building fund. This Big Brother organization is already helping to maintain two children's playgrounds and equipment in town, in company with the Stagettes and teachers' organizations; sponsor Pee-Wee hockey as well as supporting all local and national charity appeals; sponsor a fund to provide glasses for kiddies in needy cases; and have donated $2000 to "Save the Children Fund".

The Vermilion Elks have spent $1200 to $1500 annually on charitable and service projects. It should be pointed out in this connection that no direct appeal for money has ever been made, value and entertainment is provided for all monies raised for these purposes.

The Elks will spend $3000 on the new Scout hall but this sum will practically all be for the cost of material. The Scouts have already had offers of many days of voluntary labor from carpenters and other handy artisans around the town.

Interesting Film To Be Shown at District Points

BY NATIONAL FILM BOARD

The National Film board will commence their fall itinerary Sept. 22nd when a feature picture "Quality Beef" will be shown. It deals with many other phases such as shipping and the work of Junior Calf clubs. Some shots of the Calgary Bull sale are shown. Other films on the program are 'Canada, World Trader,' 'The Postman' etc.

The meetings commence at 8 p.m. The itinerary is:

Monday, Sept. 22—Paradise Valley
Tuesday, Sept. 23—Islay
Wednesday, Sept. 24—Streamstown

Local Lady Bereaved By Death of Sister

Mrs. Vernon H. Cooper received the sad news on Friday of last week of the death of her twin sister, Mrs. Leonard Ford at Seattle, Wash. Mrs. Ford had been in very poor health for some time but her untimely passing was unexpected. She leaves besides her husband, one son Ramon and a little granddaughter Lowanne.

The funeral was held Tuesday, Sept. 16th and interment was made at Bellingham cemetery by the side of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Cowell, both of whom passed away within the last 18 months.

CUB NOTES

A few reminders to parents of Cubs —

All the boys have catalogs now and it is desired that each Cub have at least the cap, neckerchief and sweater. If any boy misses more than three meetings without excuse he is automatically marked off the roll. Parents can assist greatly if they help the boys with their badge work at home.

New Scout Hall in Prospect

The executive of the local Boy Scout association wish to take this opportunity to sincerely thank the Vermilion Elks Lodge for their proposal to build a Scout hall here. It will fill a great need in Vermilion and will greatly aid in furthering the Cub and Scout work. Construction is expected to begin shortly and it should not be long until the boys are holding their meetings in a new home.

LADIES

All women interested in the formation of the Girl Guide and Brownie movement in Vermilion are asked to attend a public meeting to be held in the Elks Hall on Friday, Oct. 3rd.

Plans will be discussed and it is hoped to be able to form a local committee of the movement.

Melvin Hill Elected Vice-President of The Board of Trade

Melvin Hill, well known local hardware merchant was elected vice-president of the Vermilion Board of Trade at the regular meeting of that body held Wednesday. Mr. Hill's election was by acclamation and it is generally felt that the choice of the board is a wise and happy one.

Melvin completes the unexpired term of Charlie Spencer who was elected at the beginning of the year but who moved away from Vermilion in August.

There were 30 members present at Wednesday's luncheon meeting and Gerald Stephens acted as chairman. Topics discussed were rollers and packers for the airport by Billie Pilkie; Trans-continental highway action by E. M. Stewart and J. D. Adam; General publicity, also sittings of the tax commission here by Ashley Cooper; invitation to witness battle maneuvers at Wainwright read by Capt. W. H. Scott.

The generous action of the Elks in planning to build a scout and cub hall this fall was announced by Dr. A. Ben King and brought forth considerable praise and commendation for the B.P.O.E. A letter of appreciation is to be forwarded from the board.

Next meeting Wednesday, Sept. 24, 12:10 noon at George's. You are invited.

Junior Members Take Charge of Board of Trade Next Week

Program and procedure at the Board of Trade meeting Wednesday next is in the hands of the junior section. Charlie Heckbert will be the chairman.

District Farmer Is Fined for Violation Of Noxious Weed Act

MUNICIPALITY TO ENFORCE REGULATIONS

For violating Section 9 of the Alberta Noxious Weed Act, a prominent Dewberry district farmer was fined in Police Magistrate Kaiser's court last week. Instructions were given in writing by Field Supervisor W. A. Dixon for the farmer to destroy perennial Sow Thistle and Canada Thistle on part of his farm. On proof that he had failed to destroy the weeds as instructed the party was fined $10 and costs. In the court proceedings it was brought out that on the farmer's failure to do the work as required by the weed notice a tractor mower was brought in to destroy the thistle and any crop that was necessary in doing the work. The cost of cutting down the weeds is to be paid by the farmer in question.

It would appear from the proceedings of this case that the Field Supervisor of Vermilion River M.D. and his weed inspectors are determined to clean up the badly polluted thistle farms in this municipality.

Vermilion Student Wins Scholarship

A recent release from the office of the Registrar, University of Alberta, announced the award of a "Friends of the University Bursary" to Jean Robson of Vermilion. Jean received the award on the basis of average attained at the matriculation examinations held last June. She will enroll in a Commerce course at the University on Sept. 22nd.

Parishioners Farewell Ven. W. and Mrs. Leversedge

It was with a sense of deep regret that the parishioners of St. Saviour's church gathered Monday evening in their Parish hall to bid farewell to their incumbent of the past 12 years and his wife, Archdeacon and Mrs. Leversedge.

Sentiments of those present were expressed by S.R.P. Cooper, Thos. Watts, E.H. Buckingham, H.B. Evans, Mrs. King of Thorncliffe, and Mayor J.W.G. Morrison. All voiced their appreciation of the splendid contribution made to the life and work of the church in Vermilion by Dr. and Mrs. Leversedge.

Members of the congregations of St. Saviours, Vermilion; All Saints, at Pleasant Valley and Christ church Ottawa, joined in expressing this appreciation and affection by presenting Archdeacon and Mrs. Leversedge with a substantial purse, the presentation being made by Mr. Morrison. Further presentations were made to Mrs. Leversedge by Miss Bury on behalf of the W.A., by Mrs. Puckett and Mr. T. Watts for the choir.

The Archdeacon and Mrs. Leversedge plan to leave Saturday to make their home at the vicarage at Wabamun where the Archdeacon will undertake such parish duties as required. His health does not yet permit any strenuous work. They carry with them the good wishes and prayers of a host of Vermilion friends and well-wishers.

Church of Scotland Official Visits Here

Gives Vivid Picture of Old Country

Rev. Dr. A. King of Edinburgh, Scotland was a visitor last week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. [illegible] south of Vermilion. The Rev. [illegible] is secretary of the Foreign [illegible] Relations board in connection with the Church of Scotland and is visiting different presbyteries of the Presbyterian and the United churches in Canada to discuss church problems generally. Dr. King crossed by plane from Prestwick, Scotland to New York in a matter of 14 hours. [illegible] He says conditions in both England and Scotland are not wholly as bad as pictured. The people have enough to eat and are not suffering [illegible] in want of clothing. He [illegible] every [illegible] piece of machinery in the [illegible] used for seven long years in the production of army and war equipment. Additional Teacher For Intermed. School

SEVENTEEN NOW ON STAFF

Fifty-four students in grade seven necessitated dividing the grade and meant an extra teacher for the intermediate school. After considerable difficulty in securing another teacher Miss Helen Gushta of Vilna was engaged to fill the position. She will commence duties on Monday.

Miss Gushta makes the fourth teacher on the intermediate staff. This means that laboratory and typing rooms will be utilized as full-time classrooms. There are now eight teachers at the high school and nine at the elementary school.

Plans Completed for Red Shield Appeal

Canvassers Appointed To Various Districts of the Town

GENEROUS RESPONSE ASKED FOR HUMANITARIAN WORK

A special organization meeting for the Red Shield appeal was called by the chairman Mr. W. S. Cash last Friday evening. The meeting was held in the campaign headquarters at the Vermilion Variety store. The town was divided into various districts for canvassing and volunteer canvassers were appointed as follows: School of agriculture — Jack Kearns; Main street both sides east of Bank and Moyer's — Ashley H. Cooper; 1st Street South and Bulyea and all south-east—Doug Brimacombe and Ken Rowe; Main street west to Larose Service station—Chas. Heckbert; Boake's north (except Craig's and Long's)—Jim Hunt and Don Logan; McWilliams west to the Mill and Franco Oils—W. P. Pilkie; Ambler's to Ford's and all north-west — Tom Stack.

Please accord the canvassers a cordial welcome and give generously toward the nation-wide work of The Salvation Army. Your contributions are deductible from your income tax. Canvassers will give you a receipt.

"GREEN ACRES"

LIVE STOCK SALE

The prize list for the Vermilion Fat Live Stock show and sale is now out. Application forms for listing of cattle for sale are available from Mr. Heckbert, secretary-manager of the Agricultural Society. It looks like a good sale. Entries are invited. Also buyers and visitors are invited to come to this show and sale at the school of agriculture on Nov. 5th.

POULTRY FEED COSTS

Poultry men often ask how much it costs to produce a dozen eggs. Strange to say the cost of feed has little to do with the cost of producing eggs. What counts most is the egg production of the flock. When it goes below 50% then the cost is around six cents more per dozen than it is when production is 70%. The moral is to raise bred-to-lay hens and feed them right.

DAIRY PRODUCTION

Along with the increases in prices should go an increase in production of cream and butter. The trend seems to be the other way. It looks like good business now for farmers to milk more cows and when times get tough from poor crops or poor prices the dairy cow is the means of keeping the farm business going. Farmers who do not raise cattle in this country and especially dairy cows are not making the most of their opportunities.

BLACK LEG IN CATTLE

Two more cases of calves dying from black leg are reported. It costs [illegible] 3 or 4 good calves worth a couple of hundred dollars for them to see that it pays to inoculate for black leg. All young stock should be vaccinated before this time of the year if they are to be protected from this costly disease. No farmer should neglect treating just because he has not lost stock before.

HOARY CRESS

Last week I accompanied Chester Gamble Field Supervisor for Minburn M.D. to visit a farm south of Mannville where there is an outbreak of Hoary Cress. This is one of the world's worst weeds and certainly is giving this farmer plenty of trouble. He has summer fallowed two years in succession and used weed killer but it is still thriving. Farmers are advised to be on guard for any new and unknown weeds and get them identified.

HOT SCHOOL LUNCHES

A recent bulletin entitled [illegible] Boxes and Hot School Lunches [illegible] now available. It provides some good tips on [illegible] for children [illegible] day meal [illegible] school [illegible] this lunch [illegible] being sufficient for growing children.

New Departure in Paying Light Bills

As will be noticed from the advertising columns of the Standard for the last two weeks, electricity consumers are required to pay their bills at the Canadian Bank of Commerce.

LARGE SCALE SHAM BATTLE

"A" Company, The Loyal Edmonton Regiment, carried out a large-scale sham battle on the north hill Wednesday evening. They used a wide variety of shells, flares, tracers, smoke screens etc. and provided quite a diversion for the town's populace.

WEATHER TERRIFIC

Weather broke again last Friday and rain has fallen every day since that time. Just for diversion very large snow flakes covered the ground Wednesday morning so the first snow fall of the 1947-48 season can be recorded.

Harvesting is at a standstill and much cut grain is claimed to be sprouting or getting musty.

Frost was recorded this Thursday morning 5½ degrees being registered.

Rainfall in August amounted to 4.23 inches. August rainfall last year was 3.28 inches and in 1945 was 2.87.

Precipitation so far in September has been 2.00 inches.

WANTED—A PLACE TO SIT —

On several occasions during the summer months the news-editor heard the question "Where can I go to sit down?". On three separate occasions the question was directed at him. A lady with two children asked if there was any place outdoors where she could find a bench to rest. The same question was asked in a much less polite way by a tired farmer. The lady was directed to the children's playground where benches are to be found, and the gentleman to E. Katz and Son where two benches have been kindly placed outside the store. A third demand went unanswered when a retired farmer asked why there were no benches in the town park. "We old fellows want a place to sit down when we come down town, and so do a lot of farmers when they come to town. It's up to you fellows to make your town a little better than the next place, and one way you can do it is to put some benches in the town park."

DOUBLE SPACE PLEASE!—

The Standard is always thankful for articles or reports handed in. If these are typed care should be taken to double space the distance between the lines, and to use shortened lines. This materially helps the linotype operator when he is casting your story into type. Long lines typed closely together make following the copy a difficult matter and increases chances for errors.

Farmers are warned by the Alberta department of agriculture to build up feed and seed supplies this fall. It is believed that there may be some difficulty in obtaining seed and feed later in the season as farmers in Eastern Canada will require large quantities of western grain and Alberta crops will move rapidly to eastern points.

Canadian production of oats and barley this year is estimated at 567,464,000 bushels. About 75 per cent of this production comes from the 3 prairie provinces of Western Canada. Production in these three provinces is 25 per cent below last year.

BUSINESS FAILURES INCREASE

Business failures in the first half of 1947 show a substantial increase over the same period of 1946 in both number and amount of liabilities a Financial Post survey reveals.

The 306 failures however were fewer than in the first half of the previous years of the record between 1922 and the early part of World War 2. The increase over the first half of 1946 was 125%, the decrease from 1939 being about 62%.

Of the 306 total for the six months 120 occurred in the first quarter, 146 in the second.

The larger number of failures compared with last year is attributed partly to inexperience of many people who started in business, difficulty in getting goods in other cases, and lack of adequate finances in others.

CHEAP GOOD SEED

Some farmers each year decide that they would [illegible] to buy quite a large quantity of [illegible] seed, but do not want to go to the expense of purchasing such a large amount of fairly expensive Registered and Certified seed.

In almost every district there is a source of cheap seed available to farmers, some of which is often quite as good as Registered or Certified seed. These stocks are sometimes known as "Crop Testing Plan A" seed. Such stocks are represented by the tests that were made on samples of farmers' fields growing this summer. Some of these stocks were classed by professional cerealists and plant breeders as being almost completely true-to-variety. A simple inquiry, therefore, by any farmer among his neighbors or from Elevator agents will give him the location of some nearby farmers who have some of this Crop Testing Plan A stocks in their bins.

When stocks pass from farmer to farmer there is no need to have them inspected by the Government, even though some of them may be equal to Registered or Certified seed. This is certainly a way for farmers to secure fairly large quantities of good seed of the variety required and at a cheap price.

WORLD HAPPENINGS BRIEFLY TOLD

An 87-year-old woman in Chester, Eng., was considered too old to be punished for the theft of a handbag.

The dollar cost of the war to Britain was $8,000,000,000, equivalent to 16 years of British imports from the United States at 1986 prices.

A special medal will be awarded each year to a private citizen performing the bravest deed in maintaining law and order in London.

Elena Vladimirskaya, engineer in the Moscow Mechanical Institute, was reported to have fallen 12,120 feet before opening her parachute in a jump from 26,280 feet.

LONDON.—The food ministry has concluded an agreement with the Guatemala American Company for supply of carcass meat to Britain, it was announced.

BERLIN. — British occupation authorities will get 1,400 people's automobiles (Volkswagen) to be built this year, it was disclosed by the German News Agency in the United States zone.

The National Employment Service in Winnipeg has inaugurated demonstrations of industrial processes to enable employment seekers to get a better idea of the work involved in different jobs.

The British Ministry of Supply has made a special gift to the Polish Government of 11,000 parts for a Bailey bridge like those used by British and American forces for crossing the Rhine in the war.

Tax Collection Under Saskatchewan Hospital Services Plan

"Collection of 1948 hospitalization tax began September 1 in rural areas and will start in cities, towns, and villages October 1," Glyn W. Myers, executive director of the Saskatchewan Hospital Services Plan recently announced.

The deadline for all in the payment of 1948 tax is November 30 but rural residents are being given the opportunity to start paying their tax a month earlier.

The tax rate remains the same as in 1947: annual fee $5 a person, with a maximum of $30 for a family regardless of size. However, any 1947 tax still owing must be included before a 1948 hospital services card will be issued. For 1948, only one card will be issued to a family. This will be made out in the name of the taxpayer, listing all dependents as beneficiaries.

Again, families who owe a tax of $20 or more and find it difficult to pay the full amount at one time may pay in two installments—a minimum of $15 by November 30, 1947, and balance by May 31, 1948. In the event of late payment, a person must wait a month from date of payment before being eligible for hospital benefits. Further, all of the required part payment on family tax must be made before any member of the family can receive benefits.

Taxpayers are advised to pay their tax well in advance of deadline (Nov. 30) so as to save themselves waiting in long lines as thousands had to do last year. 2742

OTTAWA HAS OVER MILLION SETS OF ARMY FINGERPRINTS ON FILE

OTTAWA. — More than 1,000,000 sets of fingerprints of servicemen and ex-servicemen, representing about one-half the male population of Canada between the ages of 18 and 60, are on file at the Canadian Armed Forces Identification Bureau here.

The prints were taken during the war years with a view to establishing 100 per cent. identification of men killed in action and are being retained for identity purposes only. Officials say that only in "very exceptional circumstances" will the information contained in the C.A.F.I.B. files be put at the disposal of police.

At the same time, there are good reasons why the armed forces have not destroyed the 1,195,000 sets of fingerprints in their possession.

For one thing, the prints afford foolproof protection to a soldier or his next-of-kin alike insofar as pensions are concerned.

The prints also serve to identify men who die by misadventure in Canada. In the north recently the body of an unknown man was washed up on the shore of a small lake. There was nothing in his clothing to identify him and police drew a blank when they checked their own files.

They turned his fingerprints over to the bureau on the chance that he had once served in the armed forces. He had, and his identity was established beyond reasonable doubt.

Proof of identity in such cases helps in the settlement of insurance claims.

If a man's body is not identified, his widow might have to wait as much as seven years before she can, by law, take steps to have him legally presumed dead.

Very Old Ceremony Still Being Observed

LONDON.—After early service at Sutton Parish Church one day recently, a little procession came out of the main porch and made its way to a 200-year-old tomb in the churchyard. The heavy iron door was unlocked and a brief inspection was made of seven coffins inside. Then the tomb was locked again.

The ceremony was the annual opening of the tomb of James Gibson, a wealthy 18th-century City merchant, and his family. Body snatchers were busy when he died, and a daughter, Mary, left a large sum for the tomb's upkeep and annual inspection, which has been made for 160 years.

Rain-Maker Makes Wife Angry

LA JUNTA, Colo. — Amateur flier W. J. (Bill) Black reported too much success with his rain-making machine recently — his wife's washing was soaked by showers he said he started with dry ice.

Black found the missus irate when he came home after sowing four pounds of dry ice in clouds at a 17,000-foot altitude.

He said subsequent showers fell for 30 minutes in a square-mile residential area, including the Black backyard afflutter with drying clothes.

Australia May Have Record Crop

CANBERRA. — Australia may have a record wheat harvest of 220,000,000 bushels this year, officials said.

The weather is always an uncertain factor, however, and lack of rain in the next few months would destroy all hope of such a good return.

If a record crop were achieved Australia would be able to provide India with all the wheat she needed, subject only to limitations of shipping space.

Dangerous Snakes For Philadelphia Zoo

PHILADELPHIA. — A 15-foot "spitting cobra", capable of inflicting its deadly venom at a distance without touching victims with its fangs, was included in a cargo of wild animals, birds, and reptiles arriving here from West Africa. There also were two "mamba snakes" measuring about eight feet in length and considered the most dreaded of all African snakes.

THAT SCHOOL LUNCH BOX

Once again we are arriving at the time of year when our children start back to school, and, as usual, this brings up the subject of the school lunch box. Of course, if you don't live too far from the school, it is better for the youngsters to come home for their lunch. However, a great many cannot do this for one reason or another, and the lunch box is the only solution.

If your boy or girl hasn't got a lunch box, it is a good idea to buy one of those metal ones with a small thermos bottle in the top. But, if you can't get one, a cardboard box will do, and a mason jar, or even a large jam or pickle jar, with a water tight screw top, will do instead of the thermos bottle, but will not keep the contents as cold or hot. Cover the box with oilcloth and always keep it freshly lined with wax paper. Wrap everything you put into it in wax paper, too, to keep it fresh and protect the box from soiling.

The foundation of the school lunch is the sandwich. Make them of whole wheat or rye bread and fill them with cold meat, fish, cheese or eggs. These will supply the protein necessary for health, and also include the cereal group in the whole wheat or rye bread. The bread should be buttered, since butter is a valuable food and supplies important nutrients your children need. Occasionally, if your child likes it, and most of them do, give him one or two peanut butter sandwiches, but not every day and mix them with other kinds because they won't supply the same protein as meat or cheese. The most complete protein is supplied by milk and the milk group, but meat and fish are almost equally good. Most vegetable proteins are not complete and do not supply all the essentials, but they are useful in conjunction with the complete proteins.

Every lunch box should contain a small portion of salad, preferably composed of raw vegetables such as grated carrots, celery, tomatoes, shredded cabbage and sliced or chopped green peppers. Some youngsters do not particularly like salads, but they should be taught to eat them because they supply necessary vitamins and minerals. By the way, parsley, which contains more iron than most vegetables and a good supply of some of the most essential vitamins, should be used frequently in the salads. Hard boiled eggs are another suggestion.

For dessert use raw fruit if available, cooked prunes or apricots with ginger cookies or some plain cake. Do not put in heavily iced cakes. They are filling but have very little real food value.

Finally, [illegible] there is nothing to [illegible] good pasteurized milk, but it is as well to vary the monotony every now and then by using chocolate milk, buttermilk or, in the cold months, hot cocoa or one of the excellent chocolate drink preparations.

If you follow these few suggestions, your child will be properly nourished and will get through the day without getting too tired. However, if you want more information the Health League of Canada will be glad to furnish it. Just drop a note or a postcard to the Department of Nutrition, Health League of Canada, 111 Avenue Road, Toronto 5, Ont.

EVERYBODY'S BUSINESS

by Don Graham

Offhand you might say that there is no connection between having a hobby and being successful in your work.

But all of us need the relaxing effect of a hobby to counter-balance the strain of hard work.

"Fun is a tonic," says Dr. G. S. Stevenson, eminent mental hygiene authority. "It refreshes us when we are tired or bored with our routine tasks—gives us new strength and enthusiasm for the business of living."

If you have no particular hobby, such as fishing, gardening or photography, you will be well advised to choose one. Or if you indulge in a hobby only rarely, you ought to devote time to it more regularly.

As a result, you'll be happier and probably healthier. And you'll surely do a better job!

P.S. An acquaintance of mine made wooden trays as a hobby. They were so handsome that many of his friends wanted to buy them and soon he had a flourishing full-time business. Such cases are not uncommon.

Salvation Army Aids Native Indian Girls

TORONTO.—"Native Indian girls of Northern B.C. are grateful for the protection and shelter afforded by The Salvation Army's new home in Prince Rupert," declares Col. Archibald Layman, Chief Secretary of The Army in Canada. He told how The Salvation Army, working with the Department of Indian Affairs has been successful in strengthening character and building morale among the native girls.

The Home provides haven for Indian girls visiting or taking employment in the city. Previously, unfortunate conditions existed, Colonel Layman said. Having no reputable accommodation girls were exposed to all the risks and hazards of a port city.

Under the management of Major Mrs Chambers, matron, the Home operates at capacity on a non-profit basis. Mrs Chambers, who was stationed at several Red Shield centres overseas, was affectionately known to thousands of Canadian servicemen as Aunt Jenny. A widow, she wanted to join her five sons who were in Canada's armed forces. Now she is becoming widely known as a champion of the native girls' best interests.

The Salvation Army began its work among the natives of Northern B.C. in 1897, Col Layman said. Then it was a matter of taking religion to the Indians and Alaskans. Since, the Colonel said, The Army has taken education—it operates day schools in remote areas — and social welfare. The Prince Rupert home is the latest development and has adequately proven its necessity.

Out of funds subscribed to the 1947 Red Shield Appeal which begins on Sept. 15th with an objective of $1,[illegible] it is hoped to develop this and other projects, the Colonel said.

OVER HALF BILLION IN NEW [illegible]

Sales of Canada Savings Bonds (first issue) totalled $639.3 millions between Oct. 15, 1946 and July 31, '47, The Financial Post is informed. Redemptions during the period totalled $57.4 millions leaving $471.7 millions in the hands of the public. The first series bonds are no longer on sale, having been withdrawn pending arrival of the new bonds on Oct. 14.

WOODVALE

In letters to the Editor "Pro Bono Publico" is wondering why he gets 42 cents instead of 45 cents for his Grade A eggs. As a regular shipper he should know that he is selling to a poultry pool and that it is only a first payment, further payments follow. It also takes more time to fill a crate when hens quit laying regularly, therefore the eggs are older when sold, and will lose a grade. These seem fairly simple explanations for his complaints.

Harvesting is in full swing and passing through the country one can observe it in all its different stages. Where the hail did not strike threshing is in progress, but right in the Woodvale district almost everyone is still cutting and hoping a dry warm fall awaits us so that everyone can get his crop into the stacks and bins safely.

Only six children are attending our school under the supervision of a former pupil, Miss Jean Rankin. Her sister Ruth who was the supervisor here these past two years, is engaged in the same capacity near Dewberry. The Rankin family made it a blueberry picking bee the day they took Ruth to her new school.

Georgette Young has been home on her holidays and the Young family are having one of their happy [illegible] Emily and Marjorie coming over too for the occasion. Gladys and Mildred Young spent a vacation with the Carmichael family in New Westminster B.C. They flew to Victoria, enjoying their first flight very much. Rita is now staying with Gladys in Vermilion taking Grade 10.

Marion McQuid is leaving for Edmonton soon to take a commercial course at the University.

Crocuses used to be harbingers of spring but this is the second year in succession that they are blooming in September on the hills around here.

Mr and Mrs Wm. Crocker went east for a trip and are visiting friends and relatives around Perry Sound. They are making trips to Toronto, Niagara Falls and Buffalo.

The Candon-Watson Red Cross auxiliary held a [illegible] bee and meeting at the home of [illegible] Thomson on Sept 10th. Eleven ladies stitched away all afternoon on a big patchwork quilt and got it finished just before suppertime almost. It is to go to Mrs. Van Wageningen sr in the Netherlands, who will be very glad to receive it and to know that her friends in these parts are not forgetting her. The top was a donation of Mrs. Wilson Ford of Vermilion. The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. H. Oldenburg on Oct 1st.

Mr and Mrs Ivan Lewis Billy and Marjorie are now living in Islay where Mr. Lewis is janitor of the new school and also driver of a station wagon to bring country children into school.

Mr and Mrs Urban Holman and two children will be leaving in the [illegible] having bought a store [illegible] miles north of Stettler. They will be having a sale before leaving.

Work is in progress on the main road and it is hoped that it will be graded and gravelled up to Clanton school before winter comes.

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY—

THE LILAC TREE

By RUTH THOMPSON

VIC strode ahead into the depot with his suitcase and Mary's grey tweed bag. Last night this had seemed such a perfect idea. Vic and she were dancing when he suggested it.

"We can be married right away over the line — no waiting around. Don't fuss about a lot of clothes" he had said. "Just wait. I'll dress you like a doll."

The first time he said that, Mary felt tingly from head to toe. She hated her job in the noisy restaurant. Every day the trays seemed heavier and clumsier to manage. Vic's cheery flirting at the counter had been a welcome diversion.

Vic set the bags down beside a long, empty bench and she watched him hurry to the ticket-window. How queer, she thought, just two years ago, when she left Pine Creek—it was April then, too—she had entered the city through this same station. Two years of disillusionment! Although it now seemed like an eternity ago, she could still see Mom's tear-filled eyes.

"Aw, mom, you know I love you," Mary had said then. "Gee, Mom, you're swell. Roger, too. But, after all, I don't want to settle down and be a farmer's wife. I want to go dancing and see good shows and have fun."

Then the local train puffed in. As Mary reached for her luggage Mom grabbed her and held her tight in her arms.

"Don't you worry about me now, Mom. I'll write."

Then Mom had tucked a spray of purple lilac in the strap of the suitcase—"So you'll not be forgetting the lilac tree."

Mary smiled. She was remembering how she had called even the tiniest shrub a lilac-tree. Someone came and sat close to her. Vic, it was, with the tickets in his hand. "What are you grinning about?" he asked. "Oh, nothing," she answered. "I was just remembering." She wouldn't try to explain. He would never understand.

He let it go at that. He laid his arm across her shoulders, drew her close, while his pudgy fingers kept squeezing her arm. His lips almost touched hers.

"Kiss me, Baby," he urged, with a possessive glint in his steely blue eyes. Mary shrank back. How bloated his face looked in daylight. Strange that never before had she realized the fullness of his lips. She pushed him back with a quiver of uneasiness—why, this was the man she had promised to marry.

"Oh, not here, Vic," she pleaded.

"Not afraid of me, are you? Better not be!" His voice sounded sarcastic—or was that a threat?

Mary turned her face away, trying to ignore him. She noticed a woman who had entered the depot. The woman carried an armful of hauntingly sweet lilacs. She brushed past Mary. One spray fell near her.

"Vic," she said, touching his coat sleeve. "Pick up that lilac for me, wont' you?"

He looked at her in amazement, then kicked it away contemptuously. "You're crazy. That weed! Why would you want that?" he asked. "Just you wait. I'll get you roses, a roomful of red roses."

She reached and picked up the bruised flower. Its fragrance lingered. She was silent so long that Vic spoke impatiently.

"What's wrong? You're not like my girl at all this morning. That silly old flower not sore about it, are you?"

Mary did not answer. She was seeing lilac-trees, purple and white, all in bloom back home. She could almost smell their sweetness. Vic swore under his breath. Startled, Mary turned to him. A swarthy man, with hat pulled low, was approaching them. His face was vaguely familiar.

"Who is he, Vic?" Mary whispered, as she tried to recollect where or if she had met him. Vic paid no attention to her. Instead he spoke sharply to the man.

"What's the big idea, following me here? Didn't I tell everyone to lay low? I meant it. Mary and me are going away to- going away to be hitched."

Mary noticed uneasily how he hesitated as he spoke. The stranger's eyes shifted to Mary. She caught a glimpse of a scar high on one cheek, of shifty, dark eyes.

Something clicked. That picture in last night's paper. The column about another hold-up. Mary shivered—like when someone dropped a lump of snow down her back when she was a kid.

Then—"It's like this, boss—" He was whispering something in Vic's ear. "Boss". Startled, Mary tried to listen closer.

Vic swore again. His voice was harsh. "No!" he shouted.

Mary shivered. She looked around, hoping no one heard him.

"Listen, Baby," he said, turning to her. "I've got some business, some mighty important business to tend to. You wait here. I'll be back, pronto."

Mary watched them step into a large flashy car. At first she was frightened. Then there was no feeling in her body but a queer numbness. Only her brain stirred. It was clearing, like a mist rising after sunrise.

As if looking into a kaleidoscope, all the separate pieces slipped into a pattern, no longer rose-colored—now something brown and drab and ugly.

She thought of Vic's promises. Beautiful clothes, night clubs, a gay party somewhere every night. She thought of Mom, darling Mom, and of quiet, trustworthy Roger still waiting for her to change her mind and come back to him. She hesitated.

People hurried in and out of the station. Mary looked at her wristwatch and wondered if the morning milk-train still ran to Pine Creek. She went to the station door and looked down the street. Vic would be back any minute now.

Suddenly she grabbed up her grey tweed bag and almost ran to the ticket window. There were only two ahead of her. Breathlessly she asked the agent about the train to Pine Creek.

"Yes Ma'am! In three minutes, better hurry." he said as he stamped her ticket.

Clutching the bit of paper in her fingers when he handed it to her, all of a sudden she felt as if she had been running through a dark dense forest and had that minute stepped out into the warm clean sunlight.

Wheat Crop Shows High Protein Content

Grain Commissioners Report Early Samples Of 1947 Higher Than Last Year

WINNIPEG.—The protein content of early run samples of this year's wheat is 15.1 per cent according to a report issued by the Board of Grain Commissioners Laboratory. This figure is 1.3 per cent points higher than the mean for last year and almost reaches the record high of 15.2 per cent obtained at about the same time in 1941. The mean protein content for Canadian hard red spring wheat over the last 20 years is 13.6 per cent.

The results are based on analyses of 1,396 samples grading No. 1 Northern to No. 4 Special, drawn from almost every section of Manitoba, most of Saskatchewan excepting the north-eastern districts and the southern part of Alberta.

To date, over half of the samples tested are over 15 per cent protein and about a fifth of them are over 17 per cent. It is likely, however, that the average value will be reduced by at least 0.5 per cent as more samples are received from low protein areas. The number of samples tested and the mean protein values for each province are:

	No. of samples	1947	1946
Manitoba	[illegible]	[illegible]	13.2
Saskatchewan	999	[illegible]	13.8
Alberta	121	14.4	13.2
Western Canada	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]

Areas of high protein (over 15 per cent) are in western and north-western Saskatchewan. The remaining area are mostly medium protein with a few low protein patches in Manitoba.

National Immunization Week To Be Observed

TORONTO. — Dr. Nelles Silverthorne, chairman of the Health League of Canada's National Immunization Committee, has announced that the Dominion's fifth annual National Immunization Week will be observed during the week of October 5, next.

This annual national observance is designed to draw attention to the fact that certain communicable diseases which are still taking toll among the nation's children, are largely preventable. National Immunization Week is just another means of emphasizing to the general public something they should know already: that toxoid prevents diphtheria, that whooping cough vaccine prevents whooping cough, and that vaccination prevents smallpox.

The Week is sponsored by the Health League in co-operation with departments of health throughout the nation.

Higher Wheat Prices Coming!

The Government announces that Parliament next January will be asked to raise wheat prices to farmers, and retroactive on the 1945 and 1946 crops. We hope that Parliament, in justice to our farmers, will increase prices sufficiently high.

The Searle Grain Company is justly proud that the long and strenuous crusade it has made for much higher prices for farmers has proved to be at least partly successful.

SEARLE GRAIN COMPANY, LTD.

A record Canadian tobacco crop is expected this year according to The Financial Post. It may amount to 114,300,000 lb., an increase of approximately five million lb. over the previous 1946 record.

"CECIL"

(A TRUE HUMAN INTEREST STORY OF A PET ROBIN)

To begin with, it was a wonder that "Cecil" (apologies to 'Right Around Home, but the name seemed appropriate) was ever hatched, as his mother was a "flighty" type and found it difficult to stay on the nest for any length of time, flying off at the slightest excuse.

As it was, only two of the four eggs hatched and these two fledglings were practically fed single handed by "Pa Robin".

Just what happened next was never known but long before the proper time the nest was vacated and "Cecil" was found alone, hungry and half perished from exposure in my baby son's play-yard. Cecil's exterior covering at this time consisted only of pin feathers located on the extreme tips of his wings and the other extreme tip.

After being rescued from the outside world with its many enemies of bird life, Cecil was placed in a half-bushel basket near a gas radiant. The next problem was—just what to feed him and how much. Earthworms were plentiful (so it seemed to me then) and much to my later regret, they became his diet. As to quantity, nature has a wonderful way of letting you know that enough is enough, the bird simply eats until he falls asleep. But boy—how he could eat! Already worms were getting scarce as the weather was dry, and my back was getting sore.

As time passed Cecil became quite fat and strong and his plumage began to look like it should so I figured he had better get acquainted with the great outdoors . . . We placed him outside in an apple box covered with wire screen. Also about this time he was eating enormous quantities of worms so we supplemented his diet with bread and milk.

After a day or so of this outside life we figured we would appeal to the maternal instincts of some other robins, so we placed Cecil in the midst of another family of birds and let nature take its course.

It didn't work —24 hours later we found the orphan squawking out his woes to the world while perched on a pile of lumber, a tempting morsel to any wandering feline . . . Once more we got the old fork out to dig! All the gardens in the neighborhood were well cultivated but due to the dry season worms were very scarce — (Cecil could do away with from 8 to 12 big fat earthworms four or five times a day!).

Shortly after this escapade Cecil 'found his wings' and how he loved to show off, but would always come when called, and much to my joy and relief he found how to forage for himself. "About now we were doubtful of our choice of a name, for being fully feathered we could see that our Cecil was a sleek little female and "he" should actually be called Cecile. However, Cecil stuck!

Cecil was very obliging toward our young son, at the risk of indigestion or whatever robins get, he would graciously accept small pieces of dirt and grass as though he were receiving the choicest worm. Several times a day he would fly up on our step and beg for bits of bread . . . just to let us know that he was still around.

It was about this time that we had a series of severe hail storms but to Cecil the solution was simple. After every storm we would find him safe and sound under our back step.

As show-offs generally come a cropper once in a while, so did Cecil. how, we don't know, but he was forcibly grounded by an injured wing so made, his headquarters under the caragana hedge near our back door. It was while he was thus indisposed that three youths came to see him, unwittingly accompanied by a so-called bird-dog.

Upon coming into the yard the boys called Cecil, and, as always, he came out only to fall an easy victim to the dog. By this time the lads realized what was happening and rescued what was left of him—a sorry looking sight! Tail half gone, head all skinned and bleeding and the injured wing dragged badly, even his voice was scared out of him and he did not 'talk' for almost a week. It was back into the box for Cecil.

After two weeks of being grounded Cecil took off into the air once more and the day after this he seemed to figure that he had better return to the natural so the next place we saw him was in the midst of about a dozen other young robins of all sizes and hues. Cecil was easily discernible by his nondescript tail. Upon trying to coax him to come to us it seemed that he was loath to fly with the bunch but was unable to combat his natural instincts.

It has been two months now since we last saw "our bird" but a very definite reminder occurred just last week when my young son looked under our back step calling "Dick, Dick!"

Wildmere Winks

Mr. and Mrs. Palmer from California are visiting Mr. and Mrs. J. Bathe of Basswood. In the early days Mr. Palmer homesteaded in the Wildmere district and he still owns his farm which he rents to J. Bathe. He and his family lived on it until proved up then they moved to California. We are all pleased to see them come and visit us again. They made the trip by car but are not used to muddy roads such as ours so cannot get about as much as they would like to.

Speaking about mud!—We don't think the country roads are near as muddy as those streets in Vermilion.

An old saying goes that you have to tear down to build up improvements and in time those muddy streets will be levelled and gravelled again we hope.

Steve Tiinger of Basswood is the first one to lay his potatoes [illegible] in our neck of the woods.

We are pleased to hear that three of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Smith's children are now going to school. They drive over to Mrs. Dave Hughes and then go with her to school. Mrs. Hughes teaches at [illegible] school.

Here is news [illegible] us from the coast. Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Mills of Vancouver, Mr. and Mrs. L. [illegible] Mr. and [illegible] of Calgary who were holidaying at the coast spent a very pleasant afternoon visiting Mr. and Mrs. [illegible] New Westminster. [illegible] their conversation all agreed that Wildmere, Vermilion and surrounding districts were [illegible] fine people [illegible] year that Mr. and Mrs. Miller spent a month in Wildmere when they visited their aunt and uncle Mr. and Mrs. Adam Smith. They liked the people very much. Thanks Mr. and Mrs. Miller for your interest in our district and paper.

Take note folks. Mr. and Mrs. Emil Batke will hold their wedding dance in Basswood school on Friday night Sept 19th. Everyone welcome so plan to attend and give the young couple a pleasant send off for a long happy life together.

On Sunday evening the [illegible] had a birthday supper for her brother Laurence Graham [illegible] Adam Smith were supper guests. Adam and Laurence have birthdays close together so the cake was [illegible] between them. As Adam said [illegible] cake! A very pleasant evening was enjoyed listening to Adam tell about his trip to the States [illegible] wet weather got its share of attention too!

Threshing has been delayed again by this spell of wet weather. Everything seems to be against the [illegible] old farmers this year. What with Packers' strikes and by the time it's settled the railroad will likely be off. But we mustn't let all this get us low, wear a smile and you'll get back [illegible] way. How lucky Mr. Hartley and M. McGinnis are to be threshed out before this wet spell set in.

Say folks! [illegible] the butcher shop yet.

A Rural Housing Project

THE NEED FOR IMPROVING HOUSING, educational and recreational facilities in rural communities in Western Canada has long been recognized, since in none of these respects does the average farmer enjoy the advantages offered to those who live in towns and cities. The fact that living conditions in urban communities are more attractive has rightly been assumed to be the cause of many enterprising young people leaving the farms and seeking work in urban centres where they can have more modern homes, send their children to larger schools, and enjoy wider cultural and recreational advantages. It is generally agreed that it is most unjust that farmers who contribute so much to the well being of the entire country, should not live and work in surroundings as attractive as those in the larger towns and cities. This matter has received the attention of governments, agricultural organizations and other interested bodies for many years, and in numerous farm communities great improvements have been made in educational facilities and in providing recreational and cultural opportunities for residents of all age groups.

* * * * *

Standards To Be Improved

It appears now that constructive action is being taken to raise the standards for farm homes in Western Canada. In this connection it has recently been announced that under the Prairie Rural Housing Committee, which includes representatives of the Federal Department of Agriculture and the Central Housing and Mortgage Corporation, research will be done on improving housing conditions for Western Canadian farm families. Research teams from the Universities of Saskatchewan, Alberta and Manitoba are now studying such problems as water and heating systems, methods of sewage disposal and construction materials and costs. At the University of Manitoba work is being carried on in connection with the planning and design of farm homes, farm kitchens, and community centres to meet the needs of rural districts. Farm men and women are being consulted for suggestions and ideas in connection with these studies and it is reported that keen interest is being shown in the planning of homes provided with equipment, storage space and other facilities which will lighten the work of the farm family and give more pleasant surroundings in which to live.

* * * * *

Study Needs Of Western Farms

Professor J. A. Russell, director of the School of Architecture and Fine Arts at the University of Manitoba, announced recently that the budget allocated for the entire project in the year ending March 31st, 1948, is $32,925. It has been arranged that each Western province will bear about 15 per cent. of this expenditure, while the Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation will pay the remaining 55 per cent. It is expected that the project will not be completed for two years, but interim plans will be made available to farmers to meet what is termed a "tremendous need." As is the case with all types of housing in Canada at the present time, there has been a minimum of construction of farm homes during the past few years due to the critical shortage of labor and materials. By the time it is possible for any extensive building program to be undertaken in rural districts it appears that plans will be available for homes suitable to the needs of the Western farmer, and that no longer will prairie farm homes be built from plans more suited to city houses or to eastern Canadian farms.

Michigan Has Good Word For Canada

The Flint, (Michigan) Journal has this to say: In Canada women drivers do not take advantage of men drivers because of sex, nor do you see old "jalopies" filled with speed-crazy "teen-agers" who dash about endangering the lives of pedestrians and other motorists. The police do not snarl at you from the corner of their mouth when asked a question, but are very courteous and kind to visitors as are the people also. If you want to meet kindly, friendly people and a bright sunny land, then spend your vacation in Canada.

Two Gadgets That Never Relaxed

The old seamen of pre-radar days were exceedingly well trained in two of the greatest gadgets known to navigation. They could see often what the electric impulses of radar might not see and hear what radar could never hear. They never relaxed, never had a chance to relax. For one minute's relaxation might mean the end.

We refer to eyes and ears. They didn't get a chance to rust. We may be paying a price for counting too much on instruments that can quit on us without warning.

HOG MARKETINGS SHOW UPWARD TREND

The hog market during the first seven months of 1947 has been characterized by an upward trend and less variation in weekly prices as compared with 1946, says the Current Review of Agricultural Conditions in Canada. Slightly more than 2.5 million hogs were slaughtered under inspection from January to July [illegible] 1947. This is a reduction of 5.4 per cent from the slaughter of the corresponding period of 1946. The 21 per cent increase in Eastern Canada stands in contrast to the 28 per cent decrease in the West. Eastern weekly slaughterings in 1947 have surpassed those for corresponding weeks of 1946 since the end of April. In the West, the 1947 weekly slaughter exceeded the bill for the corresponding weeks in 1946 by the middle of July. However, once the [illegible] three [illegible] is not sufficient [illegible] whether this tendency is likely to continue in Western Canada.

Chili Restricts Luxury Exports From Canada

MONTREAL. — Mariano Bustos, Chilean consul-general here, announced that because of shrinking dollar reserves his country is imposing temporary prohibition on a wide range of "luxury" imports from Canada. The restrictive decree will expire Dec. 31.

Among products and manufactures affected by the decree are industrial, commercial and domestic refrigerators, gas and electric heaters, pottery, glassware, lumber, hunting and fishing equipment, some textiles, domestic radios, builders' hardware, plumbing supplies, cutlery, flour-milling machinery, footwear, dyes, perfumes and toothpaste.

Heavy machinery, agricultural implements, newsprint, rubber and chemical products are not affected by the decree, Mr. Bustos said.

Memorial Edition Of Jack Miner's Book

All followers of the life of the late Jack Miner and his career as a bird lover, naturalist, conservationist and humanitarian will be interested to learn that the Jack Miner Foundation have recently persuaded the Reilly-Lee Pub. Co. of Chicago, and the Copp Clark Co. of Toronto, to bring out for the public's interest a new enlarged Memorial Edition of the book entitled Jack Miner And The Birds. They have combined his two books entitled Jack Miner And The Birds and Jack Miner On Current Topics with 20 of Jack Miner's most famous magazine and newspaper articles sandwiched in between, making it a very large edition of several hundred pages. It is quite appropriate that it be called the memorial edition.

Orders have flooded the publishers' offices before the book was actually off the press, which is only evidence of how popular Jack Miner's writings and life work was as he lived among his fellowmen of his generation. The late Jack Miner was not considered a naturalist from a scientific standpoint. Jack Miner said himself "he was not interested so much in the number of spots on a woodpecker's tail as he was in saving that and other species from extermination."

The late Governor Alfred Smith of the State of New York always introduced Jack Miner "as the Billy Sunday for the bird family." The late Irvin S. Cobb always referred to Jack Miner "as the greatest practical naturalist on the planet," while Edgar A. Guest, the Detroit poet, always spoke of him as the best loved Christian in America. Thousands of such tributes have been made about the world famous naturalist both while he was living and since he passed on. His own personal writings now contained in the new enlarged memorial edition of Jack Miner and the Birds tells why he gained the respect and honor of the men and women of not only this continent but the entire world.

Some Strange Laws In United States

The Brandon Sun says: Every dog may have his day, but the legal rights of a dog seem to depend on whether the laws were made by friends or foes of the canines. In Colorado Springs, Colo., a court ruled that a dog is entitled to one bite. But out in Pasadena, Calif., you cannot keep a dog that barks, the law says. These are two of the unusual animal laws discovered by Fred Meyer, "answer man" at the Lincoln park zoo, Chicago. Here are some other animal laws reported by Mr. Meyer. Bullfrogs and cottontail rabbits are protected in Hayden, Ariz. It is against the law to disturb them. California law requires a hunting license to set a trap for a mouse. A Colorado law forbids angling for trout while on horseback.

Paints Portraits Of V.C. Winners

Likenesses of the R.C.A.F.'s two Victoria Cross winners of the last war have been completed in water color by air force artist Flt.-Lieut. Paul A. Goranson. Painting of one of the V.C. winners, Flt.-Lieut. David E. Hornell of Mimico, is shown here.

P.O. Andrew Charles Mynarski of Winnipeg, shown here, is the other V.C.-winning airman. Both fliers lost their lives in the actions in which they won their V.C.'s. The paintings were done from photographs.

Alberta Highway Work Well Ahead

An ambitious program of $13,000,000 worth of road construction in 98 separate projects is one-third completed in Alberta, according to a statement by Hon. W. A. Fallow, minister of public works for the province. Far ahead of the budgets allocated by either Manitoba or Saskatchewan, the Alberta spending program was designed to restore the transcontinental highways and rebuild the main networks of subsidiary roads.

Included in the work now nearing completion is the paving of a long section of the Lethbridge-Medicine Hat highway. Other incomplete projects are all advanced to the 50 per cent stage or better, and the minister stated that the whole program was expected to be completed on schedule this year "if we have an average run in the weather."—Canadian Finance.

FIRST CANADIAN MOTHER VISITS DUTCH CEMETERY

WINNIPEG. — Believed to be the first Canadian mother to visit cemeteries at Nijmegen, Holland, and Adegnem, Belgium, Mrs. W. R. Dilworth of Pincher Creek, Alta., is visiting relatives here en route back to her home.

She found the pilgrimage far from lonely and she said that people she had met on the trip had been unable to do enough for her.

Added Mrs. Dilworth: "I can tell every Canadian mother who lost a son [illegible] pleasant the stretches of green grass are, with flowers and bushes between the graves. Each metal cross is painted white, and bears the boy's name and identification number."

First bereavement came for Mrs. Dilworth, September 12, 1944, when her son, James Robert, 27, was killed. Herman Clifton, 23, another son, was killed the following December 18.

WEDDINGS

SABOURIN—de BREVILLE

A wedding of interest to Vermilion and district took place on Tuesday morning, Sept. 9th in St. Joachim's Catholic church at Edmonton, when Miss Evelynn de Breville, daughter of the late Roger de Breville and foster-daughter of Mrs. R. Culford of Lloydminster, was united in marriage to Mr. Philippe Sabourin of 11204-100 Ave., Edmonton.

The bride, who was given in marriage by his Honor Chief Justice Dubuc, a family friend of long standing, was gowned in a dress of white lace and marquisette fashioned with tight fitting bodice and long flowing skirt with inset of lace. Her hip-length veil was caught to a little dutch cap of lace to match the dress. Her bouquet was a French nosegay of pink roses. The bridesmaid, Miss Lucille Turcotte, a niece of the groom, was attired in pale blue satin with small dutch cap to match, trimmed with yellow daisies and she carried a bouquet of yellow blossoms. Mr. Robert Sabourin, the groom's nephew, was best man and the ushers were Mr. Bernard Chenier and Mr. Leo Sabourin.

Upwards of sixty guests attended the reception at the home of the bridegroom's parents on 100 Ave. His Honor Justice Dubuc proposed the health and future happiness of the young couple and was suitably replied to by the groom.

DOREY—SEMENIUK

At an evening ceremony on August [illegible]th at All Saints Cathedral, Edmonton, Pearl, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Semeniuk exchanged nuptial vows with Gilbert E. R. Dorey, second son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Dorey of Clandonald. The Rev. R. S. Faulks officiated. Gladioli and sweet peas formed the floral setting.

Escorted to the altar by her father who gave her in marriage, the bride wore a gown of white brocaded satin, the full-tiered skirt terminating in a train. The bodice featured a sweetheart neckline and long tapering sleeves. Her full-length embroidered veil billowed from a coronet of pearl and silver beads. She carried a bouquet of red roses and her jewelry was a matching set of earrings and necklace of pearls, gift of the groom.

The bridesmaid, Miss Winnifred Nettleton, was attired in a floor length dress of pale blue net over satin with a sweetheart halo and shaped veil to match. Her bouquet was composed of pink carnations and fern.

Mr. Wilfred Etherington was best man and Mr. Clare Johnson and Mr. Frank Holub were ushers. The organist Mr. Vernon Barford played the wedding marches.

While the register was being signed Mr. Leo Strasbourg sang "The Lord's Prayer".

A reception was held at the Cottage Tea Room where Mrs. Semeniuk and Mrs. Dorey assisted in receiving the guests. The newlyweds left later for a motor trip to Jasper, Banff and Lake Louise. To travel the bride chose a black and white ensemble.

TORRIE—KIRBY

Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Kirby announce the marriage of their daughter Marion Jean Kirby to Robert MacIntyre Torrie, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Torrie, all of Westlock. The wedding took place at St. Stephen's College Chapel, Thursday, September 4th. The Rev. E. J. Thompson performed the ceremony.

Boys Rescue Calf in Woodvale District

(Extract from Woodvale News)

When a newly born calf could not be found on the Van Wassningen [?] farm in the Woodvale district southeast of Vermilion, it was presumed to be dead as the mother did not miss it when taken home to be milked. Bud Heidebrecht a member of the household this fall went to investigate after school the next day and was accompanied by Tommy Lysons.

Sure enough — the boys found the tiny calf after considerable scouting but they could not catch it until it came to the spot where it was born, here the little fellow stopped and sniffed around and let the boys catch hold of him. What to do next was the puzzle. The calf was small and very tired after its run around, it had had no drink for 24 hours, rain was threatening and it would soon be dark. Not to be outdone the two 13-year old boys made a stretcher from two poles, tying their coats and extra riding pants between them. They then laid the calf on it and started to carry it home. This proved no easy task. The calf objected, sticking his feet through the openings in the stretcher dangling his head down and generally proving a trying passenger. The road was very hilly and the two saddle ponies had to be led as well, one objecting very much to being a part of the procession. On the top of the first steep hill the boys re-arranged their litter tying a gunny sack in front to hold the calf's head up and tying coats and pants more securely with belts and watch chains. Disciplining the one recalcitrant horse came next and from then on the two youngsters carried their heavy burden for two hours until they reached the nearest farm house well over a mile away. Here Clarence Lysons loaded the little calf into his truck and brought it and a very tired and hungry Bud home. Much praise and many thanks go to Bud and Tommy for their ingenuity and perseverance, as the calf would not have survived the stormy and rainy night in the open without food. The calf is fine now and looks contentedly from his warm pen at his young rescuer who naturally enough takes a special interest in the little animal.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Macnab Observe Golden Wedding

A remarkable tribute was paid to Mr. and Mrs. William J. Macnab on Sunday September 21st, the occasion of their Golden Wedding, when 266 old and new friends called on them to pay their respects on the memorable day. The good will evidenced by so many was an outstanding tribute to the sterling characters and qualities displayed throughout their 41 years in the district by this pioneer couple, qualities of neighborliness and kindness, of initiative and industriousness. Mr. and Mrs. Macnab have always been true Britishers, their loyalty to Canada and the British Empire knows no bounds, and they sincerely believe that our way of life and our country are superior to any in the world.

The reception in honor of the 50th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Macnab was held at the home of their son Mr. and Mrs. Brenton Macnab on Sunday September 21st. As previously stated 266 visitors signed the guest book during the afternoon and evening.

During the afternoon Mr. Chas. W. Robinson proposed the toast to the bride and groom of 50 years ago. Mr. Hume, student minister of the district spoke briefly, and Mr. Macnab thanked all for their kind wishes. A great many presentations of beautiful gifts were made. Mrs. Barbara Hill rendered two vocal solos, one to Mrs. Macnab, "The Rosary" and the other a favorite of Mr. Macnab, "Road to the Isles."

Presiding at the tea [illegible] also were Mrs. W. H. Duncan, Mrs. I. Winters, Mrs. I. Larson and Mrs. W. P. Pilkie. Miss Georgia Macnab was in charge of the guest book. Receiving with the honored couple were the host and hostess, Mr. and Mrs. Brenton Macnab.

Mr. and Mrs. Macnab were married in Vancouver on September 21st, 1897. The ceremony took place in a friend's home on the corner of Broughton and Robson streets. Mr. Macnab at that time was employed by the Canadian Pacific Railway and worked out of Revelstoke. Mrs. Macnab, then Miss Georgia Connacher, lived at Golden, B.C.

They resided in southern British Columbia until 1905 when they came to Edmonton and then to Vermilion. Mr. Macnab's first trip to this section of the country was by barge when he, in company with a friend, freighted a raft of groceries down the Saskatchewan river to Hewitt's Landing. They then freighted the supplies across country some forty miles to Lloydminster.

The fall of 1905 however found he and Mrs. Macnab and son Brent, encamped on the old village site of Vermilion, their tent being pitched on what is now the town park. That winter was spent in the tent but during that time a log house was built on the present Parkview auto property. A small building which now serves as Robinson and Mitchell's real estate office was erected and a store opened. Mr. Macnab went on to build a large two-storey store on the corner and this remained until destroyed by fire about 1922. This was the only general store to escape the town-wide fire of 1918.

However, the Macnab's stayed in the store business for just 16 months. They were greatly attracted by the beauty of the country around Vermilion and in 1906 they filed on their present home quarter. They were soon farming in earnest, cattle were purchased and more land bought, and they have farmed very successfully throughout the intervening years. They have spent many winters at various west coast points and have always derived pleasure from their work and recreation.

Mr. Macnab was a member of the original village council of Vermilion and was on that governing body when the town was incorporated in the fall of 1906. Old timers will also recall that he was the first and only man to discover gold in Vermilion.

Mr. and Mrs. Macnab have one son Brent and two grandchildren, Georgia, now a student of Pharmacy at the University of Alberta and Brent Jr., student at the Vermilion high school and an outstanding hockey and baseball player with Vermilion senior clubs.

Prominent among the visitors on the occasion of the Golden Wedding were several old timers who had also spent upwards of 40 years in Vermilion or district and had known Mr. and Mrs. Macnab over those years.

Civil Aviation Official Lauds Vermilion Field

Mr. K. Saunders, Inspector of Civil Aviation, Dept. of Transport, paid a brief visit to the Vermilion airfield last Thursday while flying from Edmonton to Battleford. They encountered very bad weather after commencing the flight and visibility was almost zero so that the Vermilion air strip was a very welcome sight to Mr. Saunders who praised the landing field and pointed out its great value to air traffic in general. On this occasion the field again proved its value as an emergency landing field to larger type aircraft, in this case a twin engine Anson which would be almost impossible to land in ordinary fields, especially when wet and with poor visibility.

Cattle shippings from Vermilion amounted to 28 cars during the month of August and 1 carload was sent from Claysmore. Other carloads shipped from here were: hogs, 5; horses, 2; wheat 2; oats 1; effects 1. Claysmore also shipped a car of wheat and Borradaile a car of hogs.

Fifty nine cars of oil were shipped from the Vermilion refinery while W. H. Wiebe loaded 4 cars of flour for export.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lyle (nee Doris Lipsey) returned last week end from a wedding trip to Banff and Calgary. They left again Wednesday for their new home at Manning in Northern Alberta where Mr. Lyle is manager of the Canadian Bank of Commerce.

MAYOR TURNS SWITCH WEDNESDAY EVENING

The new 25,000 pound water tube boiler took over at the Canadian Utilities plant here Wednesday evening under the watchful eyes of representatives of the boiler company, Canadian Utilities officials and engineers, the mayor and council of Vermilion, the local press and other interested spectators.

The installation of the new boiler was recently completed at a cost of some $44,000.

With the new boiler under steam the three engines in the plant can all be operated at once and the combined generating capacity is 800 kilowatts. All electricity not used in the town goes out on the Canadian Utilities line and bolsters the power between Lloydminster and Vegreville. It is the intention to operate the plant to capacity for this purpose.

After some experimenting and trials during Wednesday afternoon, Mayor Morrison turned the switch at 6:30 Wednesday evening that officially launched the big new boiler on its regular duty.

MRS. I. PINCHBECK PASSES AWAY

Vermilion and district mourned the passing of another pioneer Sunday when Mrs. Jessie Pinchbeck, widow of the late Isaac Pinchbeck, passed away at the age of 90 years and 10 days. She had been ill for the past month.

She leaves to mourn her loss a daughter, Mrs. J. Gordon Wilson of Dawson Creek; one son, A. E. Pinchbeck of Vermilion; a sister and a brother in England, and a brother and sister in Cortland, New York. There are two grandchildren and two great grandchildren.

Funeral services were conducted by the Rev. W. G. Brant at St. Saviour's Anglican church on Wednesday Sept. 24th at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon. Moyer Bros. were in charge. A complete obituary will appear next week.

High School Graduates Follow Varied Careers

When the University of Alberta opened this week for the 1947-48 session, four Vermilion high school graduates started their careers and one her final year, with that institution. Allan Wells and Alec Morrison who distinguished themselves this June by getting averages of over 7[illegible] in a full grade twelve course of [illegible] subjects are starting a four year course in the Faculty of Agriculture. The same determination and diligence which carried these two successfully through grade 12 should bring them even better results at the University where the competition is keener. Jean Robson whose grade 12 average of over 85% won her a "Friend of the University" bursary and also one from the Provincial government, is starting a three year course towards a Bachelor of Commerce degree. Georgia Macnab will be working for a Pharmacy degree after having spent over a year's apprenticeship at this profession in Long's drug store. Effie Korolub is in her fourth and final year of a Bachelor of Education course preparatory to a career as a high school teacher.

Many of the other graduates of last year's grade 12 have found themselves jobs with local business firms or with firms in neighboring towns. Eight or nine of them can be seen in the bank, the Treasury branch, the school division office, and the stores and the offices about town. At least two are in training to become nurses, two will be at the school of agriculture when it opens this fall, four are com[illegible]

Legion Highlights

The rain has definitely been against us as it has with everyone else in the district. We had hoped to have made a good start on our new building by this time but work has been held up for the past two weeks as a result of the adverse weather conditions. However [illegible] as soon as it clears up and we think that should be soon, work will commence. The steel girders and the brick tile arrived some time ago so there is no shortage of materials to cause delay. In our next week's Highlights we feel sure that we will be able to report a definite start on the building.

The Legion will be holding a church parade on Sunday Oct. 12th at the Salvation Army hall with Adj. Stewart in charge. We are looking forward to the same good turn out that was on hand for our recent decoration day service. A parade will be formed up and it is hoped that the army reserve and air cadets will cooperate with us in this parade as well as they have in the past.

Our Sadie Hawkins day dance held on the 19th of this month was a great success. There was a good turn out and everyone seemed to have enjoyed themselves. Music was good and once again the ladies did a splendid job of looking after the lunch end of the dance.

Amateur Night is Planned for Dewberry

A mammoth amateur night will be held at the Dewberry hall, Dewberry, under the auspices of the Dewberry United church ladies aid, on Friday night Oct. 10th. The program commences at 8:30 p.m.

Competition is divided into several classes including senior contests, vocal, instrumental, elocution; with the same for junior contestants. There are also classes for choirs, acrobatics and dramatics and a pre-school class.

All entries should be in the hands of Mrs. Elsie M. Porter, Dewberry, not later than October 8th. 18-19

Golden Wedding Celebrated by Islay Couple

Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Hancock celebrated their Golden Wedding anniversary on Sept. 22nd at the ages of 77 and 75 years.

A family re-union was held for the anniversary at the home of Mr. and Mrs Garfield Midgley, their son-in-law and daughter, the evening before.

They were married 50 years ago at Whitby, Ont., and came west to Melville, Sask., in 1911 and to the district of Kitscoty, Alberta in 1916 where they farmed until 1942 when they retired. They now reside in the village of Marwayne.

Both enjoy quite good health and Mr Hancock takes an active part in church work and other social activities while Mrs Hancock does her own housework.

They have 4 sons, 2 daughters and 16 grandchildren

Many lovely and useful gifts, also cards were received from the family and friends

The anniversary table was centred by a lovely three-tiered cake, golden colored candles and flowers very attractively placed. Visiting guests were Mr L. Hancock, a son from Nanaimo B.C., Mr. and Mrs. Robert Martin of Islay, Mrs. Martin being present when Mr and Mrs Hancock were married 50 years ago; and Noel Kent of Marwayne

Christian & Mission Alliance Official Is Speaker at Chapel

Rev George Magnus acting district superintendent of the Christian and Missionary Alliance in Western Canada was guest speaker at both services at the Alliance chapel last Sunday. He sympathised with the congregation in the loss of their pastor Rev. Phillipps who has accepted a call to Revelstoke, B.C. He assured them that everything possible would be done to have a permanent pastor here soon. In the meantime he stated that he would see to it that a supply filled the pulpit every Sunday, and the services would be carried on as usual

High School Grounds Beautified

For the first time since the high school was built back in 1929 a determined effort has been made to beautify the grounds. Bill Harris who was appointed caretaker one year ago, undertook to dig and lay out flower beds and make a lawn out of the front yard. He was given a free hand and to him goes full credit for choice of flowers and for the neat and decorative appearance of the front grounds and lawn during the summer and fall. The fine display of flowers suffered during the first hard frost last week. Vermilion people have long been used to Harry Scott's fine garden at the public school but the departure is a new one at the high school and Bill is to be congratulated on the results of his first year's efforts

Daddy of Them All

Probably the daddy of all potatoes was unearthed by Jim Part Jr this week when he found one that weighed an even 3 pounds. The tuber is 14 ounces heavier than any of its competitors to date and is truly a veritable Goliath. Master Jim was rather loath to leave the big fellow on display but was finally persuaded to part with it for a few days. He had heard rumors that all exhibits of an edible nature became the property of the Standard staff and soon disappeared

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY—

GREETINGS TO GRANDMA

By HOLLY WHELAN

YOU positively couldn't, Lou reflected apprehensively, count on how children would behave in any given situation. But how she wished she might, this once, be confident of her own youngsters' perfect conduct!

Fleetingly she regretted that seven-year-old Petey, and Danny, his year-younger brother, weren't little girls. Maybe then she could anticipate their appearance in the living room in garments not resembling something that should have been donated, long ago, to a cast-off clothing collection. Perhaps she'd have had better luck at teaching two small daughters to sit politely in chairs, before company, instead of getting sudden notions to engage in a wrestling match.

But Petey and Danny were darlings! Ordinarily she wouldn't have considered exchanging one of them for even that little charmer, Margaret O'Brien. Besides, Pete Senior's parents, their letters said, were so glad they had two grandsons to carry on the family name.

Would they still feel that way after their visit to Hilltown? They hadn't ever visited the children before Pete's fatal automobile accident. They hadn't even come in those awful days immediately after. Of course they weren't young any more and it was easy to picture them too prostrated by grief to travel, as they'd written.

Lou couldn't lose the thought, though, that Pete's parents would have prefered not having Lou in the scene at all. Pete, their only son, had been just out of college when the firm he'd worked for had transfered him here. She'd been a stenographer in the Hilltown office and from the first time Pete had grinned at her and she'd grinned back they'd known it was love.

The two of them had gone alone, one Saturday afternoon, to the little church she'd attended since childhood and been married. Pete hadn't written his folks about it until later.

They'd sent back a very correct and impersonal letter. Pete'd invited them for a visit, but got only a promise to come at some indefinite future time.

Lou knew why they were making the journey now. They were realizing Pete's children were all they had left of Pete.

But they hadn't really forgotten those children were Lou's as well! They'd written, saying they were coming to Hilltown and would like to see their grandchildren. But they'd added they were going to stay with friends of theirs who'd recently moved there. Evidently they intended to appraise Pete's sons as they would a bond or a car before they committed themselves!

That made Lou furious. But she had, too, a fear that turned her shaky inside. She'd gone back to work after Pete's death. His firm had given her a secretarial job. One of her neighbors, a middle-aged widow, looked after Petey and Danny from the time school was out until Lou reached home. Her salary added to the monthly payment from Pete's insurance helped them get along comfortably.

But what would Pete's mother think of it? Lou'd come into contact, before, with people who couldn't understand the difference a few dollars made in another person's life. Probably Pete's mother would be wearing a hat that cost more than Lou made in a week.

What if the children's grandparents thought Petey and Danny weren't being reared right. What if they attempted to take them away from Lou?

Pete's parents expected to arrive Saturday, but they weren't sure of the exact hour as they were driving. They'd telephone her from their friends' home, they'd written, then come see the boys.

Lou decided the safest course was to have the children ready and waiting. She supervised the boys' baths, then left them to don the new suits she'd bought for the occasion. When she returned to inspect the final result, their room was empty

Frantically she searched the house. The boys were nowhere to be found! There was a school hike into the woods today. Petey and Danny'd raised no objection when she'd explained why they couldn't go. But they'd gone, anyway. Disobeyed her —just when Pete's parents would discover it and draw their own conclusions. And they'd gone off in their brand-new outfits! Lou shuddered, remembering the condition a hike produced in even sturdy denims.

She couldn't catch up with them now. There was absolutely nothing for her to do but sit there, hour after hour, waiting for the telephone to ring, hoping the boys would return first.

Finally the sound of the doorbell brought her to her feet. And there was Danny, poking his tumbled head around the door and calling out "Mummy!" Pressing the button was Petey! Beside him and holding on to her younger son's hands were a distinguished looking man and woman. Lou recognized them from Pete's collection of photographs. The children's grand-parents! But how had they all come together?

In the living room, she learned, Petey and Danny had travelled all the way across town to the apartment house where their grandparents' friends lived. And they'd sat on the street curb outside it, since morning, waiting for the car they were watching for to drive up, confident they'd know their grandparents from their pictures.

And their grandparents had known them "Because they're Pete all over again," Pete's father explained, smiling at Lou

"But a hundred times more polite!" their grandmother added. "I told Dad they must've had wonderful training I was never able to produce manners like theirs in Pete when he was that age" The nice way they told us how happy they were we'd come to see them at last ... well we decided we'd like nothing better than to stay as close to them as we could You don't mind our coming directly here?" They insisted you'd be glad

"Oh I am ... truly" Lou assured them

It was when she got the two boys into the kitchen that Lou dared breathe "Whatever in the world put that idea into your head?"

Danny answered first "Gosh I was worried about whether they'd like me. Then I thought maybe they were worried about whether we'd like them And going to meet them would show we did"

"And we remembered what you said about being polite" Petey put in "When you're watching us before company it always makes us nervous and self-conscious 'cause we know you're afraid we'll make a mistake. But by ourselves we just try to make people feel good Isn't that a good way to be polite, too?"

"The very best." Lou said, reinforcing her words with a hug

STUDIES IN SOIL EROSION PROVING PRESENT FARMING METHODS NOT CAUSING DAMAGE

The Dominion Experimental Station at Swift Current in addition to its usual work, has made also during the past 20 years or so, some remarkable investigations into the use of moisture by the wheat plant, reports H. G. L. Strange, research director of Searle Grain Co. Ltd. First under the direction of the late Sydney Barnes and now under the direction of the scientist Dr. J. L. Doughty, some quite unexpected and unlooked for results have been found.

One of these announced by Dr. Doughty recently at Lethbridge at the meeting of the Agricultural Institute, surprised most people. It was to the effect that the present system of farming on these prairies is not causing, as some people think, a rapid deterioration of the soil. In other words, it would appear that if water erosion and wind erosion can be controlled, that we can go on growing wheat and grains on these prairies for long, long periods of time without suffering from decline in yield per acre.

This is a comforting thing to know, because so many people think that the so-called prairie "wheat-miners" are rapidly exhausting the fertility of the soil and that in a few years these prairies will not be able to grow any more grain. So the so-called "wheat-miner", it appears, can be absolved from blame.—Canadian Finance.

Suggests Labor Day Be Observed Later In Month

Will Have The Effect Of Extending Tourist Season

OTTAWA. — The suggestion that Labor Day might be observed on the second or third Monday in September rather than on the first and thus have the effect of extending the tourist season, is contained in the monthly statement of ports of highway traffic at Canadian border points, published under the authority of Hon. James MacKinnon, minister of trade and commerce.

"The tradition of observing the first Monday of September as Labor Day will have a shortening influence on the current tourist season," the report states.

"It's postponement until a later day (for 1948), would prove most popular with the youngsters who start back to school the day after Labor Day, and with all concerned with the tourist industry

"Some of the finest weather of the year is often experienced in the early weeks of September. To crowd the vacation time of a huge number of potential travellers into three months is a strain.

"Many are disappointed. The summer bulge could [illegible] out somewhat by a greater volume in May, June and September." A later date for Labor Day would be of considerable assistance through extending the fall season the report indicates.

Compulsory Saving Refund Cheques Are Being Prepared

OTTAWA.—Government sources said the revenue department already has started work on the 1,500,000 cheques which will go out to taxpayers next spring in the first payoff of the refundable portion of the 1942 compulsory savings.

The payment is expected to total $60,000,000, collected in 1942 when the government introduced compulsory income tax savings to provide additional money for governmental expenditures and to draw off surplus purchasing power.

The payment probably will be made next March and will be non-taxable Around my house there are three ways to tell that Autumn's here. Ma starts patching winter underwear, I start a new set of records on the year's crops and everyone starts listening to Bob Hope. I don't suppose the return of the Bob Hope show to CFRN's fall programs would rank as headline news but it certainly is one of the brightest events in this house during the month of September. And I don't know but what if you figure the value of laughter as a tonic you might be able to call the Bob Hope show bigger than front page news. Seems to me that the world needs laughter, needs to take a kidding about its weaknesses once in a while and needs to get some real Bob Hope humor in its relations one with another.

At any rate, I'm personally very happy at Tuesday nights about eight o'clock. And when I hear that famous "This is Bob-broadcasting for Pepsodent Hope" come on the air I feel I'm a member of one big happy family. Yes I like my comedy fast, I like my comedy funny. And I like Bob Hope.

Air Marshall Announces Start Red Shield Appeal

MONTREAL. — "With misunderstanding multiplied in the world today the theme of Salvation Army operations—'the Understanding Heart'—is an inspired one," declared Air Marshal W. A. Bishop.

Announcing that the 1947 Red Shield Appeal would begin with special services in all Salvation Army Citadels, Air Marshal Bishop urged Canadians to contribute the funds which are "the life-blood that keeps this understanding heart throbbing with help and sympathy." National objective is $1,000,000.

Air Marshal Bishop who is chairman of The Salvation Army National Advisory Board, declared that though Army facilities were constantly expanding calls for assistance were increasingly numerous.

Few realize, the Air Marshal said, how many varied levels of human need are ranged by The Army. Some, aware of The Army's fine work in its fifteen hospitals and 71 homes and institutions, are unaware of its extensive work among prisoners in jails and penitentiaries. Likewise others, having some knowledge of its efforts to help underprivileged children and the forgotten aged, do not realize its character-building and spiritual impact on the community.

"Most Canadians realize, however, that The Salvation Army is an organization of the people, by the people for the people. Its modestly-paid officers give high-value service to the people, and it is the money given by the people that keeps The Army's ministry in motion," the Air Marshal said. "This appeal will give all an opportunity of helping The Army to help the helpless."

Shipments Start; 78 Inspected

Except for Alberta weather has slowed up carload shipments in the western region of this year's National Barley contest sponsored by the brewing and malting industries.

At Sept. 15 last year there were 126 cars shipped and inspected at the grain inspection branch in Winnipeg, 84 from Manitoba, 35 from Saskatchewan and 7 from Alberta.

On the same date this year the inspected cars totalled 78 of which 48 were from Manitoba, 19 from Saskatchewan and 11 from Alberta.

Unfortunately it has on the whole been a bad year for the barley crop. A revised list of entries in this year's contest gives a total of about 1,150. This year there are cases where contestants have had such slim yields that they have been unable to ship the minimum 1,667 bushel carload required for the contest. For this reason there may be some eliminations. Both yields and quality appear to be inferior to last year's high standard.

Frightening Children

Don't prate about your operations in the presence of young children and don't stress your sufferings, advise health authorities. This sort of thing is frightening nonsense. Visits to the doctor and the dentist are a necessary and common routine matter in this modern scientific world.

With intelligent co-operation from parents modern preventive medicine and dentistry can be made quite comfortable and interesting experiences, and the health authorities hope that to-morrow's youngsters will be brought up to understand that regular professional service of this kind is essential to preservation of physical and mental health.

FALL USHERS IN COOL WEATHER DISHES

Hearty, homespun foods are popular when the first frosts put an edge on the family appetites. The fragrance of bacon and cornbread on a chilly morning is something to awaken happy memories of days when breakfasts were meals to be reckoned with; of country kitchens with the wood crackling in the stove; of youngsters shuffling through piles of crimson leaves. People like to remember the old family traditions, but mostly they are nostalgic about the dishes mother used to make; the pies, the biscuits, the sweet pickles made from tiny cucumbers, the fried apples and similar delights. These hearty homespun foods belong to cold weather. Theirs is the job of filling up—and well they do it. Here are some stick-to-the-ribs dishes you'll remember:

Baked Corn And Sausage

- ¾ pound link or bulk sausage
- ⅓ cup chopped onion
- ⅓ cup chopped green pepper
- 2 tablespoons flour
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ⅛ teaspoon pepper
- 2½ cups whole kernel corn
- 2½ cups canned tomatoes
- 1 cup oven-popped rice cereal

If bulk sausage is used, form into shape of link sausages. Brown sausage in heavy frying pan; drain well. Brown onion and pepper in meat drippings. Add flour and seasonings and mix well. Add corn and tomatoes and simmer until juice has partially evaporated (about ½ hour). Pour into casserole; arrange browned sausages on top like the spokes of a wheel. Sprinkle rice cereal over top. Bake in moderately hot oven (400 deg. F.) about 15 minutes. Yield: 6-8 servings (1½ quart casserole).

Breaded Pork Chops

- 1 egg, slightly beaten
- 1 tablespoon water
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 4 pork chops
- 3 cups corn flakes
- 2 tablespoons fat

Beat together egg, water and salt. Dip pork chops in egg mixture, then in corn flakes which have been crushed into fine crumbs, repeat. Brown on both sides in hot fat. Cover and cook over low heat about 30 minutes. Yield 4 servings. 2743

Finds Magnetic Pole Moved 200 Miles In 20 Years

OTTAWA.—With the North Magnetic Pole tucked away in its place for another year, scientists can go back to their magnetic charts and figure out what it means to world navigation.

A youthful field worker of the Dominion conservatory, Paul H. Serson, 23, of Ottawa, flew back to the capital with the information that the pole has shifted some 200 miles north in the last 50 years, and now revolves around Somerset and Prince of Wales Islands in Canada's Arctic—roughly centred at latitude 73 north, longitude 96 west. This is almost directly north of Churchill, about 1,000 miles south of the true North Pole.

SEEK DATA IN ARCTIC

The first Arctic expedition since the war recently sailed from London to Jan Mayen, a bleak wind-swept island off the east coast of Greenland. The party will retrieve and examine recording instruments left there 10 years ago to register the effects of cosmic rays.

DON'T GIVE UP TOO EASILY

In view of the large number of drowning fatalities that have been reported this year, the advice of Dr Gordon Bates of the Health League of Canada is worth the attention of all. Too often, Dr. Bates declares, artificial respiration has not been continued long enough to be certain that life is extinct. As a result, it is only fair to conclude, some unfortunate victims have been given up for dead when their lives might have been saved by continued effort.

Any one who has had experience with the rescue of drowning casualties can recall instances in which unconscious persons have been revived after almost every one present had given up hope. Dr. Bates himself points to cases of successful resuscitation in which the victim had been under water for nearly half an hour before being rescued. The fact underlines the importance of continuing artificial respiration as long as the slightest hope for recovery remains.

Applying artificial respiration requires the expenditure of more physical effort than is generally credited. It is not hard to understand the discouragement that follows when, after many long minutes of hard work, the victim shows no sign of life—no pulse, no heart beat, no eye reflex. But the knowledge that life can be saved after as long as four hours of artificial respiration should keep rescuers working, in relays, until the onset of rigor mortis proves that death has, indeed, won.

Any one vacationing near water would do well to remember Dr Bate's three essentials for reviving drowning victims. They are:

1. Clear the air passage by pulling out tongue and any other obstruction.
2. Apply artificial respiration (preferably the Schaeffer method).
3. Keep artificial respiration up for at least four hours, or until rigor mortis sets in.

ORDINARY PREJUDICES GOVERNED BY SIGHT

Did you ever think of the curious fact that if you were blind, you would have to get someone to tell you the race of most individuals you might meet—assuming, of course, that there was nothing in their speech to give a hint of any difference in race? The fact is that a great many of the ordinary prejudices that divide the human family would disappear if the gift of sight were suddenly taken from us.

DROPPED IN TRANSIT

FORT WAYNE, Ind. — When a farmer found a woman's purse in his wheat field police were afraid its owner might have met with foul play. But Margaret Ferne Rennie, Detroit, said she had dropped it from an airplane while she took a short joy ride.

Dollar Bills Very Scarce In China

SHANGHAI. — Blacksmith Chou Chu-ju thought himself fortunate when the judge fined him one Chinese dollar in a slander case—but the smallest change he could find in all Shanghai was a $10,000 note.

(Single dollars have been out of circulation nearly two years, and it now takes 400 of them to equal one cent.)

Chou searched Shanghai for days and eventually offered the court a $10,000 note (25 cents) but the judge said the fine was $1, no more, no less.

Eight days after he was fined, Chou found the dollar bill.

TO FORM WORLD FOOD COUNCIL

GENEVA. — The United Nations Food and Agricultural Organization conference unanimously decided to establish a World Food Council.

The new council will not be as powerful as the World Food Board proposed by Sir John Boyd Orr, director-general of FAO at the organization's last assembly at Copenhagen. It will be only an advisory body.

Urge Added Driving Care New Schools Open

Opening of schools in Vermilion means that there are now 500 children going to and from the school building four times a day.

Officials of the Alberta Motor Association point out that many of these youngsters will be attending school for the first time. They may not be as much on the alert as older pupils in taking precaution to avoid accidents. Consequently, motorists are being urged to exercise extreme care when approaching or passing through school zones or areas.

It has been suggested that school and municipal authorities also would be well advised to survey the traffic and stop signs near schools. Some may need repainting or relocating and other steps to make the installations more satisfactory and to reduce the accident hazards.

Formation of school boy patrols also is being encouraged by the A.M.A. as these groups have played an outstanding part in reducing traffic accidents near schools.

SAFETY IN SOAP . . .

Soap is effective against most disease germs, the Health Department at Ottawa advises, even though others have handled it, there is no reason to shun the soap in a public washroom. However, health authorities advise against using common towels in washrooms or elsewhere, since they can transmit disease.

Earthworms, Darwin discovered, pass an average of ten tons of the soil on an acre of ground, through their bodies every year, thus stirring up the soil, and making the land more fertile. Darwin considered that there are few other animals which have played so important a part in the history of the world.

Handicapped Children

Approximately one- of children entering schools in Canada these days show one or more physical defects according to carefully compiled statistics. Medical and public health authorities are urging on parents the importance of pre-school medical examinations. Be sure to give the child a chance for success in studies and in sport, by remedying any minor defects which would otherwise be a handicap. Have the family doctor examine your child now, to detect and correct, any minor troubles.

The Wheat Board has discontinued the payment of a 10% premium on durum wheat. The reason therefor is that demand for that type of wheat has fallen off. Italy, Spain and Portugal, main markets for this type of wheat, cannot find the dollars to pay for the Canadian grain that makes their macaroni. The Budget.

RIGHT LIGHT . . .

Harmful glare may be avoided when doing close work or when studying by turning the desk or work bench at approximately 30 degrees away from the source of illumination, authorities tell us. To save the eyes and avoid harmful glare, light should come over the shoulder and care should be taken not to cast the shadow of the body or any part of it, onto the work in hand.

What MAKES a good citizen?

A good citizen respects himself . . .
and respects the rights of others.

He avoids bigotry and intolerance.

He puts the welfare of his country and his community before his own advantage.

He is moderate in his thinking and moderate in his actions.
He is moderate in his use of luxuries.

When an occasion calls for the enjoyment of whisky, the good citizen knows, as The House of Seagram has so frequently pointed out, that he has a personal responsibility to himself, to his family and to his country.

It is to "drink moderately" . . . or not at all!

POLISH VETERANS

Some of the Polish Veterans who have been working in the beet fields around Lethbridge are now available for re-placement on farms in northern Alberta. These men have nearly a year's experience in this country and should be the better for it. If you are interested in getting one of them, see your D.A. Polish Veterans can only be employed on a year's contract.

100 POUNDS OF HONEY

Some bee keepers are reporting over a 100 pounds of honey per hive this year. It makes other people go around with their tongues hanging out to think that some folks have so much honey. But you will never have it unless you make a start. Now is the time to get the bulletin entitled "Beekeeping for Beginners" and read up on how to do it.

FARM LABOR

With so much wet weather it is just as well that we did not get a lot of eastern harvesters early in the season. It is hoped however to have some harvesters come in from Manitoba after they are through there. The supply however will not likely be large enough to take care of everybody so threshers are urged to make every effort to get a supply.

NEW USE FOR 24D

In the future summerfallowing may be done by spraying the weed growth with 2-4D instead of the expensive method of working the ground to kill the weeds. Dry growing seasons like 1947 always prove that it is worth while to summerfallow part of the farm each year. It is a costly operation however to go over the land several times. If large spray units can do this work cheaply they will soon be an adopted farm practice.

LICE ON POULTRY

A local farmer brought in a chicken last week to see what was keeping his young birds so thin and unthrifty. I could find nothing wrong with its insides but I did see a lot of lice. There is no doubt that lice (external parasites) and intestinal worms (internal parasites) in our poultry cost a lot in feed and general health. It is so easy and so cheap to rid poultry of parasites. Get a circular at the D.A. office.

JUNIOR CALF CLUBS

Since announcing in this column a week ago about calf clubs starting up again, I have had 4 or 5 new boys to hand in their names. Keep it up you are all welcome. The 150 boys and girls in my calf clubs last year all made good profits in the sale of their calves and good prize money as well. Also they got good training that other boys and girls missed.

Elk Point Pioneer Dies in Edmonton

MR. CHARLES JOHN MARKSTEAD

On Sept. 20th, Mr. Charles John Markstead of 10837 79 Ave., formerly of Elk Point, Alta., passed away at his residence. He leaves to mourn his loss besides his loving wife seven daughters, Miss Mildred Markstead of Mississippi, U.S.A., Mrs. A. Henry of Camrose, Mrs. H. McQuillan of Edmonton, Mrs. Max Borowsky of Derwent, Mrs. J. Fraser of Edmonton, Miss Edith Markstead of Edmonton, Mrs. Will Smith of Derwent, and 3 grandchildren. The funeral services were held at Foster and McGarvey's Funeral chapel Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rev. McElroy Thompson officiated and the remains were forwarded to Calgary for cremation.

Wildmere Winks

We hope little Barbara Green of Auburndale is now home from the hospital where she had her appendix removed recently, and that she will soon be feeling her usual self again.

After the rainy week farmers are going over their stooks. The insides of the stooks did not get wet so if good drying weather holds out threshing will commence sooner than expected.

Congrats to Mr. and Mrs. Roy Dibben of Ilsewood on the birth of an 8-lb. 11 oz. boy at the Vermilion hospital on Friday evening Sept. 19th.

Despite muddy roads a large crowd attended Mr. and Mrs. Batke's wedding dance at Bassweed on Friday night. After supper the people presented the happy couple with a shower of gifts for which both thanked everyone heartily. Mr. and Mrs. Everett Isley, Albert Smith and Louie Geigle furnished the music with Jimmie Wallington as M.C. All enjoyed a good time and wish Mr. and Mrs. Batke many happy years of married life. They will make their home at Lloydminster. Friends and neighbors charivaried the young couple at the home of Bud's parents on Saturday night.

While we were not able owing to muddy side roads, to extend our sincere greetings in person to Mr. and Mrs. Macnab of Cummings on their golden wedding on Sunday Sept. 21st we nevertheless were thinking of them. They are real pioneers. Their friendly smile of welcome along with many kindnesses, and giving a helping hand when needed, has endeared them to all who know them and we wish them many many more years of happiness together amongst their many neighbors and friends.

Our church services are over for another year. Mr. Hume has now to go back to college. We enjoyed his short stay among us. While attendance at church this summer has been on the small side, we believe Mr. Hume to be very sincere in his chosen work. A canvass for funds will be made at a later date.

Mr. and Mrs. Palmer who have been visiting at the Batke home left on Monday to start their return trip home to California. We all wish them a safe and enjoyable journey.

Mrs. Watson of Hindville is wished a speedy recovery to health by all. Try to keep your eye on the silver lining even if at times it's very cloudy.

Mr. Whitlock, Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Wilhite and Marlene of town visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Whitlock and family of Wildmere on Sunday afternoon.

We were indeed sorry to hear that Mrs. Wm. Steele of Ilsewood was in the hospital suffering from a sore eye. Speedy recovery Aileen.

Bertie Fedden was a visitor to the dentist on Saturday having a tooth out.

Was that a granary you were moving on the stone boat for Landy Paddie Ray?

SQUINTING . . .

No matter how young a child is he should be given special medical attention if he squints. Medical authorities declare that squinting which develops in infancy should be investigated and treated. If left too long the vision in the squinting eye may be lost through disuse. This the experts say is very likely to occur if nothing is done before the age of 5 or 6 years is reached.

The School Lunch

Growing boys and girls need both milk or a food with milk or cheese in it and other protein foods in their school lunch.

The word protein comes from a Greek word meaning "to come first" and protein foods come first in that they are essential for the building and upkeep of every body tissue.

Miss Joyce Leslie, Nutritionist for the Home Economics Service of the Alberta Department of Agriculture, says that milk consumed in the school lunch for its supply of calcium needed for strong bones and healthy teeth also provides good quality proteins or building foods but not enough of them to take care of these growing bodies. In addition to milk, the school [illegible] protein food such as meat, fish, eggs, cheese, baked beans, or peanut butter, to provide an adequate supply of these building foods. These may be in the sandwich filling or they may be finger foods such as a hard cooked egg, a cooked pork chop, the leg of a chicken or a [illegible] chicken leg [illegible] piece of meat cooked on a little wooden skewer.

A hot lunch program in the school may help to provide a plentiful supply of these growth promoting foods. For information and assistance in planning a hot school lunch program contact your District Home Economist or write to the Home Economics Service, Alberta Department of Agriculture, Edmonton.

The Crusaders' Cavalcade Comes To Town

The Church is using modern methods of presenting its life and work. In the Crusaders' Cavalcade, sponsored by the United Church of Canada, there is an exhibition of the program of this largest Protestant denomination in Canada. Not only is the work of each of the Boards and Departments of this church displayed in modern style but the challenge which faces the people of the world and particularly those of the United Church is dramatically portrayed.

Information about the United Church of Canada is brought home to visitors to this exhibit on large, well-lettered poster panels, using beautifully colored transparent pictures, illuminated maps and vivid charts. A great deal of time and talent and money has gone into the preparation of this fine display.

A converted army van has been employed to convey this exhibit from place to place. During the time the Crusaders' Cavalcade is on view, the truck will be used as a mobile public address unit to announce the meetings, and in conjunction with some special evangelistic meetings in this area.

The Crusaders' Cavalcade will be on display in the Vegreville Legion hall from Friday, Oct. 31 to Sunday Nov. 2. This is open to the public at all times. Admission is free. In connection with the visit of the Cavalcade, many meetings are being held with a team of speakers who are leaders in many branches of the Protestant churches in Canada.

The people of this district are being given an opportunity to visit this modern up-to-the-minute presentation of the Church. They will see the Church in action at home in the Dominion and Newfoundland, and in 8 great areas outside of Canada. This is surely something worth visiting.

Britain Will Recover Her Strength, Her Power and Her Glory

SAYS PRESIDENT OF BRITISH LEGION

Addresses Meeting of Legionaries At Ottawa

"Dollars or no dollars Britain will recover her strength, her power and her glory and will yet make as notable a contribution to the world's progress as she has ever done," Sir Ian Fraser, M.P., President of the British Legion, told a meeting of Legionaries in Ottawa recently.

Sir Ian, who lost his sight at the battle of the Somme and is also chairman of St. Dunstan's, was the guest of the Canadian Legion. He was escorted by Major General C. B. Price, Dominion President of the Canadian Legion.

The British Legion chief who had addressed the American Legion convention in New York a few days previously told the Legionaries that Britain should let its sterling drop to its natural level, "to make the law of supply and demand work for us in stead of against us."

Saying that Britain had made a remarkable recovery from the exhaustion of war, he said more men and women were at work in the country today than ever before.

While coal and cotton production were down and "we were suffering from some disillusionment, some labor troubles and some untimely political experiments" total production in Great Britain was between 10 and 20 per cent higher than before the war.

Crux of the problem was that the island depended upon buying and selling in the markets of the world "and they are out of joint."

"We want to buy many things that [illegible] grow and make in Canada and in the United States. But we can buy them only if you buy an equivalent amount of goods and services from us. Until we can fully recreate our industry, build up our shipping and re-establish [illegible] and other services for which London was the world centre we cannot balance our account with North America."

"Britain is living in a world of [illegible] [illegible]. [illegible] the United States."

"Now that [illegible] [illegible] in the armed forces [illegible]

The World of Wheat

By H. G. L. STRANGE

Director, Research Department, Searle Grain Company Ltd.

THE QUESTION OF RYE

Some people seem to be quite agitated about the high price of rye. For those who are considering this matter here are a few recent pieces of evidence.

One of Canada's ablest private crop reporters states that on a recent trip over the West he saw in the drought area many fields of wheat with yields so low that the farmers were not harvesting them. The fields were abandoned, but that in the same district fields of rye with similar low yields were being most carefully harvested and the grain saved and shipped to market. This because the higher price for rye paid to do the harvesting. No grain for human consumption was saved.

The Saskatoon Star-Phoenix of Sept. 2nd tells us that a single car load of rye was purchased from farmers at Blaine Lake for the sum of $7,160 or $2.33½ a bushel. [illegible] calculated that it would take [illegible] loads of wheat at present prices to fetch the [illegible] did this one carload of rye.

A farmer who has done well on rye said this in a [illegible]: "While wheat may be the staff of life rye surely is the [illegible]

BETTER LIVING ON THE PRAIRIE FARM

Agriculture's great need today is for better farm homes, better living. A modern home on a well-planned farmstead is still only a dream on many of our prairie farms. In the pioneer days home conveniences were given scant consideration. Today, however, farm people are anxious to have modern homes with the most up-to-date equipment and conveniences.

Recent surveys have indicated that over 50% of our farm homes need repairs and over 25% need replacement. Every home uses water and yet less than 10% have an inside supply. To meet the average family's need someone has to carry about 70 tons of water into the home each year and will travel about 100 miles in getting it there. As a result of this drudgery, housewives give a water system in the home a high priority.

More than ever before farm families are asking for information today on home design, room planning, and labor-saving equipment. This accelerated demand for information cannot be met from plans and installations suitable for city homes.

Recently a Prairie Rural Housing committee was established to consider and recommend research into the problems peculiar to farm housing. The financial support for this program, coming from the prairie governments and the Central Mortgage and Housing Corp., Ottawa, will be a good investment if it leads to better homes and an easier life for those who live in rural areas.

The housing problem is a real challenge to the young people who are taking over our farms. Obviously they can [illegible] improvement in the rural standard of living by repairing the farm home and installing modern lighting, cooking and plumbing facilities.

Vermilion Air Cadets Enjoy Camp at Patricia Bay

(By William Koroluk, age 13 years)

On the night of July 16th, 15 excited air cadets, under the command of F/O. Walker, boarded a train for Edmonton, the first lap of their journey to Pat Bay on Vancouver Island.

We got to Edmonton in time to have breakfast and then boarded the Continental Limited for points west. That night we spent on the train, and got to Vancouver the next day. There we were loaded into buses and taken to the CPR steamship docks where we boarded the "Princess Alice." We arrived in Victoria about 6 o'clock and after rolling through beautiful country for a half hour, stopped at the camp gate. Then for a mile we watched while the camp gradually unfolded before our eyes.

We were formed up in front of the mess hall and then sent in for some supper, after which we went to the recreation hall to be officially welcomed. After this we went outside to be formed up into permanent flights. We were put into Flight No. 9 with cadets from Provost, Alberta, and assigned to Barrack Block 7o. Much to our disappointment we were broken up into three rooms, each with an N.C.O. in charge. Our room was No. 7 under Cpl. H. Swanson. We rolled into our bunks and soon all was quiet.

Our routine began the next day. The subjects which we studied reflected the variety that we found in every phase of camp life. They included photography, armament, navigation, meteorology, aero engines, leadership and morale, air frame and airmanship. We also had some flying and a short cruise on a crash boat.

Every afternoon was filled with sports: volley ball, horseshoe ball and soft ball, with crests going to the winning teams.

This routine was followed every day, and meanwhile, our room, No. 7 ran up quite a string of firsts and seconds for the neatest and cleanest room. As a result we with 50 other cadets were promised a long cruise on Sunday. Before this big event though we had to take our turn at being "Duty Flight." That is we cleaned up around the barrack blocks and helped in the kitchen which included peeling the traditional army potatoes. However that also was the day that we took a fling at the Link Trainer. We each had a ten minute turn and as it behaves much like a real airplane the reactions on the part of the cadets were varied and amusing.

Sunday finally dawned. We left at [illegible] and marched down to the Marine docks to board the HMCS "Antigonish," a frigate. Although nothing spectacular happened it was an exciting trip for us. For the first hour we just cruised along but then we were divided into groups of ten, each group taking their turn at being shown around the ship. We went everywhere and saw everything from the boiler room to the bridge. Questions flew fast and furious. As we were being shown the 4-inch guns someone asked "Does it make much noise?" The answer came, "No, you can't hear a thing for weeks [illegible] afterwards." Things like that kept the cadets in high spirits throughout the length of the cruise.

We went up to the bridge and there fired a few rounds each from the 20 mm. machine guns. Also, a depth charge was dropped to give us an idea of their power. It looked just like a geyser. Finally we clambered back on to dry land and I think that each and every one of us was sorry to leave the ship.

The next day was sports day. Track and field events were organized on an inter-provincial basis between Alberta and British Columbia. This provided a chance for the best from both the provinces to strut their stuff for the competition was really keen. Two of our Vermilion cadets brought home valuable prizes. Steve Stroher won a jacket for the 440-yard race and Jack Bauman got a tennis racket for the 220-yard dash. In the end Alberta came out with [illegible] more points than B.C.

FLOUR AND BREAD PRICES TO BE INCREASED

Government Withdraws Subsidy to Consumer

CANADIAN housewives will soon be asked to pay higher prices for flour. The Milling Industry of Canada would like to tell why.

Nearly six years ago the price of flour was fixed at the low prices then ruling, based on wheat costing 77½c per bushel when milled for use in Canada.

Since then, the price of wheat has advanced step by step, but the Government has paid the difference in the form of a consumer subsidy in order that you might buy flour and bread at no increase.

Wheat has actually risen to $1.58½ a bushel so that for some time past the Government has been paying more than half the full cost.

Now the Government has dropped the subsidy and the price Millers will pay for wheat through the Government Wheat Board will be more than double what it was originally. That is why the cost of flour will be increased.

Furthermore, the cost of bags, other supplies, labour and transportation has increased substantially during the control period.

Canadian Millers, however, knowing the importance of flour in the family diet pledge themselves to keep the price as low as they possibly can.

The prices of practically all ingredients in bread have also risen sharply and your Baker must take this into consideration when calculating his new prices.

Research And Progress

DURING THE WAR GREAT PROGRESS was made through scientific research. Because of the fact that almost from the beginning, it was realized that weapons developed both for offence and defence were likely to be the decisive factor in the winning of the war, unprecedented resources in personnel and money were allocated to scientific work. The development of the atom bomb, which ended the war, proved the inestimable value of this work to the United Nations. The magnitude of the results obtained when great sums of money and large staffs of trained workers were made available for research has caused the public to question why such results cannot be continued in time of peace, in medical, industrial and agricultural research where there are so many problems, the solution of which would add greatly to the comfort and prosperity of mankind. While they may not be as urgent as the problems of war there is little doubt as to their importance to our social and economic progress.

* * * * *

U.S. Report Of Interest Here In the United States recently the National Scientific Research Board recommended that one per cent of the national income should be spent for research. In that country such an expenditure would amount to $200,000,000. The Board called the development of research work "a major factor in national survival" and based the great need on the facts that [illegible] sources of scientific knowledge in Europe have been "dried up" and that it is most important that a new generation of scientists should be produced on this continent "who will think boldly and daringly." The report suggested that 44 per cent of the available money should be spent on non-military research, 14 per cent for medical research and 22 per cent, for military purposes. Since Canada has been closely associated with the United States in the field of scientific research this report, although presented to the American government, should be of interest to Canadians.

* * * * *

Urgent Need In Medicine If Canada were to spend one per cent. of the national income, the amount recommended by the American Scientific Research Board, the sum spent annually on research here [illegible] approximately $100,000,000 which is a great deal more than is at present allocated to such work. In Canada considerable research is done by the National Research Council, the universities and private industries. However there are now no large concentrated efforts such as those which proved so effective during [illegible] most people agree as to the urgency of solving many of the present problems [illegible] medicine. Methods of curing or preventing cancer, poliomyelitis and other diseases which yearly cost the country so much in human suffering and in money cannot be found too soon, yet resources are not available to bring about rapid solutions to these problems. In industry and in agriculture there are likewise great needs for improvements which could be brought about through scientific research. If it is, indeed, "a major factor in national survival" as the United States scientists suggest, Canadians should encourage any efforts which may be made to further such work in this country.

"GENTLEMAN FRED'S" BURGLARING CAREER ENDANGERED BY DEAFNESS, COUNSEL SAYS

LONDON. The case of an aging burglar who defending counsel said, was "past his best years of crime" because he was getting deaf and couldn't hear how much noise he made on a "job", was featured in the London newspapers.

A kindly word was devoted to the plight of 71-year-old "Gentleman Fred" Harding who would like to go straight but who pleaded guilty at Old Bailey to a charge of breaking into a Kensington apartment and stealing £250 ($1,000) worth of jewellery.

There were several character witnesses to back up the high regard the police had for Fred when he was not stealing. The grocer for whom Fred worked—in the daytime—said the accused had "a very kind streak in his nature" and often gave away candy to the neighborhood children which he had bought with his own money and coupons.

Police also have a high professional respect for Fred. The constable who arrested him told the court:

On searching him at a police station they found 125 keys in Harding's pockets.

"Nice, aren't they?" said Fred. "I make 'em myself. Get me into or out of anywhere, they would," Fred said.

"All right, see if they can get you out of here," said the detective on duty, locking the massive station door.

Fred selected one of the bunch and within a few seconds the door swung [illegible].

He assures me he's through with crime," said counsel.

Said the judge: "But I am worried about those skeleton keys — two [illegible]."

Valuable Sugar Beet Crop To Be Harvested

While Smaller Than Record Tonnage Of 1946 Returns Will Be Greater In Value

CALGARY. — Harvesting of the most valuable crop of sugar beets ever produced in Southern Alberta is in progress, says T. George Wood, general manager of Canadian Sugar Factories, Ltd., for which all commercial sugar beets raised in Alberta are grown under contract.

It is estimated this year's crop of beets, to be harvested on 29,300 acres, will return in the neighborhood of $5,000,000 to the 1,400 Southern Alberta farmers raising sugar beets on irrigated land. Last year's crop is expected to return growers approximately $4,700,000 by the time the final payment is made this fall.

While smaller than the record tonnage of 1946, this year's crop is expected to have a greater value by virtue of the higher price anticipated.

Despite extremely adverse harvesting conditions last fall and the loss of some beets which could not be recovered after being frozen in the ground and blanketed by ice and snow, the 1946 crop amounted to approximately 367,000 tons of beets delivered, setting an all-time record tonnage for the industry in Alberta. Another record was set by the extraction of some 100,000,000 pounds of sugar from the crop.

The size of the 1947 crop was boosted substantially by drenching rains after the middle of the month, Mr. Wood estimating that this moisture added an average of about 1½ tons an acre to overall yields.

He said the crop this year is better than average and he felt that it would run slightly higher than the average Southern Alberta crop yield of 12.5 tons an acre. It was not likely, he added, that the 1947 tonnage would exceed the total tonnage of beets harvested last year.

The approaching harvesting season will see mechanical beet harvesting machinery receive its first real tryout in Alberta. Besides about 300 mechanical beet loaders, about 15 beet harvesting combines—which top, dig and load beets—will be in operation.

General feeling of officials of the processing company and of the Beet Growers Association is that the price for 1946 beets will exceed $12 a ton and that for 1947 beets will go over $12.

Paid for their beets as sugar from them is sold, growers now have received $11.10 a ton for their 1946 beets and will draw at least one more payment.

Electronics Will Do Rapid-Fire Cooking

CHICAGO. — A sirloin steak may be cooked in 30 seconds by electronics, a meat authority says.

Rodman B. Davis, information department director for the National Livestock and Meat Board, told the board's annual meeting that a husband may never have to wait for a meat dish again if cooking by electronics becomes universal.

In laboratory tests, he said, grilled ham steak was cooked in 30 seconds, hamburgers in 35 seconds and complete frozen meals thawed out and served hot in two minutes.

Tests Being Made To Forecast Crop

If Successful Will Save Thousands Of Dollars To The Prairie Farmers

SWIFT CURRENT, Sask.—Experiments in crop forecasting now under way at the Dominion experimental farm here may take much of the risk from one of agriculture's riskiest propositions, prairie wheat farming.

If successful, experiments supervised by Dr. J. L. Doughty, chief of the farm's soil laboratory, will help farmers discover if there is enough moisture in the soil at seeding time to give them a fighting chance of harvesting a crop and will save thousands of dollars worth of seed, literally wasted every year on land that is too dry to produce wheat in commercial quantities.

Soil experts here point out that an annual average rainfall in the brown-soil zone of Saskatchewan comprising the vast southwest corner of the province—is insufficient for even an average crop and the deficiency must be made up from moisture retained in the soil. But unless the land contains enough moisture—roughly the equivalent of three inches of rain—the farmer's chances of a crop are slim.

Dr. Doughty said that 10 years or more may be needed to complete tests being carried on here and at experimental substations. But records garnered during the last eight years have established that throughout the brown-soil belt, approximately 10½ inches of rain are needed annually for a crop yield averaging 14 bushels per acre.

But average rainfall in the area during the three-month growing season is a scant seven inches, and in three of five years falls below this meagre average.

Tests show, however, this shortcoming can be overcome by carefully utilizing soil moisture, by permitting land to lie fallow so rain and melting snow can seep into the earth to be stored until needed. But experts stress that long-term cultivation is only possible if land is fallowed often enough to let it hoard moisture.

Current boom wheat prices tempt many farmers to overwork their land instead of allowing it to replenish its moisture holdings. Others reseed crop in an effort to regain their losses. In both cases, experts say, they have little chance of success.

By measuring the soil's moisture content after a harvest and in the spring and by comparing the results for different types of land, soil researchers hope to accumulate enough data to permit accurate predictions of crop yields.

When the farmer has this knowledge, they say, he will be well on the road to a solution of his biggest problem—drought.

Miss Arleigh Dixon Honored at Shower

On Friday Sept. 19th Miss Arleigh Dixon bride-elect of October, was much surprised when a theatre party ended up at the home of Mrs. Harold Meyer as a gift shower.

The hostess wheeled in a gaily decorated pram laden with many useful and lovely gifts for Arleigh to open.

A really sumptuous lunch was served by Mrs. Meyer and Miss Myrtle Killion and thoroughly enjoyed by the guests. Later Wally Guy came in and photographed the entire party. Arleigh thanked her friends in a few well chosen words and all joined in "For She's a Jolly Good Fellow".

A well attended meeting was much enjoyed last Sunday evening as members from the various churches united for an hour of Christian fellowship. "The Christian Fellowship Hour" was held in the Gospel hall following the regular church services. Mr. Ray Hutchinson opened the hour with a prayer, then called upon Adj. C. An all-request song service; a solo by Miss Evelyn Wilson and a short bible message by the song leader, brought a very enjoyable evening to a close.

Each Sunday evening the Christian Fellowship Hour will be held after church services, and all Christians are invited to attend. Next Sunday the Fellowship Hour will be held in the Alliance tabernacle at 9 p.m.

Mr. John McN. Donnelly returned recently from six weeks spent at Toronto visiting his son Cliff, at his old home town of Orillia and at Niagara. This was his first return to his old home at Orillia since he came west 41 years ago. Mr. Donnelly said that the only street he remembered at all was the main one of that city, the remainder appeared to be quite different from his recollections. While in Toronto he spent considerable time at the Canadian National exhibition where practically every country in the world has displays. Mr. Donnelly saw the champion skater Barbara Ann Scott christen a large airplane assisted by Premier King and the Mayor of Toronto. He also saw world's heavyweight champion Joe Louis and had quite a chat with him. Joe was in charge of a fastball [illegible] playing at the exhibition. Although he doesn't appear very cheerful in his pictures Mr. Donnelly found Joe exceedingly jovial and very friendly. Cliff Donnelly is continuing his studies in music at the Toronto Conservatory.

Alex Katz of E. Katz & Son was a city visitor this week.

Mrs. Fred Waite arrived from Edmonton Tuesday evening and will spend the rest of the week visiting her parents Mr. and Mrs. V. H. Cooper.

Mrs. W. J. Bell returned from the coast Monday where she had spent the previous two weeks visiting a sister who was ill. Mrs. Bell was accompanied on the trip by her mother.

J. R. Robson was in Edmonton this week, driving daughter Jean up to the University where she is receiving all the various attentions paid to "freshies".

Mr. and Mrs. W. Sinclair of Edmonton are spending this week visiting the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Kaiser.

Bob Rowe now of Edmonton spent last week end at home.

E. M. Stewart went to North Battleford Tuesday afternoon and expected to be away for a couple of days.

Big Vermilion Meeting To Support Yellowhead Route

REPRESENTATIVES FROM ALL TOWNS, EDMONTON TO NORTH BATTLEFORD, TO BE PRESENT

Vermilion will be the scene of a notable gathering Wednesday Oct 15 when a general meeting to support the Yellowhead Trans-Canada route will be held by the Board of Trade. It is expected that all towns from North Battleford to Edmonton will have representatives present, as well as the two cities mentioned. The tentative program includes a banquet in the spacious agricultural school dining room at 12 30 noon; an address by Harry D. Ainlay mayor of Edmonton and President of the Trans-Canada Highway System association and other officials of that organization. A round table discussion and resolutions will follow

Strong pressure is at present being brought to bear upon the Dominion government to establish a transcontinental highway. Lethbridge has submitted a brief to Ottawa urging that the first transcontinental highway be routed across the southern areas of the Prairie provinces and British Columbia, that is, from Winnipeg to Lethbridge, through the Crows Nest Pass to Vancouver. This brief has received the support of many cities and towns along the proposed southern route. On the other hand, the Trans-Canada Highway System association with headquarters at Edmonton has been boosting for the Yellowhead route from Vancouver and Prince Rupert through Jasper to Edmonton and east to Vermilion, North Battleford, Saskatoon and Winnipeg.

The Vermilion Board of Trade feels that not enough has been done outside of Edmonton to publicize and help along the north route. It is highly desirable that the first and most likely only trans-Canada highway pass through our part of the province. Vermilion business men feel that it is vital that something in the way of continuous pressure at Ottawa be undertaken at once. The officials of the Trans-Canada Highway System association (Yellowhead route) are greatly pleased with the idea of the mass meeting here and it is probable that the men it will attract will be surprising.

Tickets to the luncheon are being sold at 75 cents each and it is hoped that at least 100 local business men will attend and help entertain the visitors from such wide-spread points. All visitors will of course be the guests of the Board of Trade at the luncheon

The special committee in charge of arrangements is E. M Stewart, K. G Urquhart and F. J. Richardson.

More details will appear in next week's Standard.

Pictorial Review of War at Columbia Theatre — All Returned Men Are Invited

The Vermilion Branch of the Canadian Legion invites all returned men and their families to attend a free show on Sunday Oct 5th at 3 p.m. in the Columbia theatre. This is a pictorial review of the war showing the troops of all nations in action and it will be about 1½ hours duration. This should prove to be a very interesting picture and we advise you to get there early to make sure of a seat. We wish to thank Mr Pilkie who has very generously donated the use of his theatre

The next regular meeting of the Vermilion branch will be held in the curling rink on Monday Oct 20th at 8 o'clock. A special invitation is extended to all returned men in the district who have not yet joined the Legion

Vermilion Stores Open Until 10 on Saturday Nights

FOR BALANCE OF YEAR

Although it was originally intended to revert to 9 o'clock closing Saturday nights following the ending of Daylight Saving, Vermilion business men have decided to continue the same hours under Standard Time as observed all summer. This means that stores will remain open until 10 o'clock Saturday nights and gives the shopper 12½ hours continuous shopping hours that day, with 9 continuous hours week days, except Wednesdays which is a half day.

The decision to remain open until 10 p.m. Saturdays was reached due to the fact that it is a very late harvest and is for the convenience of the country people.

Store hours in brief are:

9 a.m. to 6 p.m. daily except Wed.;
9:30 a.m. to 10 p.m. Saturday;
9 a.m. to 12 noon Wednesday

ATTENDANCE AT VERMILION Schools

The following attendance figures at the Vermilion schools were reported by Principals W. G. Hay and F. H. Walker at the regular meeting of the local school board held in the town hall Tuesday evening.

PRIMARY and ELEMENTARY

4, 5 & 6	31	—Miss F. Johnson
4	39	—Miss E. Green
5	24	—Miss P. McCallum

Total no of pupils 295. From town 229; Dowtell S.D. 29 and Poplar Heights 17.

INTERMEDIATE SCHOOL

Gr 7a—27: 7b—27: 8—32; 9—40 Total 126.

HIGH SCHOOL

Gr. 10—20; 11—20; 12—20; Commercial room—21: Total—81.

This makes a total of 207 students in the high school building. This large number can only be accommodated by utilizing the chemistry lab and the typewriting rooms as full time classrooms. As hall space is limited the overcrowding of this building is very noticeable

Work in high and intermediate grades is departmentalized so it is impossible to allocate grades and teachers

Phenomenal Pass Mark Last June

Students writing departmental examinations in June last obtained an 80% pass of B standing or better as compared to a provincial average of 60%. This is really a remarkable achievement and teachers and students alike are to be congratulated

Athletic Association To Operate Pee-Wee Hockey League

TROPHIES, SCORING RECORDS, REGULAR GAMES WILL BE REVIVED

COACHES NEEDED

Pee-Wee hockey instituted by the Elks three seasons ago, but not operated on as large a scale for the past two winters will be revived in full this coming winter if present plans of the Vermilion Amateur Athletic association mature. Pee-Wee hockey has been turned over by the B.P.O.E. to the V.A.A.A. along with all trophies but the interest and support of the Brother Bills is still very much behind Pee-Wee hockey

A determined effort will be made to run the usual Wednesday evening league double-header during the winter, trophies will go to the winning team, the most useful player, etc., and generally the procedure followed as set up by the Elks in previous years

Coaches are needed for the teams and anyone willing to help with the individual teams should contact president Reg Mitchell of the V.A.A.A. It is hoped to have two coaches or a coach and manager for each of the four teams.

Pee-Wee hockey has been a big success in the past - there is no reason why it should not be again this winter.

Claysmore Clippings

Mr. and Mrs. J. MacLean of Paradise Valley spent a few days last week at the home of their daughter and family Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd McCrae.

Master John Beatty visited a few days last week at the home of his grandparents Mr. and Mrs. R. MacMillan while his mother was away in Edmonton.

Misses Betty and Margaret MacMillan spent last week end in Edmonton, guests at the home of Mr and Mrs. Alex Shand.

Congratulations are extended to Mr and Mrs. J. Willee who are the parents of a baby daughter Linda Louise.

There has been a very long delay in harvest work owing to the wet weather during September. A few more of these present fine sunny days and threshing will be in full swing.

There seems to be a shortage of harvest help this year and many will be working short-handed unless more men come in.

Chatsworth Chatter

The week end downpour of rain Saturday 13th to Monday 15th called [illegible] halt to all harvesting operations. [illegible] mailman Tony [illegible] was unable to deliver the mail Tuesday 16th, Friday 19 and Tuesday 23 [illegible] roads were practically impassable. Fields are so soft that it is impossible to work with a binder. However dry[illegible] days are now being experienced and some folks hoped to start work again this Tuesday. There has been quite a demand for stookers as the sheaves which were cut previous to the rain and unstooked were sprouting.

The largest snowflakes to fall here [illegible] for at least this year [illegible] were observed on Wednesday 17th.

Miss May [illegible] has been visiting her folks in the [illegible] Hill district recently.

Plans for resumption of harvesting last Tuesday week went awry as we had quite a heavy rain on Monday night and Tuesday morning. However by Thursday some work of cutting was begun though in many fields binders could not work because of soft footing. It is expected that threshing should be fairly general by next week. Combines are working in fields where there is footing. In fields which are cut and stooked there is tall second growth of grain and weeds, particularly wild oats which is detrimental to the drying.

After [illegible] weeks heavy frost there was quite a rush to get in potatoes, carrots, cabbage etc.

We were sorry to have missed the

PROGRESS ON WATER, SEWER—

All sewer mains in the town are now laid. All that remains in this connection is the line from the disposal plant to the river, some line on the college end of the system is also incomplete.

All water pipe on the south side and in the west end as far east as Bulyea ave., has been completed. 1st street South is finished all the way. About 5 blocks east of Bulyea remains to be laid.

There will definitely be no water or sewer this year; it is possible that the disposal plant will be completed this fall.

It is also possible that some lateral services to business premises will be installed before freeze up.

The water reservoir is completed and pumps can be installed if there is a call for water.

The Dominion Construction also plan to put in the foundation for the elevated tank this fall if weather permits. A determined effort is now being made to smooth up the roads and to put the streets into something like passable shape again.

The town council have secured copper pipe and 4-inch sewer tile and are now endeavoring to obtain an experienced man to take charge of laying private services from the residences and business premises to the property line.

The passing of Daylight Saving Saturday last also marked the passing of any daylight in the evening. Darkness now holds sway by the time the business man and office worker has finished supper.

Old age pension increases retroactive to May 1 will be paid in Alberta right away, A. H. Miller, deputy minister of public welfare said recently.

Increases in the basic old age pension grant by the federal and provincial governments raised pensions in Alberta to $35 a month. The basic pension is $30, of which the federal government contributes 75% and the province 25%. In addition the province makes a grant of $5.

Federal legislation providing for the increased payments was approved at the last session of the Ottawa house, but an actual start on paying the increase to pensioners had to await the formal approval of the legislation by the various provinces. This has been done and Alberta pensioners soon will be getting their enlarged pension payments.

LIFE'S MILKY WAY

The Milky Way isn't all in the sky say the nutritionists. In fact the milky way of life is the way of good health. It's the way, too, of beauty of white teeth, bright eyes, straight figures and lovely skins. Milk contains calcium and is in fact the best all-round source of this essential ingredient. So, adults should drink from half a pint to a full pint of milk daily and children should have between a pint and a quart of milk each day, the experts say.

Churchill, Canada's most northerly grain shipping port, expects to set a new mark this year, reports The Financial Post. Before winter sets in (about mid-October) officials estimate that more than 5.5 million bushels will have been cleared for England via the Hudson Bay route, exceeding the previous record set in 1934.

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY—

MUSIC SO SWEET

By MATTHEW F. CHRISTOPHER

HE noticed it now as they walked across the green grass that threw back the sunlight like tiny, jutting points of [illegible]. And it hurt him to notice it—hurt him as if it were a physical wound.

"Bea, it's foolish!" he said. He said it low, but his voice seemed to possess a quality that carried it far beyond the green hill. And in the stillness he could still hear it.

"Maybe, it is," she said. "I can feel it, too, when I'm home." She gave a slight lift of her slender shoulders. "It seems that the atmosphere just closes around me. Sometimes I've found myself breathless, as if I were tired."

He took her hand, and he felt her fingers intertwine with his, squeezing tightly, holding back the trembling emotion he now sensed [illegible]. He realized solemnly how much a part of this feeling he shared, too, as if her belonged with it, and it with him.

"Maybe if your father felt any different," he suggested. The idea awoke a faint memory, and he stared at her, watching, waiting for her reaction.

"Yes," she said thoughtfully. "Father could do plenty to help. But when he's not working, he sits by the window, as he's sitting now, gazing out at the trees and the birds and not seeing them. Yes, Father could help, all right." "Have you [illegible]?" "Yes. But I might as well talk to the wall. He just stares at me, not listening."

"Have you played any music, since—"

"No," and she looked up at him, the sun painting a soft halo round her coppery hair, putting a flashing, diamond tint in the middle of her blue eyes. "Neither one of us have touched anything since Mother died." She looked away. "Eight months. Yet it seems like yesterday when she used to sit at the piano, touching those ivory keys with her white, slender fingers—"

They stopped for a moment both looking grimly into the distance. Then they left the sticky, tar-covered road and walked down the brief incline to the empty, rust-colored cottage. They crossed the short-clipped lawn, and went and stood on the bank beside the pool.

"I always come here," she said. "Sometimes to swim, but usually to get away. It's so peaceful, and the water is so beautiful."

"But it isn't permanent," he said, seriously. "It's just for a little while. Then you're back into it. Anyway, what about him? What about your father? Does he come here?"

He copper hair melted over one shoulder as she shook her head slightly and looked away. "Never," she said. "He just stays home, and sits."

He thought a moment, and he wondered if this feeling could be real, like stone is real, or if it could be lifted, like a film, and the unchanged real shown beneath. It had to be one or the other, and he was afraid to learn which. Because no matter which it would be, he knew he'd remain a part of it.

"Let's go back," he said. "I'm going home, and you're going with me."

He took her hand, gently. "We'll come back," he said. "Don't worry."

He felt her nearness against him in the car. She seemed so small, so helpless. He pressed the ball of her shoulder to him with his free hand, and rested his cheek against her hair, feeling of its softness as if it were a caressing whisper.

He realized then, that she was crying, and he didn't say anything.

He stopped the car in front of his home. "I'll be right back," he said.

He went in, came out with a large, curved, black case, placed it on the rear seat, and started back to her house.

"Earnie," she said, "do you think—" Her voice faltered, as if the rest had fallen over a ledge.

He lowered his hand from the wheel, gripped hers hopefully, reassuringly. "Don't ask me," he said. "And don't think, either. Don't think of anything, just me—if you think that'll help."

He felt the pressure returned, and smiled down at her. Her blue eyes shone like twin neons. Her curved lips answered his challenge. "I'll think of you," she murmured. "It always helps."

In front of her house again, they got out, and he took the big, black case out of the car. She led the way to the door, and held it open for him while he entered. He crossed slowly through the kitchen, then stepped into the living room, and stopped. He smiled. It was hard to, but he did, and from his chair across the room, near the wide window where he always sat, Bea's father smiled back.

"I brought my guitar," Earnie said.

The older man removed his pipe from his mouth, blew out smoke that formed a blue film before him. As if to hide the expression on his face, thought Earnie.

"You did?" he said. "It's been a long time." "Yes," Earnie said. "It has. You don't mind, do you?" The older man shook his head. "No, I don't mind. Go ahead."

You won't walk off? thought Earnie. You won't go outside? You won't get away, just so you won't listen, will you?

"Bea—the piano, will you, please?" he said. She stared at him vaguely, and then at her father. He watched her, reading her like a book. And then she turned and sat on the long, black seat, and touched her rose-tipped fingers on the ivory keys.

"Strike C chord," he said.

She struck the keys. A soft, resonant sound splashed out, like cool water and sprinkled around the quiet room. He struck the guitar strings. The smooth, whispering notes blended with the piano's. He touched a string here and there and suddenly he was ready.

"Play something," he said, smiling.

She started to play, and he leaped in with the chords, and music, for the first time in so long, drifted in sweet, lovely strains through the house, atomizing the air with its honeyed fragrance, air that had long been stagnant and dry.

Earnie heard a soft sound behind him, glanced over his shoulder and caught a glimpse of Bea's father's back as he strode slowly out of the room. A tight knot suddenly formed inside him, and he turned back and looked at Bea.

She didn't see his gaze. Her eyes, her mind, were absorbed in the music.

And then, from the other room came a high, thin, sustaining note. The silvery, mellifluous strains of a violin.

The two near the piano turned, and they watched him enter the room, his elbow held high, pulling the bow across the strings while he watched it with his eyes, as if music was something you should see and he was seeing it, and smiling at it at the same time.

MODERN HARVESTING IN MOTION PICTURES—The experiences of a Canadian combine crew harvesting grain in the U.S.A. are to be featured in a full length color motion picture. Star of the picture is Jack Sutherland, of Hanna, Alta. It was his combine crew, with two machines and eight helpers, that was accompanied by Director Roger Morin of the National Film Board all the way to Texas and back to the Sutherland farm at Hanna. The caravan with trucks, trailers, bunkhouses and combines left Hanna on May 26th and arrived back in Calgary September 3. In the meantime, they had covered 11,000 miles, cut wheat in Texas, Nebraska, Kansas, South Dakota and North Dakota. The picture shown above was taken during the harvest season last year and shows the Sutherland combine and crew in action after harvesting 710 acres.

The harvesters' families came into Calgary from Hanna to welcome the combine crews returning from the United States.

Can Be Fined For "Grandmother's Funeral" Excuse

REGINA—Remember the time you took the day off to go to your "grandmother's funeral" and spent it at the ball game . . . or was it fishing?

Bet you didn't know you could be fined as much as $30 and tossed into jail for a month for it.

Under the Masters and Servants Act you can, and it's still on Saskatchewan's statute books. What's more, the act is paralleled by statutes in Alberta, Quebec, Prince Edward Island, and the Yukon. That leaves only five provinces and the Northwest Territories where you can get away with it.

The act has been a Saskatchewan statute for 40 years, long enough for provincial Labor Minister C. C. Williams to consider it "medieval and offensive." He plans to streamline it probably at the next session of the legislature, he said.

The act provides in effect that an employer may take criminal action against an employee for minor breaches of contract—drunkenness, staying off work without leave, neglecting to carry out duties or orders; or leaving the job without the consent of the employer, proper excuse or before the end of the proper term.

Few employers now invoke the legislation, perhaps because labor is scarce, but it's still valid.

Shooting Safety

1 Treat every gun with the respect due a loaded gun.

2 Carry only empty guns, taken down or with action open, into your automobile, camp or home.

3 Be sure the barrel and action are always clear of obstructions.

4 Always carry your gun so you you can control the direction of the muzzle even if you stumble.

5 Be sure of your target before you pull the trigger.

CHOCOLATE LAYER CAKE
(1 egg)

- 2 cups sifted cake flour
- 2 teaspoons baking powder
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 4 tablespoons butter or other shortening
- 1 cup sugar
- 1 egg, unbeaten
- ¾ cup milk
- 1 teaspoon vanilla

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt, and sift together three times. Cream shortening, add sugar gradually, and cream together well. Add egg and beat very thoroughly. Add flour, alternately with milk, a small amount at a time, beating after each addition until smooth. Add vanilla. Bake in two greased 8-inch layer pans in moderate oven (375 deg. F.) 25 minutes. Spread Fudge Frosting between layers and on top of cake.

This cake may also be baked in greased pan, 8x8x2 inches, in moderate oven (350 deg. F.) 50 minutes.

FUDGE FROSTING

- 2 squares Baker's Unsweetened Chocolate
- 1 cup milk
- 2 cups sugar
- Dash of salt
- 2 tablespoons corn syrup
- 2 tablespoons butter
- 1 teaspoon vanilla

Add chocolate to milk and place over low flame. Cook until mixture is smooth and blended, stirring constantly. Add sugar, salt, and corn syrup; stir until sugar is dissolved and mixture boils. Continue boiling, without stirring, until a small amount of mixture forms a very soft ball in cold water (232 deg. F.). Remove from fire. Add butter and vanilla. Cool to lukewarm (110 deg. F.). Beat until of right consistency to spread. If necessary, place over hot water to keep soft while spreading. Makes enough frosting to cover tops and sides of two 8-inch layers or tops of two 9-inch layers, or enough to cover tops of two 8x8 inch layers.

Turkish President Has Largest Private Yacht

Collier's tells us that the world's largest private yacht is the Savarona, which was built in Germany in 1931 at a cost of $4,500,000 for the late Mrs. R. M. Cadwalader of Philadelphia and which is now the presidential yacht of Turkey. Although having only 13 staterooms this steamship is 408 feet long, weighs 4,700 gross tons, requires a crew of 72 and has an average operating cost of $42,000 a month.

May Raise U.S. Tourists' Quota Of Goods

Bill May Permit Americans To Take Back Up To $500 Worth

NEW YORK. — A bill to permit United States tourists to bring home up to $500 worth of Canadian goods will be introduced at the next session of Congress as a means of helping Canada balance her increasing trade deficit with the United States. The Herald Tribune said recently.

Americans now may take $100 worth of duty-free goods across the international boundary.

The Herald Tribune said American trade circles believe "prospects are good" for passage of such a bill when Congress meets again probably early in 1948.

High Prices Reducing Sales Of Women's Apparel

NEW YORK — Retail sales of women's apparel are suffering a sharp decrease in volume according to reports received by Lew Hahn, president and general manager of the National Retail Dry Goods Association.

The primary cause for the slump is resistance to high prices, rather than refusal to buy the radical new styles featuring longer dresses, Mr. Hahn asserted in a special bulletin to members.

Without doubt, more customers are beginning to look for the basement and other lower-priced departments," Mr. Hahn declared.

The N.R.D.G.A. head also warned retailers that "the era of fantastic prices will not last forever. When the break comes you are going to take big losses, for you own your goods at the highest prices."

Retailers were advised to minimize their losses by resisting price increases in the markets in which they buy.

Thirty-two Years Ago Today

Interesting Items Gleaned from the Files of the Vermilion Standard
32 YEARS AGO TODAY — 1915

Sept. 30, 1915

Rain followed by a fall of snow Thursday night stopped threshing for a few days. Exceptionally fine weather again prevails.

The new Columbia theatre was opened Tuesday night.

Sixteen Years Ago Today

Oct. 1, 1931

Agricultural District No. 10 which includes the Vermilion-Vegreville area has more wheat and oats this fall than any other district in Alberta.

Fine weather holds sway at last and threshing is in full swing but will require a month of fine weather to complete.

Bank manager C. L. Whitby was wakened by the clucking of a prairie chicken sitting on the sill of his open bedroom window. The bird hopped into the room, walked across the bed but was startled when Whit moved his feet. It was put back into circulation again through the open window.

Varsity Homecoming Promises Gala Affair

ALL GRADUATES INVITED

With the Students' Union of the University of Alberta acting as hosts on October 10 and 11, alumni, young and not so young are assured of a rare good time. Committees under the direction of Miss Vivian Sucy are working overtime to complete all the necessary arrangements. One of the extra special features will be the reunion of the Class of '22 which will celebrate its 25th anniversary. Every effort is being made to contact all graduates of the University and a record attendance is expected.

The program will include such interesting features as a monster parade, a football game when the Golden Bears will take on the Montana School of Mines at Clarke Stadium, a dinner, and dance when there will be opportunity to swap yarns with old pals, a debate in which Calgary will argue it out with Edmonton; and golf and tennis tournaments if the weather man will condescend to take an interest in the festivities.

As accommodation at the dinner will probably have to be restricted, everyone is advised to get in his reservation early. The Students' Union office will be glad to make all arrangements. The main thing is to mark the calendar right now for the Homecoming at Varsity, October 10 and 11, and get on the mailing list by phoning or writing for further particulars.

PROGRAM

Friday

Harrison to Return Oct. 15th; In Rome

Prof. J. T. Harrison, member of the Board of Grain Commissioners for Canada and chairman of the National Contest committee, is expected back in Winnipeg Oct. 15th.

The last three months, Prof. Harrison has been engaged as Canadian representative on a Food and Agricultural organization mission which three months ago was sent from Washington to Poland. It was comprised of 10 agricultural authorities from the U.S., the United Kingdom, Denmark, the Netherlands and Canada.

The Mission was assigned to investigate and report upon agricultural problems in Poland, working in collaboration with the Polish government. Its report is to cover recommendations for immediate and long range plans for rehabilitation and future development of Poland's food and agricultural problems and related industries.

The Mission is at present in Rome preparing its report. The Canadian and United States representatives will be leaving for Washington early in October.

WOODVALE

We have not been able to gather much news lately, but like to wish the very best for a happy married life to Mr and Mrs P. Sabourin (nee Evelyn de Breville) and we feel sure that all Evelyn's many friends in the community join in these sincere congratulations.

Mr and Mrs Bud Funnell of Minnesota spent a couple of weeks in the district visiting Bud's father, brother Wesley and their friends. We were sorry to have missed them both, better luck next time.

It seems ungrateful after a couple of perfect summer days to complain about the weather in September. Let's just hope October will be dry and sunny so the harvest can be completed. Cutting grain was still fairly general the last week of September—many farmers being unable to use the binder after the heavy rain because it kept slipping and the wheels clogging up with mud. Farmers spent the rainy days digging potatoes, overhauling tractors and separators, fixing bins so as not to lose precious time if and when the weather would settle [illegible].

That we were able around here to eat fresh peas, beans, corn and celery out of the garden as late as Sept. 21st is really something to write home about. Butter churns in as pleasant a yellow color as in early spring and the wet warm weather posts the mosquitoes are with us in great numbers. The roads have their usual amount of spring-like pot holes and quite a number of motorists have been hauled by horse-power out of them or unhappy motorists have been noticed putting chains on the wheels in face deep mud.

Mr. Roy Webber of Toronto is visiting his father Mr. G. H. Webber of [illegible] and [illegible] a few of his other relatives and friends in the neighborhood.

Salvation Army National Appeal Now Underway

VERMILION CANVASSERS BUSY — NEED IS ACUTE

A total of $1,016,767.19 was contributed to The Salvation Army's national appeal last year, according to Col. Joseph Tyndall, financial secretary. This amount was needed to meet the deficit incurred in operating Salvation Army services in Canada for the 12-month period. Col. Tyndall was stressing the importance of the National Red Shield Appeal, with an objective of $1,500,000 currently in progress across the Dominion.

Of the amount subscribed last year $375,559.60 went towards assisting the maintenance of over 300 corps centres. In each of these, Salvation Army officers in addition to their regular evangelistic work, assume responsibility for character-building activities among young people, visitation of the sick and needy, welfare investigation and assistance.

Maintenance of 65 social and welfare institutions last year required $319,939.65. Most institutions attempt self-support, but this figure represents the deficit incurred in the operation of Children's Homes, Homes for unmarried mothers, Hostels for homeless men, Homes for the aged and Women's hospitals.

Approximately $202,624.62 was needed for the training of 52 new Salvation Army officers, payments to retired officers and national supervision. Of this amount also a portion was allocated to the rehabilitation of men and women of the services.

At all military hospitals and sanatoria, visitation of the sick, distribution of treats and literature and the arranging of programs was made possible. Individual and family breakdowns were also cared for.

Considerable building extensions and renovations were also accomplished during the year, the Colonel said, but a number of important projects are being delayed until building costs level to a point where the Salvation Army feels it can use publicly-contributed funds to better advantage.

The cost of getting married has hit a new low in China. Under a new law, the ceremony costs only 800 Chinese dollars (two cents).

Blue beans, black potatoes and purple tomatoes as well as bananas of the usual color, all grown in British parks, were shown at an exhibition.

The Florida citrus commission spent $1,500,000 during the past season to advertise Florida oranges, grapefruit, lemons, limes and tangerines.

The world will produce slightly more bread grain in 1947 than last year despite below-average production in Europe and most other deficit areas, the United States department of agriculture reported.

SCHOOL GIRL TEASED; TRIES TO GET SLIM; DIES

LONDON.—Because girls at school teased her about her size and called her names like "Pin-Up girl", 14-year-old, five-feet-nine-inch Maureen Hunter took medicine to make her sick so that she could stay at home—but it turned out to be poison. She died next day.

HOW TO WIN BLONDES AND INFLUENCE BRUNETTES—Give a movie publicity man a free hand—and what transpires is often as good as a movie itself. When the film "The Magic Bow", an English production, was distributed in Canada, it was a golden opportunity for the advertising boys. They had a violinist in costume stroll up and down the street in front of the theatre at which the film was showing. With Bud Wyshniosky as the violinist, the stunt was a great success. (For Bud particularly, as every passing blonde, brunette and red-head threw admiring glances his way.)

GEMS OF THOUGHT

CHARITY

The man who confers a kindness should be silent concerning it; he who receives it should proclaim it.—Seneca.

He gives not best who gives most; but he gives most who gives best.—Warwick.

That charity is bad which takes from independence its proper pride, and from mendicity its proper shame. —Southey.

"Charity suffereth long and is kind," but wisdom must govern charity, else love's labor is lost and giving is unkind.—Mary Baker Eddy.

The charities that soothe, and heal, and bless, lie scattered at the feet of men like flowers.—Wordsworth.

Give work rather than alms to the poor. The former drives out indolence, the latter industry. — Tryon Edwards.

Speed Habit Causes Plenty Of Worry

Even the layman knows that worry has an evil effect on his entire nervous system, issuing often in disease. The speed habit, the tendency to do everything at top clip in an unresting haste, for which there is often no reason whatever, and which ends in doing less in the long run than a more quiet method, is one of the causes. The "perpetual disposition to exceed the speed which their chassis will permit without rattling to pieces." Being in a hurry for heaven knows what.

"Friendly Dog" Turns Out To Be Wolf

COPENHAGEN.—A "dog" arrived recently at the customs office in a crate without an address. Customs officials fed and watered him, tied a string around his neck and walked him in the hall.

It was a fine friendly animal, and they would have liked to keep him. But two men from the Copenhagen Zoo arrived and said they would like to have the wolf they were expecting.

DO'S AND DONT'S FOR HOUSEWIVES

Dr. I. Rabinovitch, noted bio-chemist who is director of the Institute for Special Research and Cell Metabolism in the Montreal General Hospital, and associate professor of medicine, McGill University, was one of the speakers at the nutrition session during the League's annual meeting in Montreal recently. He said he would like to see certain rules in cook books, and outlined the following "Dos and Dont's" for housewives—

When buying apples, get small ones, the vitamins are concentrated just below the skin, and one pound of small apples contains more of the vitamins than a pound of large apples.

Whenever possible buy only the day's needs—between gathering and serving, fresh vegetables lose as much as 50 per cent. of their vitamin value.

Dried green peas increase in vitamin value with the length of time they are soaked. If soaked for three or four days they have a higher vitamin content than even grapefruit.

Do not use baking soda to preserve the fresh green color of vegetables. The nutritional value is not in the color, and the ordinary heating with baking soda destroys vitamin C completely.

Potatoes boiled in their jackets are more nutritious than the peeled variety. Scraping potatoes wastes five per cent., peeling them wastes 20 per cent. of the vitamin values.

Do not put vegetables in boiling water all at once. Shred them and put into the water a little at a time, without letting the water go off the boil.

Olive oil differs from vegetable oils from other sources in flavor only. It is in no way superior from a nutritional point of view.

Think in terms of the satisfying value of foods. Hunger may at times merely be due to an empty stomach and not be insufficient calories. Foods that remain longest in the stomach have the most satisfying value—bread and butter, bread and gravy, or hard boiled eggs.

SOME DISCOVERIES ABOUT COMMON COLD

After two years' intensive research doctors have announced the following discoveries about the common cold:

Women catch them more easily than men.

Between the ages of 20 and 29 is the most vulnerable period.

Children Will Learn Arithmetic By Blocks

PHILADELPHIA. — Philadelphia's school children are getting their arithmetic these days with the help of blocks, acorns and bundles of sticks.

A new series of courses adopted for the first six grades of the city's public schools will enable pupils to obtain a more graphic impression of the use of numbers, officials say.

Even the children's lunch period will have a "number emphasis" with raisins, milk bottles and other food items replacing the classroom blocks.

According to an old custom, submarines never cross the equator but always dive under it.

British Columbia May Soon Have Lobster Industry

VANCOUVER. — Indication that British Columbia soon may have a lobster industry was shown recently in reports that the shell fish are living and reproducing in Northern Pacific coast waters.

The lobsters, which were imported from the Atlantic more than a year ago, are thriving and producing eggs near Lasqueti Island where the original batch was planted by the B.C. Packers.

If the young multiply successfully from now on, it will mean a new large-scale industry for British Columbia, an official declared.

ISLAY

Fine weather has prevailed for almost a week and threshing has begun here today, Tuesday. There are several machines operating.

Albert Dupuitt's self-propelled combine returned homeward way after being at Bill Bolton's farm.

There are several patches of flax to be taken care of. Just how, we are not so sure. Clarence Gould's, Ralph Anderson's and Bill Barfett's — all looking good too.

Another school is to come into Islay, Trimbleville. A bus will operate to that vicinity and Monday our number here will be increased quite noticeably.

Last Sunday we heard what we thought was a very quiet motorcycle, on seeing it come into view it was none other than Leslie Sherwood on his motor scooter, a very neat little machine.

Rally Sunday was observed in the Sunday school and a very fine program was followed. The Cross and Crown pins were awarded the scholars who attended the required number of Sundays. Some were pins for first year, some wreaths and some were bars to be attached to the pins already won in the past.

Mr. Robert Martin is in the hospital and all hope he will soon be around again.

Alberta roads are getting some advertising in the Journal. We have some of the same kind of roads in this area. A car load were mired just south of Kenilworth school one black night recently and they had to spend the night in the school. Luckily there was wood on hand so they kept warm.

WORMS TO THE RESCUE

An unusual item of cargo arriving on a Trans-Canada Air Lines' aircraft recently at Edmonton was a shipment of angle-worms valued at $50. They were on their way to Fort St. John on the Alaska Highway where worms are at a premium. The wrigglers were a gift from T. H. Kearney, Kirkland Lake, Ont., to his brother, Dr. [illegible] H. Kearney. Both are enthusiastic gardeners.

Elk Point Pioneers Wed Fifty Years

ELK POINT—Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Keitges, pioneers of this district, marked the 50th anniversary of their wedding Monday at their farm home here where they have resided since May, 1908.

The couple were married at Ottumwa, Iowa, where they resided for 11 years. At their time of arrival in Elk Point there were few ferries on the Saskatchewan river so their goods and equipment were shipped to Vegreville and then hauled by wagon for 90 miles. They have farmed extensively and successfully ever since and now operate one of the largest farms in the district.

Wildmere Winks

Deepest sympathy is extended to the Pinchbeck family in their recent bereavement.

We were all deeply sorry to hear of the loss of the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mattes (nee Evelyn Howard of Wildmere). The baby was born Sept. 19th. God wanted another bud to bloom in heaven.

Granny Rudell of Edmonton has been visiting her granddaughter Mrs. Roy Dibben of Deerwood. Granny is a very smart lady for all of her 90 odd years.

Wildmere W.I. held their October meeting a week early, Sept. 24th, at the home of Mrs. Herman Eyben. It was thought everyone might be busy threshing at regular meeting time. Only seven members were present with 4 visitors, Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Cliff Cruthers, Mrs. B. Newman and Mrs. Gordon Green. Roll call was School Lunches — A very important factor in country women's lives. Our president Mrs. Wilson, being a teacher and having partaken of lunches a lot realized just what is needed, she specified not too much sweet stuff and to have the lunch well wrapped. Several suggested that little surprises in the lunch is a good idea. Mrs. Martin had the topic "Health and what to eat for good health." This talk proved very interesting and at the end she read a very amusing piece on eating back in the 1800s when breakfast was really a breakfast. Peggy Graham won Johnny Jump Up. An invitation from the Vermilion W.I. to [illegible] on Oct. 2nd was left to the individual members and it is hoped that several will attend. Thank you Vermilion W.I. The next meeting will be [illegible] at Mrs. Roy Dibben's in Nov. Roll call is to be a small article [illegible] our bazaar later on. After the meeting Mrs. Eyben served a very fine lunch enjoyed very much by all as well as several duck hunters.

Adam Smith Jr. has a new 2 ton Dodge truck so now Adam will be able to move real loads.

Noticed around — Lloyd Howard threshing on Monday, several other outfits will be going ere this appears in print if weather stays settled. Grain cutting is almost finished. Tom Riley has been helping George Wil[illegible] cut grain.

To any one interested in the [illegible] woollens sent by Mrs. Wallington [illegible] the woollen mills word has been received that the blankets, robes etc. will soon be back.

OBITUARY

MRS. JESSIE PINCHBECK

Funeral services of Mrs. Jessie Pinchbeck, widow of the late Isaac Pinchbeck, who passed away Sunday September 21st, 1947, were held on Wednesday, September 24th, at St. Saviour's Anglican church. The Rev. W. G. Grant officiated. Interment took place in the Vermilion cemetery.

The pall-bearers were Messrs. Harry Compton, Chas. Robinson, Mel Hill, [illegible] Arthur Lord and Wm. Barr.

Mrs. Pinchbeck was born at Stickney, Lincolnshire, England on Sept. 5th, 1867 so had just passed her 80th year. She came to Canada with her husband and family in 1903 settling in Edmonton. They lived there until the spring of 1916 when they moved to their homestead in the Campbell Lake district. Here they farmed very successfully until 1927 when they retired to live in Vermilion.

Mr. and Mrs. Pinchbeck lived in their little home in the west end of town very happily until 1941 when Mr. Pinchbeck passed away. Since that time Mrs. Pinchbeck has lived alone and was very active and well until she took sick a month prior to her death.

During the years the large and very fine garden at her home was the admiration of her neighbors, she had the knack to make things grow, and suitable weather or not her garden always appeared to be excellent. The way she managed to keep it so weed free so neat, and the house and the grounds as a whole so inviting, was the wonder of her friends and passers-by.

Mrs. Pinchbeck leaves to mourn her loss one daughter, Mrs. J. Gordon Wilson of Dawson Creek, Alberta; one son Alfred E. of Vermilion; a sister and brother in England, and a sister and brother at Cortland, New York. There are two grandchildren and two great grandchildren.

The Family, Clarice, Reg, Grace, Tom and Lily, Hilda, Arpad and John; Eva and Pat; Kay, Wilfred and Margaret; Mrs. Telford, Gordon and Muriel; Mr. and Mrs. L. Mayhew; Miss Hofbauer, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Evans, Mr. and Mrs. Gib Stephens, Brennan Family, The Carruths, Mrs. Cummings and Pat; Mr. and Mrs. Bert Duncan; Mr. and Mrs. John Wiebe and family; Mr. and Mrs. Reeves and Ben; Mr. and Mrs. McCambridge, Mr. and Mrs. Walden and Audrey; Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Barr; Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Chalmer; Mr. and Mrs. R. Dushell and family, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Hart, Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Martin, Mr. and Mrs. Herb Spencer; Mr. and Mrs. R. Blue River Highway Is Opened for Traffic

Under dry weather conditions, motor traffic is moving west from Jasper over the Blue River highway to Kamloops and Vancouver, according to information received by officials of the Alberta Motor Association.

For many years the A.M.A. has been interested in promoting the completion of tourist road links which would aid in the development of this growing Alberta industry. Coupled with this fact is the recent announcement of the federal government that it plans to expand its program of improving access roads to Alberta national parks. As part of this program the Dominion is spending $200,000 this year on the Banff-Windermere highway.

The Blue River highway was cut through in 1944 but since that time slides and other road conditions made the route impassable. Recently, residents of the communities affected undertook, aided by a provincial government grant of $1000, to operate road equipment and clear the road.

As a result, opening of the road was marked when a motorcade of 10 cars drove through from McBride to Blue River on Labor Day. Since that time, other motorists have made the trip.

With needed improvements, the highway should be open to general traffic next year.

OBSERVATIONS BY JUDGES ON "BETTER FARMING COMPETITION"

MUCH MORE LIVESTOCK COULD BE SUPPORTED IN DISTRICT

Facts re: Layout, Farm Size, Cultivation, etc.

The following interesting observations were made by the judges in the recent "Better Farming Contest" held in the Minburn M.D.:

"After inspecting the farms of the Better Farming competition there are several important points which can be noted.

The competition was sponsored in the interests of 'Weed Control' and a balanced farming practice. 3 headings under which the farms were judged with a value of 200 each out of a total of 1200 points (which is half of the total) were devoted to weed control summer fallow and forage crops which are important factors in maintaining a clean and productive farm. Unless a definite planned system was in operation the large farms were unable to successfully combat weed growth. The average sized farm was found to be one section which cannot be operated by one man to his or the community's advantage with relation to weed control. A crop rotation showing a distribution of [illegible] acreage wheat, [illegible] acreage coarse grains (barley and oats), [illegible] acreage summerfallow and [illegible] acreage forage crops seemed to have the best weed control. From the data collected the judges found that the average acreage on an average sized farm of one section were as follows: Wheat 115 acres, coarse grains 113 acres, forage 15 acres, summer fallow 91 acres. This would indicate that farmers in general are not utilizing the land to best advantage. It was seen that a ½ section farm was an adequate workable unit for one man and if farmed properly would yield a livable income. Most farmers are today, farming too much land and sacrificing quality for quantity and letting weeds get the better of them.

The headings under which the farms were judged were felt to be inadequate and it is hoped that next year more points can be set aside for additional things like the farm house, machinery and equipment and farm management. All farms were on a same standard as far as gardens and fences were concerned with one or two [illegible] outstanding.

A few farms showed careful planning [illegible] layout of farmyard and buildings [illegible] it was felt that this was a most important factor in [illegible] the [illegible] favorably or unfavorably. The [illegible] was [illegible] upkeep and [illegible] rather than cost or size of farmyard and buildings.

Very [illegible] farms had inadequate windbreaks [illegible] the average [illegible] was [illegible] similarity throughout. Advantage was taken in most cases of natural bluffs. The farmyard can be set off to great advantage by the use of well planned and planted wind breaks. In several cases a serious attempt was made to plant trees not native to the district. This practice should be continued and encouraged as it adds greatly to the farm and community.

Only in a few cases was the quality of live stock high. This is a mixed farming country and those farms which were planned with mixed farming in mind and carried good pure bred stock were able to utilize the forage crops to fullest advantage in their rotations. The judges found that the average stock carried was as follows: Cattle 20, sows 37, poultry 186, horses 8. The district could support a much greater number of live stock and since a good weed control program includes the growing of grasses and legumes live stock should be included for the utilization of these forage crops.

The use of pure bred sires and the development of a predominant breed [illegible] the cross-breeding [illegible] of beef raising were seen by the judges to give the farmers the best returns.

An Excellent Example

INCOME LEVELS IN THIS COUNTRY have risen steadily in the past few years and most Canadians have had more money to spend than ever before. This period of prosperity has followed in the wake of the depression of the 1930's and for many people it has been the first time in almost a decade that they could adjust their living standard to an adequate income. This is true of farmers as of other classes of workers. In Western Canada, drouth as well as the depression had created an economic disaster which will never be forgotten by the people here. At that time it was impossible for farmers to meet all their financial obligations and many of them were forced to go deeply into debt.

• • • • •

Figures Given For Farm Debt

In 1937 the prairie farm debt, including arrears in mortgages, taxes, relief advances, and money owed to merchants and banks, was estimated at 905 million dollars. This was a very large debt, when considered in relation to the size of the population of the prairie provinces. At that time it was estimated that the amount owed for mortgages and agreements of sale alone was $166,861,000 of which Manitoba owed $39,850,000, Saskatchewan $90,267,000 and Alberta $39,734,000. At the end of 1946, however, this debt had been reduced to $52,035,000, with Manitoba owing $7,479,000, Saskatchewan $33,879,000, and Alberta $10,677,000. These figures, which are given by the Dominion Mortgage and Loans Association, show clearly that the farmers are wisely using their increases in income to reduce their debts and to consolidate their financial position.

• • • • •

Good Times May Not Continue

While figures are available only on the amount by which mortgages have been reduced, it is assumed that the rest of the farm debt has likewise been substantially cleared. In fact, it is considered probable that farmers would pay their accounts to merchants, municipalities and banks before commencing to pay off their mortgages. Although accurate figures are not available, economists are of the opinion that the total farm debt for the prairie provinces may now be less than $270,000,000. In using his increased income to thus reduce his debts and strengthen his financial position the prairie farmer has set an excellent example to the rest of Canada. Perhaps better than anyone else, he realizes that good times do not always last and he also knows that in his case unfavourable climatic conditions can seriously affect his income. It would be well indeed, if everyone in Canada was using the present period of prosperity to the same advantage as is the western farmer.

Australia Seeks More Exports To Canada-U.S.

To Help Government Bridge A Forty-Five Million Dollar Trade Deficit

CANBERRA.—A drive to increase Australia's exports to North America will be launched by the government to help bridge a trade deficit of some $45 million remaining after the cut in imports from North America ordered in this fiscal year.

John Dedman, minister for postwar reconstruction said Australia's position would be improved if an outlet could be found in the U.S. or Canada for the sale of manufactured articles not previously exported.

Apart from this action another high source said the government might have to apply further dollar import cuts later, beyond the $40 million reduction in American imports ordered by the Cabinet.

Premier Chifley was reported to have warned ministers there was no guarantee these cuts would be the last restrictions.

Women Starts Trap-Nest Flock

MEETING CREEK, Alta. — Miss Ruth Kaan has started to trap-nest her flock of purebred barred rock pullets. She entered the poultry business only two years ago and already has attracted the attention of the Dominion department of agriculture for the high standard of hatching eggs her breeding stock has been producing. The poultry branch has asked Miss Kaan to trap-nest 125 pullets, in line with its policy to promote the raising of pedigreed stock in Alberta.

BLESSING OF WORK

"Thank God every morning when you get up that you have something to do; that which must be done whether you like it or not."

GENEROUS — Miss Dorothy Murray, head of the welfare department of Norwalk, Conn., who, an investigating committee claims, is an "amateur", thereby costing the city $222,300 in relief last year. Anyone whose name is in the Norwalk city directory, the committee reports, could walk into the welfare department, tell a sad story and leave with cash. The report cited several instances: one "unemployable" received so much relief he was able ot buy a $6,000 house; another was helped to a purchase of a new car; and relief—with no questions asked—was doled out as much as $140 a week.

The new vicar had preached his first sermon, and a critical member of the church, an exceedingly fat man, waylaid him after the service.

"Not a bad beginning, sir," he said, patronizingly, "a bit too scientific and modern perhaps, but quite fair. Remember, parson, you must feed the sheep."

Canada's Tourist Resources Are Barely Scratched

FORT WILLIAM.—Canada's possibilities as a tourist-attracting country have barely been scratched and now is the time to lay the foundations for future developments, J. G. Perdue of Ottawa said in an interview here.

Mr. Perdue, member of the National Parks Board Division of the Mines and Resources Department who is attending the second annual convention of the parks and recreation Association of Canada here, said that the 1,000,000 visitors already tallied at the Dominion's National Parks is expected to establish a new high in the tourist trade.

Exploitation of the nation's vast potentialities in the travel industry will hinge on good roads and low-priced family accommodations within the reach of the average working man's pocket book, Mr. Perdue said.

Betty Rowe Married in Beautiful Church Ceremony

In a double-ring ceremony Saturday evening in Christ church, Edmonton, Rev. E. S. Cuttley solemnized the marriage of Betty Jean, daughter of Mr and Mrs K F Rowe of Vermilion to Mr William Albert McJannett, son of Mrs E McJannett and the late Mr McJannett of Woodstock Ont.

The church was decorated with deep red gladioli and white baby chrysanthemums for the occasion. Guest pews were marked with white satin ribbons.

Given in marriage by her father the bride was gowned in white satin, the full skirt ending in a slight train. The fitted bodice was styled with a round neckline and lily point sleeves and she wore a pearl pendant. A pearl-embroidered satin coronet held her finger tip veil in place and she carried a bouquet of red roses and white baby chrysanthemums.

As bridesmaid Miss Mildred Jackson wore a gown of festive blue taffeta and lace with a Juliet cap of matching lace and veiling. Corn flowers, pink carnations and baby chrysanthemums comprised her bouquet.

Mr Michael Loteroky was best man and the ushers were Mr. Roger Rowe and Mr Bob Rowe, brothers of the bride.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs Rowe chose an afternoon dress in vintage wine faconne crepe. Her hat was a matching velvet model and her corsage was of cream Talisman roses. The groom's mother Mrs McJannett was in gray crepe with which she wore a matching grey hat and black accessories. A corsage of pale pink roses was pinned at her shoulder.

A wedding reception to 150 guests was held in the Parish hall of Christ church following the ceremony. The bride's table was laid in lace with a three-tiered wedding cake embedded in white tulle and flanked by ivory tapers in silver holders and vases of flowers. Mrs. W Rathje and Mrs J Grant poured coffee. The toast to the bride was proposed by Mr J Grant.

For going away, the bride wore a beige suit with a brown topcoat and accessories to tone. Upon their return the couple will reside in Edmonton where the groom is a medical student at the University of Alberta.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding included Mrs McJannett of Woodstock mother of the groom, Mr and Mrs Rowe of Vermilion, parents of the bride, Mr Roger Rowe, Miss Maxine Wiebe, Mr and Mrs George Webb, Mr and Mrs T Watts and Audrey, Mr and Mrs. W Kramer, Mr and Mrs H Reed and Jean, Mr and Mrs A Sinclair and Mrs R Norton, all of Vermilion, Mr and Mrs E. Rain Again Stops Harvest, Threshing

Rain which commenced early Wednesday morning and continued intermittently all day has put a decided stop to harvest and threshing operations for several more days. Following good weather over the week end harvest had just swung into its full stride.

It is estimated that 5% of the grain is still uncut and 80% is still to be threshed either by separator or combine.

Yields are estimated as follows: wheat 12 bushels to the acre; oats 2?, barley 20, rye 20, flax 8.

There is considerable sprouting of grain in stook and swath. There should be sufficient winter feed but no increase in hog production is expected in this area.

There is decided shortage of labor supply.

TRANS - CANADA HIGHWAY ESSENTIAL TO CANADA—

A trans-Canada highway system is necessary for the economic well-being of this Dominion and is a crying need.

It seems hardly possible that a nation of 12,000,000 people as progressive as our Canadian people are, has not even one decent highway across the Dominion.

The Trans-Canada Highway Association proposes a federal highway commission in Canada which will not only provide the federal aid necessary to build an east and west highway system, but will also provide guidance in other ways which is necessary to a proper system across Canada. A federal highway commission should give Canada the highway system the country requires.

The route for the Trans-Canada highway approved by the association is from Vancouver and Prince Rupert, through the Yellowknife pass to Jasper, Edmonton, Vermilion, North Battleford, Saskatoon and Winnipeg.

The prime feature of this proposed route is that it would be an all-weather highway and there are no serious engineering problems to be encountered in the construction of it. This route has everything for a trans-continental highway:—

There are the great North West Territories with radium, gold, etc., and various and unlimited possibilities. There are immense deposits of oil sands, liquid bitumin and salt. There are oil fields of continental importance, and the trend of oil investigation is to the north.

The route has two Pacific ports, Vancouver and Prince Rupert, has military strategic value and the Alaska and Grimshaw highways to Alaska and the northland. There are 4 national parks and four provincial parks along the route which give it high priority for federal aid.

The route passes through the richest natural farming districts in the west with the green parkland country side all around. The mountain scenery is equal to or surpasses any other in Canada. As a matter of fact this Yellowhead route has everything along its course.

A mass meeting of delegates from Edmonton to Saskatoon at Vermilion October 15th will urge the Dominion government to take steps to establish a Federal Highway Commission and will urge that the Trans-Canada Highway be via the Yellowhead route.

A NATIONAL DISGRACE—

We are a prodigal people. Without turning a hair the Canadian people are compelled to admit that, last year, fire destroyed property in Canada amounting to nearly 50 million dollars, or about 15% more than the income five short years ago. And, in the short space of 12 months, in 1946, 400 Canadians lost their lives through fire. Here, in stark fact, were 400 tragedies in Canadian homes. Yet, year by year, we continue, seemingly unperturbed, along the path of destruction. Last year, for instance, out of 55,000 fires in the Dominion, 41,000, or nearly 80%, were in residential properties. Through carelessness, or wanton disregard of sensible precautions, fire destroyed, wholly, or in part, residential properties alone equivalent to what one would find in a city of about 200,000 people. And this at a time of a serious shortage of houses for all classes of people in Canada. Is there a remedy?

Organizations spend time and money preaching the gospel of fire prevention and illustrate how carelessness can destroy human lives and property. Regional insurance underwriters associations of Board companies throughout Canada maintain rigid inspection services which undoubtedly help to prevent many fires. They also impress on the public that insurance rates are related to losses. Yet our fire losses continue to increase at an alarming rate—the 1946 figures alone, were nearly 12% higher than in 1945. The remedy, and there is one, lies in our own hands. We simply must pay more attention to simple rules established for our own protection. In other words day by day we must all exercise more care. We must stop playing with fire to prevent fire if we want to eliminate this national disgrace from Canadian yearly records. A little more common sense and a little less prodigality will save lives and property.

Wildmere Winks

Kenneth Holte, formerly of Wildmere but more recently of Vermilion, left on Wednesday night to work in Macbeth's radio shop in Winnipeg. Kenny has always been very interested in radio work so we all wish him every success at his new job.

Congratulations to Mr and Mrs Joseph Tillinger of Basswood (nee Kathie Simmons) on the birth of a daughter on Friday, Oct 3rd.

We were pleased to receive a clipping from Calgary saying Mr and Mrs George Gow had celebrated their Golden Wedding on Sept 24th. One of their sons Logan Gow lives at Borradaile and another son Bill used to live in Basswood before settling in Calgary. They are a fine couple and one is always sure of a warm welcome when you enter their home. The writer joins with their many friends in wishing them many more happy years together.

We all wish Mr Lloyd McFadder of town a speedy recovery to health and hope that he is soon able to take over his old job at the elevator.

Threshing is going ahead very well now. Oats and barley are yielding not too badly and the wheat on the whole is a light crop. May this fine weather keep up until everyone has their grain in the bins.

Mr and Mrs Ken Isley of Vermilion were visitors to the Baths home on Thursday last week getting spuds.

We understand Mrs Patterson of Battleview is moving to Wainwright to live in future and that Peter Bach of Battleview is intending to also settle in Wainwright. Next spring Pete will have the pleasure of a visit from his sister Mrs Henderschonn from the States. [illegible] Henderschonn farmed in Ashmont district at one time selling out years ago and moving to the U.S.

We had a nice chat with Mr Ireland of Bowtell in town on Saturday. He recently visited with Mr and Mrs George Ronaghan at Creston, B.C. While he likes it out there there is no place like his little home at Borradaile he says.

On Sunday afternoon Mr and Mrs Bathe of town accompanied by Mrs Hugh McLean of Vancouver visited a short while at the writer's home. We were very pleased to see Mrs McLean [illegible] so well, but her visit was all too short for all we wanted to talk about. However we hope your next visit will be longer Mary.

Albert Rybon, eldest son of Mr and Mrs Herman Rybon was operated on for acute appendicitis early last Wednesday morning, Oct 1. We all hope for a speedy recovery to you [illegible].

We send congrats to Mr and Mrs Ivan McGinnis of Cummings district on the birth of a baby girl Sept. 25th.

Mr. Henry Bretcher who has spent the summer at Sylvan Lake is back in Vermilion where he intends to reside in future. He says it's a better country than here but he still likes this part the best.

Gophers Still A Nuisance On Prairies

MOOSE JAW, Sask.—Many an observer in these parts claims that the gopher, cheerful, chirping little rodent which inhabits most of the Prairie region, is fading from the scene.

But others, long suffering under the annual inroads made on crops and gardens by the whistling beastie, hold that the gopher population is subject to cycles much as rabbits are.

However, while the little chap may come and go spasmodically, an interesting point is that he is not really a gopher. He's a gaufre. Seems the French termed him a gaufre after a few of their horses had their feet pop into gophers' burrows. Gaufre means honeycomb which is a pretty good description of what a piece of ground looks like after a gaufre has finished with it.

Gaufres run to various species—one being a puzzling creature down by the Mississippi which resembles a frustrated land tortoise and lives in a burrow.

The Prairies have three kinds of gaufres: the striped, the grey and the Richardson's. Most gaufres, however, like digging, eating seeds and annoying Prairie farmers.

For further identification of gaufres, it is interesting to note that the word also means a kind of cake or waffle—in French, that is.

Tiny Insects Produce Furniture Shellac

The name "shellac" is derived from the ancient Sanskrit word "lac", which means "one hundred thousand", and is indicative of the countless tiny insects which produce this strange resin.

These microscopic parasites, called coccus lacca by scientists, settle in droves on the lac trees of the East, and thrust their needle-like probers through the bark of the trees and into the moist sap wood beneath it. While feeding on the tree, the lac bug gives off a resinous secretion, creating a cocoon which eventually forms a hard shell around the branches. During the lac season, the natives swarm into the woods and knock off this hard shell, which is called stick-lac.

WHOOPING COUGH AND DIPHTHERIA DANGEROUS ILLS

Some public health workers are inclined to believe that the public dramatization of poliomyelitis outbreaks has tended to take attention from facts surrounding certain other diseases—just as deadly as polio, but which, unlike polio, can be prevented.

For instance diphtheria and whooping cough, year in and year out, each take many more lives than polio—and each is preventable. True polio is a dangerous, crippling and killing disease but diphtheria and whooping cough are dangerous killers too. It is tragic that medical science has been unsuccessful in attempts to develop a polio preventive but it also is tragic that the Canadian public does not co-operate 100 per cent in using the available means to wipe out and curb diseases which are just as deadly but which are preventable.

It is to be hoped that the untiring efforts of medical science to develop a preventive for polio will be successful and that the Canadian people will take full advantage of the preventive, once it is discovered. However, polio will continue to take a toll if the presence of a polio preventive is ignored in [illegible] as are today's preventives for diphtheria and whooping cough.

Vaccination has just about wiped out smallpox—toxoid can do just the same thing with diphtheria, and whooping cough vaccine is an extremely effective whooping cough preventive.

It is to be sincerely hoped that we soon will have the benefit of a polio preventive but in the meantime we should make use of the disease preventives now in our possession. That is why the Health League of Canada, the Dominion's leading voluntary health education association has designated the week of October 5th as "National Immunization Week".

This annual national observance is designed to draw attention to the fact that certain communicable diseases, particularly diphtheria, whooping cough and smallpox are preventable. It also is a means of making known the fact that federal, provincial and municipal health departments throughout the country are working continuously to eliminate these preventable diseases.

All that is needed to wipe them out is the 100 per cent. co-operation of the general public.

The tragedy of the public's ignorance or apathy in regard to the available preventives for diphtheria and whooping cough is written in the statistics for 1946 which show close to 500 deaths in Canada from these two diseases alone.

Junior Red Cross Week in Canada

VERMILION CHILDREN ENROLL —[illegible] Members in 28,150 School Room Branches

International goodwill and world understanding may be mere words to some adults who do not take serious responsibility in world affairs but to members of the Junior Red Cross in more than 29,000 school room branches across Canada world-friendship is a daily working principle.

Canadian Juniors who are re-enrolling in the organization today with the opening of annual Junior Red Cross Enrolment Week count among their friends 32,000,000 young fellow citizens of the world in 50 different countries.

"I doubt that there would be another world war," E. D. Parker, inspector of schools in Manitoba, has said, "if we could get Junior Red Cross organized in all the countries of the world."

Friends in Many Countries

Through the organization's system of international correspondence, the Juniors of the various nations come to understand one another to know, appreciate and respect each other's way of life.

One little Siamese boy recently wrote to his Nordic friends: "Living in the tropics we are brown like chocolate, while you who live in cold areas are like cream. But chocolate and cream go very well together and it is the same for our international friendship."

Activities

International friendship in the Jr. Red Cross program takes a uniquely interesting form. School children and high school students of the various grades prepare portfolios or scrap books for students in other lands in corresponding age groups. Portfolios include sketches, water colors, snapshots of school and community life, collections of native wild flowers, accounts of local and national activities, simple geographical and historical information, compiled with originality and imagination.

Help Others

More concrete expressions of friendship from Canadian Juniors to children of war-afflicted countries have amounted to over $450,000 in food, clothing and other comforts since 1939. In addition, Canadian Junior Red Cross members support two war nurseries in England, send clothing to six British Sunshine Homes for blind children and contribute $3,500 annually to the upkeep of the Victoria Home for Invalid Children at St. Margaret's, England.

Aid For Crippled Children

At home in Canada Juniors have provided treatment for 20,000 crippled children. Latterly their crippled children's work has extended to several members of other countries. In conjunction with their policy of international friendship. Late in August, Juniors of Quebec province were proud to wave goodbye to Ramperсаd Juggernauth, a Jamaican lad who for 14 months had been their guest at the Royal Victoria Hospital, Montreal. A paralysis victim, Ramperсаd was unable to walk when he came to Canada. He can walk now.

Juniors Raise Own Funds

By their own efforts Juniors raise funds for their local, national and international projects of mercy. They conduct their own meetings in classrooms after school hours, planning their own group activities for the promotion of health, good citizenship and world understanding.

Program Welcomed

The Junior Red Cross program is welcomed by Canadian educational authorities as a valuable contribution to youth education.

"Junior Red Cross, with its character-forming activities, is one of the best means at the disposal of the teachers for inculcating many of the responsibilities of democratic citizenship," Dr. George Weir, well-known Canadian educationist now Minister of Education B.C. has written. "It is doubtful if we can impress our young people with the importance of self-sacrifice, service to others, responsibility of group welfare, international good-will and understanding, except in situations which call for the exercise of these essential qualities. The Junior Red Cross provides such situations."

This week a record total of [illegible] Canadian members is sought. Last year Junior Red Cross membership in [illegible] in 29,150 class room branches.

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY—

The Beggar

By Matthew F. Christopher

THE knock sounded like the soft click of a night latch. Naomi opened the door, and he stood there—a tall, humble looking figure whose sunken grey eyes peered unobtrusively from a sun-leathered face.

If Philip had been here she would have closed the door. She would say, "I'm sorry, but we have nothing left." Or, just, "I'm sorry." But Philip wasn't here. And it so happened that she was ready to place the food on the table. He might intend to convey the impression that it was coincidental, she thought, but the noon whistle had just blown two minutes ago.

"Good morning, Ma'am?" he said. He smiled, a tender smile that broke through his grey whiskers. "Would you be kind enough to give an old man a—a bite to eat?"

Then it was as if Philip was behind her, staring over her shoulders glaring with those level brown eyes of his, saying, "Tell him to go on his way. Tell him we have nothing. Tell him..." He wouldn't have cared about the smell of the hot food wafting out of the door. He simply had no use for beggars. Of course, he thought he had reason to be. But, Heaven forbid! All these poor creatures weren't like that one...

The sun flashed a welcoming signal on her bright smile, and touched the high tones of her smoothly planed face. "Come in," she said. "You're just in time." "Thank you, Ma'am."

He had a cautious quality about his step as he crossed the threshold into the kitchen. As if each move was calculated, and none more taken than was necessary. She could almost hear Philip say, "See how careful he is? You got to watch that kind. That characteristic quirk isn't exactly human nature!" Funny why she kept thinking of Philip, as if his presence were really real.

Connie ran in from the dining room, her brown curls bobbing on her head like soft tails of spring. When she saw the man, she stopped. Her black eyes rose bewilderedly to the man's head.

"Go back and get in your chair, Connie," Naomi said. "We're going to have company." She gave the beggar a radiant smile, and pointed to a chair in the dining room. "You may sit there. The hat can go on the bureau behind you."

Suddenly she saw her purse there. She had placed it there after having brought home the things from the grocer's. But it would look silly now to remove it, she thought. Even if he did—she felt ridiculous thinking it—but even if he were one of Philip's characters, there was only sixty cents to the penny in the purse.

"Thank you, Ma'am." He looked at Connie. His eyes, deep in the hollows of his bony face, [illegible] in a smile. He bent forward slightly and placed his blue-veined hand on her knee. "Hello, little girl."

It would have made no difference in the world to Philip that he was old. The older, the more experienced; the more experienced, the craftier, was Philip's philosophical slant on it. He gave no quarter, demanded none. They were all molded from the same stock. "Wolves in sheep's clothing!" Philip said.

Naomi heard the man chuckle as she stood at the stove, mixing the gravy with the potatoes. She looked around and saw that Connie hadn't moved. Except that now she had her thumb in her mouth, and with the other hand was nervously curling up one end of the bow behind her dress.

"Connie, please don't do that," she said softly. "Go sit in your chair, like mother told you. The man won't hurt you."

"Shucks, no!" he exclaimed. "I won't hurt you! But, if it'll help, I'll sit down, too. How will that be?"

Connie didn't answer, but apparently it suited her fine. Naomi smiled. She brought the food to the table, put some in Connie's plate, and urged the man to help himself. He did, unembarrassingly, but he didn't take much. Just a little of each, what would ordinarily be an appetizer for Philip.

He pushed the plate away from him when he was finished, patted his skinny stomach with comfort and satisfaction.

"You're not through?" Naomi said. "There's lots more."

He shook his head, and the faint air that he stirred moved his thin, white hair. "No, Ma'am, thanks. I'm through. It was delicious, believe me, Ma'am. I've never had a meal that could come up to that in years. I'm certainly thankful to ye."

"I'm glad you liked it," she said.

Philip would rave when he'd hear. She'd tell him, of course. Why not? He probably didn't have a penny in his pocket. She thought, if Philip could be here, now; if he could just sit in a corner and watch, he would cast out of his mind all those ridiculous beliefs he had about these unfortunate human beings.

Oh, Philip, your silly ideas!

But she'd tell him, and she would laugh when he'd rave.

"How about some doughnuts?" she asked.

"Doughnuts?" His smile shown again through his silvery bristles. "Well—I'm kinda full, Ma'am—"

"Shall I put some in a bag for you? They're home-made?" She jumped up, before he had a chance to answer. "Wait. I've got some paper bags in the kitchen. I'll put in a few for you."

"Thank you—"

She saw Connie's eyes stare in awe at her as she circled the table and went into the kitchen. She picked out a bag from the little pile in the cupboard nook, and from the oven got a half a dozen powder-sugared doughnuts and dropped them into the bag. She returned and gave it to the man.

"Here," she said. "You can eat them on your way."

He grinned. His teeth looked mossy, but his smile was tender. "Thank you, Ma'am. May God bless your wonderful little family."

"Thank you," she smiled, and watched him pick up his hat and leave.

Back in the dining room, she sat down again and began finishing her meal.

"Mamma?" "Yes, dear?" she glanced up. Connie's black eyes were staring very peculiarly at her. "What is it, darling?" "That man opened your purse," Connie said.

Immediately, she thought of Philip. Quickly, she rose from the chair, swooped the purse off the top of the bureau. She flicked it open with her thumb, and sprawled into it with trembling fingers. And, suddenly—

Wheat To Inspire Canadian Hairdo

WINNIPEG.—It may seem a bit startling, but Western Canada's famed wheat may inspire a hair-dressing style.

Charles Tugwell of Toronto, at a convention of Western Canada hair dressers here, said there is no reason why Canada and Western Canada particularly should not take a lead in setting fashions.

"We have hair dressers and stylists as skilled as any in the world and we believe such a convention as this—it is the West's first—will encourage them to develop individual styles.

"This autumn we are evolving styles for evening which sweep the hair upward. Western wheat inspires a lavish treatment that is quite original."

Wedding Route To Be Lined By Troops

LONDON.—Princess Elizabeth will ride to Westminster Abbey to be married to Lieut. Philip Mountbatten on Nov. 20 along a route lined every yard of the way by contingents of the armed services, the Lord Chamberlain said.

The Princess, escorted by the King, will drive from Buckingham Palace along The Mall to Admiralty arch. There the procession will turn into Whitehall, pass on into Parliament Square to the Abbey entrance.

The household cavalry will provide mounted escorts. There will be bands at Buckingham Palace, at various places along the route, and at the Abbey.

Distinction Is Not Appreciated By Boy

LOS ANGELES.—The doctors call eight-year-old Wyman Rams a rare case but he's not very appreciative of the distinction.

He fell to the ground when a limb broke on a tree, fracturing both forearms.

Not only that but the medics said the X-rays of each arm were identical—two fractures, same time, same place, same way.

But what impresses Wyman the most seems to be the fact that he has to wear casts on each arm for a month.

More Men Required For Armed Services

6,000 Men Needed To Fill Canada's Strength Of 38,400

OTTAWA.—About 6,000 men are needed to bring Canada's three armed services to a required strength of 38,400 and a campaign will be launched to get recruits for this active force and for the reserves.

This was made known when a pamphlet entitled "Canada's Defence" was issued under the authority of Defence Minister Claxton, rounding up the latest information on the country's defence organization.

The pamphlet also disclosed that a committee was being established to advise the defence minister and the defence committee of the cabinet "on matters of industrial organization" which includes planning for the development of common standards and design in connection with the manufacture of munitions, weapons and equipment.

In the recruiting campaign the army hopes to boost its present strength of 13,968 to the required 18,750, the air force want to go from its present 11,804 to 12,150 and the navy from 6,871 to 7,500.

Los Angeles Reports Hit-And-Run Horse

LOS ANGELES.—First case of a hit and run horse in this overcrowded community of motor vehicles has been reported.

Cabbie Burl Grey said that while he was stopped at an intersection for a traffic signal, he felt two severe jolts and, upon investigating, found a big bay mare standing at the rear of the vehicle kicking in the back end.

The horse fled but was captured shortly afterward. Police said the animal was the same one that earlier had caused another highway disturbance.

Beneficial To Earn Part Of Education

Too few children appreciate the great sacrifices their parents make to give the young people a better education. It is a beneficial thing for any young man to earn part of his way. That is the only way he can appreciate the value of an education. Later in life when serious problems present themselves they will not be as great an obstacle to the student who worked hard in order to attain knowledge as they would to the student who put in time just for the social life.

Canada Waiting For Vampire Jet Fighters

OTTAWA.—Defence Minister, Hon. Brooke Claxton disclosed here that there has been a long delay in getting delivery of the 85 Vampire jet fighters ordered from Britain.

He said the planes should have been delivered last April but have not yet arrived.

They are mark three Vampires, with mark two Goblin jet engines.

PATH TO ALTAR CROSSES OCEANS — After Geraldine McKercher of North Cobalt went to England to meet parents of John Ford, Liverpool, her future in-laws, the couple decided to come to Canada to marry. John came to Noranda, worked in the mines, and Geraldine asked U.K. immigration officials to send her home but they got her a job instead. John returned to Liverpool, smuggled her on a boat, and they are in Halifax wondering if their troubles are over.

Vermilion Stores Open Until 10 on Saturday Nights

FOR BALANCE OF YEAR

Although it was originally intended to revert to 9 o'clock closing Saturday nights following the ending of daylight saving, Vermilion business men have decided to continue the same hours under Standard Time as observed all summer. This means that stores will remain open until 10 o'clock Saturday nights and gives the shopper 12½ hours continuous shopping hours that day, with 9 continuous hours week days, except Wednesdays which is a half day.

The decision to remain open until 10 p.m. Saturdays was reached due to the fact that it is a very late harvest and is for the convenience of the country people.

Store hours in [illegible]:
9 a.m. to 6 p.m. daily except Wed.
9.30 a.m. to 10 p.m. Saturday.
9 a.m. to 12 noon Wednesday

Alberta To Extend Its Highway Program

The Provincial Government's road policy was revealed in broad terms when Hon. A. J. Hooke, Minister of Economic Affairs addressed the Dominion Provincial tourist convention at Ottawa last week.

"I give you the assurance that it is our policy to extend our modern highway system to connecting highways in our neighboring provinces as rapidly as possible," said the Minister. "We intend to link paved highways with the highways of British Columbia through the Crowsnest Pass, through the Kicking Horse Pass, through the Yellowhead Pass and to the Peace River district. We expect to do the same with highways leading to connecting highways in Saskatchewan."

The Provincial Government undertook a $12,000,000 highway improvement program this year and the progress of this is being watched with extreme interest by the Alberta Motor Association.

The A.M.A. has stressed the need of building up a modern highway system in Alberta not only in the interests of the people here but also to attract tourists.

James Burr, west of town, got a return of 9,650 bushels of grain from this season's crop. A. J. F. MacPh[illegible] 24,700. W. P. McAlpine 22,000; Wm. Robinson 25,000 bushels. Two farmers made up an entire trainload of 31 cars of grain.

The Hat Trick

Three major promotion awards in one year! That's the hat-trick credited to CJCA after winning first place in Canada in Public Service Promotion in Billboard's 10th Annual Radio Promotion Competition.

CJCA's entry was based on public service done in the past year through the medium of the Ryers Flour Mills Kiddies' program featuring Uncle Hal Yerxa.

Entry was titled "Promotion by Self-Propulsion" and reviewed the numerous and varied public services [illegible] through the year. Presentation stressed the fact that through public service the program propelled itself from just an ordinary entertainment program to a valuable and powerful public service medium.

Two years ago CJCA received the Billboard Award for program promotion. Last year the Beaver came to CJCA in the field of listener relations and this year it's public service promotion.

It's a hat trick of which we are very proud as it brings CJCA's all-time total to eight major awards. Indeed an impressive record for Canadian stations, we believe.

MORRISON NEWS

Until Wednesday morning we could not complain about the weather as it was just like a summer's day on Tuesday. Everybody is busy threshing and gathering in their garden stuff. The writer picked crocuses on the hills two weeks ago so the seasons are apparently changing. There are lots of wild roses in the stubble fields.

The writer's little grandson Wayne, was christened at church a week ago [illegible]. It was our Harvest Thanksgiving service conducted by our new minister Mr. Tonge and everyone certainly enjoyed it. The church was beautifully decorated. We hope to see the congregation just as large on Sunday.

Bill and Lea Gillies spent Sunday visiting the family home. They all went to Christie and Laurence's for supper. It was Lea's birthday—sweet 16 isn't it Lea?

Lila Bowser spent last week in Edmonton and says Ruby is doing very well.

Let us all hope the threshing gets done before the weather breaks again. Mary Dupuitt has been helping every one who has the threshing gang—it is a good thing we have one girl left in Morrison.

PUBLIC IS MARKET-SHY

The Canadian investing public is definitely market-shy today says The Financial Post. 25 leading common stocks now yield more than 50% more than their 1946 highs, yet no rush to buy has developed. Many investors apparently prefer to sit tight until business and international situations clarify.

Franco Oils Now Making Good Gains

Franco Oils has compiled its annual report for the year ending May 31 with the result for that period that there is a loss of $12,924. [illegible] condition is largely due to the reconditioning cost on some of their older wells.

Cash at the end of the year was $5,492, bills receivable from wholly-owned subsidiaries $419,287 and advances receivable from other companies $16,265.

Current liabilities were $93,981 but of this amount $53,112 is payable in capital stock.

At present Oil & Gas Development Co. is the most productive of the company's subsidiaries, and they have 2 of the best wells in the Lloydminster Sask., area. Other wells that are being drilled should put the company in a much more favorable position in the current year.

The company has been the most persistent development factor as well as one of the first and in addition to the O. & G. Dev. Co. referred to, has another wholly-owned subsidiary, the Northern Natural Gas, which has the Saskatoon franchise. It has important affiliations in Vermilion Con. Oils and Vermilion Refinery Co., which has the refinery at Borradaile.

ISLAY

After all our worrying that there would be no threshing, it is being done and at a good pace too. Turning out a good average even though appearances seemed as if returns would be small.

Several letters have been received in Islay from Mr. and Mrs. Ott who went to Pickardville where Mr. Ott is principal of the school.

School here has settled down to real business. We are glad to welcome the children from Trimbleville, Holyrood, Kenilworth and Morrison. We hear the children say they like coming in to Islay. Mr. Lewis the janitor drives the Jeep station wagon which carries the Trimbleville pupils from the extreme north end of the district, while Mr. Inman transports 2 families on this end of the route and also goes to Holyrood for those pupils. Mr. Miller transports Morrison pupils as before and the Kenilworth children come individually.

Mrs. J. Bristow has been a patient for a few days in hospital, also Mrs. Nellie Coombe, Omer Easton and Mrs. John Young are up there too for a few days. Mrs. Coulson is acting matron while Mrs. Woods is on holidays.

Mrs. Baxter, an Islay old timer is in town this week. Mrs. Baxter has been in Vancouver for some months past.

The annual chicken supper of Knox church is set for Wednesday Oct. 29 at 6 p.m.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim McClelland have passage booked for Ireland, late in [illegible].

Fire Losses Increase In Alberta

FIRE PREVENTION WEEK

Alberta's fire bill for 1946 was 66% higher than it was five years ago; the number of fires increased by 40% over 1942, and 20% of the losses in the province in 1946 were uninsured according to figures released by the Western Canada Insurance Underwriter's Association for the purpose of calling attention to the importance of Fire Prevention Week.

Last year the release said, there were 2,316 fires in the province entailing a loss of $2,514,669 as compared with 1,652 fires, with losses totalling $1,565,156 in 1942. Only three provinces, Manitoba, Pr. Edward Island and Saskatchewan had a higher percentage of increase in the amount of fire damage than Alberta in the comparison between 1946 and 1942 losses.

Alberta's total for the year represented approximately 5% of the Dominion fire loss total for 1946 amounting to $49,112,363 of which [illegible] uninsured. During the year [illegible] men, 79 women and [illegible] children were killed by fire in Canada.

In five years our national bill for fire wastage has increased from 31 millions to 49 millions of dollars or by approximately 55%. Last year alone there were 11,005 fires in residential properties representing nearly 50% of all fires which indicates a national spirit of carelessness or apathy towards the wastage of resources by fire, and this at a time of a national shortage of homes.

Such a situation cannot improve until every Canadian realizes the seriousness of this wastage and observes more [illegible] regard to fire hazards.

Britain's Coal Mines

THE CRITICAL ECONOMIC SITUATION which has developed in Britain since the war is a matter of concern not only to the people there, but to this, and to many other countries which are linked to her by political and commercial ties. There are, indeed, few people who are not deeply concerned over this grim crisis which has followed on the long years of the war, when Britain literally threw her entire resources into the fight. It was not generally anticipated then that the end of the war would bring the tremendous economic problems with which the British people are now faced, and it is realized that this is a problem which extends far beyond the boundaries of the British Isles. What is being done to assist Britain at this time, as well as what the government there is doing to meet the situation should be of interest and concern to all of us.

* * * * *

Need Coal To Provide Power

One of the fundamental causes of the present crisis is lack of sufficient coal to supply power for the great industrial output which is needed to produce goods for Britain to sell abroad, and at the same time to supply enough for the nation's domestic needs. In an effort to solve this problem the government has inaugurated an intensive mechanization programme for the coal mines which involves the spending of thirty-six million dollars for coal face machinery. This is announced to be one of the main points in the National Coal Board's plan for a large-scale re-organization of the mining industry. There are also twenty major schemes for sinking new pits and for reconstructing existing mines, each at a cost of approximately twelve million dollars. In addition, a long-term project for developing new mines and improving existing ones has been drawn up, to extend over the next nine years.

* * * * *

Will Surmount Present Crisis

Further provisions which have been made for increasing the efficiency of the coal mines include the appointment of a Chief Scientist in each division, with staffs and laboratories equipped to provide scientific assistance and advice. There have also been set up facilities for chemical, medical and physical research which will help to improve production and also to increase the safety of the mines, and guard the health of the workers. During the war the British people failed to be daunted by seemingly insurmountable difficulties, and it is unlikely that they will meet defeat in the present crisis. It is apparent that they are making a mighty effort to solve the fundamental problem of coal production and it is to be hoped that this project, and others which they undertake, will meet with success. It is also to be hoped that through these efforts, and with what help other nations can extend, Britain will again find her rightful place in the world economic order and enjoy prosperity at home.

Move To Legalize Use Of Margarine

Vancouver North Member To Sponsor Bill In Parliament

(By F. Swanson In Ottawa Citizen)

OTTAWA. — Fight to legalize the manufacture and sale of margarine in Canada is to be carried to the House of Commons at the next session of parliament by James Sinclair (Lib-Vancouver North) who plans to introduce a bill permitting the butter substitute, it was learned here.

Mr. Sinclair's bill will be the latest in a long series of attempts to rescind legislation which prohibits the importation, manufacture or sale of the butter substitute in Canada.

During the last session of parliament, Senator W. D. Euler introduced such a bill into the Upper Chamber which was defeated after long and hectic debate by the government's majority in the Senate. In view of the fact that Mr. Sinclair is a government supporter, the fate of his bill and its progress in the House will be an interesting development.

Since the defeat of Senator Euler's measure at the last session, he has indicated that he planned to challenge the validity of government legislation prohibiting the importation and manufacture of margarine in the Dominion. So far, however, no court action has resulted.

Canada today is the only country of the world which prohibits the manufacture of margarine. If the bill is passed by both houses, it would permit the sale of margarine in Canada for the first time in 24 years.

Kamsack Women On School Board For First Time

KAMSACK, Sask.—For the first time in Kamsack's history, women have been elected to public office. Mrs. C. D. Woodward and Mrs. W. E. Mallow were elected as trustees to the public school board, filling two vacancies caused by resignation.

They advocated an active co-operative school board, a home and school club, a kindergarten, audio visual education, music training and a well balanced education. For children in a wholesome environment, the two women were elected by an overwhelming majority.

The Good Hunter Is Careful One

You too can become, or cause, a casualty this hunting season unless you follow the following practical advice given by the Quebec Safety League.

Hold the gun in the hollow of your arm, across the front of the person, with hand on grip and muzzle of gun elevated about 45 degrees.

A loaded gun should be carried at half-cock unless the person is about to point towards some game. When getting into a boat or vehicle, or when climbing over a fence, the gun should precede the person carrying it.

And, most important, never shoot at "something moving". Always make sure the "something" isn't another hunter.

Of course all these things are well know, but it won't do anyone any harm to read them again.

Trans-Canada Highway Construction Said Overdue

Construction of a trans-Canada highway system is "long overdue" not only from the standpoint of provincial trade and commerce but because of its "tremendous importance" to the tourist industry, it was stated on Wednesday last in a brief presented by Hon. A. J. Hooke, minister of economic affairs, at an Ottawa conference of Canadian tourist officials.

Full text of the brief was released by government officials here. Mr. Hooke and L. le Byrne, deputy minister, are representing the government at the conference.

"Everyone at this meeting will agree that a trans-Canada highway system is an urgent necessity," the brief stated. It asked that the conference urge the federal government to establish a modern highway system from coast to coast.

The brief said the Alberta government was taking steps to link highway systems with those of neighboring provinces. The brief revealed the province had pledged itself to pave the highway from Edmonton to Edson but added some form of federal aid should be forthcoming to assist in paving the road from Edmonton to Jasper National Park.

The Alberta government, the brief said, felt strongly that a form of federal aid to provinces for highway construction should be instituted. "Such action would have an untold benefit on the development of a larger and more remunerative tourist traffic," it added. Edmonton Journal.

For the purpose of urging a trans-Canada highway through this part of Western Canada and through the Yellowhead route to Prince Rupert and Vancouver, the Vermilion Board of Trade has arranged a mass meeting of representatives from every town between North Battleford and Edmonton as well as these two cities. Replies to the invitations sent out have come in from practically every centre contacted. All visitors to Vermilion will be the guests of the Board of Trade at a luncheon at the Vermilion school of agriculture at 12:30 noon Wednesday Oct. 15th.

Chief address will be given by Mayor H. D. Ainlay of Edmonton, president of the Trans-Canada Highway System Association (Yellowhead Route). Resolutions will be made and representations forwarded to the proper federal authorities.

ETHELWYN

Will harvest and threshing ever be completed? Rain nearly every night and we hear of some fields of barley being a total loss. Farming seems to be [illegible] of a headache each year. Has anyone heard of the price of wheat rising to compare with the rise in the price of flour?

We have a new threshing outfit in our district this fall operated by Marvin Burns and Allan MacDonald. The power is furnished by Marvin's Jeep.

Sincere sympathy is extended to Mrs. Ronald MacPhee and family who were bereaved by the death of their beloved husband and father. Sympathy is also extended to Mrs. McGillivary and her father Mr. Gallagher who were cousins of the deceased man.

Mr. Gallagher will be glad to have his friends call on him at the home of his daughter, Mr. and Mrs. McGillivary as he will make his home there in the future.

Roddy MacDonald has returned to his home after working away all summer. Isabel Waterworth has been helping Mrs. MacDonald for the past month and attending school.

Everyone will be glad to hear that Patsy MacDonald is taking grade 10 at Vegreville and not grade 9 over again as she originally planned.

We are glad to report that Mr. and Mrs. Shipper and 2 children have returned to their farm in this district. They went to the city several years ago to do war work.

Roberge's cafe in Clandonald is now open. Mrs. Cliff Cunningham is in charge of the kitchen and Una Lawrence is the waitress.

The writer's neighbors feel that the matter of roads has been neglected badly in these columns of late. After recounting the following story there isn't much more need be said. Last week our long suffering mail carrier brought the mail through with a 4 horse team. The horses were so tired that he couldn't even get back home for supper as he usually does, but stopped at MacGillivary's to feed and rest the horses. We know that the Council isn't responsible for three weeks' rain but if only we had a little work done on our roads they wouldn't get into such a state. There is no use asking for more roads from the council. We elected them to office and pay their remuneration but from there on it is apparently hands off. What is the next move? A petition to Hon. W. A. Fallow? The writer would like to know the opinions of the rest of the ratepayers of this district.

This may not be a record but it is certainly worth telling. Last May Mrs. MacGillivary bought 50 white Leghorn roosters from the hatchery. For two weeks she kept them beside the kitchen stove. She then put them out with hens and every one of the 50 chicks lived.

The Big Brother Bills are at it again—help them build a home for the Scouts, Cubs, Guides and the Brownies by buying advance tickets to the Elks Carnival Oct. 31, Nov. 1 and 2.

RIVERTON

Mrs. P. Hansen had a pleasant surprise recently when her brother and a friend from Wisconsin, U.S.A., called on her for four days. Mr. and Mrs. Hansen's [illegible] son is visiting them for a [illegible].

Congratulations to Warren [illegible] who was married in September [illegible] monton. Every happiness is extended to Warren and his wife.

The Hansens really are in the news this week. To top things off, Mr. Hansen was threshing one evening when all of a sudden there was bang and the old outfit was exhausted. The men discovered that a gunny sack, a pair of rubber boots, a cap and a pair of socks and a mackinaw coat had been put through with a bundle. There were many good laughs—but the incident and the machine was running order next morning.

Miss R. Bruchowsky was home for the week end.

Mr. J. Ward is home from [illegible] tion at Kamloops, B.C.

Mrs. Spicer is spending a few days

Joint Hostess Shower For Bride-Elect

On Friday October 3rd at the Masonic Temple a very enjoyable evening was spent in honor of Miss Leslie Claire Lipsey whose marriage to Mr Douglas Brimacombe takes place on October 15th. Some 70 guests gathered on this occasion.

The evening was spent playing whist and a solo was rendered by Miss Marjorie West. This was followed by a community sing song.

The hall was decorated with autumn leaves and the tea table was tastefully arranged with tall white tapers and bouquets of marigold and autumn leaves.

A dainty buffet luncheon was served by the hostesses. Presiding at the coffee urns were Mrs. C. P. Lipsey and Mrs. James Lipsey, mother and grandmother of the bride-to-be.

The guest of honor was presented with many beautiful and useful gifts in a large gaily decorated umbrella and garden wagon. The bride-elect thanked the guests very appropriately.

Hostesses were Mrs. A. Sinclair, Mrs M Hill, Mrs Jas D Adam, Mrs E Corley Mrs A E Kaiser, Mrs. A M West Mrs L Amos, Mrs. W. J Bell Mrs W Cross.

Social Evening Held At Salvation Army Hall

On Wednesday evening Oct. 1st in the Salvation Army hall a program and social evening was rendered by the ladies of the Salvation Army Home League in aid of parcels for Britain. For the past few years parcels have been sent to Home League members in Britain by the Vermilion Home League. This year they are sending bigger and better parcels and would like to thank the friends who attended the program and donated food stuffs—Let's do this more often folks!

WOODVALE

We forgot to mention in our last news that Miss Rose, who conducted church services in Gaston-Watson and Union schools left for Toronto and that she will be greatly missed.

Suzanne Goutier was home for a couple of days after her final exams and now she has gone back to Vegreville where se will be employed as a nurse.

Threshing started once again: it took almost the whole week of nice fall weather to dry the stooks and the ground sufficiently. The days are already quite short and the evening showers every night last week did not make for an early start in the morning, still, fairly good progress is being made.

The Red Cross meeting at the home of Mrs. S. Oldenburg on Oct. 1st was poorly attended, only 6 members were able to work on the quilt but could not finish it and the two Mrs. Oldenburg kindly offered to complete the work. Lunch was served at the home of Mrs. Edna Oldenburg and greatly enjoyed. The next meeting will be on Nov. 5th at the home of Mrs. Van Wagenningen.

GUN SHOT CAUSES RUNAWAY

When a shotgun was fired in the vicinity of the field where Ern Green was working with the binder the horses bolted and quite a number of parts were broken on the binder. At that it was exceedingly lucky the shot did not go off 5 minutes earlier when Mr Green was fixing the knives after having run into sandy mole-hills. With all the hunting going on these fine fall days a word of caution might be in place not to use firearms when farmers are busy with horses in the neighborhood. The sound of a gun carries far and seems even at quite a distance to have a frightening effect on horses.

The first week of October is almost over at time of writing and still the garden is full of flowers, not only the faithful [illegible] but all kinds of others are blooming again and it is not hard to pick a bouquet for the house. Even the goldfishes are still enjoying life outside in the lily pond.

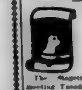
Pretty soon now the main road will be ready for use from Gaston school north, the crew is working now on the last half mile.



Stagette Notes

The Stagettes held their regular meeting Tuesday with 22 members present. It sure was nice to see the club room filled to capacity again. A hearty welcome is extended to all the new members.

Plans are now underway for Stagettes week, Nov. 1 to 7 and we hope to make it a good one this year.

After a short business meeting Timothy gave a talk on the origin and purpose of stagettes for the benefit of new members.

Arleigh bride-elect of Oct. 14 was presented with a gift to which she [illegible] responded. Our best wishes go to the young couple.

Mayor Presents Town Brief on Taxes To Royal Commission

SITTING HELD HERE TUESDAY

Vermilion River Municipality Brief Presented by Reeve Currie

The Royal Commission on Tax Enquiry sat at the Masonic hall on Tuesday last and heard briefs submitted by the Town of Vermilion and the Municipal District of Vermilion Valley. Mr. J. W Judge is chairman of the Commission assisted by Professor Stewart of the Economics department of the university. Mr. Kenneth A. Mackenzie is Counsel for the Commissioner.

The submission for the Town was presented by J. W. G. Morrison, K.C., several sections of which were discussed at some length by the Commissioners and Counsel.

Mr. Morrison in opening his brief stated that taxes were becoming a burden upon the people but pointed out that these were largely created by the demand of the public for the expenditure of money on social securities, better and improved conditions of living, improved streets, police services, sanitation and health, airfields, recreation grounds, water and sewer systems, better and improved school facilities, training schools for economic and household sciences and heavy requisitions for educational purposes. He felt we had arrived at a stage in municipal government where senior governments must accept a greater share of the responsibility of financing municipal corporations.

Among the items upon which the Mayor appealed to the Commission for relief were cost of maintaining indigents, "wandering" indigents, juvenile offenders and families of men convicted under the Criminal Code. He also pointed out the increased cost of education and suggested that the government might take over the payment of salaries to teachers in connection with which he mentioned particularly the salaries of high school teachers. He stressed the levy of business taxes upon Treasury branches and liquor vendors stating if the province was in business in towns the province should pay business taxes. Treasury branches and liquor vendors pay nothing towards the expense of civic administration he claimed. There should be relief with respect to bus companies and public service truckers. They were in competition with railway companies which pay both property and business taxes. School grants should be enlarged and the list of exemptions should be revised, stating that every piece of property exempt throws an additional burden upon the tax payer. He felt that a portion of the unearned increment tax should come back to the towns as value of properties was increased by the expenditure of public moneys.

Towns he said, were restricted to a tax on land and consequently the incidence of taxation fell on property owners and this was now approaching the breaking point. He appealed in closing for some form of relief either by the province taking over the entire responsibility or the government paying a substantial portion of the cost of maintenance of the items of expenditure enumerated in his brief.

Mr. J. A. Currie, reeve of the municipal district of Vermilion Valley presented the brief on behalf of the council of that district claiming there should be a readjustment of the assessment act, better provision made for the cost of building highways, adjustment of the mineral tax such as to permit Councils to assess the oil companies at such rate as to compensate to some extent the cost of maintaining roads used to transport oils and a more equitable system of evaluating lands according to locations.

The Standard intends to carry a more extended review of Mr. Currie's brief next week, time and lack of space preventing it this issue.

Hallowe'en Party for School Children Grade 1 to Grade 9

SHOW AND TREATS — SPONSORED BY TEACHERS, PARENTS CONTRIBUTIONS ASKED

This year again the parents and teachers of the school children are arranging a treat for grades 1 to 9 inclusive to take the place of the traditional Hallowe'en "tricks or treats".

A door-to-door canvass will be made under supervision by pairs of boys or girls for the purpose of collecting enough cash donations to defray the expenses of a special picture show followed by a treat.

Please receive the children generously and do your share to help the teachers and parents put on a bigger, better and more sensible Hallowe'en.

The canvass for cash donations will be made several days prior to Hallowe'en.

It is understood that this treat for the children will render absolutely unnecessary the usual door-to-door solicitation for treats on Hallowe'en night.

Luminous Ball in the Sky Mystifies Vermilion People

A flaming object about the size of a basketball was observed travelling through the sky at a low altitude over the farm of John Eyben Sunday evening at 9:15. The phenomenon was seen by John Eyben and his brother-in-law from Edmonton Dick Rae who was spending Thanksgiving at the farm. The light from the mysterious ball illuminated the entire countryside and the flash was observed in many houses at that time in both town and country.

The ball was of bright blue, gradually turning to red, it was travelling in a westerly direction. Approximately four minutes after it had passed over the Eyben farm a dull explosion was heard and it was thought that the bright object had exploded. It made no noise when moving and left no tail and could be likened to a huge skyrocket before exploding. It was not extra big, Johnny said. Reports of similar objects being seen in two other parts of the West at approximately the same time have been received by newspapers.

Mr. Eyben's farm is located 18 miles south and 5 miles west of Vermilion.

Fire Brigade Has Run

The fire brigade was called to the residence of A Oxbaldeslor late Tuesday afternoon where a pail of hot tar caught fire in the basement. The flames had spread to the adjacent doorway before being doused and dense smoke filled the basement and house. The tar was being melted over a gas heater in the basement and was being used to cover the [illegible]. Considerable damage was caused by the thick black smoke throughout the house.

Sudden Death of Jim Nash Here

Passed Away Early Sunday Morning —Spending Holiday Week-end in Vermilion

Sudden death came to Jim Nash while he was renewing old acquaintances in Vermilion over the Thanksgiving week end. Jim, who grew up in the Whitmore district and resided in Edmonton, had driven to Vermilion to spend the Thanksgiving holiday renewing old friendships hereabouts.

He had taken a room at a hotel and had retired in apparent good health Sunday evening. At about 1:30 a.m. Monday he came down to the night clerk and requested that a doctor be called as he was suffering severe internal pains. He returned to his room and must have immediately passed away as he was dead a few minutes later when the doctor arrived.

The deceased suffered from severe stomach ulcers and death was apparently due to internal hemorrhage.

He had served during the war in the R.C.A.F. and following his discharge had worked in Edmonton where he was employed by the New West Homes a house building company.

Jim was not married and leaves his mother Mrs E. Nash and sister Mrs. Russell Cruthers both of whom reside at New Westminster and who came to Vermilion on receipt of the sad news.

Tag Day for Blind Saturday, Oct. 18th

On Saturday Oct. 18 the citizens of Vermilion and district will be given the opportunity to support and help the great humanitarian work of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind. On that day the Frog Lake Chapter I.O.D.E. and W.A. to Canadian Legion are jointly sponsoring a tag day and it is the accumulation of coins dropped into the tag boxes which enables this important work to be carried on.

Close your eyes — Think — Give generously.

"Search for Talent" Show Much Enjoyed

RUTH BEATTY TOPS CONTESTANTS

Standing room was at a premium at the Elks hall Saturday evening last when the Edmonton club of the Associated Canadian Travellers presented their Search For Talent show with all proceeds in aid of the Northern Alberta Crippled Children's fund.

Over 300 people crowded into the hall and 10 contestants did their best to roll up a huge total of dollars for the crippled children.

Little Miss Ruth Beatty eight year old daughter of Mrs. Nancy Beatty proved the star of the show as far as the big audience was concerned. She sang them a song entitled "The Girl That I Marry" and from that time on her popularity vote mounted up by leaps and bounds.

Second in the running is Lenore Michael, Tom Clandonald, 3rd Margaret McMillan, 4th, Jack Bauman, 5th Anne Stewart and Diane Wiebe, 6th Joan Arthur.

The contest does not close until Saturday Oct. 18th at noon and anyone still wishing to make a contribution on behalf of any of the contestants may do so by mailing their donation to radio station CFRN, in care of Search For Talent show. Results will be announced over CFRN Saturday night at 9:30.

Every one of the 10 contestants did his or her part in making the program very enjoyable and successful, assisted by eminent radio artists from CFRN. The program was on the air for an hour and a very nice talk about Vermilion was given at the opening by the emcee. The local sponsoring organization of this concert was the B.P.O.E.

Legion Highlights

After a very quiet and inactive month of September which was brought on us with the very poor weather Legion activities have again got back to normal. There are a number of events of interest coming up in the near future and we will keep you posted on these in your Legion Highlights.

BANQUET NOV. 5

Something we would like to bring to your attention at this time is the gigantic banquet to be held Wednesday Nov. 5th in the Elks hall. This banquet is being held primarily in honor of those returned men who were not entertained or officially welcomed home by the Town of Vermilion in their banquet held in Nov., 1946. An invitation is going out to every returned man in the district and we sincerely hope for a 100 per cent response. This banquet is planned on a very large scale and there will be a number of prominent personalities on hand. We are hoping to have Mr. Hubert Fair, M.P. for Vermilion constituency along with a Legion command representative in attendance. This should prove to be a very interesting social evening and we want all returned men to set aside the evening of Wednesday Nov. 5 for this occasion.

PROGRESS ON NEW HALL

The Legion hall is beginning to show definite progress now that the [illegible] The floor [illegible] and the walls of brick [illegible] begun to take shape. A bee was held this past Monday with a good turnout of members and a lot of work was accomplished. It is planned to have another one soon.

Who is Premier of Alberta?

Wildmere Winks

Mr. Steve Tibager of Rosswood, who was rushed to the hospital on Tuesday of last week suffering with heart [redacted], [redacted] away the next evening. He will be greatly missed by all who knew him and his cheery wave when you passed going to town is no more. He leaves to mourn his passing his [illegible] passing his sorrowing wife, two sons and two grandchildren. One son lives in the States but was able to come for the funeral. His other son Joe resides in Rosswood. All their neighbors and friends join in sympathy to the sorrowing family in their hour of trouble. The funeral was held Tuesday at the Roman Catholic church in Vermilion.

Another death that shocked the whole community was the sudden passing of Jim Nash. While he has been away since he joined the Air Force and since he has been discharged has lived in Edmonton, he practically grew up among us. He lived in the Vancott district where his father passed away nine years ago. Later the family moved to the Rosswood district and from there into Vermilion. Jim was well liked by all who knew him and his early passing is mourned by everyone. Our sincere sympathy goes out to his mother and sister at the Coast in their sudden and sad bereavement. Jim was another whose book of life did not have many pages and the last page was completed. He will be greatly missed, as even at times when he was not feeling the best he was always cheerful and very thoughtful of [illegible].

Wet weather has again held up the threshing for a week. As each week passes the days get shorter and there is less chance of the grain drying out. We all hope this time it stays dry and lets all get through.

Laurence Graham was an Edmonton visitor on business last week. While in the city he called on Bill Frissell and family. Bill's little girl Carole just came home from the hospital that day where she had undergone an operation for a ruptured appendix. She was regaining her strength and health quite quickly. Best of luck [illegible].

Alex Smith and family of Edmonton came down over the long week end to visit at the Smith and Cleland homes. Alex also got in some duck [illegible].

John Wilson has been busy during the wet spell painting his house. A little paint can make a place look smart and shows that people do care [illegible].

Sunday evening Mrs. Harry Howard and Lloyd were supper guests at the Wellington home. A nice visit was enjoyed during the evening. We are very pleased to hear that Mrs. Mattee is improving in health again and is [illegible].

Mrs. Rodell of Edmonton who has spent the past three months with her granddaughter Mrs. Roy Pitchen of [illegible] Rosswood returned home last Friday.

Woodvale writes to quite right in warning hunters not to shoot close to horses which are being worked in fields. Horses are very nervous of the noise of a gun.

Signs that show we might have an open fall (we hope)—Meadow larks, robins and [illegible] of black birds still with us and lots of gophers out yet. Mrs. Wilson and the Whitlock children found a crocus and a violet in bloom on their way home from school, the writer found a half-grown wild raspberry and others in bloom; wouldn't it be just too good to be true if winter stayed away until Xmas for a change as it used to.

Don't Run Over My Little Girl!

Phil Brainiff in the following letter gives a compelling argument for safe driving and sane thinking . . . it is well worth reading.

(In the Tulsa World)

Today my daughter, who is seven years old, started off to school as usual. She wore a dark blue dress with a white collar. She had on black shoes and wore blue gloves. Her cocker-spaniel, whose name is "Scout" sat on the front porch and whined his canine belief in the folly of education as she waved "goodby" and started off to the halls of learning.

Tonight we talked about school. She told me about the girl who sits in front of her — the girl with the yellow curls—and the boy across the aisle who makes funny faces. She told me about her teacher who has eyes in the back of her head — and about the trees in the school yard — about the big girl who doesn't believe in Santa Claus. We talked about a lot of things—tremendously vital unimportant things. Then we studied spelling, reading and arithmetic and—then to bed.

She's back there now—back in the nursery—sound asleep, with 'Princess Elizabeth' (that's a doll) cuddled in her right arm. You guys wouldn't hurt her, would you? You see, I'm her daddy. When her doll is broken, or her finger is cut, or her head gets bumped, I can fix it—but when she starts across the street, then she's in your hands.

She's a nice kid. She can run like a deer and dart about like a chipmunk. She likes to ride horses and swim and hike with me on Sunday afternoons. But I can't be with her all the time—I have to work to pay for her clothes and her education. So —please drive slowly past the schools and intersections—and remember that children run from behind parked cars.

Please don't run over my little girl.

—PHIL BRAINIFF

LET'S BE CLEAR ABOUT NEWFOUNDLAND—

If Newfoundlanders decide to throw in their lot with ours, Canadians will gladly welcome them. For the sake of future goodwill, however, it is to be hoped that whatever the decision, it will have the support of the vast majority, declares The Financial Post editorially.

"It is to be hoped that Newfoundlanders thoroughly understand the Canadian position. There is no thought of 'taking over another province' or 'rounding out our destiny.' If it gets that far, it is union that will be proposed, not adoption.

"The important thing, however, is that each side understands that this must be a purely voluntary merger. There must be no false hopes or wild promises. Years from now we don't want to hear Newfoundlanders declaring that they were robbed or that they didn't know what was ahead of them."

Kiss With Care

A 'burning' question, at a period when there are epidemics of colds, is "to kiss or not to kiss." Don't! warn the medical men. Better, they say, to break a heart, by acting as though cold, than to flirt with infection if one has a cold. Osculation is definitely one perfect way of picking up germs. They simply cling to a person. So, sweethearts, when you or your loved one has a cold, the expert advice is, "They say and be careful."

Tuberculosis Deaths Show Increase

Only Saskatchewan and Ontario Report A Fall In The 1946 Death Rate

OTTAWA. — Canada lost ground last year in the battle against tuberculosis, the Canadian Tuberculosis Association reported in announcing the necessity of intensifying its tuberculosis program across the Dominion.

Figures released by the Vital Statistics Branch of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics disclosed that 226 more Canadians died last year from the disease than in the previous year.

A total of 5,797 Canadians died of TB in 1946 and the TB death-rate has climbed from 45.9 per 100,000 of population, the 1945 all-time low, to 47.2.

Only Ontario and Saskatchewan have reported a fall in the 1946 death-rate, which was 26.4 in Ontario, and 26.6 in Saskatchewan. Quebec stood highest at 72.2. Other provinces: Alberta 37.1; Manitoba 44.6; British Columbia 57.7; New Brunswick 57.9; Prince Edward Island 56.5; Nova Scotia 61.9.

"There is some consolation in the fact that the 1946 death-rate is still below the average established during the war years, but it is regrettable that the rate should be going up instead of down," said Dr. G. J. Wherrett, C.T.A. executive secretary. "It is all the more disappointing because our neighbor across the line, the United States, is able to report an all-time low of 33.9 per 100,000 of population during 1946."

Hunter! Make Sure It's A Deer

There are always people who should never be permitted to handle firearms—and a lot of them seem to be hunting enthusiasts. Some of them are criminally careless. They blaze away at every sound and shadow, not bothering to find out what they are aiming at before they pull the trigger. Then there are others who are temperamentally unsuited. They get tense, nervous, carried away with excitement. Their imagination plays tricks on them—makes a man look like a deer or a bear or a partridge or a rabbit or a duck.

When we say this, we are not exaggerating, but simply recalling the sworn testimony given at inquests in this province by men who have killed other men. It is all there in the records of coroners' courts. "I thought he was a deer". "I saw something moving behind the leaves, and I thought it was a bear."

In one case the father of three children was taken for a partridge. It was stupid, but not funny, and nobody could have expected the widow to say graciously, "It's all right—we all make mistakes."—St. John Telegraph-Journal.

Whaling Industry Probable For Prairies

Whaling seems a highly improbable industry to become established on or near the Prairies. Nevertheless, an effort is reported under way to develop it in Manitoba. A Toronto company plans to start hunting white whales in Hudson Bay next Summer; the carcasses will be dealt with at a plant on the shore of the bay, probably near Churchill.

The enterprise is not without precedent. Hudson Bay was a famous whaling ground for many years, much frequented by ships from New England. This is the first time, however, that any attempt has been made to process the oil and other produce in Canada.—Edmonton Journal.

DIPHTHERIA AND WHOOPING COUGH DECLINE

The situation in Canada in 1946 in regard to diphtheria and whooping cough showed marked improvement in comparison with the previous year. Provisional figures issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reveal there were less cases of and fewer deaths from these two diseases last year.

The whooping cough situation, in particular, showed marked improvement, with more than a 50 per cent reduction in fatalities recorded. In 1945 there were 12,192 cases with 457 deaths, against 7,671 cases and only 236 deaths in 1946. Improvement in the diphtheria picture was not as spectacular. In 1946 there were 2,535 cases and 239 deaths, against the 1945 figures of 2,706 cases and 270 deaths.

At that, however, diphtheria and whooping cough each caused more fatalities than dread poliomyelitis which in 1946 was in epidemic stage. There were 2,527 cases of polio with 177 deaths. In 1945 there were only 884 cases of polio and 34 deaths.

Increased use of diphtheria toxoid and whooping cough vaccine is reflected in the lowered case and death rates. These two preventive agents can wipe out diphtheria and whooping cough just as vaccination has eliminated smallpox.

However, until both diphtheria and whooping cough have been wiped out as menaces to the health and lives of children, there still will be need of intense immunization campaigns. That is why there is continued need for such annual observances as "National Immunization Week" which is sponsored throughout Canada by the Health League of Canada in co-operation with health departments.

The Health League requests that parents or guardians of children who have not been immunized against diphtheria and whooping cough—and smallpox, too—consult their health departments or their family physician at once.

Fishermen Capture 1,000-Pound Turtle

CLARK'S HARBOR, N.S. — A 1,000-pound turtle was harpooned, hog-tied after a one-hour battle and towed into port by three fishermen in a small boat here.

When harpooned the monster at first took the boat in tow and only when it surfaced were the men, Claremont and Delma Jones and Wilfred Rennahan, able to throw a rope around and later shoot it.

Since they were unable to haul it into the craft they towed it to port.

ANSWER: Mother's Day became a legal holiday in 1914, largely through efforts of Miss Anna Jarvis, of Philadelphia. The date, the second Sunday in May, was selected because it came nearest the anniversary of her mother's birth. However, the idea had been suggested by others long before.

Car Accidents On Increase At Night

3 OUT OF 5 AFTER DARK

With shorter periods of daylight at [illegible] drivers need to use extra care to avoid accidents according to [illegible] by officials of the Alberta Motor Association.

Statistics compiled by the National Safety Council reveal that the night fatal accident rate per mile is three times as high as the daytime rate. These conclusions were reached after special studies.

The survey showed that over a 12-month period three out of every 5 fatal accidents occur at night, when the traffic volume is only one-fourth of the daily volume.

There has been a steady rise in the number of night fatal accidents with the rise in rural areas running as high as 70 per cent.

Highest death rates were reached in December and January when there were more hours of darkness. Low months were June and July when daylight hours are at a maximum.

The effects of reduced visibility on the death rate were revealed in the figures showing 58 per cent of the pedestrians killed between the hours of 6 and 7 p.m. met death during November, December and January when that hour is dark.

The report is convincing proof of the need of motorists being extra careful when driving at night.

Pioneer Days Recalled At United Ch. W.A. Meeting

The following story of personal experiences in the very early days of settlement in the district some 20 miles south of Vermilion was told by Mrs Albert Holte at a meeting of the United Church W.A. held at the home of Mrs E. M. Stewart. Mrs. Holte came to the district as a very small girl direct from the old country.

PART I

EARLY DAYS IN WILDMERE

For the next few minutes I am going to take you back to forty years ago when Vermilion and its vicinity were still very young. I believe the C.N.R. came through here in 1905 and left in its wake the very small village of Vermilion.

As I am recalling these incidents from personal experiences I will have to take you out into the country — to be exact 20 miles south of here on what is now the old Wainwright highway. My father, his brother and an old friend took up homesteads there in the spring of 1906. As they had been store clerks in comparatively big cities in the old country they found homesteading indeed a very thrilling and new experience.

The [illegible] was spent in building a log house, digging a well, breaking a patch of land and putting up sheds for the stock. Also preparing for the arrival of the rest of the family which consisted of our paternal grandparents, an aunt, mother and we four children ages 10, 8, 6 and 2.

We arrived on the farm the 1st day of November via oxen and a wagon. We thought we were at the last outpost of civilization as there were only three other families within neighboring distance—one had a horse ranch six miles to the south-east, the other a bachelor had a cattle ranch 4 miles to the south-west and the other lived half way between us and Vermilion. The rest of the country was a rolling mass of grass sloughs, lakes and bluffs as far as the eye could see. The Grand Trunk Railway hadn't come through yet (this is the Wainwright line) so the nearest village to the south was Hardisty.

Coming to town was a big event at that time as it took 3 days to make the trip. We had 2 teams of oxen, one a heavy set team named Tim and Buck, the other were much lighter in weight and were used for travelling from one place to another. This team we called Roy and Darkie. The first day they would travel about 15 miles having to cross a wide deep creek and later the Grizzly Bear coulee. There were no graded roads nor bridges. At night the outfit camped at a lake 5 miles south of town. The next morning the journey to town was completed, business accomplished and back to the same camping spot by night. The third day saw everyone safely home again. As this was such a tiresome trip we children or women folk never went along and three years went by before we ever saw Vermilion. We had no school during those three years so mother insisted that we write letters to our cousins and relatives in the old country to help us in our writing, spelling etc. After we had gone to bed we could hear the grown-ups commenting on these letters and having a good laugh—I don't know whether it was the spelling or the drift of language—it seemed to be very amusing anyway.

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY—

The Ten Dollar Bill

By MARGARET C. COBB

WHEN Sally Carter spied the crisp green of the bill lying against the white of the sidewalk that bordered the Engineering building, she dropped the handle of the baby carriage and swooped down upon it, turning her back, for the moment, on the ivy-covered brick and the great elms of the university campus.

"Look, Richey, look!" she cried happily to the cheerful bright-eyed boy in the carriage. "A ten-dollar bill—a real, brand new ten-dollar bill. I found it myself, and I can spend it any way I please!"

Turning the carriage briskly to return the way she had come, Sally sped her [illegible] back toward the trailer camp that nestled at the foot of the hill, a [illegible] for married student veterans enjoying the benefits of the GI [illegible] of Rights. With her red checked pinafore and her blond curls whipping around her in the [illegible] autumn sunlight, she seemed more the older sister with the care of a little brother for the day than a [illegible] herself.

Once inside her trailer home she hurriedly hung the pinafore in the tiny clothes closet and reached for her best skirt and sweater. "Do you know what I'm going to do with the money first thing, Richey?" she cried happily. "I'm going to get you a play pen, so you can stay out in the fresh air all day long and have plenty of room to wiggle around in. My goodness, I know a crib is no place to raise a boy like you, but we can't buy everything on the [illegible] they give Daddy to go to college—not 'til we pay off some of the debts we ran up before his allowance started, anyway."

Sally dropped the sweater to give the baby a quick, impetuous hug. "I just wish I could buy Daddy a nice quiet place where he could study all by himself," she exclaimed, "but anyway we'll get him that pipe he wants, and maybe there'll be enough money left over to get me some dress material!"

Flinging on the sweater and brushing out her blond curls, she hurried the baby into the carriage. Speeding joyfully across the campus toward town, her hand straying often to the money in her pocket, Sally suddenly slowed her pace, her face sober.

"Oh dear," she thought, "I've been so happy about having some money all my own that it hadn't even occurred to me that it belongs to someone else. Oh dear!" She struggled a moment with her well-trained conscience, then tossed her chin in the air and continued toward town, holding her mind to the thought of the pleasure the money would bring the three of them. She passed the Engineering building resolutely, turned [illegible] hill past the library, and a moment later swung the carriage about and began to retrace her steps.

"Oh, Richey," she murmured [illegible] as she neared the spot where she had found the bill. "It was so nice just for a little while to have some money all my own, that wasn't marked for rent, or food, or the debt."

Parking the carriage at the door to the Engineering building, she entered, hesitated a moment outside a door marked 'Office', and went in. The secretary, an energetic, [illegible] greyhead, looked up as Sally laid the bill on the desk.

"I found this outside the building, Miss Hanson, so I guess it belongs to someone in here." She was talking fast, turning to leave.

"Wait a minute, Mrs. Carter," the older woman called as she reached the door. "You may as well keep it. I don't see how we can ever find out who it belongs to, as no one has reported a loss. 'Finders keepers', you know. Now you just [illegible] down town with it and see what you can buy," she finished gaily, her wise glance seeing the sudden happiness on Sally's face.

"Do her good to have some money all her own," Miss Hanson muttered as the door closed. "Of course I should have held it a day or two in case anyone asked about it, but that child probably hasn't had a dollar to spend as she likes since Richard entered here."

Outside, Sally was hugging Richey happily. "Miss Hanson said I should keep it," she told him, "and she ought to know. She's been working in there for years and years, Daddy says. Let's go down town!"

In mid-afternoon, about the time Sally was unwrapping her new purchases at home, Richard Carter was frantically going through his pockets in one of the laboratories in the Engineering building.

"I know I brought it with me," he muttered as he searched one pocket after another and turned to his billfold for the fourth time. "Good grief, what'll I do? It's all the money we had left for the rest of the month—a nice new ten-dollar bill. I must have dropped it when I opened my billfold sometime today."

He pulled his ear absently as he walked slowly from the room. "I'll go ask Miss Hanson if anyone has turned it in—I must have lost it around the building somewhere."

A moment later, as he was explaining his plight to the secretary, he was relieved to see a quick look of comprehension in her eyes. "You haven't had it turned in, have you?" he finished hopefully.

"Why yes," she replied slowly. "I have. At least, a young lady gave me a ten-dollar bill this morning and told me she'd found it outside. It must have been yours. Wait a minute, I put it in my pocketbook for [illegible]."

Reaching into a drawer in the desk, Miss Hanson pulled out a well-worn black bag. After a moment's search she found a bill, tucked away with several one-dollar ones, that was crisp and new and had the numeral "10" in its corners. "Here it is," she said, handing it over with a [illegible].

The boy took the money with a grateful grin. "Well thank goodness we can eat for the rest of the month anyway," he said as he left the office. "Thanks a million, Miss Hanson!"

"Nice old girl, Miss Hanson," Richard thought as he sped down the hill toward the trailer city.

MILLIONS FOR NEW CARS

OTTAWA. — Canadian motorists paid a record $193 million for new vehicles last year, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported. While the 130,000 passenger and commercial vehicles sold in 1946 was still under the record 1937 total of 144,000, their purchase price was more than $47 million above the 1937 total.

To Increase Coal Production In B.C.

VICTORIA.—Canadian Collieries (Dunsmuir) Limited is completing plans to put into full-scale production a new mine at Tsable River that is expected to double Vancouver Island's production and add [illegible]000 a year to the value of its output, it was learned from reliable sources here.

Described as the most important coal mining development on the island in the last half-century, the 12 foot Tsable River seam is regarded as the most promising ever uncovered [illegible].

Experts who have made exhaustive tests and explorations estimate the seam is capable of producing 1,000 tons a day for the next 50 years. Total production from all mines on the island in July last month for which figures are available—was 26,436 long tons.

Long concerned over the steady decline in island coal production, provincial government officials say the Tsable mine, when in full production, will rejuvenate the industry.

Writes With His Heart

Maybe it's because they live so close to their readers that small-town editors get to write more with their hearts than with their heads. Anyway, we think you'd go a long way before you'd run across a better soliloquy than this. It was written by Oscar Stitt, editor of the Radville [illegible], on his birthday anniversary. "As we grow older, and the shadows begin to lengthen, and the leaves which seemed so thick above our head in youth grow thin and show the sky beyond, and those in the front ranks drop away, [illegible] come in sight, as we must, of the eternal rifle-pits beyond, a man begins to feel that among the really precious things of life more [illegible] and more substantial than many of those objects of ambition here is the love of those he loves, and the friendship of those whose friendship he prizes."—Canadian Printer and Publisher.

Canada's Fire Damage Hits High Figure

408 Canadians Lost Their Lives Through This Hazard In 1946

We are a prodigal people. Without turning a hair the Canadian people are compelled to admit that, last year, fire destroyed property in Canada amounting to nearly 50 million dollars, or about 55 per cent. more than the losses five short years ago. And, in the short space of 12 [illegible] in 1946, 408 Canadians lost their lives through fire. Here, in stark fact, were 408 tragedies in [illegible]. Yet, year by year, we continue, seemingly unperturbed, along the path of destruction. Last year for instance out of 55,400 fires in the Dominion 41,005, or nearly 80 per cent. [illegible] properties. Through carelessness, or wanton disregard of sensible precautions, fire destroyed, wholly, or in part, residential properties alone equivalent to what one would find in a city of about 200,000 people. And this at a time of a serious shortage of houses for all classes of people in [illegible]. Is there a remedy?

Organizations spend time and money preaching the gospel of fire prevention and illustrate how carelessness can destroy human lives and property. Regional insurance underwriters' associations of Board companies throughout Canada maintain rigid inspection services which undoubtedly help to prevent many fires. They also impress on the public that insurance rates are related to losses. Yet our fire losses continue to increase at an alarming rate — 1946 figures alone, were nearly 12 per cent. higher than in 1945. The remedy, and there is one, lies in our own hands. We simply must pay more attention to simple rules established for our own protection. In other words, day by day, we must all exercise [illegible], must stop playing with fire to prevent fire if we want to eliminate this national disgrace from Canadian yearly records. A little more common sense and a little less prodigality will save lives and property.

Freak Developments In Nagasaki Crops Reported

TOKYO. Summer crops in atom-bombed Nagasaki, some with freak developments, have shown increases of from 50 to 300 per cent. over the normal yield, Takeo Furuno, Nagasaki agricultural expert, told Kyodo News Agency.

He said increased output was noted in all food plants except dry rice and lentils which had not matured.

The wheat crop Furuno said was about twice normal and the [illegible] crop three times the average. Sweet potatoes planted at the end of May were ready for harvesting at the end of July.

Pumpkins, sugar beets, tomatoes, eggplants and similar produce showed a 300 per cent. increase over previous production. The skin of some pumpkins he said developed into a leaf and then a bud and finally became a second pumpkin.

ALBERTAN WILL HELP STREAMLINE ETHIOPIAN SCHOOLS

ROCKY MOUNTAIN HOUSE, Alta. —Findlay Barnes who has been school superintendent for the Rocky Mountain House school division in Alberta for six years is going to Ethiopia where he will take a leading part in organization of a streamlined anglicized educational system.

Mr Barnes will take his wife and family to the city of Jimma where he will make his headquarters as director of education for Kaffa province. Jimma is about 200 miles south of Addis Ababa.

Information available to Mr Barnes is that Emperor Haile Selassie has earmarked one-third of the current $48,000,000 national budget for education in an attempt to raise the rate of literacy in the country.

The new educational system will include not only primary and secondary schools but also organization and establishment of a university and normal school at Addis Ababa.

Miss Elsa Gundensen, of Dickson, Alta., a missionary director at Addis Ababa, wrote that although Jimma is near the equator, its elevation of 8,000 feet gives it a typical Californian climate where light spring clothing can be worn every day in the year.

Mr Barnes, a graduate of the University of Alberta, has taught in rural, town and city schools in the province. He has signed a three-year contract with the Ethiopian government and after completing the term, he plans to return to Alberta to continue his educational work.

Household Miracles Not As Expected

So much publicity has been given to the "marvellous" developments of science in the post-war era that dealers and public alike went to the Canadian National Exhibition expecting to see miracles in design of home equipment, Hardware and Metal & Electrical Dealer points out. They came away with evident disappointment according to the business paper.

Automatic washers drew a lot of housewives' attention, deep freeze cabinets and refrigerators with big quick freeze compartments showed the trend toward more cold food storage. FM and television [illegible] in combination with automatic phonographs were on display and ranges looked easier to cook with and to keep clean. But the radical changes looked comparatively slight in the light of advance ballyhoo, says Hardware and Metal.

Vermilion People Have Opportunity to Invest

IN CANADA SAVINGS BONDS — NOW ON SALE

OTTAWA.—At a last minute check-up on arrangements for the sale of Canada Savings Bonds, which began on Oct. 14th, Graham Towers, Governor of the Bank of Canada, said he was satisfied that every Canadian would have a convenient opportunity to invest. Sales to the general public will be made by official agencies including approximately 3,000 branches of chartered banks and 675 investment dealers, trust and loan companies and other savings institutions. In addition, authorized investment dealers have appointed approximately 6,300 sub-agents to act for them in making widespread distribution of Canada Savings Bonds.

Officials of the Bank of Canada stated that the effect of the limit of $1000 placed on holdings in any one name would reduce the total dollar sales in comparison to the results obtained last October when sales approached the five hundred million dollar mark. It was expected however, that the number of purchases might equal the unexpected response to the First Series of Canada Savings Bonds when over one million two hundred thousand applications were recorded.

The Second Series of Canada Savings Bonds bears interest at 2¾% for a period of ten years. A limit of $1000 has been placed on holdings in any one name. All bonds are registered in the owner's name but may be cashed at any time for full face value, plus interest, at any bank in Canada.

ISLAY

Thanksgiving service was conducted by Rev. Geo. Driver at Knox United church. A good attendance was observed.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Stone and family of four spent Sunday and Monday with their aunts, Muriel and Gladys, also calling at Roy Stone's, his uncle. The children enjoyed themselves at the old home place, now owned by Mr. and Mrs. Anderson, in obtaining some pigeons, an ambition realized after waiting a year for this opportunity.

Word was received of the death of Mrs. Dougal Gilchrist, Gifford, B.C., on Sept. 27th. She leaves one son Charles, about 16 years old. Her husband predeceased her a few years ago. They were early settlers at Islay on the farm now owned by Paddy McGowan, having homesteaded there. Dougal taught the Islay school, also the Powell school.

Earl Bowser and three children spent the week end at his parents' home, Mr. and Mrs. [illegible] Bowser.

Mr. and Mrs. Sid Millward [illegible] settled at Nelson, B.C., and [illegible] very much, and purchased a [illegible] store there. Migration Within The Empire

IMMIGRATION HAS BEEN A MATTER of foremost interest since the war ended and nations commenced to reorganize their industrial and social life on a peacetime basis. The restlessness and uncertainty of life during the war led many people in Europe and the United Kingdom to consider starting new homes on this continent or in other parts of what used to be called "the new world". Lack of shipping space has so far prevented any large-scale immigration plan, but considerable attention has been given to the subject, and a great many diversified opinions have been expressed. When there are once more normal facilities for ocean travel and extensive movement of people from one part of the world to another can be arranged, we shall likely see a considerable flow of immigration, but at present there is little prospect of many of the plans which are being suggested being carried out for some time.

More Wanted In Australia

Because of the relatively small population of Canada, in proportion to the area of the country, we are deeply interested in any discussions concerned with immigration. The Honorable A. A. Calwell, Australian Minister of Immigration and Information, was a recent visitor in this country, and he expressed the opinion that migration from the United Kingdom to the Dominions is essential to the security of the British Commonwealth. "We in Australia have a population of 7,300,000 now, and we want to raise it to 20,000,000 in two and a half generations," Mr. Calwell stated. "We have to do this if Australia is to continue to be a citadel of European culture and civilization in the South Pacific," he continued.

• • • • •

Suggests Move From Britain

Mr. Calwell further stated that, in his opinion, Britain now has ten to fifteen million more people than she can feed even in peacetime, and he suggested that it would be logical for these people to migrate to the Dominions. More than 400,000 people in the United Kingdom, he said, had registered to go to Australia. While it is apparent that at present Britain is having difficulty in feeding her population, this is known to be because of the economic crisis now facing the country. It is also known that there is a critical labor shortage in Britain and that, while some British people are migrating to Canada and Australia, people are being brought from Europe to help to meet the demands for workers in the United Kingdom. It is therefore apparent that the government would strongly oppose any scheme of migration on the scale suggested by Mr. Calwell. It would be desirable indeed to build up the populations of Canada and Australia with people from Britain, but it is certain that any plan for migration on the scale proposed by Mr. Calwell will have to wait until the labor situation in Britain has greatly improved.

DEBATE RAISE FOR ELIZABETH AFTER WEDDING — Princess Elizabeth, shown above, now gets an annual allowance of $60,000, but whether or not there will be an increase after her marriage to Lieut. Philip Mountbatten is now under consideration. Opposition to an increase has been indicated by letters to newspapers and a few labor protests. Parliament must authorize any increase there might be.

Canada Passes 12,500,000 Mark In Population

Gain Of 275,000 Between June 1946 And June 1947—Ontario Has Largest Gain

OTTAWA. — Canada's population has been boosted over the 12,500,000-mark by a population gain of 275,000 between June 1 1946, and June 1, 1947.

This was disclosed by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics which estimated the June 1, 1947, population at 12,582,000 compared with a population of 12,307,000 on the corresponding date of 1946. The gain in the year was the largest numerical increase for any year since Confederation.

The increase since the last Dominion-wide census was taken in 1941 was 1,075,000, a gain of more than nine per cent. All provinces except Prince Edward Island showed higher population figures in 1947 than they did in 1946. The island's population remained unchanged at 94,000.

Population of Ontario, Quebec and British Columbia made the largest gains. Ontario's population rose 88,000, Quebec 82,000, and British Columbia's 41,000. Alberta showed a gain of 19,000, Manitoba an increase of 16,000, and Saskatchewan an increase of 9,000. New Brunswick's population rose 11,000, and that of Nova Scotia by 9,000.

Estimated population by provinces (totals for the preceding year in brackets): Prince Edward Island, 94,000 (94,000); Nova Scotia, 621,000 (612,000); New Brunswick, 491,000 (480,000); Quebec, 3,712,000 (3,630,000); Ontario, 4,189,000 (4,101,000); Manitoba, 743,000 (727,000); Saskatchewan, 842,000 (833,000); Alberta, 822,000 (803,000); British Columbia, 1,044,000 (1,003,000). Estimates for the Yukon and Northwest Territories were 8,000 and 16,000, respectively.

He has spent nearly 40 years in newspaper work, graduating in stages from printer's devil to editor.

OIL SEARCH FOCUSED NEAR NEEPAWA AREA

WINNIPEG. — Excited by the results of the current developments in Alberta Manitobans and particularly the farmers in this province, are displaying unusual interest in the new extensive exploration for oil in the western prairie country of this province. The search now in progress is the most thorough and scientific which Manitoba has seen in the 40 years, on and off, during which oil has been sought in this [illegible].

About a dozen reservations have been applied for by oil companies and individuals involving in all about [illegible]. What has chiefly aroused the interest of Manitobans, however, is the big American oil companies which are in the vanguard of the hunt. The California Standard Co., a subsidiary of the Standard Oil of California, for example, now has a seismograph party operating east of Brandon, and is also conducting a geological survey of that area. The Gulf Co. of Tulsa, Oklahoma, also has crews conducting magnetometric surveys in western Manitoba.

Drilling operations are to begin shortly on a reservation near Neepawa. The reason the Neepawa area came into the oil picture is that during the last war period it was observed that magnetic instruments of war went dead just east of the town. Winnipeg financial houses with knowledge of "magnetometric anomalies" in producing Alberta fields heard of this and they organized the Langford Oil Syndicate. Its activities in core drilling will be watched with interest during the next few months.

The first recorded drillings in the Neepawa district was in 1908. It was then ascertained that the substrata within the town limits contained salt. Today that deposit is producing 100 tons of salt every 24 hours.

DEVIL'S ISLAND, DREADED PENAL COLONY IN FRENCH GUIANA, TO CLOSE SOON

Established By Napoleon III Over 90 Years Ago—Brigadier Pean Of Salvation Army, Has Done Good Work Among The Convicts

PARIS. — Brigadier Charles Pean was 19 when he entered the French branch of the Salvation Army. He joined them with one objective—to work for abolition of Devil's Island, the dreaded penal colony in the malarial swamps of French Guiana.

Today his life's goal is in sight. All but 800 of the liberated convicts, those who completed their sentences but had little chance of ever getting back to their homes, have been returned to France. The 2,718 convicts who still must finish out their terms soon will be transferred to a new prison in France.

No convicts have been sent out to the "dry guillotine" off the northeast coast of South America, 300 miles from the equator, since 1938, when France decided to abolish the penal colony. But the process of closing down Devil's Island, interrupted by the war, has been slow.

Napoleon III established the colony more than 90 years ago. As many as 90 per cent. of the 70,000 criminals sent there died before completing five years of their sentences in the disease-ridden colony.

Pean concentrated first on getting help to the liberated convicts. These were men required to serve "doublage"—compulsory exile in the colony for a period equal to their prison terms.

For most, this "doublage" was the equivalent of life banishment. Even if they lived long enough to complete the double term, they had to find the money to pay their passage back. Most of them, ostracized even by relatives and friends, wandered the streets of Cayenne, dressed in rags and ill with tropical disease.

After years of agitation, Brigadier Pean won permission to visit the colony in 1928. He established workshops and farms where these liberated convicts could work for wages to cover half their passage home. The Salvation Army provided the other half.

Pean made five trips to the island. The French government invited him to serve on the commission which drafted the law abolishing the colony.

Up to the outbreak of war in 1939, when the work was interrupted, Pean had got 804 of the liberated convicts back home. Dressed in broad felt hats, open cotton shirts and cotton trousers, they returned to native soil many of them had all but forgotten.

So strong was the shock of finally finding themselves free for some of the returning men that they dropped dead upon stepping ashore after 40 or more years of exile.

Since the end of hostilities permitted resumption of repatriation, a total of 1,362 liberated convicts have been returned. This practically completed that phase of work, because the 800 or so remaining were so aged and riddled by disease that doctors advised against their repatriation. The Salvation Army is establishing permanent hospitals in French Guiana to care for them.

The 2,718 prisoners still serving out their time are scheduled to be moved to a special prison on the Ile de Re, off the French Atlantic coast. And Pean is working for an amnesty to shorten the sentence of many of them.

PREFER BEING OUTSIDE

INDIANAPOLIS.—Frank N. Wallace, state entomologist, suggests it's much better to feed your termites than to fight them. Wallace said termites have no special appetite for floors, walls, or walnut panelling. They prefer to be outdoors and it would be best to have an old woodpile in your backyard to keep them from getting hungry for your house.

She—"Yes. How fast can you make it?"

What Does It Mean To You, Vermilion and District People?

What does 25 cents dropped into a Tag Box for the Canadian National Institute for the Blind mean to you? It might mean the postponing of some trivial pleasure or the relinquishing of some small luxury. To the C.N.I.B. however, it means a great deal because it is the accumulation of all the coins dropped into its tag boxes which enables it to carry on its important work.

On Saturday, Oct. 18, the citizens of Vermilion and district will be given the opportunity to share in this worthy humanitarian undertaking. The opportunity will be provided by the Frog Lake Chapter, I.O.D.E. and the Ladies Auxiliary of the Canadian Legion. These two organizations need your help. Give generously.

The services of the C.N.I.B. are many and varied and are of a specialized character. They are designed to assist blind people of all ages, all races, and all creeds, to overcome their handicap and to live normal, happy lives. Your blind neighbor is an ordinary individual who asks of life the same things as you ask of it but who cannot achieve them so readily because of his handicap. He needs advice, and help, encouragement and training, all of which are available through the C.N.I.B. His road can be made smoother and brighter by the friendly help of you who see.

With your support the C.N.I.B. can provide training and employment for those blind people who need it. It can supply Braille books and talking book records to blind readers. It can arrange for free radio licenses, reduced fares on trains and busses and for the purchase of radios and other appliances at discounts. It can furnish emergency assistance for those in need and arrange for more permanent assistance through proper channels. It can help to prevent blindness by providing corrective glasses and proper treatment for those unable to afford it for themselves.

At the present time the C.N.I.B. is extremely lacking in proper facilities of all kinds in Northern Alberta. Plans to establish a Northern Alberta Service Centre in Edmonton are already underway and will provide adequate training and workshop facilities, recreational space and residence accommodation. The achieving of this important goal will greatly increase the ability of the organization to intensify its work on behalf of the 450 blind people in Northern Alberta.

The proceeds of the Tag Day to be held on Oct. 18 will aid in the establishment of this Centre as well as in helping to maintain the whole pattern of C.N.I.B. services. When you are approached to give, remember those who have been denied the precious gift of sight, and express your gratitude for your better fortune by lending your support. This is a vitally important work which deserves the support of all those who are able to see and in a position to give. Close your eyes . . . Think . . . Give generously.

ETHELWYN NEWS

(Editor's note: This bulletin was written for last week's Standard, due allowance should be made for time elapsed)

Men, women and children are all working overtime to get the threshing done. If the weather would only stay dry it would soon be over for another year, and we could breathe easily again for a few months.

This district has some well run threshing machines and some not so good but this week the writer saw something new in the way of threshing. This is done by the outfit owned and run by Mr. Jim Johnson and son Jim of Landonville and Mr. Charlie Richardson of the Telegraph district. The separator is run by a Ford tractor, and this was the unusual feature, a 2nd Ford tractor brings the stooks in with a sweep. The one sweep keeps the separator running quite steadily. The sweep was originally bought from a company but was too small and not so well made, so that Jim Johnson Jr. rebuilt it to suit their needs. This is the most efficiently run outfit that we have ever seen and at such a saving on expenses. Just think—only 3 men to cook for and no horses to feed. Now don't everyone rush to get them to do your threshing as they only plan to do their own. It is well worth anyone's time to watch the outfit work. Did someone say that such an outfit does men out of work? Not much danger of that as very few outfits around here have had full crews for several years past and this year is no exception.

By the time this appears in print Mrs. Bob Seville will have called at all the homes to get signers to petition for another hospital. The location of the hospital will be decided by ballot later on. It is up to all of us to cast our vote. It is only natural that each one will want the hospital in their own district but it will fill a long felt need. Great credit goes to Mrs. Seville and anyone else working on this project during such a busy season.

The World of Wheat

By H. G. L. STRANGE
Director, Research Department
Searle Grain Company Ltd.

British Wheat Price Increased

The British Government on Aug. 21 in London announced increased prices for wheat to British farmers in order to induce them to produce more. The price for the 1947 crop is now in equivalent Canadian funds $2.23 a bushel to farmers at their country point of delivery. For the 1948 and 1949 crops the prices set are equivalent to to $2.88 for the product of the first ten acres approximately 300 bushels, and for the balance of the crop $2.16 a bushel. These are good prices to the British farmer on his farm compared with the $1.18 only a bushel which Canadian farmers now receive at their country elevators and let us not forget for Canadian wheat which is worth on the average on account of quality 19 cents a bushel more than British wheat.

It is evident from these new British prices that the British Government considers wheat will be worth considerably more in 1948 and 1949 than it is for this year 1947.

The world is badly short of wheat. The British Government has adopted the right method to increase production by paying her farmers a higher price. Why is not that simple method also used with our Canadian farmers?

Miss Arleigh Dixon Honored at Shower

Plans for the shower which was to be held in honor of Miss Arleigh Dixon at the country home of Mrs Owen Burns on Wednesday Oct 8th had to be changed due to the weather. Bus transportation was cancelled and Arleigh's friends surprised her very much indeed when they invaded the Dixon home.

Miss Kae Martin disguised as a colored gentleman arrived rather late and requested to see his old friend Miss Dixon adding greatly to the merriment.

The bride-to-be was presented with a great variety of beautiful and useful gifts. Several of the ladies present assisted with the lunch as Mrs Dixon cheerfully turned over her home to the unexpected guests.

Regret was expressed that Mrs Burns should be absent from the shower which she had planned for Arleigh.

Stagette Notes

Tuesday Oct 14th was the regular meeting of the Stagette club. A perfect attendance, with 9 little (big) girls crowding one side of the club room.

After the singing of the club song a brief business session got under way. We are sorry to say that our club reporter Elaine, was transferred to the Canadian Bank of Commerce at Ponoka.

A very interesting letter was read from Lucy Milne — so nice to be remembered. We hope she keeps up the good work.

An all-out effort is being made to celebrate and mark Stagette week, the first week in November. The usual decorating in Stagette colors, church service, a tea, sale of matches etc.

Initiation was the main topic of the evening and proved that the girls are all Stagette minded and very good sports. Like all children will they get out of hand once in a while. In fact they ran away and the articles they returned with looked as if they had been into mischief. But don't let that worry you any neighbor, we'll see that all articles are returned. And I dare say the punishing was attended to, too. The pictures should be good folks, just ask Wally, I'm sure he knows all about them by now.

Lunch was served in the Boston at the big table and near by where everybody little and big enjoyed themselves.

We hope to see you all next Tuesday (with clean faces), where Handicraft takes over.

Teachers of Three Divisions Hold Convention at Vermilion

The annual convention of the teachers of the Vermilion, Vegreville and Wainwright School Divisions was held at the Vermilion school of agriculture, Thursday and Friday, Oct 16 and 17.

After the invocation by Rev. T. W. Teape, of Vermilion, an address of welcome was given by Mr. N. N. Bentley, Principal of the agricultural school, to the teachers of all three divisions, gathered in the auditorium. Mr. Bentley pointed out the important function of the school of agriculture to the northern part of the province, and that the teachers, in carrying back to their districts information about the school, its courses, its staff and its facilities and services, would be giving important and useful direction to the children of the community who would later be farm dwellers.

Mr. Bentley stressed the point that the course of the school of agriculture was intended to develop the rural dweller for more intelligent, rich and complete life on the farm, rather than to provide a certificate leading to any specific job in local or urban shops or industries. This general aim of the course is, he stated, more important to the nation as a whole in developing the most intelligent citizens who would understand and live democracy and contribute substantially to the welfare of the community.

Mr. Bentley finished his address by pointing out the value of the two-in-one course, in particular, to the high school student with 85 to 99 credits towards a High school diploma. Such a student could, said Mr. Bentley, get 17 credits from the Department of Education, complete his High school diploma, obtain a diploma from the school of agriculture, and, in addition, complete the requirements for admission to the Faculty of Agriculture of the University of Alberta.

Mr. J. A. Smith, convention president, on behalf of the teachers, expressed to Mr. Bentley the appreciation of the school of agriculture's facilities and the co-operation offered by its staff. The teachers then divided into groups for discussion of various topics. Lively and instructive discussion followed the introduction of the topics by group leaders.

Address of High School Inspector

Following discussion groups led by Mr. G. Strong of Vegreville, and Miss G. Dunsmore, Kitscoty, Mr. Sweet, inspector of high schools, gave a short talk to the high school teachers. One of his topics was the recent revival of interest in the composite high school. He summarized briefly the courses offered by the new Red Deer composite school, and mentioned the work of the others at Athabasca, Cardston and Medicine Hat. Particular mention was made of the courses in Plant Science and Animal Science and the method used by the Department in crediting the summer projects supplementing these courses. This type of high school meets the growing demand for a more diversified high school course.

Another topic touched on by Mr. Sweet was the increase or decline in numbers of classes throughout the province in certain General Electives of the course of studies.

300 at Convention Banquet in V.S.A. Dining Hall

Thursday evening approximately 300 teachers sat down in the dining hall of the Vermilion agricultural school to a tasteful banquet served by the staff of the school. After some introductory remarks by Chairman J. A. Smith of Kitscoty, Mr. Robert A. Fair, M.P., gave a short talk. Mr Fair emphasized the benefit to be derived by education throughout the Dominion by a substantial federal [illegible]. He also expressed himself to be in favor of a single Dominion-wide course of studies which would, he said, promote national solidarity and unity. Mr Fair observed, in the course of his remarks, that the educational system of Alberta was second to none.

The speaker of the evening at the banquet was Rev. T. W. Teape, of Vermilion, who chose for his topic "Utopia". He reminded the teachers that in education as in politics we frequently strive for an ideal state of things where all things might be satisfactory for man. There is undue emphasis on man's wishes and undue neglect of God's wishes in these Utopian ideals. Man in his search for the ideal state of things must realize that permanent good is based on the laws of God. Man's fulfilment of his duty towards God will bring him to the ideal state more quickly than his attempt to satisfy the wishes of man alone, otherwise this idea of Utopia is like the carrot on the stick in front of the donkey for which he keeps vainly striving, but which he never quite reaches.

The banquet was followed by a dance in the gymnasium of the agricultural school. The dance program arranged by Miss McCallum and Miss Rogers both of Vermilion was varied and entertaining and was received enthusiastically by a large crowd. Decorations by Frank Welsh and committee added considerably to the appearance of the hall; and no little of the success of the dance was due to the music of the Berwick Brims combo orchestra.

Dr. W. H. Scott Accepts Position At Oliver

FAMILY WILL LIVE IN EDMONTON

Dr. W. H. Scott has accepted the government position of dental superintendent at the Oliver mental institute and takes over his new duties early in November. He and Mrs. Scott and Margaret plan to leave next week end for Edmonton where they will make their home. They have purchased a residence in the Highlands.

Dr. and Mrs. Scott have lived in Vermilion for the past 20 years during which time they have proved true and helpful citizens. On Wednesday Dr. Scott was the guest of honor at the Board of Trade meeting and was presented with an address from the business men. A detailed account of this event will appear next week.

Council Purchases Roller and Drag For Local Airfield

At the Council meeting held Oct. 23rd the [illegible] decided to purchase snow rollers and drag from War Assets Corp. for use at the Vermilion air field. These will serve to keep the runways serviceable so that aircraft can use them all the year [illegible] of approximately 7 months as at present. The move is a timely one and the council is to be highly commended for their foresight in keeping the air field abreast of the times and maintaining Vermilion's position as the leader in rural air [illegible]. With runways usable all the year, with radio beam service giving aircraft any information [illegible] regarding field or service here, Vermilion has indeed something for all other towns in the west to try to equal.

GAS PUMP INSTALLED

The Imperial Oil Company is at present installing a gas pump and 500 gallon tank at the air field. This will carry 80 octane gas. Oils in various weights for aircraft will also be carried. 100 octane gas is available at the bulk station. This renders a service for all aircraft, large or small, that use the Vermilion air field.

Welcomed to Vermilion

ROBERT FAIR, M.P. Battle River

While Mr. and Mrs. Robert Fair moved to Vermilion last April, it is only recently that Mr Fair has been able to spend more than an occasional day or two here. On Wednesday of this week he attended a regular meeting of the Board of Trade and received a very warm welcome from the chairman Mr. Ashley Cooper on behalf of the members.

Mr Fair has been member of Parliament for the Battle River constituency since 1935. He settled in the Paradise Valley district south of Kitscoty in 1911 where he carried on extensive farming operations. He has now retired from farming and he and Mrs. Fair plan to make their home in Vermilion.

This is the first occasion that Vermilion has been home to the Battle River member of parliament.

Miss M. Knapp Elected President of Vermilion A.T.A. Sub-Local

Members of the Vermilion sub-local branch of the Alberta Teachers' Association met in the high school recently to elect officers for the current school term. Miss M. Knapp of the Vermilion high school was elected president, Miss Dorothy Oakley secretary and Frank Welch councillor to the local executive. Miss Marion Rogers is press correspondent. After a lunch served by the Vermilion high school staff the members were given a demonstration of the new slide film projector purchased by the Vermilion board.

"GREEN ACRES"

CROP TESTING PLAN

An interesting report on the purity of wheat seed in this district was handed to me by Roy Jory agent of the Searle Grain Co.

This firm collects samples of wheat from trucks as delivered to the elevator. The samples are seeded next year in small plots and analysed by experts to determine their purity. At Vermilion 10 samples were pure enough, 2 were fair and in 9 cases the wheat was impure showing mixtures of other varieties.

It would appear that nearly half the farmers in this district would benefit by changing their seed. Early ripening heads in a field of early wheat result in green kernels and a lower grade. Also good seed of pure variety will usually give from 1 to 3 bushels more per acre and maybe more.

SEED TESTING

There is no doubt that a lot of grain this fall will not germinate well enough for seed purposes. Now is the time to find out and be [illegible] supply of good seed in [illegible] Line Elevators Farm Service will test and report on your seed [illegible] charge or you can send samples to Plant Products Division Laboratory, Calgary. School of Agriculture Opens New Term

Some 145 students from widely scattered points throughout Central and Northern Alberta, arrived by train, bus and motor car at the Vermilion school of agriculture and home economics for the opening of the regular courses on Tuesday, Oct. 21.

Although the late harvest delayed a few of those who will be attending a considerable number of students arrived during the week end anxious to get acquainted and be prepared for the first classes which begin on Wednesday.

Members of the teaching staff were busy meeting new students and welcoming the return of those who had attended the First Year course last term. Many of the students who arrived by car were accompanied by parents and friends who took the opportunity to inspect the dormitories, classrooms, shops and labs.

New installations, alterations and repairs were of particular interest to former students. Major items of this nature include the enlargement of the gymnasium to provide for a permanent stage, remodelling of the blacksmith shop and the installation of a fume exhaust system in the farm mechanics building. The newly painted barns and other buildings present a most attractive appearance.

Fine Roadway Built To New Auto Park

CABIN CONCESSIONS MAY BE GRANTED

A very commendable piece of work has been done in building and grading the roadway to the new auto park. The work was done under the surveillance of the public works committee of the council, Messrs Kehoe and Urquhart. The grade itself was designed by Percy Walsh of the W.B. Mix Construction Co., who has had considerable experience in this work. A tremendous amount of dirt was required for the grade and fortunately this was available free, chiefly from large excavations around town such as the Brimacombe Bros. and Memorial hall projects. The only actual cash outlay was the work done by the W.B. Mix bulldozer.

While further moves in connection with the new auto park are still in the conjecture stage, it might be that the council will grant cabin concessions in the auto park in return for caretaking and improving of this potential beauty spot.

High School Students Win Awards

Mildred Conboy, Ruth Hillcox, Bob Reid, June Thompson, George Webb, Phyllis Westman.

These certificates are awarded in recognition of ability in the application of the fundamentals of Bookkeeping as shown in the solution of a practical problem presented in a nation-wide project conducted by "THE B.E.W."

Every month of the school year there are competing schools in all of Canada and the United States. A bookkeeping problem is sent out to these schools and students desiring to compete hand in their solution to the teacher, who mails it to the award department for marking. Every student doing a good job receives a junior achievement certificate.

These monthly Bookkeeping contests are one feature of the commercial department of the Vermilion high school which endeavors to make the courses offered to the students more interesting and more meaningful.

It is hoped that more students will take the opportunity to obtain for themselves these certificates of achievement.

Help provide the Scouts a "home" by purchasing advance tickets to the Elks Carnival Oct. 31, Nov. 1 and 3.

It was she said, for all the world like a huge rocket and exploded in the same manner as a rocket.

Teachers of Three Divisions Hold Convention Here

the three divisions. Mr. Frame brought to the teachers' attention some details of the new educational services provided by the Department of Education. In his introductory remarks he suggested that 3 basic ideas motivated the curriculum makers.

There was first, the development of an understanding of a democratic way of life which is fundamental to the intelligent exercise of judgment on the part of voters and their desire to use their franchise; second, the sanctity of the individual that he may have a maximum of freedom and third, the social training necessary to settle by friendly discussion in a spirit of tolerance the problems of community national or international scope.

Mr. Frame went on to suggest several ways in which the new Guidance branch and its director, Mr. Aldridge, might be of assistance to teachers, and indicated a link with the Mental Hygiene Clinic of the Department of Health.

With regard to the new elementary course of studies, Mr. Frame pointed out that while it may appear more prescriptive than previous ones, there was still plenty of scope for teachers of originality and initiative to introduce effective individual techniques. Assistance to teachers in matters of curriculum, etc. was available through Mr. Oviatt, of the Department, and in the teaching of specific subjects through the Faculty of Education which acts in an advisory capacity for the benefit of all teachers.

In closing his remarks to teachers, Mr. Frame touched on the importance of the school and the teachers' influence in the development of the citizen of the future. The school, said Mr. Frame, must supply the type of training which will produce citizens who will have the understanding and tolerance to bring international harmony to tomorrow's world. To this end, teachers must provide not only information and training in the skills, but also inspiration for the pupils, and in so doing they themselves will enjoy vicariously through the successes and achievements of their former pupils the unfulfilled ambitions they were not able to attain.

American Educator Addresses Convention

Dr. Lester Ball, Superintendent of Schools Highland Park, Illinois, U.S.A. gave a most interesting and inspiring address to the teachers of the three divisions gathered together in the V.S.A. gymnasium Friday afternoon. His theme was that the teachers must make a deliberate, concerted and determined effort to advance themselves as a profession. This advancement, said Dr. Ball, will result not only in a more aggressive, better-trained body of teachers, but also in a more appreciative public and a more efficient and effective educational system. A well planned deliberate program, backed by the whole teaching body on local, provincial and national levels is necessary. Publicity to arouse the interest and support of the general public, pressure on parliamentary and legislative representatives, the awakening of the interest of the local citizens; these the teaching profession must use to advance the cause of education. Substantial gains have recently been made but, said Dr. Ball, there is no standing still—a continuing effort is still necessary.

The teaching profession must constantly strive to increase the qualifications of its members, to raise the standards of training and to eliminate the unfit and unqualified. This constant effort for a better profession works ultimately for the better education of the child and for the better world of the community and of the whole nation.

Following his lecture Dr. Ball threw the meeting open for discussion and showed extensive knowledge, great skill, and wide scholarship in the clear, concise manner in which he answered the many questions put to him.

After the show on Saturday evening attend the dance at the Elks hall. An enjoyable hour or two for only 25c.

Climbing Ladders Is Perilous For Men

BOSTON. — If you're a man and feel it beneath your dignity to climb ladders to hang pictures on clean walls, here's an excuse:

Women are better adapted for the job, safety experts say.

As the family breadwinner, you can tell your wife it would be risky business for you to clamber up a ladder to hang that picture of your mother-in-law.

You can quote authorities at the 26th annual Massachusetts Safety Conference as saying every fifth man who mounts a ladder in his home suffers injury. Women have far fewer injuries, the experts say, because they're more careful and more agile.

FIRST TELESCOPE WAS INSPIRED BY A TOY

Galileo, contrary to popular opinion, did not invent the telescope. He was the first to use the instrument for astronomical purposes, however, and made many improvements. But the first telescope actually was made in the shop of a Dutch lens maker, Hans Lippershey, and curiously was inspired by a toy made by an unknown boy apprentice.

PASTEURIZATION EPIDEMIC CHECK

In the 25-year period from 1920 to 1945 there were 26 officially reported milk-borne epidemics in Canada, each with 30 cases or more. These 26 outbreaks, attributed to consumption of unpasteurized milk, accounted for 702 deaths from typhoid fever, paratyphoid, and septic sore throat.

In the same period there were numerous other lesser outbreaks of the same diseases and of undulant fever, also milk-borne.

These minor epidemics also accounted for numerous deaths. For instance there were officially reported 1,124 cases of undulant fever, an extremely difficult disease to diagnose, in the years 1940-1945. Twenty-three deaths were attributed to this disease in that period.

An interesting angle to this milk-borne epidemic picture is the fact that since Ontario's adoption of compulsory milk pasteurization, there has not been one serious outbreak of a milk-borne disease in that province. Ontario is the only province with such a law.

On the other hand, the rest of Canada since the 1938 enactment of the Ontario law, has suffered from 12 officially reported milk-borne outbreaks, chiefly septic sore throat and typhoid.

These facts would seem to provide additional proof that pasteurized milk is the only safe milk.

Good Driver Never Abuses Use Of Horn

The intelligent use of an auto horn is one thing, but its unnecessary use is quite another — and most of all when resorted to as noise-making for its own sake. A good driver is known by his restraint in using the horn. The other type is likely to employ it to force his way through traffic even at stop lights. All too commonly recognized, he is too rarely apprehended and kept from perpetrating further mischief.

Auto-horn abuse is a phase of traffic violation challenging the attention of law enforcement authorities in the interest of public safety.

THEY'RE BOTH HAPPY—It's all in a day's work for fire-fighters but when Frank Colola, New York city smokeeater mounted a ladder to a blazing tenement house he had a special reward for his efforts. He picked up one and one-half-months-old Marie de Santes from her cot and carried her to safety, none the worse for a narrow escape. In moments like this Colola is glad he is a fireman.

HOW WASHINGTON'S WHITE HOUSE GOT ITS NAME

Washington is a beautiful and a symmetrical city and a monument that will never let the reputation of Pierre L'Enfant die. President Washington commissioned the young Frenchman to design the country's future home and the engineer's vision evidently was far beyond the times in which he lived. The Government was established there by 1800 but as every schoolboy knows the British burned the Capitol and the White House in the War of 1812. What every schoolboy may not know is that the White House got its name from the paint applied to cover up the fire damage.

Man Saw The Light After Three Years

Up in the attic he found a 100-watt bulb which apparently had been burning since workmen insulated his house three years ago.

High School Students Impressed By Test For Safety

Graphic demonstrations of just how long it takes to stop a car travelling at 20 and 30 miles an hour were put on the other day at Buffalo, N.Y., for 1,300 Burgard Vocational High School students. They showed plenty.

A car equipped with three guns mounted on the front bumper and shooting marker bullets was put through the course. The first gun was the signal to the driver to apply the brakes. The second gun went off when the brakes actually were applied and the third when the car stopped. The shots left yellow marks on the pavement for measuring distance.

The measurements showed that it took 47 feet seven inches to stop a car travelling at 20 miles an hour and 73 feet five inches at 30 miles an hour.

The tests were carried out through the co-operation of safety officials and police. The students undoubtedly were impressed by what they saw. Safety would benefit by the widest possible use of such demonstrations.

Birth Of Octuplets Reported In China

SHANGHAI.—The birth of octuplets, seven of whom lived, was reported recently by Chang Shu Ping, director of the tax bureau at Ishing, 120 miles from Shanghai.

Chang told a correspondent for the newspaper Shuh that his niece, Mrs. Chang Ping Wei, gave birth to eight boys July 5. One died shortly after birth, he said, but the others, as well as the mother are "sound and hale."

The births took place, he said, in Communist held Yang Pang Chen, northeast of Tientsin, where the Reds ordered special rations for the family. Previously it had been reported from Tientsin that septuplets had been born to the family, the Communists furnishing four nurses.

T.C.A. PRESIDENT HONORED

There was a happy family gathering in Winnipeg recently when H. J. Symington, CMG., K.C., president of Trans-Canada Air Lines, officiated in presenting 10-year lapel buttons and certificates to 23 veteran employees who were in service in 1937. At this time the airline consisted of 122 miles of operation. Since then under Mr. Symington's leadership, it has expanded to about 10,000 miles and spans Canada, with additional services to Newfoundland, Great Britain as well as to the U.S. Following the presentation, W. F. English operations vice-president, called Mr. Symington to the front and is here shown presenting the president with a gold 10-year lapel pin with the good wishes and appreciation of the employees. Mr. English is at the left.

New Wall Finish Proves Sensation

by Vi Cooper

Did you know that you can renovate that dingy living room, bedroom or kitchen for $4.95.

I have been looking into the problem of home decoration in these days of sky high prices and I find that a new wall finish called "Kem-Tone" is the answer. This new wall finish, which is now being marketed in Canada, has been a sensation in the United States for some time.

Its advantages are that it goes right over all surfaces such as wallpaper, painted walls, plywood, wallboard, interior brick, etc. One coat does a complete job. You may put it on with a "Roller-Koater" which anyone can use and it spreads the finish quickly, easily and smoothly. In one hour this finish dries and leaves no objectionable odor. And once Kem-Tone is on, it can be washed.

Color schemes, as we all know are [illegible] in any home, but they are of particular importance to the housewife, who, day in and day out, has to live with the colors in her decorative schemes. The Kem-Tone people [illegible] think, been very smart in their [illegible] of colors which come as follows: Ivory, pale jonquil cream, peach tint, [illegible] blue, Midland green, turquoise, cameo rose, Wellington buff and Yorkton white.

And, to add the final touch to your walls, you can get Kem-Tone Trims to finish off the decoration at the height of the ceiling. These trims are gummed and ready to apply. All you do is to dip them in water and smooth them on the wall where they make a fetching contrast with the plain tone of the wall finish.

Most encouraging to those of us — and how many we are — who want to brighten up our homes and are eager to do it ourselves, is the low price at which we can complete the work. For, after all, we cannot raise much objection when one gallon of Kem-Tone [illegible]

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY—

:: DUMB DORA ::

By NICHOLAS KUBRYA

DORA'S my girl and I guess I can call her dumb, but she's my girl and nobody but me can call her dumb. She's a brunette and a cute little thing, all cuddly and nice and I want to marry her. I come out of the Army all set to get hitched but she says no, I ain't man enough for her.

Her brother, Dick, is the model for the kind of man she wants. Well, I'm only a truck driver and not much up on the brains department but Dick ain't half as smart as I am. He's just a big wise guy with a build like Charles Atlas. Day and night he goes around exercising. But what're muscles. What are they gonna get you in the end?

"Dora", I says to her, "I been out of the Army a month now and every minute of the eighteen months I been overseas I've been thinking of coming back and marryin' you right off. You say no." And Dora says, "I like you Joe but I don't know if I'll be happy with you. You see, Joe, my Pops [illegible] a gymnasium and he was really [illegible]. Dick is just the same way. I'm so I expect it of a man, Joe, big muscles I mean."

I protested, "I got muscles, Dora. Look!" And I flexed my arm for her and my muscle popped up. "Pooh!" Dora says, "I can get a muscle like that without trying." What can a guy do with a dame like that?

I finally propositioned her, "Listen, kid, if I get to show you I'm as manly a man as Dick will you marry me?" She looks at me for a long time. "Sure," she says, "I like you, Joe. I like you a lot, but I wants marry you without any doubt in my mind. I don't want no doubts, Joe, cause I want to be happy when I'm married. You get married for such a long time."

Now I got me a problem. I don't know how these kind of things happen to me. In the Army I didn't have problems. There was always someone around to tell me what to do. I got to do some heavy thinking for myself now.

Well, the first idea I get doesn't work out too well. I ask Dora and Dick to go out to the beach. I'm a [illegible] swimmer and something [illegible] happen. A kid might be drowning and I could save him. You can't tell, and it's worth a try.

We drive out in my car, a nice little sedan, brand new because my truck driving gives me connections. That don't impress Dora. We take turns putting on our suits in the car and when I see Dora I got eyes for no one else. Boy, my problem sure has to be solved! And fast.

But when you size me up next to Dick I see it's a mistake to come out to the beach. This is my first time out and my skin is all white and I gotta admit it, I look flabby. Dick's got a physique I would have admired if he weren't my problem. Nice and tanned with a chest like a barrel and hips like he had a corset, but you can see he hasn't got one on 'cause his trunks fit him like even they were tailored made. I don't know, things can get difficult even for me.

The next brain wave I get is when I go to the gym with Dick. He fights a little and exercises with the bar-bells, lifting them over his head like nothing. I went over to the boxing ring. The gym's got a weekly card and some punks are sparring with balloon gloves, trying to get a place on the card. I watch them for a while and before I know it I'm hollering bits of advice to one of the kids.

"Say, why don't you go into the ring," some guy suggests, and I'm in a pair of trunks sparring away. I don't much more about fighting but what I learned from common sense. Common sense means a lot in the ring, though, and pretty soon I'm actually enjoying it up there. I collected a nice crowd.

So I'm signed for the Saturday night card. I figured it's okay because I can get Dora there, and she'll see me knock out my opponent and we can get married. As simple as that. But what I ain't figured on is that they put Dick up to fight against me. Now, suppose I knock out Dick, how's a girl gonna marry a guy who knocks out her brother? And what was more than likely Dick would knock me out and she wouldn't marry me 'cause I wasn't man enough. I got to take my chances and Dick's got to get it, that's all.

Dora's sitting at the ringside. Before the fight she said, "May the best man win," and her lips trembled and her eyelids fluttered. I wanted to walk out, but it was too late, and she wants both of us to win!

In the first round, I bopped Dick hard. He's pretty muscle bound and can't move fast. I hear Dora in the first row hollering at me, "You bedoon. Crook. Double-crosser." And those aren't nice things to say. "Hit 'em hard, Dick. Knock him out!"

I look in her direction and Dick hits me with a terrific punch. I fall down but wait until the count of nine so I can get rested a little. All this time I'm looking at Dora and she's hollering, "Atta boy, Dick, atta boy!" And she's waving her hands, smiles all over her face.

This is too much, even for me. I don't care for nothin' now. I get up from the floor, feeling disgusted, disgraced, and mad. Some driver friends are betting pretty heavy on me. I had been thinking of letting Dick walk away with the fight when I saw Dora wanted him to win, but not now! Nuts to these fickle dames!

I look at Dick's chin and let him have it. Dick crumples. I win. I walk to the dressing room, shower and dress. I'm in a terrible mood 'cause I feel I lost even though I won, but Dora ought to be more reasonable.

"Congratulations!" someone says as I'm walking out. It's Dora. "My hunk of man." She melts in my arms and I kiss her good. Oh boy! This plan has worked!

Elizabeth To Occupy Queen Victoria's Suite

WINDSOR, England — A honeymoon suite has been set aside in Windsor Castle for Princess Elizabeth and [illegible] Philip Mountbatten after their marriage Nov. 20.

Fittingly, it was once the apartment of Victoria, Britain's last ruling queen, who reigned from 1837 to 1901.

The royal family has preserved the Victorian character of that portion of the mighty 900-year-old castle called Victoria Tower. Elizabeth and Philip begin their married life in much the same atmosphere as that which Victoria enjoyed with her consort, Prince Albert.

The suite on the first floor of the tower is approached along dim, narrow corridors where crickets chirp. Much of the furniture was chosen by Queen Victoria herself.

The main room of the suite is the music salon, which contains a piano. It is connected to a lounge off which is a smaller room suitable for the Princess' study.

A FAMILY AFFAIR

SOMERVILLE, Mass. — The Harris family of Somerville, Mass. holds [illegible] long record. The father, Walter, is assistant foreman at the Boston and [illegible] railroad car repair shop here and his six sons work with him.

HANDY TO KNOW

Cornstarch or cornmeal is excellent for taking up liquids spilled on rugs, upholstery or mattresses where washing or soaking is not possible. The starch or meal should be poured over the stain immediately to absorb the liquid.

Veteran's Idea Is Meeting With Great Success

Canadian Artists Have Been Provided With Fine Cultural Centre

(By Kay Rex, Canadian Press Writer)

OTTAWA. — An ancient house in the heart of Ottawa's business section shelters what may some day become one of the cultural showplaces of the capital.

Devoted to the work of Canadian painters, "The Gallery" is another venture of one of Canada's veterans, and one which not only is paying off in cash, but also liberally in praise from the Dominion's artists and art-[illegible].

Founded less than a year ago, the gallery was the dream of Leo Heaps — that same Capt. Heaps from Winnipeg, who during the war achieved fame for his exploits as a paratrooper, and later with the Dutch underground, experiences of which he recorded in his book "Escape from Arnheim".

In Ottawa he recognized the need for a centre where people could indulge in their particular hobbies. And in Canada he realized the necessity of awakening the public to appreciation of the work of its own [illegible].

Both these problems Heaps is tackling with the gallery.

Aside from holding art exhibitions, he already has plans to conduct classes this fall in such hobbies as woodworking and leathercraft for interested Ottawans.

But the main purpose of this centre is to interest more persons in bringing Canadian art right into [illegible].

Working with the Federation of Canadian Artists, the gallery is getting the public to buy prints of Canadian paintings, many thousands of which already have been sold.

And for the man with a small income it's as easy for him to buy a painting as it is to invest in a car or a refrigerator; because the gallery sells on credit.

The gallery salons often are devoted to "one man" shows of lesser known artists. Children's art also is being given a place. One exhibition of young artists ranging in age from five to 11, already has been held. Others are planned. It's all part of Heaps' plan of interesting Ottawans in what children are doing in schools and various art circles, and in maintaining the principle upon which the gallery was founded: "To bring to Ottawa a new interest in painting."

AUSTERITY RATIONS

When Mrs. Ellen Parker of Philadelphia returns to the United States after visiting her sister, Mrs. Hannah James of Doncaster, England, she will take with her one week's British rations for one person to exhibit in her grocery store. She hopes to give her customers an idea of British austerity".

Although E is the most frequently used letter in the alphabet, more words start with S than any other.

PROUD MOTHER—Baby show at Fall Fair at Acton, Ont., was the largest in its history as perfect weather swelled fair attendance to the 6,000 mark. [illegible] Norman Wright whose daughter, Carolyn, won the nine-months-to-a-year class in the [illegible].

Says Weekly Papers Should Raise Prices

EDMONTON — At the annual convention of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association Alberta Division held at Edmonton, President Clive B. Nesbitt in his report at the opening session called for raise in prices of weekly papers. He said: Our charges are much too reasonable; the cost must go up to keep pace with the rising prices of materials and [illegible] of our weekly publications is high, and to continue with a weekly publication, and make certain we don't go in the red, we must raise prices. We have tried to see that inflation did not occur, but with costs and [illegible] the way they are, the only [illegible] is higher prices of weekly publications."

C. A. Clark, secretary in [illegible] report stated that a full time [illegible] secretary-manager should be employed to do all the work necessary. He said there was far too much work for a part time job. "Either the work of the association must be half done or the secretary's own job must be half done. There is certainly enough work to warrant hiring a secretary-manager to promote the weekly newspapers."

Etiquette Notes Of Three Centuries Ago

Hannah Woolley who was the Emily Post of her day, [illegible] out some pertinent advice to the belles when she wrote in the Gentle-woman's Companion about 1650:

"Close your lips when you eat and do not smack like a pig.

"Discover not by any ravenous gesture your angry appetite nor fix your eyes too greedily upon the meat before you.

"Fill not your mouth so full that your cheeks shall swell like Scotch bagpipes.

"It is very uncomely to drink so large a draught that your breath is almost gone and you are forced to blow strongly to recover yourself."

Every man under 60 was liable for military service in the reign of William the Conqueror.

Campaign Against Food Waste Suggested

Habit May Be Thoughtless But Should Be Stopped

When a multi-millionaire "mustard king" was asked how he made his fortune, he replied: "By the mustard people leave on their plates."

When, some years ago, Sir Robert Borden asked a visiting European statesman what in Canada impressed him most, he answered: "Your habit of waste."

In Washington, President Truman now pleads with Americans—his plea is for us, too—to waste less; to conserve food for the sake of those abroad who need food desperately.

Most of us, thoughtlessly, if not selfishly, waste food; waste bread, meat and fruit—consign to our garbage tins things which, if conserved, would help feed thousands, if not millions, in Europe.

In this country we hold campaigns for this, that and everything. It would be a wise and humane thing if we could start a campaign against waste of food, and, indeed, against all waste. [illegible]

COMPREHENSIVE BRIEF ON RURAL TAXATION

PRESENTED BY REEVE J. A. CURRIE OF VERMILION RIVER M.D.

Following is a synopsis of the brief submitted by Reeve J A. Currie of the Municipal District of Vermilion River to the Tax Enquiry Commission at Vermilion last Thursday

The taxation on the agricultural value of land he submitted, for the purpose of raising municipal revenues is placing an unreasonably high burden on land alone and consequently other supplemental sources of revenue had to be found to maintain public works, educational and other services so essential today

He claimed the inflexibility of municipal taxation does not permit of redress in seasons of poor financial returns other than a lowering of the mill rate which led to impairment of public services and tax delinquency.

He submitted a greater proportion of the cost of education, hospitalization, medical services, indigent relief, should be borne by taxation on net income and in view of the Dominion taking over the provincial income and succession duties the province should assume a greater portion of these costs than at present. Increased industrialization and ever increasing revenues from our natural resources should be reflected in a greater contribution by the province to these services.

The major part of the cost of improved local road facilities should be derived from motor licenses and taxes on fuel oil, even if such policy involved increases in license fees and fuel taxes.

The property owner, he further went on to say, contributes an undue share of the cost of road improvements by paying taxes both as land and vehicle owner, while owners of other vehicles make greater use of the roads and still pay only a license fee and fuel taxes and little or no land taxes. The taxes suggested would help to correct this situation.

The oil development in this municipality has created a problem in that the assessment schedules on production installations when taxed at current mill rates does not provide sufficient revenues to take care the cost of the additional public works brought about by the oil field traffic. Consideration should be given to the raising of the schedules or a rebate of royalties to the district on provincially [redacted] rights together with an assessment on privately-owned [redacted] rights, in order to adjust this problem. He also claimed that the municipality was receiving appeals to reduce assessments because oil installations were depreciating agricultural land values.

Mr Currie also contended that the minimum tax paid by non-property owners, gainfully employed, did not reflect the wage earner's ability to pay his due share of the cost of the various public services

EVERYBODY'S BUSINESS

by

Don Graham

Have you picked the next goal in your career?

This may be a job higher up. It may be a broadened field of operation. Or it may be a plan for improving a farm, store or other business. But, whichever applies in your case, the important thing is to choose some goal and work consciously towards it.

But before you start, make sure that you are distinguishing properly between day-dreams and practical objectives. Then work out a definite plan of operation, utilizing all the information you can get on the subject.

It is helpful, too, to picture yourself as having already attained your goal. This has the effect of making you willing to assume more responsibility and to think progressively.

Even people who are content with their present status often yearn for a "better deal". But they get nowhere because they do not work towards a goal. If they did, they would soon achieve the success they want.

• • •

The main objective of the life insurance companies in Canada is to provide maximum security at the lowest possible cost. Much progress towards this goal has been made — for today over 4,500,000 Canadians are life insurance policyholders.

WHY RADIO WORKS

Next to the weather, radio is the most talked-about subject in the world today. Its tremendous scope, its proven effectiveness in the sales and entertainment fields, its flexibility and versatility, all add up to infinite topics for discussion pro and con. All this is a healthy sign, as nothing breeds success like success itself.

However there is one side that concerns those in the business. Most of the discussion is hearsay, is not backed by factual information, for the simple reason that radio has grown so rapidly that even those in radio have hardly kept up with it.

First major step towards informing the public was taken recently by the Canadian Association of Broadcasters when they made available the film "Why Radio Works".

CJCA's promotion department is showing the film to service clubs, study groups, retailers and others with gratifying results. More and more people are learning at last why shows click, why people listen, why radio is so popular, why it stands second in the world among subjects discussed by the man on the street.

Start Made On Repayment Canada's First Wartime Bonds

MILESTONE IN COUNTRY'S FINANCIAL HISTORY

OTTAWA.—A milestone in Canada's financial history was passed on Oct 14 when the Minister of Finance, the Hon Douglas Abbott, put into motion the repayment of the country's first wartime bond issue

Reaching into a hat containing the five different call letters printed on these bonds, Mr. Abbott drew out an E which means that all First War Loan Bonds bearing this call letter are called for payment on Feb. 1, 1948

At the time of the drawing in his office, the Minister recalled that great events had transpired since Feb. 1st, 1940 when the First War Loan Bonds were offered for sale. At that time, he said people were talking about the 'phoney' war. Although Hitler's armies were facing the Allies across the Maginot line and British troops were stationed along the Belgian border warfare was confined to skirmishing. It is interesting to look back to the news on that date, and find announcements of the location of air training schools in Canada, and of the expected arrival of 200 flyers from England. The conjunction of the First War Loan with these events reminds us of the long road we have travelled since that time

Under the terms of the issue, First War Loan Bonds dated Feb 1st 1940 were printed in 5 equal groups, each identified with a distinguishing "call letter". The terms of issue specified that one of these groups of bonds, representing 20% of the issue, was to be redeemed on Feb. 1st of each year from 1946 to 1952 inclusive. The selection of the groups for redemption was to be made by an annual drawing three months prior to date of redemption. Total holdings of First War Loan Bonds of all series outstanding is two hundred and fifty million dollars.

In the presence of Mr. Graham Towers Governor of the Bank of Canada, Dr. W. C Clark, Deputy Minister of Finance and Mr. G. E. Lowe, Executive Assistant to the Deputy Minister, who witnessed the drawing Mr Abbott emphasized that all owners of First War Loan Bonds bearing the call letter E should make arrangements to present them for redemption on Feb. 1st, 1948 since bonds will not bear interest after this date

To Combat Drought

PRAIRIE WHEAT FARMING has always been regarded as a precarious undertaking, for each year the crop is menaced by many factors which are beyond the control of the farmer. No matter how carefully he prepares the land and sows the seed, drought, hail, rust, frost, insects and other hazards threaten the results of the year's work, and he cannot be sure of success until the harvest is over. It is true that experience, and agricultural research have helped materially to lessen some of these dangers which yearly threaten the Western wheat crop. Early-maturing varieties of [illegible] have been developed to offset the ravages of [illegible] and rust resisting wheat has helped to eliminate that hazard. Programmes of insect extermination and control have cut down on the amount of wheat damaged in that way.

A Great Enemy In Some Areas

Conserving moisture through proper methods of cultivation, and irrigation have helped materially to overcome the threat of drought which has been the greatest enemy of farmers in some sections of the West. It has now been reported that experiments are being carried on at the Dominion experimental farm at Swift Current, Saskatchewan, which may help to further cut down crop losses due to lack of moisture. Tests made under the supervision of Dr. J. L. Doughty, chief of the farm's soil laboratory, are expected to yield information which may help the farmer to determine whether there is enough moisture in the soil to assure him of a profitable crop. Through this knowledge, large sums, annually spent on seed sowed in areas where there is little hope of a successful crop, may be saved.

Forecasts To Help Farmers

The soil scientists at Swift Current have found that in the brown-soil zone of Saskatchewan, which makes up the southwest corner of the province, the average rainfall is never sufficient for even a fair crop and part of the necessary moisture must be supplied from the soil. By measuring the amount of moisture in the soil in the spring and again after harvest it is hoped that eventually a method may be worked out by which the yield of any piece of land may be accurately predicted. Careful use of the land from the point of view of moisture conservation will be an important factor in overcoming drought in those areas where the average rainfall is not sufficient to produce a good crop. It is expected that it will be ten years before the experiments now being carried on will be completed, [illegible] encouraging to know that active measures are being taken to overcome the lack of rain which is one of the greatest problems facing many [illegible].

India Riots Create World Kid Shortage

MONTREAL.—If you are not finding many kid shoes in the stores these days, you can blame it on the continuing violence in the new twin [illegible] of India and Pakistan.

Kid is imported from India, but riots and consequent disruption of communications have prevented collection of the precious skins.

Tanners and shoe manufacturers on this side, eagerly awaiting consignments, say that even skins already at the dockside cannot be shipped due to a shortage of stevedores.

In the Punjab, many Moslems, who for years have controlled the kidskin industry, have been forced to flee. Only Moslems can work in slaughter houses, since Hindus are forbidden by their religion.

India, with more livestock than any other country in the world, is also the world's chief supplier of goat and [illegible].

FUNNY And OTHERWISE

A familiar "man-about-the courthouse" was being discussed.

"He used to be powerfully energetic," one old observer said. "For years he chased around like mad tryin' to get a political job."

"What does he do now?" someone asked.

"Nothing. He got the job."

"But, madam, I'm afraid you're making a mistake. I am a doctor, certainly, but I'm a doctor of music."

"I know that," replied the old lady, "and that's why I came to you. I've a terrible singing in my ears."

On going into the cow shed one morning, the farmer was greatly surprised to find his new hand, a town girl who had previously been employed in a factory, giving one of the cows a drink of milk from her pail.

"What are you doing that for?" he asked.

"Well," explained the girl, "the milk looked so thin to me, I thought I'd better put it through the process again."

"Here's the question for you, soldier," said the quizmaster. "How many successful jumps did a paratrooper have to make before he graduated?"

An English bride of a few weeks noticed that her husband was depressed.

"Gerald, dearest," she said. "I know something is troubling you, and I want you to tell me what it is, your worries are not your worries now, they are our worries."

"No," answered the house-hunter, "I want to practise the trombone."

Scholarships To Be Provided By Beaver Club

Profits Of Operation Put To Good Use

LONDON—A sum of $120,000, left after the famous wartime Beaver Club closed, will provide scholarships at British Universities for Canadian ex-servicemen and their sons.

The first scholarship, equal in value to the Rhodes scholarships which are worth $2,000 for three years, has been taken by Christopher Young, whose father Norman Young, headmaster of Ravenscroft school in Winnipeg, was killed at Dieppe.

The fund will provide 15 or 20 scholarships in the next few years as well as adding $10,000 to supplement grants made by the Canadian Department of Veterans Affairs to ex-servicemen studying in Europe.

The fund also has donated $2,000 to the British Victory Club and the same amount to the Beaver Club voluntary association, made up of workmen who worked in the Beaver Club during the war.

The Club was founded in London under the chairmanship of Vincent Massey, former Canadian High Commissioner in London; Gen. H. D. G. Crerar, Wartime Commander of the First Canadian Army; H. R. Mitchener, Secretary of the Rhodes Trust; and the heads of the Universities of McGill and Toronto.

Pioneer Days Recalled At United Ch. W.A. Meeting

I must tell you of a prairie fire that passed through our community a few years later. By this time more settlers had arrived and we had neighbors within a half mile of us. The prairie fires caused great destruction, destroying all the pasture land and stacks of winter feed and sometimes the buildings. One morning in early spring my brother and I woke up to find the house empty and the table covered with dirty dishes as if the family had eaten a very hurried meal. On looking out the window we were surprised to see blue smoke rolling along everywhere and a few miles to the north it was so thick visibility was shut off altogether.

We scrambled into our jackets, took each others hands and ran over to our nearest neighbors half a mile away. The lady of the house explained to us that the fire was coming towards us and that every one who could was out fighting it with wet gunny sacks. A stiff breeze was blowing and the fire getting closer and the smoke thicker, churning up in big billows. As we stood and gazed at it from the window, wondering what we should do, a figure dashed out in front of the smoke—waving his hands frantically and telling us to turn loose the horses out of the barn, then run for the lake. It was early spring and the ice was still intact. Although there was several feet of open water around the edge we all rushed down there as fast as we could, splashed through the water and landed safely on the ice. By this time the flames were between us and the house so we were not a minute too soon. We walked along the lake shore as the fire swept by until we were opposite our own dwellings, then we gingerly picked our way through the hot black ashes back to our home. How tired and black everyone was! It was 4 o'clock by now and the breakfast dishes still sitting on the table.

My sister told us later of a narrow escape she and a neighbor had. In fighting the flames they had somehow got in front of a line of fire and how it would have enveloped them had they not ran into a slough and stood knee-deep in the water with their heads buried in their skirts until the fire had burnt around and past them. Luckily no buildings were destroyed thanks to the snow drifts around the yard. Once in a while we managed to put the fires out altogether but usually they would burn merrily on until stopped by the Battle river.

You will be wondering how we children amused ourselves during the first three years. Naturally we were interested in the activities of the men folk and accompanied them while they did their work. Once, while bringing in a load of firewood we found three abandoned sleighs that had been made and used by the Indians. We learned later that a faint unused trail which passed us a mile or so to the north was the old Indian road from Edmonton to N. Battleford. One of these sleighs was very substantial — being made from birch poles and was held together with small dowels punched into sockets that had been burned into the wood with a hot iron. We used it for several seasons and also made others like it.

We spent many days picking berries. One day the dog acted very odd, whining and scratching at our heels and finally went home by himself and hid under the bed. That night the sad news reached us that a cyclone had struck the ranchhouse south of us and three of the children were killed by flying logs. The dog must have sensed the storm and was trying to warn us.

Wash day which happened every second week in the summer was another outstanding event. The well water was very hard so we hitched one of the old horses (we had traded the oxen for horses by this time) onto a stone-boat, loaded on the tubs, boilers and pails and dirty clothes and drove down to the lake about a mile away. Here mother and auntie lit a fire between a row of rocks and so heated the water in the tubs. We stayed here all day, eating our lunch under a willow tree. We children hauled out wood to keep the fire going and paddled around in the water. Once in a while a blood sucker would fasten itself on our legs and we would run screaming for someone to pull it off. One time the old mare ran away and scattered the laundry all over the prairie.

By this time we acquired a saddle pony. She was supposed to be an Indian cayuse and was very wily. In due time we children all learned to ride her and it was our duty to go for the cows in the evening as well as keep an eye on them in the day time as we had no fences. This pony had one very exasperating trick. If it was a warm day she would become unmanageable and head for the lake and lie down in the water with us on her back! Many a soaking we got and the men folk too.

In the summer the mosquitoes were almost unbearable. We used to make smoke smudges in the evening and whenever the cattle saw the smoke they would come home even if they were a mile or two away.

Many more stories could be related, some amusing, some tragic, but this will be enough for now.

By the autumn of 1909 a school district was formed and a school built. Miss Craig, who is with us tonight, was our first teacher in this school and she must have had some task putting a sense of order into our rambling minds after so long a holiday.

Hallowe'en "Shell Out" Canvass Monday Eve'g

This year again the parents and teachers of the school children are arranging a treat for grades 1 to 9 inclusive to take the place of the traditional Hallowe'en "tricks or treats".

A door-to-door canvass will be made under supervision on Monday evening Oct. 27th by pairs of girls or boys for the purpose of collecting enough cash donations to defray the expenses of a special picture show at the Columbia theatre followed by a treat.

The picture show is made possible through the kind co-operation of the theatre management, Messrs. W. P. and Billie Filkie.

It is understood that this treat for the children will render absolutely unnecessary the usual door-to-door solicitation for treats on Hallowe'en night.

Anglican Church Is Scene of Lovely Wedding

STONE—DIXON

Attractive among the autumn weddings in Vermilion, was that of Arleigh Isabelle, youngest daughter of Mrs M Pauline Dixon, and the late Mr Anthony Dixon, and Mr. Kenneth Mayson Stone, only son of Mr and Mrs Roy Lee Stone, which took place Tuesday, Oct 14th at 2:30 p.m. in St Saviour's Anglican church. Rev. T W Teape performed the double ring ceremony.

Bouquets of mums and gladioli decorated the church and white ribbon bows marked the guest pews. Given in marriage by her eldest brother Mr Wm Dixon, the bride was gowned in traditional white nylon satin styled with a peplum quilted with seed pearls. Her veil which was silk embroidered, was caught to a satin calot trimmed with seed pearls and she carried a bouquet of American Beauty roses. A pearl necklace was her only jewelry.

Mrs Cliff Reid, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore an aqua blue lace, peplum styled floor-length gown, with matching calot and gloves. Roses and mums comprised her colonial bouquet.

Best man was Mr [redacted] of Provost, classmate of the groom. Ushers were Mr Charles Forbes and Mr Ronald Payne. Mrs. A. M. West played the wedding music, and, during the signing of the register, Miss Marjorie C West sang "All Joy Be Thine".

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's mother. The bride's table was laid in white linen and centred with a three-tiered wedding cake, flanked on all sides with pink tapers.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Dixon wore a pale blue faconne crepe dress with grey accessories and a corsage of baby orchids. The groom's mother, Mrs Stone, was in grey crepe, with which she wore aqua accessories and Talisman roses en corsage.

Mrs. Wm. Dixon, sister-in-law of the bride, and Mrs. H. White of Minburn presided at the table. Mrs. S. Brass was in charge of the dining room. Serviteurs were Mrs. A. Cameron, Mrs. A. Gobeen, Mrs. T. Kearns and the Misses Myrtle Killian, Jo McLaughlin and Marjorie West.

Telegrams were received from relatives and friends at Edmonton, Lacombe, Ottawa, Ft. William and Fleetwood, England.

The couple left on a wedding trip to Saskatoon, the bride travelling in a copen blue peplum styled wool suit with brown accessories. They will later reside on the groom's farm south of Islay.

Out-of-town guests were: Mrs H. White Minburn, Misses Gladys and Muriel Stone of Islay; Mr R. Menzies of Provost; Mr and Mrs. Wm. Dixon of Clandonald and Mr R. Snelgrove of Edmonton.

The bride has been on the staff of the local treasury branch for the past three years, while the groom is a graduate in Agriculture from the V.S.A. and the University of Alberta. He spent several years on active service with the R.C.A.F.

Leaves for Belgium As Missionary

Miss Georgette Young of Hindsville said goodbye to her many friends here Monday. She is now well on her way to her mother's native land of Belgium where she intends to do missionary work.

Stagette Notes

Tuesday Oct. 21 was the regular meeting night of the Stagettes with 20 members present.

After the singing of the club song a business session got under way.

We are glad to see our little (big) girls have grown up, dress properly and put on their make-up with discretion.

A very interesting letter was read from Louie Robson telling of the many interesting places she has visited.

There was also a letter from Muriel Smith. Muriel mentioned some of the activities of the Stagette club at the coast which is always interesting news.

The club has lost another active member, Norma Gibbons, better known as "Gibby". Gibby was presented with a lovely gift from the club. She thanked us all very graciously. Best of wishes Norma.

The main topic of the evening was the mother and daughter tea the club is planning to hold Nov. [illegible]. The invitation is extended to all honorary members and their mothers.

We hope to see you all next Tuesday and don't forget [illegible].

Largest Old-Timers' Round-Up in History

222 ATTEND BANQUET & DANCE ON FRIDAY LAST

One of Vermilion's outstanding events, the Old Timers' Annual Round Up, was held in the Elks hall last Friday evening. The greatest number of members ever to attend, 222, filled the hall and it is safe to say that the success of the affair ranked as high as any in the history of the association.

The program this year consisted of a banquet, a short business session, followed by the famous old time dance.

The meal served was par-excellence, just too good for description. The catering was by the ladies of the United church and many were the commendations of the bountiful and delicious repast, along with the very efficient serving of the large crowd.

President Charlie Robinson presided at the short interesting business session and program. Mayor Morrison brought greetings on behalf of the town, Rev. E. S. Reikie and Rev. T.W. Teape displayed wit and humor in brief remarks. The entire slate of officers was re-elected amidst much applause. The officers for 1948 will thus be:

Hon. President—Mayor Morrison
President—Charlie Robinson
Vice-President—Wm. Steele
Sec Treasurer—Mrs. Isabell West
Executive—Mrs. Geo. Whyte, Mrs Art Ronaghan, Mrs. Walter Fish, Mrs. Annie Cameron, George Whyte, Wm. Moses.

A more sombre note was struck when a minute's silence was observed in memory of six old timers who had passed on during the year.

The floor was cleared and old time dances held sway for several hours. Roy Walker, without whom no old timers' dance would be complete, was M.C. and kept the program lively and interesting until the early hours. Aiding in calling were Jim Wallington, Charlie Deford and Gus Swanson.

Considerable amusement was caused by impromptu step dances staged by members of the Omness family, of which 7, five sisters and two brothers were present. They were aided by Charlie Deford and Carl Johnson.

Music was by Mr and Mrs. Rufus Omness with Fred Gould playing the drums.

A few old timers present from well outside the district were Mrs George Stewart of Edmonton and her brother Billie Robertson of Onion Lake, Mr and Mrs Gus Swanson of Lindberg and Mrs. Rose Hudson (nee Connelly) of Edmonton.

It was interesting to read several letters from old timers in far distant points, even from the States, extending wishes for success to the old timers and all expressing the desire to be present. One letter in particular written by Paul Lloyd now of Edmonton who in the very early days of this district worked on the famous Grizzly Bear ranch, and then homesteaded in the Peat area north of Angle Lake, sums up the early life and pioneer spirit as follows:

"Life was really good in the early days. It was both interesting and colorful, and its sheer simplicity was most refreshing. The pioneer required no hired entertainer, he could, and did, provide his own amusement. His humor was so very racy of the soil and quite ingenuous. He labored hard and enjoyed it. He made it possible for the present generation to enjoy qualities of life that were not available to him.

"How jocund did they drive their team afield.
How bowed the wood beneath their sturdy strokes
Let not ambition mock their useful toil,
Their homely joys and destinies obscure;
Nor grandeur hear with disdainful smile,
The short and simple annals of the poor."

Most of us were poor in those early days ... perhaps that was the key to our happiness. Life was good ... in retrospect still better.

We send our sincere and affectionate greetings to all Vermilion Old Timers; may their lustre never fade ... may the roster be strong for many years yet [illegible].

The trip to Penhold took just 1½ hours easy flying time in the morning and Mr. Banks and Mr. Crowshaw were back home in good time for their evening meal.

Pumping Installation Is Now Completed

100,000 GALLON RESERVOIR IS FILLED IN 8 HOURS

The first portion of the town's quarter of a million dollar water and sewer system was put to test and some use this week when the water reservoir located at the top of the hill was filled with water. The pumping installation at the well head in the valley source of the town's water supply operated perfectly and the big reservoir with a capacity of 100,000 gallons, was filled in 8 hours. The water main from the reservoir to the post office corner, and from there down Main street to the power plant, is being utilized to supply the plant with this softer water, more desirable than ever now that the water-tube boiler is in use.

Canadian Utilities is responsible for the operation of the water line until such time as the whole system is taken over by the town, now expected to be about midsummer of 1948.

There are 4 fire hydrants located on the portion of the water line being used and this results in greatly added fire protection for the town.

Water supply which includes the well conditioning of same, and installation of pumping equipment there and at the reservoir is in the hands of the International Water Supply, H. Clare Pequegnat being in charge of the work here.

Laying of water lines, installation of hydrants and construction of the cement reservoir was done by the Dominion Construction Co., the general contractors for the water and sewer system with Chas. Kepler in charge.

THE ELKS CARNIVAL —

The Elks three-night carnival, one of the most ambitious events of the year in Vermilion, is scheduled to start this Friday evening and run Saturday and Monday. It is hoped that it will receive greater patronage than ever as the proceeds this year will help provide youth organizations of the town with a hall all their very own. In the past proceeds from carnivals have been used for many charitable projects, provided equipment for playgrounds in Vermilion, eye glasses for needy children and adults, care for homeless refugees in Europe, a great deal of it went to the "Save the Children Fund", donations were made to the Red Cross and the Red Shield appeals — no organization here made the contributions to help others that the Elks have made.

Vermilion is indeed fortunate in having in the B.P.O.E. an active service organization that ranks second to none in Western Canada. It is hoped that everyone will buy an extra ticket or two today . . . your last chance to help along the good work of the Elks.

A NOTEWORTHY EFFORT—

The action of the Vermilion Board of Trade in taking the initiative to forward the project for Federal road aid and the building of a Trans-Canada highway was a timely and praiseworthy one. The manner in which the very large gathering was arranged and the success which attended it drew comments from representatives of all the 18 towns, villages and cities in attendance.

When representatives will take the time, trouble and expense to travel varying distances up to 180 miles, when men to the number of 119 deem any subject important enough to gather and discuss, when the two daily newspapers will each spare a man a whole day to report the proceedings, then that particular subject must be one in which action should be taken.

By reason of the initiative of the board of trade the spotlight of publicity has been turned on the town of Vermilion ever since the meeting was first announced. The writer heard the matter broadcast during the news bulletins no less than 5 times, 3 prior to the holding of the meeting and twice following. Weekly and daily press carried several advance reports and the Edmonton dailies gave very complete coverage of the proceedings at the meeting with pictures.

In fact, the Edmonton Bulletin featured the story of the meeting on the front page in number 1 position with an 8 column headline, the compliment supreme to any story and the ultimate in publicity through news columns. That it was Vermilion that achieved this will be a source of satisfaction to every local citizen who takes pride in his home town.

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY—

Epitaph And The Sirens

EPITAPH JONES closed the door of the crazy old cabin with a resounding bang. He gave the house a malignant look before he turned and stamped noisily off the sagging porch. He squared his shoulders, set his gaudy cap at a jaunty angle, and swaggered off toward the not-far-distant town.

The path that Mr. Jones followed meandered irresolutely across a wild expanse of black and gray ash heaps. Piles of tin cans glittered in a watery sunlight and grimy children and bony goats raced about him. A chilling wind added nothing to the bleak landscape.

Though he looked a care-free figure, Epitaph's thoughts were acutely painful. "A weepin' woman. Always a-weepin'. Livin' in lux'ry, a lovin' man, all the work she can do and still she weeps. No sooner she stops weepin' for one thing she begins to weep for somethin' else. Weep and cry—cry and weep, till I need me a ark, if I go on watchin' her weep much longer. I gotta find me some real sunshine somewhere, quick."

As though drawn by a magnet, his feet climbed a steep street, passed a pool hall, a fruit market, barber shop, a pawn shop. He turned through a white-washed gate into a neat yard where red tubs set on great gray stumps waited their summer cargo of flowers. Gaily painted rocks outlined the path that led to a bright blue door in a small brown house. Even the watery sunlight seemed brighter here.

Epitaph's knock was answered by a trim young woman who greeted him with a pleased laugh.

"Why, how-do-do, Mr. Jones, I was just sayin' to myself I wisht that nice Mr. Jones would drop along and here you come promenadin' in. Do have this easy ch..., Mr. Jones, and lemme take your hat."

Mr. Jones relaxed into an imitation leather chair and looked about approvingly. White curtains, yellow floors, brightly varnished furniture and scarlet geraniums in the window made a delightful picture to a man lately accustomed to a house suited to a Niobe.

And the entrancing being beside him in the rose-colored dress, lipsticked, rouged and perfumed, whose charming laugh bubbled out at his lightest remark—surely, she was a veritable beam of sunshine in a cloudy world. No gloom. No tears. Just laughter and light and loveliness.

Said Epitaph Jones, patting the slim hand on the arm of his chair, "I just came to inquire, Miss Cyrene, would you like me for a steady boarder? I find myself necessitated to make a change as my present habitation is most discommodious and depressive, likewise extremely damp. With you, I could dwell in one apex of glorious cheerfulness," added Mr. Jones, growing suddenly poetic.

Tearful spring had drifted into gracious summer and summer had faded into frost-tinted autumn when Epitaph again crossed the black and gray ash heaps where grimy children and bony goats still swarmed. He did not swagger now. His raiment was as natty as ever and his cap still clung at a rakish angle but there was a chastened air about him. He had the look of one who has suffered a grievous disillusionment.

Pausing before the crazy old cabin, he surveyed it fondly. Then he tip-toed across the sagging porch and slowly pushed open the protesting door.

Gloom and dinginess and a slightly musty odor met him. He spoke into the tomb-like silence.

"Hi, Sissy, you home today?"

A tall thin woman in a dejected black dress appeared from an inner room. She saw Mr. Jones and began to laugh. Mr. Jones felt the universe reeling. Sissy laughing! It was as though he beheld the stars prancing about. He ventured a cautious foot inside the door.

"Why Sissy, I thought you was such a weepin' woman. You sick, Sissy?"

"No indeedy. Never felt better in my life. Come right in, Epitaph," Sissy trilled merrily.

"How come you to change so, Sissy?"

Sissy chuckled. "Well, when you went off with that gigglin' Cyrene I took a thought to myself. If that no-account Cyrene can laugh another girl's man away from her, I says, I better learn me some laughs too, so I did." Here Sissy gave a most convincing demonstration of her new accomplishment.

Epitaph shuddered as at a pricking memory.

"But Sissy, I don't like laughin' women. Can't you weep just a little Sissy?"

"No, I'll weep no more. How come you stayed at Cyrene's so long if you don't like laughin' women, Epitaph?"

"She wouldn't leave me go. But this mornin' I just kind of mentioned that I sort of guessed I'd look you up once. And she got a—a kind of laughin' fit and throwed a hammer at me. So I took it was kind of a hint and I just natchelly snuck out and left. Hammer hit me too." Epitaph gingerly touched a greenish lump on his left temple.

"Ain't that a shame. Cyrene didn't ought to act so. Now me, when I have laughin' fits I just hurl flat irons," and Sissy caught up one that stood on a nearby table and advanced on her guest in a perfect gale of merriment.

Epitaph was not hero enough to face a woman with a flat-iron. Before that gleeful onslaught he fled, jerking the battered door shut with an energy that brought the broken knob away in his hand. He made one leap across the sagging porch and raced wildly past tin cans and screeching children toward the river.

Sunset glory and peace lay over the river. Epitaph, struggling with a perverse row-boat, cast longing glances over his shoulder toward the island in the middle of the wide stream. He looked back at the shore he had just left and metaphorically he shook both fists at the crazy cabin and the neat brown house.

"No more women for me," vowed Mr. Jones grimly. Never will I even speak to one again. Weepin' women! And laughin' women!! WOMEN!!!" roared Mr. Jones in an overwhelming rush of bitterness.

The west was still bright when Epitaph beached his boat on the sandy shore. A crooked path led him to a small clearing in a wood. On a ragged blanket before a ramshackle hut built mostly of packing cases and tin strips, sprawled a man, idle, relaxed, half-hidden in a haze of rank tobacco smoke. A scrawny hound equally relaxed, dozed beside him. As Epitaph Jones gazed on that peaceful scene a sense of relief, of security, swept over him. He spoke fervently.

The man on the blanket looked up. He spoke with a rare economy of effort.

"Hi, Ep'taph. Make y'self t'home. Meet M' Sis' 'Vang'line." He closed his eyes, exhausted.

Epitaph, in the very act of dropping onto the blanket, stared, appalled. The door of the ramshackle hut framed a radiant vision—ribbons and ruffles and black eyes and little scarlet slippers.

Epitaph shivered—half turned to flee. Then Romance took a firm grip on his shoulder and pushed him forward.

Said Mr. Jones most politely, "How-de-do, Miss 'Vang'line, I just dropped in to see would you like me for a steady boarder. I need me a change of climate, bad, and with you I could dwell forever in one apex of glorious delightsomeness," concluded Mr. Jones in an ecstatic burst of poetic fervor.

Water Falls in Saskatchewan

The above picture of the "Roaring Rapids" falls, located on the F. E. Shirtliff Ranch at Log Valley, 26 miles south of Riverhurst on the South Saskatchewan River, was taken by Fred T. Hill, editor of The Riverhurst Courier, in 1927. The falls have changed but little in two decades, it has still a good flow, and the falling water has the same old music. The falls are on a small spring creek which rises on the Shirtliff ranch (this land was formerly owned by Fred Richardson, an old-time rancher of that district), and the location of the spring is wooded, making ideal picnic grounds which are used by many throughout the summer. It is a pretty spot, and one that is deservedly popular. The ranch is in the river valley and much of it will be flooded if the proposed dam on the river materializes.

Canada's Combat Force To Have Wings

Plan To Train And Equip Ground Forces For Swift Movement By Air

OTTAWA.—The Canadian army's active force is swinging along now, in its peacetime development, aimed at creating a combat-force-with-wings with all units and their equipment completely transportable by air.

The last war saw the army emerge as a fast, mechanized fighting force but now they are going to give it a mobility it never has had in its history.

It is a radical plan to train and equip the ground force infantry, armor and services for swift movement by air to practically any point in the dominion. There is no other country in the world which has laid down plans to make its entire combat force air transportable by glider, troop-carrying planes and giant weapon and equipment transports.

Paratroops enter into these calculations, but the emphasis is on creating a closely-knit fighting force that can be lifted by air to any danger point and landed with all its equipment rather than dropped by parachute with limited resources.

In this airborne development Canada has an aware eye to the problems of northern and Arctic defence and the imperative need for speed in concentrating her scattered units at danger points if they threaten in any part of the dominion.

The work on this long-range plan has begun at the joint air school at Rivers, Man., where the first group of captains and lieutenants from active service units have just completed their training in airborne work in co-operation with the R.C.A.F.

Other groups of officers and non-commissioned officers will follow this first class to Rivers and all return to their units to train their platoons and companies in the new work.

A crack special air service company at Rivers, mainly composed of paratroops, trains these active service members. This is the company from which paratroops have been drawn for dramatic Arctic rescue work.

The emphasis in the creation of Canada's new army is on this airborne feature. Within a matter of a few years it is expected that the three regular infantry battalions, the two armored regiments and the services forming the brigade group will be able to be moved by air as easily as they now are moved by truck or train.

EDITORS ARE USUALLY BLAMED NOT PRAISED

A story is told in Minnesota that an editor of a paper had to be carried home on a stretcher as the result of having received a kind word because of something he had printed. The shock seemingly unnerved him. Just as he reached his home, some one gave him a tongue lashing about another item he had printed. The editor got up and went back to work.

EXPENSIVE OILS

Some fine oils which tanners use in lubricating sole leather to increase its water resistance and flexibility costs more than butter.

PLAYS COWBOY — For the last time before he is flown to Denver, Col., for another critical operation, Forrest "Nubbins" Hoffman, 6, Cheyenne, Wyo., plays cowboy on his steel [illegible]. Nubbins attracted attention and sympathy three years ago when he celebrated what was expected to be his last Christmas. A miracle of surgery saved him. Now stricken by a rare kidney disease, Nubbins will again meet the same surgeon who thinks there is a probable [illegible] chance that the operation will make it possible for him to grow normally.

IRRIGATION OF WESTERN CANADA

By Doris Moore

Each spring when the farmer plants his crop he immediately starts wondering, hoping, speculating, yes—gambling. Will the rains come? That is his primary thought. In fact, as soon as the last poor crop—or good crop, whichever happened to come along that year, is harvested, the turmoil begins all over again. Will the rains come?

"Next year we are certain to have a good crop; it has to rain sometime," says the farmer. All through the winter the dread thought prevails, in spite of forced optimism. The dread thought, 'will the rains come', passes back and forth through the mind of, not only the farmer but his wife, his son hoping to get married once the 'land is earning', and the daughter who is longing to get off to college to fulfil her long-spent dreams.

At the harvest supper after the crop has been harvested, the men and their families play ball with the idea of a better crop next year. Round the pipeless furnaces of a winter's eve when neighbours gather in for supper, they 'talk-up' a good crop for the next year. Even at the smart village dance the dashing young man says to his fiance, "Never mind, it will be different next year. It is bound to rain."

These people are dreaming up a good crop instead of working for one. They are hoping the rains will come. They should see to it that the rains will come. The harvest supper could have been followed by an irrigation meeting instead of a concert. Around the kitchen fire the men and their wives could have talked irrigation, written irrigation, lived irrigation and demanded irrigation, and at the town dance the young lad could have done this.

"Look here pals, our fathers and their fathers and their fathers have been contented with poor crops for years, and one bumper crop occasionally. They have been contented to gamble on rain. This has reduced their standard of living. It has caused them to be old men and women before their time, and it is driving us young people away from the farms into the cities. Our fathers have accepted farming as a gamble. They have been speculating on rain. How many of you wish to carry on like this? How many are ready to fight for irrigation? A fight that when won will bring from 45 to 60 bushels of wheat to the acre, not just once in seven years, not once in three years, but every year." If hail comes along, an overall insurance policy against all calamities, compulsory for all farmers and as a result would be at a low rate, will protect us against everything."

Yes, friends you have it there in a nutshell. And you have the water required for irrigation, not in a nutshell, but in hundreds of miles of rivers and in huge lakes in Western Canada fed by the waters running off the eastern slopes of the Rocky Mountains. Listen to this. According to the Encyclopedia Britannica the Mackenzie River with just its main tributaries, the Athabasca and the Peace Rivers, is 4,333 miles in length, with two extremely large lakes. Great Bear Lake is 11,660 square miles in area, and Great Slave Lake is 12,100 square miles. These two lakes are simply large reservoirs with millions of acre feet of water stored in them. Reservoirs so large as could scarcely be made by man. This is 1947, and no one has attempted the simple task of digging a canal to connect the waters of northern Canada with the waters of southern Canada, and thence take the water south, west and east by ditches and canals out on the millions of acres of thirsty prairie land in Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba. True, it would be a huge engineering project but was not the Alaska Highway a huge engineering project? The Alaska Highway is 1,600 miles long and was built practically over night, through bog and mire and tundra in weather 50 to 70 degrees below zero at some stages of its construction.

But, instead, where is the water going from this large river system? It is dumping its billions of gallons of water into the Arctic Ocean each year. "Will the rains come?" we hear the gambling farmer say. Can the farmers rest any longer and allow the water to escape to the sea, instead of arranging to have ditches and canals dug to divert its flow to the thirsty plains?

Go further. Take the next longest river of Central Southern Canada, the Saskatchewan River. Here we have approximately 2,350 miles of river water rushing into Lake Winnipeg. And, not one drop of water in the Mackenzie and Saskatchewan River systems is internationally owned. Canada has exclusive rights to all of it!

Young people and older people of Western Canada, get your irrigation societies formed, and you will find that your Government will be behind you. Start a campaign, and show that you want water. Many people say that the Government should install the great, tremendous irrigation project which will cost millions of dollars. True! But have you asked the Government to do it? Have you laid out a great comprehensive plan before them on paper? No. Many farmers are afraid to mention irrigation, talk irrigation, or think irrigation. They think it is like asking for the moon. Rather, it is like asking for cream for your porridge when the cream is sitting over on the buffet waiting to be used—waiting to be reached for.

Here is what happened in a desert years ago: We can safely call any land in Canada a desert that during certain periods does not have sufficient rainfall to produce gardens or feed for the livestock.

In the San Joaquin Valley in Central California (yes, California) the farmer plants his wheat each year. He knows that, as surely as the sun is going to rise in the East, he will get from 50 to 60 bushels to the acre. The grape producer also knows that he will have bountiful crops, the cotton rancher also knows that the bales will be consistent, and everyone can forecast ahead his approximate income.

This could have been different. This land at one time was a desert. Here is the story as recorded by the "Sun-Maid" Raisin Company, Fresno, California, largest dried fruit packing plant in the world, covering 25 acres.

"The California forty-niners hunted gold in the Sierra foothills above the San Joaquin Valley. Five years before, General Fremont rode east from Monterey to learn what lay in the great valley beyond the coast range. He made his trip in summer and found a hot sun and flat, dry plains. Except for a few poverty-stricken tribes of Indians along the banks of the San Joaquin and Kings Rivers the country was uninhabited. A few antelope and wild horses migrated through the valley following the sparse pasturage. There were wild pigs and wild chickens. Anything that escaped from the coast missions and pueblos into the valley was let go. No one would follow it into these bad lan's. Fremont recorded the San Joaquin as a "barren and worthless waste."

By 1860 the gold above the valley was exhausted and the prospectors were forced to turn to other means of livelihood. Some chose agriculture and with the optimism of the time went into this barren valley for which was still believed to be as productive as any parcel of earth.

Their first need was water. At the outset the farmers were opposed by cattlemen who had taken up huge tracts of territory. They didn't want the range divided, fenced and every [illegible] [illegible] was thrown in the way of the settlers. It was only by a prolonged struggle that the beginnings of our great, modern irrigation systems were formed."

Now states the Fresno County Chamber of Commerce brief dated 1946, "The 1940 United States Census ranks Fresno County, San Joaquin Valley, third among all the counties of the United States in the value of farm products."

The above photo shows the good results through irrigation systems launched by our neighbors to the south. This picture was taken of an irrigated wheat field in the San Joaquin Valley of California.

MRS. LAURA McKALE

WINNERS OF CONTESTS—The winners have been announced of a recent series of contests sponsored by The Wilson Fly Pad Company of Hamilton, Ontario. Winner of the First Prize of $100 in the first of the contests was Steve Yaremko, a schoolboy residing in Tangent, Alberta. Steve lives on a farm near the school he attends, and his favourite school subject is arithmetic. He considered using part of his prize winnings to buy a bicycle but on second thought, he has put the money in the bank for the day when he may really need it.

Winner of the First Prize of $100 in the second contest was Mrs. Laura McKale of Calumet RR1, Quebec. Mrs. McKale is a farmer's wife and the mother of 12 children, six boys and six girls. Aside from looking after her large family, Mrs. McKale finds time to do crocheting, embroidering, knitting and sewing. Mrs. McKale claims she has been using Wilson's Fly Pads for 30 years and would not be without them.

What Price Conviction?

(By Joseph Lister Rutledge)

There are times when we wonder whether people's convictions go as deep as they did a generation or two ago. Another age wore its heart somewhat more openly on its sleeve and accepted the public announcement of a conviction as the test evidence of its validity. Note then one small bit of evidence in defence of the unadvertised conviction.

During the war years when everyone was buying bonds in a surge of patriotic fervor and getting their safe and reasonable three per cent, some Canadians purchased to the not inconsiderable total of more than 10 millions of dollars on which they refused any interest, thus over a five year period doing without $1,400,000 that was rightfully theirs. They did this because, in their religious or patriotic view, they did not think it right to make money out of war that brought so much suffering to a world.

We may not agree with them. But, in the face of the ultra-practical to whom such an attitude is just plain boobery we would like to say that, while disagreeing, we can still admire convictions that are worth more than three per cent.

One Customer Who Liked Swedish Goods

LONDON.—An old woman recently walked into the Swedish Air Lines Travel Bureau here and timidly asked whether they could tell her where to buy Swedish merchandise in London. She was very reluctant to reveal what kind of merchandise it was she wanted but finally she said shyly, "Well you see, I should like to have a really good pre-war rat-trap and the Swedish ones are the best."

WOODVALE

A week of dry threshing weather made it possible for hard working crews to clear quite a few fields. As almost every outfit is short of men progress has not been as fast as could have been and another week will be needed to finish this year's threshing. Combines find the ground soft in many places and sometimes have to be pulled out of muddy spots by a tractor Yields vary quite a bit this year wheat going anywhere from 5 to 24 bushels per acre with a lot of low yields

Having a farm in different localities does not safe-guard one for a good crop. Harry Teasdale had extensive damage at his farm in the Union district, also near Paradise Valley.

Three of the younger generation will be attending agriculture school in Vermilion this year. Mabel Lysons will take her 2nd year in home economics Ruby Thompson her 1st and Walter Lysons his first year in agriculture. We feel sure they'll learn a lot and have a wonderful time besides.

MORRISON NEWS

(Crowded out last week)

The weather has certainly been lovely this past week. As a result the men are putting in long hours threshing Let's hope everyone gets threshed before the snow flies The pansies are still blooming. Lloyd's hens are setting; Mrs. Bowser has turkey hens laying—even the poultry must think its spring.

Mary thinks that she will drive a stook team next year—thinks that it might be easier than washing so many dishes. I don't think so Mary.

Earl Bowser and children of Edmonton spent Thanksgiving at home with the Bowser family. Earl enjoyed some shooting while here.

Mrs. Williams and Mrs. Perkins had their babies christened at Pleasant Valley church last Sunday week. The ladies at church that day had the pleasure of meeting Mrs. Tompe and her two children

Bill, Len and Chrissie enjoyed supper at the Offiles home Sunday night. Betty was also home from Vermilion

Letters to the Editor

Vermilion, Alberta, Oct 27

Mr Editor

A matter that does not appear to have been given any publicity in these parts and yet is so essential to those who come after us, is the formation of a Historical Association for the district and town.

A prospective member must have a yen or a deep desire to serve his or her community in a manner that does not hit the headlines very often.

It is assumed that we are proud of our way of life and it would be well for us to leave to the future citizens a few guide-posts for them to improve [illegible]

Now dear reader, if you are interested please advise the Standard office by phone or letter of your name and address and if sufficient number show an interest in the above suggestion you will be advised of a place and time of meeting.

Thanking you Mr Editor for your space

Yours truly,

Elk Point Students To Publish Paper

EUGENE DEMBICKI, EDITOR

At a meeting of the executive council of the Elk Point high school students' union plans were made for the publication of the first issue for this year of the quarterly magazine, "The Wapiti". The first publication of this magazine was made three years ago. The name Wapiti was chosen from several other names which had been submitted and was selected as the most suitable since it is the Indian name of the American Elk from which the village derived its name. The editorial staff chosen for this issue was as follows. Editor Eugene Dembicki; Assistant Editor -- Grace Miller; Sports Editors—Billy Spelay and Joan Sumpton; Humor Dept — Margaret Holliday and Doris Wiegerinck; Youth Activities—Sidney Kates, Samuel Melnyk, Jean Marusyk, Ignit Stetsko; School Hi-Lites — John Yacyna and Dan Jurak; Social Events —Doreen Lindquist and Joyce Millholland; Literary Editor - Margaret Hobden, News Editors -- Gertrude Keck and Evelyn Bartling. SHOWER FOR BRIDE-ELECT

On the afternoon of Tuesday, Oct. 21 twenty three ladies gathered at the home of Mr and Mrs Arnold Maggs in honour of Miss Dolly Maggs, bride-elect of this week.

[illegible] the afternoon little Misses [illegible] Moses and Barbara School wheeled in a gocart gaily decorated in gold and green crepe paper and piled high with gifts for the bride-to-be. After the many beautiful and useful presents had been opened and admired by all, Dolly fittingly thanked the ladies with the added hope that she might some day welcome friends from here in her new home of the future.

Following the presentation, a bountiful lunch was served by Mrs. A. Maggs assisted by Mrs B. Moses, Mrs Harrison, Mrs School and Mrs. Bob Cameron.

Those present included Mrs. Maggs Sr., Mrs Carroll, Mrs Repp, Mrs. Hardie, Mrs. Knutson and Miss Maybelle Knutson, Mrs. B. Moses, Mrs. School, Mrs Harrison, Mrs McGinnis, Mrs M. Keague, Mrs. John McKeague, Mrs Clarence Wilson, Mrs. John Wilson, Mrs. Frank Wilson, Mrs. Bob Cameron, Mrs W. Fouks, Mrs. R. Good, Mrs H. Good, Mrs. Jim Thompson and Mrs E. Thompson.

Roads are in quite good condition throughout the district now—possibly as good or better than they have been all summer.

Threshing and combining of grain is being rapidly completed with the past stretch of good weather. However the fairly heavy frosts at night cause very slimy footing in the fields about noon when the frost comes out. Early morning appears to be the best time to work.

As most folks were quite busy, the Oct. 16th meeting of the Chatsworth Country club which was held at Mrs. Bob Cameron's brought out only nine members. A social committee was named and they are planning a social evening to be held at Mrs. Bob Cameron's on Nov. 7th.

The next meeting of the club is to be held at Mrs. Jim Cameron's on Nov. 20th.

Mrs. McKeague returned recently from an extended visit to relatives and friends in St. John, N.B. When she left Vermilion it was very dry but she reports that due to rain and fog for 19 consecutive days after she arrived in St. John the foghorn blew without a stop. Nevertheless she spent a very enjoyable two months' holiday and looks fit and well.

Little Donna Marie Farkash has passed her 1st year, her birthday being Oct. 21st.

Mrs. Squires and Bobbie left Friday morning on the bus for Moose Jaw where they intend to reside in the future. We're certainly going to miss Bobbie and his singing.

Mr. Cornelius East is visiting at Mr. and Mrs. Ed East's.

Mr. and Mrs. Dave Cameron plan to leave this week for Edmonton where they will make their future home.

The A.F.U. is holding the annual meeting on Friday evening Oct 31, to be followed by a social evening. There is to be a short program and lunch will be served. Everyone is welcome.

Miss Dolly Maggs, who has been visiting her mother and brother in the Poplar Heights district for the past three weeks, left on Monday morning's train for Salmon Arm B.C.

Little Miss Ruth Beattie, 8-year-old daughter of Mrs. Nancy Beattie remained in top place in the Search for Talent program staged here three weeks ago. Second honors went to Lenore Michael of Clandonald, third to Margaret McMillan of Clayamore, who is an aunt of the winning Ruthie.

It so happened that none of the winners is included in the picture supplied by CFRN and reproduced above, but several of the Vermilion contestants are shown.

Exceptionally good talent, large audiences and generous donations continue to feature the Associated Canadian Travellers "Search For Talent" show, now in the fifth week of its 24-week campaign in aid of the northern Alberta Crippled Children's Fund. The show, jointly sponsored by the travellers and radio station CFRN is staged in some northern Alberta town every Saturday night and is a three hour affair, 45 minutes of which are broadcast over CFRN at 8:30 p.m. During the past month the showboat travelled to Barrhead, Vermilion, Rimbey and Athabasca, playing before packed houses, totalling some 2200 spectators. Shown here are some of the contestants who have appeared in the shows. From left to right they are — (Top Row) Evelyn Bushey, of Rimbey, playing an accordion and 4-year-old Garry Benson also of Rimbey doing a vocal number, "Zippa-de-doo-da"; (Middle row) A vocal duet Anne Stewart and Diane Wiebe. No. 9, Eric Neilsen playing a violin and Miss Mary Jane Richardson doing a piano solo, all of Vermilion. (Bottom row) Stella Washylishen of Vermilion, Howard and John Trautman and accordionist Martha Kenny all of Rimbey.

Congrats to Mr and Mrs Frank L. Gould of Vermilion on the birth of a baby girl, Sandra Grace, on Sunday Oct. 5th at the hospital.

J. Wallington, L. Howard and Geo. Haines have finished their threshing runs and have pulled in. Billie Smith still has several days left yet. Frank Gibson has about one job to do.

There was a large attendance at the funeral of Jimmie Nash held at the Anglican church, Saturday, to pay their last respects to the departed. Rev. Teape gave a very comforting address. At the graveside a number of veterans paid their last respects to the deceased who was a member of the armed services during the war. May the bereaved ones look to our Maker Who does all things for the best and comforts all hearts if we only look to Him for strength.

On Sunday we had the pleasure of a visit from Stan Calvert, Jas. Fisk and Jim Moore, all of town.

Ray Osterberg is the owner of a fine running Ford truck, purchased through Jas. Stranahan of Wainwright. It will be remembered Ray had the misfortune to lose his car by fire last spring.

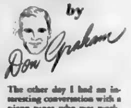
Why mothers get gray—Little Donnie Fadden swallowed a fence staple on Saturday, but by his mothers quick action, it was retrieved; Little Arthur Weisenberger wandered away from home and caused quite an anxious time for awhile — when found he told Bob Martin some of his granaries needed fixing.

EVERYBODY'S BUSINESS

by



Don Graham

The other day I had an interesting conversation with a piano tuner who was working in my home.

Although I had always thought his profession a rather monotonous one, I was soon to change my mind. For he talked so engagingly about his work, the construction of the instrument and other related matters, that I found myself becoming genuinely interested.

But what fascinated me most was his great enthusiasm for his work.

This attitude towards one's job is greatly to be desired. Enthusiasm has a magic, warming effect on all of us. And in a worker—be he salesman or carpenter, butcher or book-keeper—it wins admiration and co-operation from employers, customers and all others with whom he comes in contact.

So, especially to younger men, I would say: Regardless of whatever headaches and disappointments your work may bring, keep on being enthusiastic!

Millions of owners and beneficiaries of life insurance policies enthusiastically endorse this form of investment for security. Agents of the life insurance companies in Canada, too, are enthusiastic about their work because it renders a valuable service.

Quality High In Inspected Cars of Barley

Despite the unfavorable season for the 1947 barley crop and the slightly smaller number of carload shipments to date in the $25,000 National Barley contest, the quality of entries so far inspected is showing unexpectedly high.

Chairman of the contest committee, Prof. T. J. Harrison who returned last week after three months absence in Poland as Canadian representative on a mission of the Food and Agriculture Organization, reports that most of the cars received are grading 2 C.W. Six Row.

Equally encouraging is the fact that germination tests of inspected cars are running high. Not all carload lots received have been tested, but of those which had been, up to Oct. 22, Prof. Harrison reports that germination was running from 95 to 99%.

Farm Radio Forum Starts November 3

LISTEN — DISCUSS — REPORT

Farm Radio Forum will be on the air Nov. 3rd at 4.30 p.m. and every Monday night during the winter. We know that this program has many listeners throughout the province but to make the program effective and to derive the greatest benefit, participation should be in the form of listening groups.

This farmers' discussion program is designed for group listening followed by discussion and reporting to the Provincial office of the opinions expressed. The benefits of such group participation can be many to a rural community. It will build up unity of thought and action. It will develop social relations and give a channel through which rural people may express their opinions on timely topics. Further, it can be the focal point for many community activities that will improve the social welfare within the district.

With these advantages at hand the farm organizations such as the [illegible] Farmers of Alberta and Alberta Farmers' Union should use this program as a tool in building interest and activity within their own locals. It should not be looked upon as another organization and should not be except in areas where farm locals are not organized.

The program for 1947 will start off with "Youth on the Farm", "The Farmer Takes a Wife" and "A Farm Organization For Everyone". These topics are designed to interest the younger members of our rural areas. Other topics of equal importance and interest will follow.

It is not difficult to organize or conduct a Farm Radio Forum program. The initiative of one or two rural leaders will start the ball rolling and full information can be obtained by writing to the Provincial Farm Forum office, [illegible]

A Commendable Undertaking

IN THE CONSIDERATION OF present world problems and the many means by which it is hoped that peace may be preserved, perhaps too little attention is paid to the important part which education can play in this regard. Education is not a quick road to the solution of any problem and it is apparent that many of the present difficulties are urgent and have little connection with the slow process of learning. It should not be overlooked, however, that one avenue to lasting peace lies in building up tolerance, and understanding of world problems in the minds of the boys and girls who are now growing up.

* * * * *

Race Hatreds Engender War

Race hatreds and group prejudices always have their place in engendering a war, and any efforts which may be made to break down these barriers in the minds of young people are to be commended. A recent item from Great Britain tells how school children from all parts of that country met recently to learn about the problems which are now facing the world. Special emphasis was laid on the difficulties which people of other nations are facing to-day. A week-long course on international affairs was planned for them by the Council of Education in World Citizenship, a non-political body upon which there are representatives of professional teachers' associations, youth organizations and educational authorities.

* * * * *

British People Are Tolerant

These children who attended the course voluntarily gave up one week of their school holidays to these studies. It may be questioned as to whether there is a great need for British children to be taught principles of tolerance and goodwill to people of other nations for Britain has been as free as any country in the world of exaggerated forms of intolerance or prejudice. The fact that such undertakings are encouraged, however, shows that even there the need for promoting international goodwill and understanding is recognized by groups such as the one which organized this gathering. Certainly nothing can be lost by fostering the broadest possible outlook among the children who are growing up today, and such efforts should be commended and encouraged wherever they may be made.

FUNNY And OTHERWISE

"Yes, they've made him a gunner, an' that's what he's been ever since I married him."

"Always been a gunner?"

"Yes. Ever since I knew him he's been 'gunner do this' and 'gunner do that,' but he never did anything worth while."

Brown: "If you wear that to church tomorrow, you go alone!"

"Hand it over," said the tough. "I feel like a good cry, anyway."

HUGE TEST TANK

The National Physical Laboratory at Teddington, England, has a tank 670 feet long and 30 feet wide, in which scale models of boats and ships of all sizes are tested for speed and seaworthiness.

NEW INDUSTRY—The cucumber crop in Prince Edward Island has been outstanding this year. In many districts they were grown by the acre. Mathew-Wells, well-known pickling firm in Charlottetown, has started a new industry with these cucumbers. Farmers from all over the Island bring their crop of cucumbers into Mathew-Wells. The company pays the farmers as high as seven cents a pound for the very small ones. From Charlottetown the warty little vegetables are shipped to the firm's processing and packing headquarters at Guelph, Ontario. First, however, they are separated according to size, and then dumped into one of the company's two hundred five-ton vats filled with brine. Here they are cured and soon are ready for shipment. A new industry has been born in Canada's smallest province. Open air vats receive the crop of cucumbers as they come from the fields; after curing in brine they are shipped for processing to Guelph, Ont.

HOG POPULATION SHOW GAINS IN WESTERN PROVINCES

Prairie farmers have not rushed back into the hog business at such a rate as their eastern competitors, although every western province shows gains in the hog population, ranging from 2.6 per cent. in Alberta to 12.7 per cent. in Manitoba, according to figures published by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. Total hog population of Canada at June 1 numbered 5,473,200, up from 4,910,200 a year earlier. Nova Scotia, with increase of 23.5 per cent. and Quebec and Ontario with 22.3 and 11.3 per cent. respectively, were far ahead of the western provinces.

Part of this exaggerated rise in the eastern provinces is no doubt due to the federal feed subsidy which gives a price preference to eastern livestock growers. Shortage of feed throughout the country this season will probably cut the fall pig crop in spite of the subsidy. The bureau estimates that the increase over last year's fall crop will be less than 6.9 per cent. indicated at June 1. The spring pig crop, by contrast, was up 10.5 per cent. over the spring of 1946. Marketing of a considerable number of sows recently gives weight to this estimate.

BURLINGAME, Calif.—There were 200,000 tickets in the big revolving barrel.

The first name drawn was Miss Marjorie Volkmar, 15 Park road. She was absent.

An alternative was drawn: Miss Peg Volkmar, 15 Park road. She was absent.

Mrs. Simonds tried again. The name, Miss Marjorie Volkmar, 15 Park road.

Officials thereupon decreed the washing machine was Marjorie's.

UNABLE TO MOVE, DIES ON TRACK — Mrs. George Johnstone, Petawawa, Ont., was killed when she stepped from a bus in Pembroke and started to cross the railway tracks. Surviving are her husband and four children.

Many People Ignore Great Fire Hazards

The Farmer's Advocate says: In spite of all warnings and examples of loss of life and property by fire, people will allow rubbish to accumulate and become a fire hazard. They will use kerosene or gasoline in starting fires; they will heat paraffin wax over a direct fire; they will neglect to clean the stove pipes, they will keep matches loose in their pocket and some will even smoke in bed or on the couch. If inclined to take a chance a reminder of some fire tragedy posted in a prominent place might be a deterrent to carelessness or thoughtlessness.

THE FIRST ACT OF DIGESTION

It is necessary to masticate every piece of food in order to have good teeth and to assure an adequate digestion. Mastication cuts, crushes and mills everything we eat and so it is the first act of digestion. That is the reason why children must be taught to eat slowly. They must never swallow food without thoroughly chewing it.

Needless to say that, on this item as on many others, parents must provide a good example to all members of the household.

However, in order that mastication be rightly practised, particular attention must be given to dental hygiene. The dentist should be seen at least twice a year so as to keep a serious watch on the teeth. The smallest touch of dental decay should be immediately treated. Every child and adult should have their own tooth-brush and use it at least once a day.

Canada's Fastest Growing Province

The Montreal Gazette says: The most striking record of development in the statistics is that of British Columbia. In proportion to its population it is growing at a rate far above that of any other province in the Dominion, including the province of Quebec. In fact, to equal British Columbia's relative rate of increase, Quebec's would have to be more than doubled.

New Bentonite Deposits Found In Manitoba

Surveyors Report Area South Of Thornhill With Possible Commercial Value

A Manitoba Mines Branch Geological field party reports that a new deposit of bentonite of possible commercial importance has been found in the area south of Thornhill. The component beds can be seen in a fresh cut on the road allowance between sections 20 and 21, township 2, range 6, west of the principal meridian; approximately three-quarters of a mile south of the northeast corner of section 20. The distance from the deposit to the nearest railway station, Thornhill, is five miles. The bentonite beds are correlated with the beds presently being mined north of Thornhill and are the thick bentonites of the Pembina member of the Vermilion River formation.

The bentonite beds appear to be as thick as those measured at other localities but the intervening shale beds may be slightly thicker. The deposit lies in a broad valley and is covered by 30 feet, more or less, of overburden which is composed mainly of weathered shale or clay. The elevation of the bentonite beds is slightly less than 1,200 feet above mean sea level.

Norma Gibbons Is Bride of Melvin Ruhl

A quiet wedding was solemnized at the First United church manse on October 22nd, when Miss Norma Irene Gibbons became the bride of Melvin Arnold Ruhl. Rev. E. S. Reikie officiated.

The bride was attired in a soft plum-rose suit, of the new cut-away styled front and gathered sleeves accentuating the shoulders. Black accessories and a corsage of white gardenias and yellow mums completed her outfit.

Miss Jean Wiebe attended the bride wearing a turquoise blue suit with black accessories and a corsage of red roses.

Earl Ruhl, brother of the groom, was best man.

Mrs. Roy Gibbons, mother of the bride, chose a two-piece navy blue dress with a corsage of red mums for her daughter's wedding.

Mrs. Ruhl, mother of the groom, wore a grey silk-jersey dress with a corsage of yellow mums.

A very enjoyable wedding supper was served in the dining room of the Brunswick hotel. The table was laid in white and centred with a three-tiered wedding cake and very prettily decorated with pink and white streamers. Rev. E. S. Reikie proposed the toast to the bride.

The young couple left later on a honeymoon to Edmonton and Calgary.

Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Ruhl of Camrose, parents of the groom, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Ruhl and young daughter Sharon, also of Camrose.

A shower was held at the home of Mrs. Vert on Monday, Oct. 13th in honor of Miss Eva Williamson, whose marriage took place on Oct. 17th.

There were 28 present and the evening was spent in playing games and contests, and some singing.

A baby carriage, gaily decorated with pink roses and pink and white ribbons with a doll dressed as a bride in the centre, was laden with many gifts. Little Dorinda Anderson wheeled the carriage in while everyone sang "Should Auld Acquaintance be Forgot".

Miss Helen Vert helped to unwrap and display the gifts after which Miss Williamson thanked all those present for the lovely gifts. A dainty lunch was served by the hostess.

A number of friends gathered at Island Hill school Sunday afternoon Oct. 12 to hold a shower in honor of Miss Eva Williamson whose marriage was solemnized on Oct. 17. The afternoon was spent in playing games and in contests. Little Ellen McCrae presented a hand-wagon decorated and loaded with lovely gifts to Eva. Miss Florence Mix assisted the bride in opening the gifts. Miss Williamson in a few words thanked all for the lovely gifts. A very tasty lunch was served by the ladies of the district.

On Nov. 2 the first social meeting of the year took place in the church parlors with 14 in attendance. A sharp increase in the attendance was noticed also.

Party Farewells H. Eyben Family

(Extract from Wildmere Winks)

A farewell party was held at the school Thursday evening Oct. 30th in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Eyben and family who are leaving the district to make their future home at the coast. A large crowd attended, a short dance being enjoyed before supper. After the lunch Mr. Fred Haines acting as chairman, took over and a short sing-song led by Mr. and Mr. Eyben was enjoyed, as well as several other items on the program. Mr. Haines on behalf of friends and neighbors then presented Mr. and Mrs. Eyben with a really splendid auto robe and comforter. Herman and Jenny heartily thanked everyone for their kindness and good wishes. At the close all joined hands with the family and sang "For They are Jolly Good Fellows".

Mr. and Mrs. Eyben and family will surely be missed and their departure is a distinct loss to our district and a decided gain for the place they chose for their home. The best of wishes from a very large circle of friends accompanies them.

Successful Amateur Night at Dewberry

(From Dewberry News Bulletin)

The Amateur night held recently in the Dewberry hall under the auspices of the Dewberry Ladies Aid was a decided success. So many people attended that it became necessary to turn many away. The dance sponsored by the hockey club was also very well attended. The writer cannot say if one of the amateurs was a little late for the show or not but we did see the very amusing spectacle of a man in a woman's dress at the dance.

The following were the winners at the amateur contest: Pre-school solo—Irene Parker, Dewberry dance, Dewberry pre-school age children Inez, Jeannabelle and Lorne Braithwaite, Jr. solo, Lenore Michael, Clandonald, Jr. Piano solo—Elsie Kolodziejczuk, Clandonald, Recitation—Truman Nelvrose, Marwayne, Piano Duet Elsie and Margaret Kolodziejczuk, Acrobatic—Dewberry school, High school solo Madeline Benemiller, Vocal duet Eunice and Stella Wasylichen, Sr. Instrumental—Mrs. Denise Riedale, Jr. choir—St. Mary's church Clandonald, Sr. Solo—Miss Gladys Free, Sr. choir Dewberry United church.

Remembrance Day Observances

Public Remembrance Day observances will be carried out by the Vermilion Branch of the Canadian Legion as follows:

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 8th—POPPY DAY.

TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 11th — 11:00 A.M.—PARADE TO THE CENOTAPH for Laying of Wreaths, followed by ANNUAL REMEMBRANCE DAY SERVICE in the Columbia Theatre.

The Standard regrets that names of speakers and further details of the program were not available at press time.

Anglican Young Peoples Association

Neider Boulton Elected President

On the invitation of Mr. Teage a group of Vermilion young people met at the rectory on the evening of Oct. 29th. After discussion the group decided to form a branch of the A. Y. P.A.

Officers were elected as follows:
President—Neider Boulton
Vice-President—Ellen Snelgrove
Sec.-Treasurer—Shirley Davidson.

The president took the chair and the meeting concluded a few items of business. The time and place for meetings was decided upon. We will meet every Tuesday night at the Parish hall at 8 o'clock.

As soon as the minor items of business were in order, Rev. T. A. E. Smith, O.B.R.E. field man, entertained the group with a very interesting talk and a film on "Beauty". After a delicious lunch served by Mrs. Teage the meeting was adjourned.

Lively Discussion At Kitscoty-Islay A.T.A.

Twelve members of the Kitscoty-Islay sub-local of the Alberta Teachers' association took part in a lively discussion on the Teachers' Code of Ethics at the regular meeting of the sub-local held in Kitscoty on Monday, Nov. 3. President David Clark was in charge of the meeting and the discussion was led by J. A. Smith of Kitscoty. Those present took a good deal of interest in the topic, to such an extent that when time was up, a motion was passed that the discussion be continued at our next meeting to be held in Kitscoty high school on Dec. 8.

Various teachers present announced successful Hallowe'en parties had been held in their schools, Flowerdale reporting two! Mrs. Kather is the teacher there. The Islay teachers Mr. Clark, Miss Jennill and Miss Wereszuk reported social functions, and Miss Pokorski Miss Reid and Mr. McGladrie were in charge of such intriguing affairs in Kitscoty that their young hopefuls went to bed without damaging property to any extent.

The presence of several rural teachers added much to the success of the meeting, and it is hoped that more will be with us next month.

H. Moren, Beverly Cooper Big Winners At Elks Carnival

Holders of the lucky tickets at the annual Elks Carnival were H. Moren who won the $50 cash door prize and Beverly Cooper with the second prize ticket entitling her to $25. By a coincidence master of ceremonies Don Logan, in selecting someone to pull the lucky tickets from the box, asked Beverly's sister Mrs. Jim Emsland to officiate. Mrs. Emsland drew Mr. Moren's and then strangely enough, her own sister's ticket.

The Carnival again proved a well-managed and operated event and while the receipts did not set any new records, they were very satisfactory. The Scout hall building fund will thus benefit by a considerable sum, thanks to the energy of a number of the Elks who donated all of their spare time the three evenings the Carnival was in operation, besides a lot of time before arranging the event and afterward when it was necessary to return the hall to its normal state.

Changes in the Bank of Commerce Staff

MANNVILLE NOW INDEPENDENT BRANCH

H. M. Nicol of the local Bank of Commerce staff has been transferred to Taber and will be assistant accountant there. Mr. Nicol, who was a very active member of the Canadian Legion, left Tuesday for the southern town. Accompanying him south was Mr. Ed Morrison who has been in charge of the Mannville branch of the bank. Mr. Morrison will be accountant at Taber.

Mr. C. H. Smith formerly accountant at Taber becomes manager at Mannville and that bank is now a fully independent branch.

Newly appointed to the Vermilion branch of the Commerce is Mr. Paul Neel who comes from Milk River, Alberta to replace Mr. Nicol.

J. J. Hart attended the convention of the Union of Alberta Municipalities held at Lethbridge last Thursday and Friday. He was elected to the legislative council of that provincial body.

Haverslew-MacHardy Nuptials

In an afternoon ceremony Wednesday October 29th at First United church, Vermilion, Marie Louise, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman MacHardy became the bride of Mr. Henry Haverslew, son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Haverslew, also of Vermilion.

Rev. E. S. Reikie officiated.

For the ceremony the church was decorated with bronze chrysanthemums and garden flowers, fern and cedar boughs. Tiny bouquets of baby mums tied with ribbon marked the guest pews.

For her wedding the bride wore a gown of ivory satin. The fitted bodice featured a sweetheart neckline and long sleeves tapered to lily point at the wrist. The full skirt was styled with a double bustle and ended in a slight train. Her full-length veil was held in place by a beaded coronet. Her bouquet was of pink delight roses and baby mums. Her only ornament was a double strand of pearls, gift of the groom.

Mrs. Fenton MacHardy, sister-in-law of the bride, was matron of honor wearing a turquoise crepe gown. Miss Flora Lawlor, classmate of the bride, was bridesmaid and wore an apple green crepe gown. Both attendants carried arm bouquets of pink and rose carnations and wore white lace mittens and white ribbon calots.

Little Joan Stephens, niece of the groom, was flower girl and wore a floor-length dress of pale pink sheer. She carried a tiny colonial bouquet of pink carnations and baby mums.

Mr. Henning Haverslew, brother of the groom, was best man.

The ushers were Mr. Fenton MacHardy, brother of the bride and Mr. Gerald Stephens, brother-in-law of the groom. Mr. W. Elford played the wedding music and Mrs. Audrey Hunt Powers, classmate of the bride, sang "Because" during the signing of the register.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. MacHardy wore an afternoon ensemble in pearl grey and lace with matching accessories. Her corsage was of pink roses.

Mrs. Haverslew, mother of the groom, wore a blue afternoon model with white accessories. Her corsage was of American Beauty roses.

One hundred and thirty guests called at the MacHardy home at a reception following the ceremony. The rooms were attractively decorated in bronze chrysanthemums [illegible] hemlock boughs.

The bride's table was centred with a three-tiered wedding cake embedded in tulle with pink rose buds. Tall ivory tapers lighted each corner of the table.

The toast to the bride was proposed by the Rev. E. S. Reikie to which the bridegroom made response in very well chosen words.

Those pouring tea were Mrs. Gerald Stephens and Mrs. Henning Haverslew, Mrs. C. W. Stephens and Miss Jean Mackie, Mrs. [illegible] and Mrs. Lawrence [illegible].

Scholarship Cheque Presented at Board Of Trade Meeting

An interesting ceremony was enacted at last Wednesday's Board of Trade meeting when Robert Shopland of Edmonton was presented with a cheque for $50, representing a scholarship awarded to the first year student at the school of agriculture who contributes most to the academic, social, athletic and literary life of the school. The scholarship is an annual one given by the Board of Trade.

Mr. Shopland has now returned for his second year course and has been elected president of the V.S.A. students' union.

The presentation was made by Dr. Ben King, chairman of the board acting on this occasion.

Other outstanding V.S.A. students present were Morrison Squair of Legal and Bill Baranyk of Heinsburg. The first two boys were introduced by N. N. Bentley and Mr. Baranyk by J. L. Kerns.

A distinguished guest present also was Archdeacon Tackaberry of Edmonton, introduced by H. R. Parker.

An interesting report on the activities of the Trans-Canada Highway Association branch was given by the president Ken Urquhart.

Hollingsworth Returns To Lloydminster Field

The Lloydminster field, with its low cost drilling and steady production seems to be getting more favorable attention and more wells.

This week O. R. Hollingsworth of Vernon, B.C., arrived in Edmonton and is arranging for the drilling of two wells in his holdings on sec. 23-50-1 W4th. Mr. Hollingsworth, whose hobby when not yachting on Okanagan Lake is drilling oil wells, is one of those who have found individually owned wells a paying proposition almost as thrilling as yachting. His first operations were at Vermilion where he owned two wells until he disposed of them recently to Eastern interests. —Calgary Oil Examiner

ISLAY

The annual chicken supper of the Rosa United church was held on the 29th. A fine night it was and a great time was enjoyed. There were upwards of 200 people in attendance, some [illegible] old timers came, among them Mr. and Mrs. Harry Elliott, Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Urquhart, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd McFadyen all residing in Vermilion now. There were many more we hadn't seen for some time and a grand old visit was enjoyed. There were many friends from Kitscoty and others too from Vermilion. The W.A. are very grateful to all who assisted with food, serving the tables, washing dishes and many more duties that are always necessary. It's co-operation that made the supper a huge success.

Two carloads of people attended church service at Vermilion United church last Sunday to hear Dr. Agnew, a missionary from West China, who is about to return there. Dr. Agnew was one of the speakers on the cavalcade. He gave us first hand information. [illegible]. He told us of a Desperation Movement—a family having [illegible] their own food rush on to another home, but all there is there (which sometimes is a tiny bit of rice) and on and on they go, and more families join until there is a mob all very desperate for food. Let us not waste a tiny crust or eat more than we really need!

A number from Islay went to the Church Cavalcade as displayed at Vegreville—Mr. and Mrs. Chas Robertson, Mr. A. Anderson and Miss Jessie, Mrs. J. McNeely, Mr. and Mrs. David Martin, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Hancock. The Cavalcade is touring the Dominion.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Carey, Norman and Jim motored to Edmonton the week end.

Jack Bristow has hauled in a fine big pile of wood; guess Jack won't worry if no coal comes in as we are hearing said these days — no coal coming to Islay. We hope it is just [illegible].

Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell and family, Mr. and Mrs. Jim McClelland had dinner on Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Steinhauer in honor of Mr. and Mrs. McClelland who are soon leaving for Ireland.

DEWBERRY

Mr. and Mrs. Will Porter, Stan and Phillip are leaving this week for their winter home in Vancouver. They recently purchased a new Plymouth car and are motoring to the coast.

Relatives of the Hemingway family are visiting in the district. They came from Kenaston, Sask.

No, Joe Braithwaite has not bought a new Cadillac. The car we saw on Sunday belongs to Mrs. Braithwaite's sister and husband Mr. and Mrs. Mc[illegible] of Mannville.

The writer cannot help but mention the fine weather and hope by the time this appears in print that it is still holding out. Dewberry farmers never before have done so much fall work.

Dewberry boys at least will be wearing the blue and gold uniforms of [illegible]. This is for a new junior hockey club and we hope to be giving you more news of these doings in the near future.

Alex Landon, our village blacksmith has sold out and [illegible] shortly. We wish he and his wife good health and success for the future. Mr. Landon will be long remembered for his excellent blacksmith work.

We wonder what the young gent and lady thought upon finding a [illegible] at the Hallowe'en dance at Islay when [illegible].

We notice Philip Lemp and George Finch both home from the hospital and looking fine after their appendix [illegible].

Quiet Hallowe'en

Apparently the party consisting of a picture show and treat for the school children up to and including grade 9, and the numerous other parties arranged by parents paid dividends by all enjoying a very quiet Hallowe'en night. It was possibly the least noticeable Hallowe'en that Vermilion has ever experienced, although of late years most Hallowe'en activity has been confined to the continuous rounds of visits by the smaller children. The quiet Friday night this year means that the younger children had their fun in other ways and under supervision; and that the older boys and girls now have a better sense of value and are too sensible to go about damaging property or causing fellow citizens trouble and inconvenience.

TRUE IN 1906

In searching through some old records W. P. Pilkie came upon a statement of a bill of goods paid to the Pilkie Bros. who in the early days operated a store and meat market on the south side, then called Pilkieville. The statement reads: "Vermilion City, Alberta. Bought of Pilkie Bros. — General Merchants and Meat Market". Date July 14, 1906. The bill is mostly for meat and was rendered to the King Edward, a cafe on First street south. Some of the items were—65 lbs. loin $5.85, 38½ lbs. roast beef, 20 lbs. steak, 14 lbs. boil, all for $5.65; 6 lbs. butter $1.08; 3 loaves bread 10c. A faded notation in W.P.'s own handwriting indicated that the bill had been paid in full.

33 Planes Use Air Field in October

The arrival of 33 planes at the Vermilion field was recorded at the Beam station during the month of October. There were 32 departures. This indicates the use that is being made of the Vermilion airport.

SUGAR RATIONING ENDS

All rationing of sugar and edible molasses ended Monday Nov. 3. The price ceilings are being retained on both items, but the price of sugar will be allowed to rise one cent a pound. The announcement meant the lifting of rationing on the last item of Canada's food commodities.

T.B. Christmas Seal Sale to Start Soon

The 21st annual Christmas Seal sale will be under way in Alberta next week. 150,000 homes in the province will receive letters containing two sheets of bright, colorful Christmas seals, the seals that save lives.

R. W. Roscoe, president of the Alberta Tuberculosis Association, said today that this year's appeal is the greatest yet, and the need for $125,000, this year's objective, is greater than ever.

Mr. Roscoe said, "As in the war against fascism, so in the war against tuberculosis. The time to hit the enemy hardest is when he is beginning to falter and fall back. In Canada at least, T.B. is definitely retreating and now is the time to intensify our efforts."

The Tuberculosis Association is calling for more and larger contributions than ever [illegible] the recipients of seals that no other appeal is made throughout the year, but that the fight against T.B. continues all year and every year.

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY—

MITZI

—By—
LILLIAN M. MITCHELL

"WHAT was the flashlight, Marna?" asked Jim Painter, his voice scarcely above a whisper.

Marna moved restlessly in her seat. "Oh—I don't know. Maybe someone taking a moonlight stroll."

"Moonlight stroll," repeated Jim. "There's no moon tonight. I'm going to get going, Marna. It's rather chilly anyhow."

Marna opened her lips and then closed them again firmly. She said nothing while the car sped along the highway and into the gates of Hillcrest. Jim locked his car carefully and followed her up the broad steps.

"There's a fire in the music room, Jim," Marna said. "Let's go in there."

She flung her hat and gloves on the phonograph in the corner, fumbled an instant at the stand beside it and then dropped into the davenport standing before the leaping flames.

"You weren't a bit afraid, back there in the woods, were you?" Jim asked, his voice jerky with emotion.

"Oh," she evaded, "it was kind of eerie, seeing that light moving along, bodilessly as you might say—"

He shook his head. His tones were heavy now. "I don't know what's the matter with me, Marna. Scared of everything, that's me. But I figured that four or five fellows might slink at us out of that blackness, snatch you and be off. I might fight one or two and make a good job of it but a bunch of fellows—I guess I'm just a plain coward. But wealthy girls are kidnapped," he continued defensively.

She laughed lightly. "They can hardly kidnap a grown person. Maybe you feel that way because you're imaginative. I'm not, you see. It's no virtue of mine that I'm unafraid of things, Jimmie. I—"

Jimmie stood up. "I think I'll go to the coast, Marna. They've offered me the manager's [illegible] there at the branch office. There's no use beating about the bush with you," he went on harshly, as she rose and put her hand on his arm. "You know well enough how I feel about things. But marriage is out of the question [illegible] everything, topsy-turvy. If you weren't so doggoned wealthy in your own right, it might be different. But me, I'm only making three hundred a month and you couldn't live like this on three hundred. And the man ought to be the big, strong he-man and the girl ought to be the timid... what in heaven's name is the matter?" he broke off.

Her scream had suddenly pierced the air. Her slim fingers covered her lips to stop the sound but nothing covered those horror-stricken eyes. Jimmie grabbed Marna. "What is it?" he demanded.

Her eyes dropped to the floor for a moment before the lids squeezed themselves tightly shut as if to close out some sight too horrible to be named. She moaned and fell back into the davenport.

Jimmie leaned over and shook her. "Marna!" he shouted. "What is it?"

For answer she nestled into his arms and then with a sudden stiffening shrieked again.

"There — it's in the c-c-c-c-corner," she wept, sobs shaking her slender body.

Jimmie looked into the corner and patted her reassuringly. "There's nothing in the corner, Marna darling," he told her. "There's no one in the room except you and me. Look. There's nothing there—" he broke off. "Well, I'll be darned! You don't mean that poor little mouse, do you?"

The mouse scampered across the [illegible].

"Y-y-y-yes. Mouse," she whispered, affrightedly.

For answer he laughed loudly, leaning closer to her scented hair, petting her gently. "A mouse won't hurt you, Honey-girl. It's probably just hunting the hole. They make a hole to come in and out. Maybe if I open the hall door it'll run out that way—"

"No, no, no!" she yelled. "Don't leave me. I'm afraid, Jimmie."

"Well, I will be—!" exclaimed Jimmie. "Here I thought all the time you were so fearless, unafraid of anything and everything and then when a little mouse crosses the room — say, Marna."

"Mm?"

"I saw a swell ring in a window today. What do you say we look at it tomorrow?"

Jimmie's car was at the gate now. The tail lights flashed through the opening and Marna turned as the door of the room opened.

"I want my quarter, Marna."

"All right, Buddy."

"And I want my Mitzi too. [illegible] had her five days now—"

"I'm paying you a nickle a day to rent her," said Marna. "What are you yelling about?"

The boy reached for Marna's half-closed hand. "You went and blackened my white mouse, you did! Look at her fur! Look at it."

"Stop that yelling," she ordered. "I just put on a little mascara to darken her. It'll wash off."

"You'll pay me a dime extra for that or I'll tell Jim, I will," he [illegible].

"Oh, all right," she laughed. "You chiseler! You only paid forty cents for Mitzi at the start. I'll buy her from you—" she stroked the mouse and held it up near her eyes. "Nice little Mitzi," she murmured.

But with a wild grab, Marna's [illegible] snatched his property. "Thirty-five cents - now!" he insisted.

And Marna, mounting the wide stairs to her room a few moments later, paused to look at her fourth finger which tomorrow would have a ring on it. Then she laughed softly. [illegible]

"Monty" Caught Off Guard By Actress

LONDON — It wasn't in the script but actress Greta Gynt caught Field Marshal Montgomery off guard and planted a smacking kiss on his cheek at the fifth anniversary reunion commemorating the battle of El Alamein.

Miss Gynt, who was mistress of ceremonies, walked onto the stage, put her arms around the blushing Montgomery and kissed him.

"I've been wanting to do that for years," she told 6,000 cheering 8th army veterans assembled at Albert Hall. "This was the first moment I've seen him off his balance."

[illegible] SCENERY BEAUTIFUL ON BLUE RIVER HIGHWAY

A motorist who recently made the trip from Vancouver to Edmonton over the Blue River route is reported by an Edmonton paper as saying that on the 73-mile stretch south of Blue River the scenery is as magnificent as may be seen anywhere. He recorded a distance of 845 miles, which is 330 miles less than the distance from Edmonton to Vancouver on the Big Bend highway. The Blue River highway, which is still under construction, offers a short, beautiful route from Saskatoon to Vancouver.

At grain elevators, or "skyscrapers of the prairies" as they have become known, are places of activity from early morn till late at night these autumn days, as elevator operators take grain from farmers far and near. The above picture was taken at Radisson, Saskatchewan, where besides high grade grain is grown is also large producer of livestock.

Adopt New Form Of Citizenship

LONDON — British and Dominion governments have agreed on a new form of citizenship for all citizens of British Commonwealth countries to establish a common national status throughout the Empire.

It was announced in the speech from the throne at the opening of parliament that legislation would be introduced in the House of Commons shortly to establish a common Commonwealth citizenship and to amend the existing law governing the national status of married women.

The United Kingdom Bill will confer new Commonwealth citizenship on British subjects in the British Isles and non-self-governing colonies. Similar legislation is expected to be introduced in other Commonwealth parliaments.

All Commonwealth citizens will be given a form of dual nationality it is understood, but this step will be technical.

The term "British subject" will apply only to citizens of the United Kingdom, and not to those of Canada and South Africa, who are nationals of their own countries as well.

Thus the new Commonwealth citizenship will substitute for the term "British subject."

Countries like Australia and New Zealand, it is understood, will acquire their own national status.

WOODVALE

November is here and started with another lovely day—Everyone hopes that rain forecast will prove false again so the last threshing crews can finish their jobs and the machines all put away for another year. They are still going strong around here; it will take more than a few days yet to have the harvest over with. Farmers lucky enough to have their crops safely stored are working feverishly on the land to try to catch up with the weeds which are really thriving in the mild weather. They are not the only ones however. Mrs E. G. Green still has lovely head lettuce in the garden and says they are nice and crisp and not a bit bitter. Mrs. R. Rankin's pullets which have been laying since early September are thinking it's springtime and several want to set and start raising a family. Well, no one will complain if this weather lasts for awhile longer.

Many friends of the McFarlane family attended the funeral of Mrs McFarlane. The family lived in the Tolland district for several years before moving to a farm close to Vermilion and into town later on. The sympathy of the community goes to Mr McFarlane and daughter Marion. The knowledge that much suffering has been spared the deceased might help them to bear their loss.

We are sorry to hear that Tom Foster has not been well for some time and is in the hospital for further treatment and a check-up.

Harry Turner who has bought the Attie Friedland place, hopes to move into the house there before winter comes.

Hallowe'en was celebrated with a party in the afternoon at Woodvale school and the children and their parents had a very nice time. Seeing that nothing was arranged for Ganton school Mrs Walters invited the school-children and their parents to her home in the evening. Our telephone having collapsed a lovely bare, has made it impossible to get any news about the party but we feel sure it was a jolly evening.

Mrs Hall who comes from England and is spending a year in Canada, is visiting her brother Harry Teasdale and getting better acquainted with her triplet nephews. We wonder if she made any progress in telling Jimmy and Glenn part. As for the only one who never mistakes them is No. 3 of the trio, brother Robert—even mother and grandmother get mixed up once in a while.

Mrs J. Rankin left with Mr and Mrs. P. Jensen of Vermilion by car for Edmonton where she will visit at her son's home Harvey, who is taking an automotive engineering course. He has been building his own home there in his spare time doing all the work himself including wiring and plumbing.

Emily Young stayed a few days longer after her sister's departure for Belgium at the home of her parents in Mindville. She has now returned to Edmonton.

Ole Lindjord who used to farm on the Grant Brown farm before leaving for the Peace River district is selling his property there due to ill health. We hope he will get well enough to enjoy a quiet life for a long while yet.

Everyone is extending their best wishes to the newlyweds in the Thornhill district Mr and Mrs John King (nee Helen Almond) whose marriage took place in Lloydminster on Nov. 4th.

DECLINE IN FARM DEBT

Perhaps there is no more convincing evidence of the healthy state of Alberta agriculture than the declining farm mortgage debt.

Estimates compiled by 30 life insurance, trust and mortgage companies indicate that farm mortgage debt in Alberta has declined 73% since the end of 1937. The total amount as at the end of 1946 is $19.6 millions as compared with $12.7 millions owing in 1946 and $29.7 millions in 1937. Not only has the total debt decreased, but a large number of farmers who own their farms, entirely free of debt, has increased very materially.

By Doris Moore

Editor's Note: Following is the continuation and conclusion of a most interesting article "Irrigation of Western Canada" by Doris Moore. Miss Moore last week outlined the gamble year after year, and dreaming up of a good crop and hoping for rains by farmers of Western Canada, and at the same time 2,350 miles of water of the Saskatchewan River were rushing into Lake Winnipeg, and not one drop used for the thirsty plains of Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba. She also described how [illegible] the San Joaquin Valley of California turned to be the third among all countries of the United States in the value of farm products by irrigation.

I have seen for myself, 1,000 acre tracts of land with nothing except wheat, barley, or flax waving in the breeze. I have seen hundreds of acres of grapes, orange groves, huge market gardens, dairy farms, cattle ranches, turkey ranches, etc.—all the results of irrigation. Not hoped-for water but arranged-for water. What sights they were! What security I witnessed! The farmer went ahead preparing for the next crop, certain that as sure as the sun would rise in the East in the morning, so surely would he have a prosperous crop.

Think of it, young men and women, and older men and women of Western Canada—a positively certain crop each year. If the rains did come regularly you would close the dikes and ditches and conserve precious water for the next year, or let it swing on over to the neighbouring land where rain hadn't fallen. Irrigation would have averted the serious flood conditions in Manitoba this year where cattle were starving to death up to their knees in water. Positive assurance that there would be no longer a deteriorating mortgage; the house would be remodelled and plumbing installed; the complete farm wired for electricity; no more milking by hand taking one hour each night and [illegible] cheap power from irrigation; the children's education realized; medical requirements attended to; positive assurance that you could take that long-needed rest for which you had worked your major years, and deserved. The son could carry on. It was time he had control of the farm himself so he could settle down. In short, irrigated farm lands, or sure water, brings a high level of prosperity — a high standard of living.

Continues the Chamber of Commerce brief.

"The story of agriculture in this country is a tale of the development of irrigation which made a verdant plain of a veritable desert. Countless streams and rivers, fed by the Mountains unto the floor of the Valley, joining finally with the San Joaquin River to flow into the Pacific Ocean, but much of the water of these streams first is diverted into canals and spread over a vast area of thirsty land to nurture crops which otherwise would wither and die under the summer sun. To supplement this flow of gravity farmers have pumping plants in drilled wells, and in some sections pumping supplants canal irrigation. Without irrigation agricultural enterprise in the Valley would be confined of necessity to uncertain dry farming."

Yes, here is a veritable garden of 1? 000,000 acres made into a garden through the foresight of irrigation. Yet, they have only two rivers in this region one of which, the King's River I have seen as dry as a board when, by midsummer, the snows on the tops of the mountains in the South had become a mere smattering as compared with our snowfall. How different it is in Canada! In our Canadian Rockies the snow remains all the year round on some of our mountains, and the snow is hundreds of feet deep. Very well, compare this southern supply of water with our huge, inexhaustible supply, roaring off to the sea, tumbling into the Arctic, cascading into Hudson's Bay, laughing its way from the dry parched lands of Western Canada where the farmer wonders if the rains will come, where the farmer murmurs, "Surely the rains will come next year. Surely, a miracle will take place if we hope and pray enough."

Yes laughing its way from the dry parched lands of Western Canada, where in the years 1931 to 1936 the relief expenditures paid by the Government to Saskatchewan and Alberta were $186,190,631, as quoted by the Mock Report, February, 1942. Would not this have been a substantial sum towards the great engineering project of irrigation for Western Canada? Think also of the suffering which could have been averted! [illegible] further in this Report "During the winter of 1937-38 some 486,[illegible] tons of feed were supplied in the drought areas of Saskatchewan and 44,000 tons in Alberta. Much greater quantities would have been required had not more than 474,000 cattle been removed from the drought areas. Very substantial assistance was given to farmers in the drought areas through debt cancellations and adjustments. In Saskatchewan alone this amounted to about $180,000,000." Here was a country where sufficient produce was not grown to feed the people or feed the livestock.

You will see these gifts in dollars was not the answer to prosperity. This was just salve placed on a blood-poisoned sore.

Think of it! Not enough rain fell to grow feed for the stock. Is this not a desert condition? And what assurance have we that this same condition isn't going to repeat itself—not next year, but this year? We haven't a single thing in the world with which to stop it. Many of the farmers rely on the good Lord to stop it. I have seen special church services just for rain. But He must be getting tired of such sloppy thinking and acting. He must be getting tired of how little use the farmers are making of the magnificent brain power and marvelous equipment He has given them.

Witness the St. Mary and Milk Rivers irrigation development around Lethbridge, Alberta. Look at the relief it has brought to the sugar beet industry, the relief to its community, the sugar supplied to a world-short market!

Fine you say. Irrigate all the land in Western Canada and there'll be too much wheat before long. The answer to this is simple. Europe is starving; Asia is starving—has been for years, and millions of other peoples are starving, and after the years have elapsed when all the granaries in the world are full, bulging over, rolling out unto the ground with golden grain, so that people no longer need be afraid of being hungry, then grow other commodities on the soil. In fact, other commodities can be grown along with the wheat as is done in California. Apples—there is never plenty of this practical and lovely fruit—grapes; peaches for more canned peaches, pears for more [illegible] pears, strawberries for more jam; clover for more hay and honey; melons; flax for beautiful linen, paper and linseed oil; increased beet sugar acreage, and a million other things you, yourself, can think of which could be grown on a large scale for export, after we at home have had all that is required for home consumption.

I have said nothing of the power which would be manufactured as a result of irrigation. Where there is water power, there is cheap electricity. There would be sufficient power to light all the farms, communities, villages and towns, and supply cheap electricity to the many factories which would result from a continuously productive soil.

Another magnificent result of irrigation would be a large increase in the population. Observe the map of the three Prairie Provinces. See how few cities there are, and observe the large distances between each. From Winnipeg and Brandon it is a daylight's run on the train to the next city—Regina. From Regina and Moose Jaw we travel over night to reach Saskatoon or 15 hours to Calgary. In the United States in irrigated sections there are 20 cities to our two or three on the same amount of territory. This pathetic condition is caused, of course, through low incomes as a result of spasmodic crops. People are not going to remain and propagate and be happy in Saskatchewan where the average yield of wheat was 15 bushels to the acre over the past 22 years, as compiled by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics (and this figure looks pretty high), where one simply cannot gamble on expensive garden crops, where factories cannot exist—because an impoverished land cannot be catered to and get results. Here are figures that are astounding: Between 1941 and 1946 the population of the Three Prairie Provinces shrank 104,000. No, people will not remain and propagate and be happy.

The money for irrigation—where will it come from? If someone asked you to loan him $500 and that in a few years you would get $1,000 you would not hesitate to dig up the $500. Here would be a great investment for the Dominion Government. I have no doubt that the Dominion Government would issue millions of dollars worth of extremely low interest bearing Bank of Canada bonds to cover the cost of this great project. Says the Mock Report, "Ultimately, however, the national benefits from any basically sound irrigation project far exceeds the original cost of the project."

So, here is the question. Will the people of Western Canada, through interest created by themselves, demand irrigation? The answer lies in their hands. Are they going to fail Canada, or are they going to face the biggest issue that has ever confronted them?

POTATOES SOURCE OF VITAMIN C

Do you know that one average-size potato properly cooked contains enough Vitamin C to supply one-third of your daily requirement of that vitamin which is essential to your health? By properly cooked we mean potatoes should be baked, steamed, or boiled in a covered pot with their jackets on.

Vitamin C can be destroyed by over-cooking, especially in rapidly boiling water in an open kettle. Those who eat boiled pared potatoes are deriving great benefit from the energy-giving value of the potato, but are losing the vitamin values which could be so easily retained.

Vitamin C is given credit by presenting nutritionists with being one of the most important inhibiting factors in preventing the occurrence of certain symptoms of such as tender joints, headaches, low resistance to infection, digestive and nervous disturbances, general weakness and restlessness.

Valuable For Teeth

Ascorbic acid which is found in Vitamin C is necessary for normal activity of certain cells which are responsible for laying down the calcified structures in teeth. A mild deficiency of Vitamin C results in defective teeth and bone formation.

Baked potatoes, eaten along with the skins, are the most nutritious. By eating the skins you will get the benefit of all the minerals which lie close to it.

Steamed potatoes are preferable to boiled because the elusive Vitamin C, though easily destroyed when potatoes are cooked in water, is not as quickly lost when cooked in steam.

If you must boil your potatoes, do so with the skins on.

DRUG FROM HEMP

EVA ESCAPES ASSASSIN'S HAND — Eleven men were ordered held for trial in Buenos Aires on charges connected with an alleged plot to assassinate Eva Peron, wife of Argentina's president. Clandonald Men Hard on Coyotes

The men have a light truck fitted with a [illegible] box for the dogs, behind the [illegible] space to throw in the coyotes. When a coyote is sighted the door is thrown open and the eager dogs know what that means. They are out and away. One of the coyotes in the picture above was run down within a hundred yards, while one more fleet of foot than ordinarily is the case, led them a chase of over a mile. The men usually estimate the distance required by the dogs to capture their quarry during this hunt too, two of the coyotes were bagged within 15 minutes, a rather remarkable feat. The bag above required a drive of 80 miles. Starting from their farms near Clandonald they headed south and east driving into the coulee country some 20 miles south-east of Vermilion, picking up coyotes as they went along. Coyotes in the vicinity of the Campbell and Schoonmaker farms are very scarce as the dogs spend a lot of time hunting by themselves and have the marauding animals well cleaned out so that a drive into other areas is necessary for a good hunt.

Each of the 5 dogs has its own job. Big black Spider is the catcher and it is he who is usually first on the heels of the coyote and it is always he who opens the attack, many scars about his head and neck bear evidence that even a coyote when cornered will fight. The last to arrive on the scene is Brindle and she is the killer and is deadly at her work. She weaves in straight to the throat, fastens to the coyote and never lets go until the breath is entirely choked out and the animal dead. Brindle has one bad foreleg but in spite of the deformed limb gets over the ground almost as fast as the others.

The dogs ordinarily are very quiet [illegible] and bother farm stock or chickens. After the hunt pictured above they were very tired and were content to lie quietly in their cabin. When fresh they strain around eager for the chase.

The men finished a long spell of hard work threshing just the day before this hunt. They decided they deserve some recreation and this is what they like in the way of sport best of all. Incidentally they are doing a good deed for their brother farmers as coyotes have become thick this past few years, just as in the old days, and they have caused heavy losses to poultry flocks in particular in this part of the country.

HER BIRTHDAY CAKE HAS 100 CANDLES—Oldest resident of Nipissing district, Ont., Mrs. Isabella Sharrow celebrated her 100th birthday recently with a cake aglow with candles. Her recipe for longevity is a mixture of hard work and a sense of humour. Her only regret is she is unable to continue the former, but the latter is still winning her new friends. She is shown here with her cake and a nurse at the hospital, where she is confined with a hip fracture.

THE WORLD'S GREATEST EYE — The world's greatest eye, the 200-inch mirror capable of peering into secrets of the solar system is pictured, being loaded into the cradle (right), which will then be loaded on to a truck for the slow and careful trip to Mount Palomar observatory, near San Diego, Calif. There it will be installed. After 11 years of work, interrupted only by the war, opticians finally finished polishing the world's largest mirror in the laboratories of [illegible].

DON'T GET SCARED! — No, no folks, that lady isn't dead. In fact she isn't a lady—just a dress shop show window dummy who was dumbfounded at her display of finery when an automobile plowed into a New York window, which was her home. A clean-up man, whose finer sensibilities demand that even a mannequin shouldn't run around naked wraps up the imitation lady before carting her out of sight. The driver of the car disappeared.

[illegible]—The common house fly has been going about his business of flying backwards, forwards, upside down and sideways for millions of years without anyone knowing just how he was able to do it. Now scientists at the American Museum of Natural History have, by means of a fast camera photographed the fly in action, studied each minute movement of his wings as they beat the air 200 times a second, and know the answers — most of them anyway. Dr. C. H. Curran, museum insect expert, says the fly propels himself by a wing action similar to that of an oar propelling a rowboat. One thing Dr. Curran is not sure of and that is how a fly does a loop and lands upside down on the ceiling.

Mrs. Baldwin first waved her slip on the end of a pole. When that didn't attract attention she set a match to it and roused duck hunters in the area to come to the rescue. "Only four in the party could swim," she said, "and the boat would [illegible] perched on top of a sharp point of rock just under the surface." Here Mrs. Baldwin demonstrates the way a stranded "[illegible]" should host a slip to get the longest and best blaze.

The Brewing Industry of Alberta

Agriculture And Industry

THE POSSIBILITIES OF USING waste farm products for industrial purposes has for many years been a matter of interest to farmers and to scientists. Among the processes which have been developed are the distilling of industrial alcohol from wheat and other cereal grains, the manufacture of plastics from the protein in milk and the extraction of oils from flax, sunflowers, and other plants, for the making of paints, varnishes and edible fats. There have been many other such developments, but although they may be very satisfactory technically, they are not always practical from the financial standpoint. While it is most desirable that waste or surplus agricultural products should be used, if at all possible, for industry the cost of processing them must always be a highly important consideration.

* * * * *

Now No Surplus Of Food Grains

In a recent article on the subject Dr. R. K. Larmour, one of Canada's foremost agricultural scientists, has drawn attention to the fact that enthusiasm for the development of industrial uses for surplus and waste agricultural products has at times caused scientists and agriculturists to overlook the practical financial aspects of the [illegible]. In discussing this matter in relation to Western Canada Dr. Larmour said: "While it is fully realized that surpluses in the West are most desirable, it is also true that we shall be better off with none, rather than those which would have to find [illegible] if they are not based on sound scientific and economic principles. At the present time the world food shortage has cut down the problem of converting surplus grain crops to other uses and it is now realized that if people are properly fed there will be no great surpluses such as accumulated during the last depression."

* * * * *

Scientists To Study Problems

There are, however, certain waste products which could they be used in industry would bring financial gain to the farmer and also create employment. There are also certain crops, such as sunflowers and flax, which the farmer might grow solely for use in industry. At the new Prairie Regional Laboratory of the National Research Council of Canada, now being completed at Saskatoon, such matters will be studied and no doubt new industrial uses for surpluses and waste farm products will in time be developed there. One problem which will be studied is that of finding a new use for straw, much of which is now disposed of by burning. New industrial undertakings are unquestionably assets to any region but the financial aspects should always receive careful and thorough consideration.

SYDNEY, Australia. — As official figures came in from all states, estimates of Australia's wheat harvest were still rising.

SUNFLOWER PRODUCTION

Production of sunflowers in Canada was almost entirely a wartime development and higher yields and greater ease in harvesting were made possible by improved varieties such as the better strains of Mennonite and Sunrise. These are semi-dwarf types which can be harvested with the ordinary combine.

Fox farming began in 1894 on Prince Edward Island. 2769

Canada Has New Variety Of Wheat

Insect-Resistant Type Available Commercially Next Year

The Ottawa Citizen says: By the development of Rescue, Canada's first insect-resistant wheat, Mr. A. W. Platt of the Dominion Experimental Farm at Swift Current has made possible more grain for the food markets and more money for the farmer.

This achievement is the latest of many that have opened successive chapters in the unfolding story of the west. As settlers streamed out upon the prairie half a century ago, they needed a spring wheat maturing early enough for the short growing season. Two Dominion scientists, William Saunders and his son Charles, crossed Red Fife, which had been brought from Scotland to Upper Canada, with other hardy varieties from Russia and northern India, producing the earlier-ripening Marquis. Canada became a bread-basket for the world.

As settlement spread northward, varieties of wheat were developed that ripened even more quickly, and that resisted rust and smut. But the coming of the combine caused wheat to be left longer in the field before being cut. Hatching in the stem, the wheat sawfly toppled the grain. The toughness of Rescue will discourage the greedy sawfly grub. Wheats that will offer more resistance to grasshoppers and to frost are the next objectives of cerealists.

The new wheat will be available commercially next year. No cartels, trusts, combinations, or patents stand in the way. Scientists in the public service have given their country boons of inestimable value.

Builds Home In Six Years From Hand-Hewn Logs

PORT COQUITLAM, B.C. — John S. Pirie, 71, with $100 and a sharp axe has completed after six years of work a unique home from hand-hewn logs — a snug 46-by-22-foot dwelling.

All timbers were split by hand, including cedar window frames. Panelled walls and an insulating board ceiling set off the interior.

An inlaid table contains wood from every country in the British Empire.

Pirie, former minister, newspaper man, now retired, lives in the picturesque little home with his wife in peace and quiet. Even the doors don't slam—they slide noiselessly against soft felt pads on ball-bearing hinges.

GRAY CREEK, B.C. — Mrs. D. Hoffman of Gray Creek has her own method of dealing with prowling bears.

Alone at Kootenay Cottages and without a gun, Mrs. Hoffman was alarmed by an apple-stealing bear invading her orchard. The summer resort is, however, equipped with a horn for paging guests, and this Mrs. Hoffman turned on full blast.

The annoying bruin fell out of the tree in fright, and crashed off into the woods.

GEMS OF THOUGHT

PRIDE

Pride, the most dangerous of all faults, proceeds from want of sense, or want of thought.—Dillon

Pride is seldom delicate; it will please itself with very mean advantages.—Samuel Johnson

Pride is to the character like the attic to the house—the highest part, and generally the most empty.—John Gay

Pride is ignorance; those assume most who have the least wisdom or experience; and they steal from their neighbor because they have so little of their own.—Mary Baker Eddy

Men are sometimes accused of pride merely because their accusers would be proud themselves if they were in their places.—Shenstone

If a man has a right to be proud of anything, it is of a good action done as it ought to be, without any base interest lurking at the bottom of it.—Sterne

ARCTIC STATIONS REPORT ON WEATHER FOUR TIMES DAILY

OTTAWA. — Canada's two new Arctic weather stations are well established and sending out reports four times a day, Reconstruction Minister Howe said here.

The first station, on the east side of Ellesmere Island at Eureka Sound, within 600 miles of the North Pole, was initiated by aircraft. The second and main station was established on Cornwallis Island at Resolute Bay near the western end of Barrow Strait, by a waterborne expedition. It is at about latitude 75 degrees north.

"LAZY HUSBAND" GETS TWENTY YEARS

ADVICE GIVEN TO ALBERTA MOTORISTS

EDMONTON. — Alberta's toll of highway injured could be reduced considerably if drivers observed the white centre line on the Edmonton-Calgary highway, Sgt. James Muir of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police said.

Many motorists were taking the white line as a wheel guide rather than staying over on their own sides of the road. Consequently avoidable accidents were continuing to occur.

"If it can be impressed on motorists that they are not to crowd the white line, many bad accidents can be avoided," said Sgt. Muir. "Correct use of the line, which shows up well at night, could play an important part in cutting down Alberta's toll of highway injured."

Exceptional Yields On Rosyivia Farms

Exceptional yields of barley and wheat have been reported from the Feenstra farms in the Rosyivia district. Wheat on breaking went 50 bushels to the acre on the farm of Lool Feenstra. Barley, also on breaking on a field nearby, owned by Mr. Feenstra's son Herman, yielded 100 bushels. These are exceptional yields in any year and particularly so this past dry summer. The Feenstra farms were lucky enough not to suffer any hail damage as many of their neighbors did but benefitted from the heavy rains accompanying the hail storms.

Local Sporting News

By "Sporter"

Here are two almost entirely true stories, which unite to make one interesting local climax.

The first story is about two local sportsmen, both new arrivals in Vermilion.

Out for an early morning hunt, the rising sun was suddenly darkened for them. Eclipse of the sun? Dust storm? Rain?

No. Just hundreds of ducks.

The situation called for consideration and blue prints, so they returned to town where they made careful plans. One an enthusiastic gunman from the east, decided, according to eastern technique, that decoys and sun-pits were called for. The other guy, an enthusiastic amateur, agreed.

Then they roped me into help load up the ducks. Me — I had a vision of 1964 Vermilion folk sitting down to duck suppers that night.

Early in the afternoon we headed back to the magic spot. There we set out our decoys—they certainly looked realistically goose-like. We dug gun pits, around which we scattered straw and built a hedge of weeds. Then we sat down and waited—the air charged with the impending doom o' ducks.

But that is about all that happened.

And now the second story:

Two honest farmers homeward bound in their truck. Suddenly the driver's arm is jerked by his companion.

"Look!

The driver looked. Then he too gasped.

On the skyline, on a small rise, sat a dozen of the biggest and fattest geese they had ever seen. Like one man they grabbed their guns and jumped out of the truck. Cautiously they made their way towards the geese, guns cocked, nerves a-tingle.

Still the geese sat there.

Behind me I heard cautious footsteps in the stubble. I got up from my gunpit to investigate and found myself looking down the barrels of guns held by two honest farmers.

Then —

You should have heard the angry roar of those farmers when the beautiful fat geese turned out to be decoys.

Final score:

For our hunters — An awful sad I don't mean perhaps!

For the decoys—Two farmers.

For the ducks—The last laugh.

History Repeats Itself!

Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Whitby Have Vermilion Episode Re-Enacted at Victoria

Sixteen years ago in Vermilion C.L. Whitby then manager of the Bank of Commerce, was awakened by a very peculiar clucking sound, opening one eye he observed a prairie chicken of the feathered variety standing on the sill of his open window. The bird hopped onto the bed, walked across Whitby's feet—was startled when said feet were moved involuntarily and the chicken took to a frenzied flight around the room. It finally dropped exhausted into a corner whereupon Mr. Whitby retrieved it, held it out the window and it took immediate flight.

Away out at Victoria where they now live, the Whitby's had a similar experience and here is the story in White's own words:

"I noticed in your paper a week or so ago under the Sixteen Years Ago Today heading about the prairie chicken flying to our bedroom window. I want to tell you of a similar experience we had just three weeks ago here in Victoria or almost exactly 16 years later. We were awakened abruptly by a crash of glass and there on the floor was a nice fat grouse with a gaping hole in the window pane and broken glass all over the room. After a minute or two the bird gathered its wits and flew around the room, finally was cornered, captured and then put out into his natural element when he flew off with his dignity apparently unruffled. My friends have wondered why I didn't wring the intruder's neck and have a grouse for dinner but you will understand that a fellow can't [illegible] at such [illegible] and on the bird [illegible] the [illegible] of having the window [illegible] I thought this [illegible] I guess the [illegible]."

Vol. XXXIX. No. 25. Vermilion, Alberta, Thursday, November 13, 1947. $2.00 A Year

Sidney E. Barwick, Pioneer Farmer, Citizen, Passes On

Sidney E. Barwick, esteemed pioneer homesteader, farmer and citizen, passed away at the hospital on Monday afternoon, November 10th. He was 80 years of age and had been in ill health for the past year. The funeral services are being held this Thursday afternoon, November 13th at 2 o'clock at St. Saviour's Anglican church.

Mr. Barwick was born in Yorkshire England on Sept. 12th, 1867. He and his family came to Canada in 1906, coming directly to Vermilion and homesteaded 10 miles north of town. At that time a partnership with Mr. George Brown was entered into and the well known Barwick and Brown farming partnership persisted through the years until Mr. Barwick retired in 1938 and Mr Brown continued the farming operations. Mr. and Mrs Barwick moved into Vermilion in that year and have since made their home here.

The Barwick farm home in the north became known as a social and musical centre and the deceased enjoyed the friendship and esteem of a much wider circle of friends than is usually the case.

Left to mourn the loss of a loving husband and father are the sorrowing widow, one son Ronald of Vermilion, two daughters, Mrs. S. J. Loughlin (Elsie) of Los Angeles, Mrs. L. E. Littlewood (Gladys) of Victoria. There are four grandchildren and two other grandsons were killed while serving with the R.A.F.

The sympathy of many friends in town and country is extended to the family in their bereavement.

Robt. W. Shopland is President of the Students' Union with Eva Shand vice-pres.; Desmond George, secretary and Douglas McGinnis treasurer. Other members of the council are the committee chairmen including Mable Rasmussen, Social; Bill Baranyk, Literary; Allan Sweetnam, Athletic; Andy Pawlowski, Gymnasium and Louise Sanford member without portfolio.

Board of Trade Notes

Very lively discussion featured the Board of Trade meeting Wednesday, topics under debate being stabling for farmers' teams; roads in contiguous areas (not in town); and consideration of resolution asking that the manufacture and marketing of oleomargarine be allowed in Canada. After some discussion the latter question was held over for a full dress debate next Wednesday. Anyone with any information should attend and take part in order that a sensible disposition of the resolution may be made. Farmers are especially invited as it is thought this might affect the dairy industry.

Jas. D. Adam was in the chair and welcomed Reg Ambler who attended for the first time in a considerable period while Mr. A. M. West introduced Geo Pearman and son Philip.

While the attendance was down to 23 the meeting was more than usually interesting with most of the members in an argumentative mood.

Junior Wheat Club Winners

Alex Morrison won first and Philip Warrilow second in the Alberta Wheat clubs' standing field crop competition for 1947.

Farewell Party for Tattersall Family

A farewell party was held at the [illegible] school Wednesday evening Nov. 5th in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Dick Tattersall and family who are leaving the district to make their new home south of Wainwright.

The first part of the evening was spent playing games, followed by several musical numbers which were enjoyed by all.

Mr. T. Wait on behalf of friends and neighbors then presented Mr. and Mrs Tattersall with a very comfortable arm chair. Dick and Molly thanked everyone for their kindness and good wishes.

After the serving of a very abundant lunch all joined hands and sang "For They are Jolly Good Fellows" and "Auld Lang Syne."

Mr. and Mrs. Tattersall and family will be missed by a large circle of friends and neighbors but all join in wishing them the very best of everything in their new home.

General Meeting of Curlers Next Wednesday, 19th

FLOODING UNDER WAY — EARLY START OF ROARIN' GAME ANTICIPATED

If present weather continues prospects indicate an early start of the curling season. Icemaker Ted Marfleet is already on the job at the curling rink and preliminary sprinklings have been applied to the surface.

A general meeting of everyone interested in the roarin' game will be held at the curling rink Wednesday evening next, Nov. 19 at 8:15 sharp when plans for the season will be made. It is emphasized that every person interested in curling this season should hand in his name to the secretary Fred Firth.

EXECUTIVE MEETING

A meeting of the curling club executive was held last Thursday and the following recommendations will be made to the general meeting. These are recommendations only and can be changed at the will of the meeting:

1. That fees be $10 per member, $6 for country members, $5 for high school members. Rock box rentals $1.

2. That the same method of forming rinks as last year be used, viz: a careful canvass be made for curlers; the necessary number of skips be elected at the general meeting; skips choose their own third men; other players be chosen in turn from the list on the blackboard.

Remember however, that these are only recommendations by the executive—the plans can be overhauled at the general meeting Wednesday evening next at 8:15.

Lady Curlers

The club extends a cordial invitation to all ladies to attend a curling meeting in the library room, town hall basement, at 3 p.m., Sunday Nov 16. We urge you not to skip this meeting, rather, be out in full force to lend in important business discussions, and to second any motions — And a third reminder — our club would be most happy to have new members, so ladies, let's attend the meeting and get our club off to a grand start.

The V.S.A. Fall Dance This Friday

The Vermilion school of agriculture is holding its annual fall dance and Alumni Reunion on Friday, Nov. 14. This is an occasion when former students and the public have an opportunity to attend a social function while the school is in operation; to renew old acquaintances and to meet the newer members of staff and student bodies. A number of visitors from widely scattered points are expected and a good time for all is anticipated.

The school gymnasium has been in the process of renovation and decoration for some time and will be ready for this dance. Considerable improvements have been made, and the committee in charge feel that they have even better facilities for a get together which, in the past, has been one of the feature events of the school year.

LIVESTOCK SALE BRINGS $10,000.00

WILL BE ANNUAL EVENT

The first annual sale of purebred livestock sponsored by the Vermilion Agricultural Society brought some $10,000 to breeders from a wide area. Cattle which were fitted drew good prices while livestock which was not in as good shape as might have been did not appear to interest the buyers.

There was a very light demand for the very fine swine and sheep breeding stock offered.

Plans are already underway for the continuance of the sale and lessons learned by the first event will doubtless do much to improve the herds of the district.

The facilities of the Provincial school of agriculture proved excellent for the holding of such a sale and many of the agricultural students under the capable guidance of J. L. Kerns assisted the local society in its initial effort.

The sale was held Wednesday last week, Nov 5th with J. W. Durno of Calgary the auctioneer. In spite of the heavy snowfall of the previous day the sale attracted a large crowd.

Jerry Ambler Wins World's Championship

Jerry Ambler well known Mannville man and brother to Reg and Pat Ambler of Vermilion, was crowned world's champion bronc rider at Madison Square Gardens New York on Saturday evening. This is the second time in succession that Jerry has won the championship [illegible] next year would give him [illegible] King of the Cowboys [illegible] has only been won once before and that by [illegible].

"GREEN ACRES"

HEAT STOCK WATER

Most farmers agree that warm drinking water in cold weather helps stock to gain weight and save feed. Milking cows produce more milk when the chill is taken off the water. A good tank heater is essential but insulation of sides and top of the tank is necessary also. A cover on the top to close at night is another aid [illegible]. Now is the time to fix up a suitable warm water supply before the cold weather sets in.

MARKETING POULTRY

Both chickens and turkeys should be fattened now as the longer they are held the more grain will be eaten up. It is easier to get feathers off turkeys just after they are fully feathered. If kept for two or three weeks the feather tubs are hard [illegible] impossible to remove and resulting grade is lower.

SUPPLEMENTS FOR PIGS

Last week a district farmer lost pigs weighing 150 pounds each. The only feed was a mixture of barley and oats chop. There is little doubt that the pigs died of malnutrition. Supplements containing protein, minerals and vitamins must be added to the [illegible] will [illegible] [illegible] to save good health.

Midget and Pee-Wee Hockey to be Emphasized

PROSPECTS DIM FOR A LEAGUE TEAM — LAST YEAR'S EXECUTIVE TO CARRY ON

Judging from information gleaned at the general hockey meeting Monday evening prospects are definitely dim for the high class of intermediate hockey the town has enjoyed for the past two seasons. Last year's Tigers are scattered far and wide and the present indications are that Vermilion will not have sufficient senior players to enter a team in the Eastern Alberta hockey circuit. If such proves to be the case several hundreds of local and district hockey fans are going to sorely miss this source of entertainment this winter. However the meeting instructed President Sandy Watt, Secretary Tom Stack and the hockey executive of last year to carry on and make an exhaustive survey of any new hockey material that might have come to town since last spring.

Pee-Wees, Midgets to be Helped

It was definitely decided to encourage Pee-Wee and Midget hockey regardless of other developments. President Reg Mitchell and his V.A.A.A. executive are already planning to restore the four team Pee-Wee league to its former glory and this takes in boys up to 14 years of age. Midget hockey looks after boys from 14 years and under.

EXHIBITION GAMES

If there is no league entry from Vermilion an attempt will be made to arrange exhibition games in an effort to keep intermediate hockey very much alive until such time as we can again enter a league. These games will serve to keep the older players in condition and to give experience to the young players.

All this pee-wee, midget and exhibition game activity should build up a good league contender in a season or two, with constant player replacements available thereafter from the junior ranks.

6179 FANS LAST WINTER

The Vermilion Tigers attracted 6,179 cash customers to the arena last winter in 21 games. Gate receipts were a trifle over $2000. The hockey club has a balance of $250 and equipment valued at $650. This equipment is in very good state of repair thanks to Bernie Anderson and Mac Fisk.

Players Scattered Far and Wide

Of some 15 players on the regular roster of the Tigers last winter 7 have left these parts. Of the remaining eight four have definitely decided to confine themselves to coaching the younger teams leaving only four as prospects to form the backbone of a team.

The players who have left are [illegible] Rex Martin now living in Edmonton, [illegible] Macnab Jr. who is at [illegible] where he is working and playing hockey with the junior Canadians, Ray Plummer and Bob Watt [illegible] for Waterloo Motors [illegible] that team's [illegible] intermediate league [illegible] central Alberta [illegible] working in Edmonton [illegible] has moved to Castor [illegible] his farm home.

In the veteran players, Art Wiebe, Stan Wattsberger, Doug and Fred Briner who are not interested in playing regular league hockey but are anxious to see the younger boys given good coaching and something to play. Gordon Arnold sub goalie, Don Caskey, Stan Many[illegible] and Les Williams would probably be anxious to get in some good hockey [illegible] again.

Of one thing Vermilion can be sure. Sandy Watt, Tom Stack and Co. will do their utmost to arrange some good hockey. It's in their blood!

Winter Takes Over

Old Man Winter, who can still exert a mighty grip even in this modern age swept everything before him this week and weather stations have been broadcasting the statement morning after morning that Vermilion is the coldest spot in Canada. The lowest was a cool 21 below recorded Wednesday morning.

However we can console ourselves with the fact that there are other places just as cold as Vermilion but they haven't modern radio beam and weather stations to record that fact.

Wildmere Winks

We are very pleased to be able to report Mr. Smith well on the way to recovery after his recent illness and we hope he is soon home again.

A fair crowd attended Herman Eyben's sale last Tuesday Nov. 4th despite the stormy day. Lots of hot coffee and lunch was ready at all times to help warm people up and bidding was fairly brisk although the household articles sold on the low side. Mr. and Mrs. Eyben and family have since left on their journey to the coast. All their many friends here wish them the very best in their new home wherever they may settle.

Wildmere W.I. held their November meeting at the home of Mrs. Roy Tibben with 9 members and 2 visitors, Mrs. Gilholme and Mrs. Howson of Edmonton present. A baby spoon was presented to each of the two new babies of our members. Fruit gifts were given the mothers while in the hospital. After the old business was settled discussion centred on what we were going to have for our annual do. It was decided to have our bazaar as usual with an added fish pond for the kiddies also a White Elephant table for grown ups. A dance to fill in for those who like dancing. All this is to take place on Nov. 28th so keep the date in mind folks. Johnny jump-up was won by Roy Tibben who very kindly donated it to our White Elephant sale. Roll call was answered by donations for the bazaar. After the meeting Mrs. Tibben served a very tasty lunch. Next meeting is our annual one and will be at the home of Mrs. Wm. Garnett Jr. on Dec. 3rd.

Deepest sympathy from writer and community goes out to the sorrowing husband and family of Mrs. Howard Green of Auburndale who passed peacefully away on Nov. 3. Another of our old timers who has gone to her well earned rest. She was one who had seen many changes in the development of this part and after trying to take life a bit easier, chose to make her home amongst us. Her cheery smile and kindly word will be greatly [illegible] many neighbors and friends.

Mrs. Morand of Calgary returned with her mother when her father Mr. Smith took ill.

Lloyd Kunnels, an eastern harvester who has worked all fall for Cliff Cruthers left on Wednesday to seek work in the oil field at Lloydminster.

The writer had a very pleasant surprise visit on Sunday from Mr. and Mrs. Ammeter of Red Deer. Mrs. Ammeter was formerly Mrs. Walters of Battleview. We were glad to see them once again. They did not have long to visit as they wanted to see as many old friends and neighbors as possible in their short holiday. Ernie Walters accompanied them. Mrs. Ammeter wished through the writer to say hello to all those whom she did not see. Her daughters Margaret and Dorothy also her son Ernest and one step-son all attend school in Red Deer.

Congrats to Mr. and Mrs. John King (nee Helen Almond) who were married Nov. 4th, also to Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Clark Jr. (nee Mary Watson) who were married Nov. 10th—to both these happy couples best wishes for years and years of happiness.

To our sick friends we wish a speedy recovery Mrs. Wm. Garnett Jr., Mrs. Dave Bury, Mr. Smith and all others.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Martin and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gibson were supper guests at the John Wilson home on Sunday.

SOME SEVERE CRITICISM —

It has come to the ears of various Camrose business houses that the rural population resents the folding up of the Camrose sidewalks at six o'clock Saturday nights, particularly in the harvest season, and we presume it relates to the coming Christmas shopping season. As one certain individual put it, we're too big for a small town and not big enough to put on the airs of a city. One of the greatest difficulties of the Saturday night opening has been the ruling by the Trades and Industry branch re hours of labor. How the smaller towns adjacent to Camrose get by we do not know, but the fact remains that several places are pulling in the crowds Saturday night while the Camrose streets are practically vacated.

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY—

LAZY BOY

By I. de La Torre

HIS sneakers raising puffs of dust, Billy raced down the path to the lake. Now he stopped, snatched an overhanging branch and clung to it, gasping for breath. After a backward glance satisfied him that the little white schoolhouse no longer showed through the trees, he jerked up his black trousers and shuffled on.

"School!" he mumbled to himself. "I'm sick of it! And if Ma puts on any more crying acts when I talk about quitting, it just ain't going to do her any good. I could fake my age and join the Navy to see the— Nah! too much orders to take. Maybe I'll just drift around, free like a kite."

Now that his future was so promptly settled, Billy looked around for something to attract his immediate interest. A thin column of smoke rising from the clearing caught his eye.

"Funny time for anybody to have a fire on the beach," he told himself and dashed across. The two men crouching over the fire turned around as Billy approached. Both wore shabby clothes, and their faces looked as if untouched by water or razor for weeks.

"You—you tramps?" Billy blurted.

The two men looked at each other and the one sitting on an overturned lard can answered.

"Yeah, we're bums. What you doin' here? Ain't yuh supposed tuh be in school?"

"Sure. Just taking a vacation today," and Billy grinned, pleased with his wit.

The big man who had just spoken picked up a twig, snapped it, and threw it on the fire.

"Hey, Joe," he grunted to his companion, "what yuh say we take this punk up wid us?" He put his hand on the boy's shoulder.

"You mean go around [illegible] with you?" Billy broke in.

"Yuh know how tuh ride rails, kid?" Joe inquired.

"Sure—sure I do." Billy wasn't as certain as he sounded, but from what he had seen of "riding the rods" in the movies it looked easy enough.

The first tramp picked up a rusty can and with the aid of a stick propped it in the centre of the crackling twigs. He was still poking it into position as he drawled out, "Hey, Joe. 'Member Horney Bindler? Jus' heard other day he lost his leg ridin' onnah Sante Fe. Trackman followed up his blood fer 10 miles."

"Awh, that guy couldn'n hold on tuh a kiddy car 'out fallen off. Yeah, got woid Beardy Osler got it too las' week. Head crushed 'tween couplers like it was eh squashed egg." Here Joe paused and pointed to Billy's feet.

"Mike, wouldjah ast dah kid tuh gimme his shoes? Mine's ain't got 'nuf sole on 'em tuh grind up fer chewin' tobacco."

"Mine?" Billy cried. He held one foot forward for them to see. "These are my only school shoes and I—"

"Yeah—yours," Mike snarled. "Yuh ain't goin' tuh school no more, is yuh?" He started to stand up but Joe motioned him down. "Awh, let'm have 'em. He'll be wearin' noospapers 'round his feet soon 'nuf. We get 'nther 40 below winter of las' year an' no doubt dah remains of muh toes'll get frozen off. Hah, mebbe muh feet'll be little 'nuf tuh wrap intuh dah tabloids," he finished, chuckling to himself.

"Yuh scratchin' agin?" Mike grunted at his companion.

"Can't help it, Mike. Just' thinkin' 'bout dat flop joint last night. Gosh! Dem bedbugs crawlin' over me innah dark was so big I figgered mebbe dey was turtles."

Mike grinned broadly and picked up his stick to poke the can. "Chow's on!" he called to Joe.

Billy leaned over and peered into the can. "What—what is it?" he stammered.

"Stewed pig tails," Mike drawled. "Ain't often we got such luck as tuh get such good eat'n as that, do we Joe?"

"Yeah, 'member dat time we couldn'n get nuttin but fish heads otta dah garbage pails? Musta been time wasn't much meat 'round."

"Here, kid." Mike was proudly holding up the can. "Now members foist. Gobble it down when it's still good'n hot, boy."

"No—no thanks. I—I—" Billy's lips clenched together and his hands went instinctively over his mouth. He shook his head and fled.

Mike dropped the can, threw back his head and laughed until he sank to the ground exhausted. His companion wiped a laugh-tear away.

"What did you do, Mike?" he panted. "Broil our worms?"

Mike nodded. "The fishing was getting terrible, anyway." He rose wearily off the ground. "Come on, let's look for the canoe and start home. And please remember, dear brother, that it's your turn to take mother to a fish dinner at the Seafood Grotto."

Government Plans New Department

Designed To Make Full Use Of The Vast Natural Resources Of Canada

OTTAWA — A sweeping national development program, perhaps the greatest in Canada's history and designed to make full use of her vast natural resources in the field of manufacture, is expected to stem from creation of a new department now said to be planned by the administration.

First news of the planned new department came from a source close to the cabinet who said it would be [illegible] in the speech from the throne at the opening of parliament.

It would replace the reconstruction department now completing postwar rehabilitation activities and the source said it would be headed by Reconstruction Minister Howe, the man who guided the Dominion's supply for war and moulded the framework of her post-war reconversion.

Main job of the new department, the source said, would be to map a long-term program for development of Canada's natural resources with particular attention to making the Dominion more self sufficient in vital iron and steel, in curtailing waste in industry and in encouraging manufacture of Canadian products from Canadian raw materials instead of exporting them in raw form.

Using Hat Pins Against Bag-Snatchers

JOHANNESBURG — Many women are using hatpins again—not for fashion but as protection against bag-snatchers and other types of criminals who prowl the streets at night. They are carrying them in their handbags.

Here are points of advice given by the wife of a policeman to women who have to go out at night:

Always be conscious that you are exposed to danger. If accosted run up on the nearest porch and ring the bell. Walk by the curb to increase vision. Don't carry a purse with a swinging strap. Better still, carry your [illegible] in a small purse which fits into a pocket. Scream "like mad" if you are attacked.

Backache?

Backache is a friendly warning from Nature urging you to do something about it at once. It's the same when your shoulder is painful, or your joints become stiff. When other folks have had these complaints, many have got relief by taking Kruschen. Kruschen helps because it is a combination of several natural salts which aid sluggish organs of elimination thus helping to remove the causes of painful backache and rheumatic pains. South Alberta Still A Wild Life Paradise—A Lure To Sportsmen

South Alberta has always been a wild life paradise. During early frontier days, the buffalo furnished food for nomadic Indian tribes of whom the greatest hunters were the Bloods, the Peigans, the Stoneys, and the Sarcees.

However, hunters' and traders' repeating rifles liquidated the buffalo in the '70s and '80s. But South Alberta is still a colorful spot for outdoor sportsmen, offering in its mountains, its foothills and plains, nearly everything that is to be found in the way of wild animals, migratory fowl and game birds.

This summer, for instance, within 75 miles of Lethbridge a grizzly bear was killed invading a foothills ranch. Two cougars were shot, one near Magrath and the other at Mountain View. Last winter herds of elk, which came from the Flathead country of British Columbia and from the Waterton-Glacier International Peace Park, almost ate foothills' ranchers' herds out of house and home. Now there's a movement on foot to set apart a buffer strip between parks and ranches so that sportsmen can keep elk herds within bounds. Mule deer have been increasing in population in the foothills and half a dozen may often be seen among the cattle on the ranches.

After the hard winter of 1906-07 the antelope, a native of Alberta, almost disappeared. It was estimated at the time that not more than 200 head remained roaming the range between the Bow and Missouri rivers on both sides of the international border. Representations by J. J. McHugh of Nemiscam resulted in setting up the Nemiscam Antelope Park. Since then the antelope have increased to about 20,000 in Alberta and southwestern Saskatchewan and there has been a short open season for some years.

This year, wild ducks saw so much water from the melting snows of southern Alberta and southwestern Saskatchewan that they didn't go north in their usual numbers. They stayed on the southern prairies and settled down to raise families. And big ones, too. The duck season was short with a limited bag this year so to give the duck population a chance to come back. Alberta's once great Hungarian partridge population is away down, too, due to hard winters in the late '30s, two bad hatching seasons in 1945 and 1946 and the natural cycle which at times decimates their numbers. There may be no open season on Hungarians this fall.

Prairie chicken, the pinnated grouse of South Alberta, once almost a pest, have all but disappeared, and there has been no open season on them for some years. They're a great game bird but the one-way plow and the combine have driven them into the foothills. Their place is being taken to some extent by the imported pheasant.

Ringnecks do well in south Alberta, and especially in the irrigated districts where willows along the ditches present good cover. The Brooks irrigation area is the mecca of pheasant hunters, but big irrigation projects around Lethbridge show a steadily increasing population of these great game birds.

Fish and game associations, and there is one in nearly every south Alberta town and city, are doing a lot to conserve south Alberta's game, and are the first to suggest closed seasons when necessary. To the members of these associations there's no allure to equal a man and his dog in the Indian summer sun of the fall shooting season. By H. G. Long in Lethbridge Herald

TEACHER SLUGGED — Mabelle Dunkin, 20, teacher of Glenannon, Ont., says "I was hit by something and the next thing I knew it wasn't last night at all. It was this afternoon and I was lying in a ditch." She walked the 22 miles from the spot near Harriston, Ont., after she regained consciousness.

DON'T RUN OVER MY LITTLE GIRL!

Phil Brainiff in the following letter, which appeared in the Tulsa World, gives a compelling argument for safe driving and safe thinking:

Dear Driver,

Today my daughter, who is seven years old, started off to school as usual. She wore a dark blue dress with a white collar. She had on black shoes and wore blue gloves. Her cocker-spaniel, whose name is "Scoot", sat on the front porch and whined his canine belief in the folly of education as she waved "goodby" and started off to the halls of learning.

Tonight we talked about school. She told me about the girl who sits in front of her—the girl with the yellow curls—and the boy across the aisle who makes funny faces. She told me about her teacher who has eyes in the back of her head—and about the trees in the school yard—and about the big girl who doesn't believe in Santa Claus. We talked about a lot of things, tremendously vital unimportant things, then we studied spelling, reading and arithmetic and—then to bed.

She's back there now—back in the nursery—sound asleep, with "Princess Elizabeth" (that's a doll) cuddled in her right arm. You guys wouldn't hurt her, would you? You see I'm her daddy. When her doll is broken or her finger is cut or her head gets bumped, I can fix it—but when she starts across the street, then she's in your hands.

She's a nice kid. She can run like a deer and dart about like a chipmunk. She likes to ride horses and swim and hike with me on Sunday afternoons. But I can't be with her all the time. I have to work to pay for her clothes and her education. So please drive slowly past the schools and intersections and remember that children run from behind parked cars.

Please don't run over my little girl.

Phil Brainiff

Sweepstakes Bookies Warned By Post Office Department

OTTAWA — Sweepstakes bookies better head for cover—the post office department has started a drive to run them out of the mail.

W. J. Turnbull, deputy postmaster general, said that postal authorities across Canada had seized between 13,000 and 14,000 receipts headed for purchasers of tickets on the Cambridgeshire Handicap sweepstake which brought fortunes to some Canadians. He warned that persons persisting in selling lottery tickets via the Royal Mail would have their mail stopped.

Commenting on a report from Toronto that several persons there had failed to receive receipts from that last Irish sweepstake, Mr. Turnbull declared that receipts would be intercepted until use of the mails for these purposes was stopped.

The use of the post office for lotteries is illegal and has been for years, he said. During the war there was no trouble as there were no lotteries but now it's starting all over again, and if we find receipts for tickets in the mail we seize them.

No action is being taken against the individual buying a ticket but it's the person who sells them the post office department is after.

Clothing Is Great Problem in Britain

Coupons Have To Cover Needed Home Furnishings Too

Fewer, fewer, fewer — that's the way clothing coupons are going in Britain, and with news that most things will be switched over to help the export drive it looks as if clothing for the home market will be even scarcer before very long. The ration for the next five months from October 1 is 20 clothing coupons. As a suit rates 18, costs the same, most women in Britain will find it hard to buy either this winter. The remaining two coupons won't even buy a pair of stockings... which take three! And those 20 coupons have to last until the beginning of March. That's only half the problem, the greatest is that after six years of clothes rationing everything needs renewing and the same coupons have to be used for sheets, table linen and furnishing fabrics. It means continuing with "make do and mend" "patch and carry on", for a long time to come.

With 18 degrees of frost plowing was effectively stopped for the fall and now that several inches of snow have fallen it is safe to say that winter is with us again.

Canadian Legion Obtains Retroactive Pensions for Veterans

The sum of $21,144.21 in retroactive pensions was obtained for veterans in the month of September by the Canadian Legion according to a report issued by Chief Pensions Officer Richard Hale.

A grand total of 112 claims to pensions were won which means that these veterans in addition to receiving their retroactive pensions will get a monthly income for life besides free hospitalization for their pensionable ailments.

The great majority of these successfully established claims had already been rejected by the Canadian Pension Commission. The Legion report however stated that the Commission are always most helpful in providing facilities and documents to help the Legion prove the validity of the lost cases.

One outstanding benefit gained for a veteran was an increased pension for an ex-soldier who had been a prisoner of war in Italy. Upon discharge he found he was suffering greatly from tuberculosis and could only do light work and not maintain a permanent job due to his disability.

When applying for a pension his records showed that he had had a touch of T.B. prior to his enlistment. Therefore the Pension Commission admitted that his condition was aggravated by his service but "split the difference" and while admitting he was 25% disabled allowed him a pension of 15%.

He brought his case to the Canadian Legion. Three times the Service Bureau brought his case up and each time did not gain any advantage. Undaunted the pension officers dug further into his medical history, put in long hours on medical research data and armed with new facts for the fourth time they plugged this vet's case.

This time they had such convincing proof that the soldier's condition had deteriorated while a prisoner of war that they secured a 100% pension retroactive to the date of his discharge.

Can shyness be overcome?

Indeed it can! And every bit of progress one makes in this direction is of great benefit. For an effective personality is an asset in almost every occupation, particularly in smaller communities where commercial and social contacts so often overlap.

According to Dr. Henry C. Link, eminent psychologist, personality is best developed by "learning to do an increasing number of things for and with people".

For example, you may have no interest in playing bridge. But if you do, it will help you to develop poise because you have acquired a new skill and are brought into contact with other people. And this contact is made easier for you because you will be engrossed in doing something with them.

Taking part in other games, sports, club life, town council meetings or activities with other people will help ease your shyness. And this, in turn, will help you achieve greater success in your work.

Province to Enforce 50 m.p.h. Speed Limit

Designed to curb excessive speeds on Alberta highways, a new regulation which will establish a maximum of 50 miles per hour will be brought into operation this month, according to information received by officials of the Alberta Motor Association.

The Provincial Government is preparing to issue a definite regulation to this effect with the hope that it can be enforced by Nov. 15 or as soon as possible after that date.

As soon as the regulation is proclaimed it will become part of the Provincial Highway Traffic Regulations and the RCMP will be instructed accordingly.

Earlier this year, the province announced that the 50 mile speed limit would be imposed but there was no legal authority to back up the police in taking this action. Now they will have the necessary authority to enforce the limit.

The extension of hard surfacing in the province is believed to be a factor in excessive speeds in some cases and resultant highway accidents. While roads have been improved, the authorities say there is no excuse for reckless driving or speeding.

Two License Plates For Cars Next Year

When more than 100,000 Alberta motorists obtain their license plates next year, they will receive front and rear plates. This is the information received by the Alberta Motor Association from the Provincial Secretary's Department.

Thus after a lapse of several years, Alberta returns to the pre-war system and issuance of double steel plates.

Police have claimed for some time that the enforcement of traffic regulations was made more difficult through the use of the single plate. This plate became necessary in various provinces and states through the shortage of steel.

The Alberta plate color scheme for 1948 will be black lettering on an aluminum background. For the first time, the Alberta colors will be the same as those of the sister province of Saskatchewan. It is stated that a shortage of pigment for certain colors has brought about similar colors in the Alberta and Saskatchewan plates for 1948.

Should Order Registered Seed Early

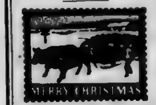
EARLY ORDERS VITAL TO FARMERS

In 1947, 110,000 bushels of registered seed were purchased by Alberta farmers with a view to improving the quality of grain grown on their farms. Registered seed bears the stamp of approval of the Canadian Seed Growers Association. It is seed with a pedigree—a pedigree tracing directly to pure seed produced by a Canadian University or Experimental station, and increased by experienced elite [illegible]

In the distribution of good seed the Alberta Crop Improvement Association has rendered faithful service. This Association consists of representatives of the grain elevator companies, Dominion and Provincial Departments of Agriculture, the University of Alberta, and the Seed Growers Organizations of the province. Under the seed [illegible] plan set up by this Association grain elevator agents are agents for and promoters of better seed.

The secretary of the Alberta Crop Improvement Association, J. E. Birdsall, advises that this year the Association is faced with a difficult situation. European and other outside markets are demanding all the registered oats, wheat and barley we can supply. Seed is being moved for export, and growers can not be expected to overlook this outlet for their crops. This means that the Association can supply seed to Alberta farmers only if they place their orders immediately.

In past years over 70% of Alberta farmers placed their orders after Jan. 1st but this year delay will almost certainly result in disappointment. If you want registered seed see your elevator agent now.



PREMIER ENDORSES SEAL SALE

Premier Ernest C. Manning has issued a statement calling on all citizens of Alberta to support the annual Christmas Seal sale sponsored by the Alberta Tuberculosis Association and its local committees throughout the province. Mr. Manning's statement is as follows.

"I am heartily in accord with the objects of the Alberta Tuberculosis Associations. I believe that they are rendering a valuable service to our citizens and I hope our people will respond generously to this appeal. Christmas seals to me are synonymous with Christmas and the Xmas spirit. Let us all help in this great work."

Christmas seals are in the mail this week, mailed by the various local committees to 180,000 homes in Alberta.

1947's objective is $125,000 which will be used to promote still more Community Mass Chest X-ray surveys, to rehabilitate ex-patients, to provide occupational therapy for patients in the sanatoria, to disseminate health education and for many other measures designed to eliminate tuberculosis.

Chatsworth Chatter

Winter seems to be here to stay despite the hopes of many that a warm spell would clear off the snow. It certainly looks and feels like winter this past week.

Though it is what everyone may expect at this time of year, the sudden change of weather caught many folks unprepared. Consequently the business of the week has been getting storm windows on, buildings banked, stock in off the range, etc.

F. W. Thompson of Nanaimo, B.C. spent from Wednesday Oct. 29th until Sunday Nov. 2nd visiting relatives in town and district. He left on the Sunday morning train for the coast.

Mr and Mrs Jim Thompson and family left by car on Saturday 8th to visit Mrs. Thompson's sister Mrs. [illegible]

The Chatsworth Country club held a social evening at the home of Mr and Mrs Bob Cameron on Friday the 7th when all members and their families attended. There were [illegible] there and an enjoyable time was spent in visiting, playing games and bingo. Lunch was served at midnight.

Painful Accident

Mrs. Bob Cameron suffered a very painful accident on Friday morning when as she was helping [illegible] some grain she got too close to the grain-loading auger and her hair became entangled. Before the auger could be stopped the hair from the top of her head was torn out and she suffered lacerations of the scalp and shock. Had the belt not been an old one and slipped easily Mrs. Cameron [illegible]

Claysmore Clippings

There have been a few cases of chicken pox in the district but the cases are light and the children are soon back at school.

Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Williams have retired and moved into their newly built bungalow in Vermilion. Although they will be missed in the Claysmore district, having lived here for many years, friends and neighbors extend best wishes for many happy years in their new home.

Baby Patricia Britz is spending a few days at the home of Mr and Mrs Les Kreller.

The Claysmore road has now been gravelled up to the bridge. The snow of last week has made the road soft and slippery in places.

Service was held at the Claysmore school Sunday Nov. 9th. The Rev. E. S. Bethie introduced the Rev. G. H. Villett, principal of Alberta college, Edmonton who gave a very inspiring sermon on the subject "Have Christians the Courage of their Convictions?" We feel privileged at being able to hear Mr. Villett as this was his first visit to the Vermilion district. We sincerely hope to hear him again soon.

Birth Registration Is Important

Registration of births is of more importance today than it has ever been, according to a bulletin issued by the provincial Department of Public Health. They are now necessary, not only as proof of age in such matters as family allowances, insurance policies, and superannuation and pension schemes, but they are also required for identification purposes by Canadians seeking entrance to the United States.

With this [illegible] importance on the birth certificate has come a surge of requests [illegible] from persons who [illegible]

Unfortunately many such registrations have been [illegible] sought by aliens not born in Canada as well as by persons who for some reason wished to establish false ages. War and the formulation of plans for family allowances brought an unsatisfactory [illegible] a head at the 1944 [illegible] for all persons [illegible] registration [illegible] the place and date of his birth and the identity of his parents thus bringing the practice all over Canada in line with Alberta vital statistics procedure.

Tuberculosis, first cause of death in Canada in 1912, now ranks 7th.

Drivers Required To Take Tests in 1948

The provincial government will bring a system of tests for those making application for drivers' licenses into operation next year. This information has been received by officials of the Alberta Motor Assoc.

Under the system to be made operative, tests will be required by those who are making application for drivers' licenses for the first time. This will cover a large number of young people who have reached the required age.

Regulations also will require tests in the case of those who were involved in motor vehicle accidents during the past year.

These applicants will be required to satisfy the requirements laid down in the regulations and they will be given tests under the supervision of the R.C.M.P.

The new system will come into operation in time for opening of the 1948-49 license year on April 1. Owing to lack of sufficient time to establish machinery, it was found impossible to make the plan operative in 1947.

THE SEASON'S PRIZE SHOOT

Now that the hunting season is closed and guns have been well oiled and packed away the shoot depicted above can be classed as the season's prize hunt.

—These Vermilion men spent four days on a very successful goose hunt in the Veteran district. They bagged 32 geese in all, thought they brought 32 back with them but found out when they started them up on the wall of Ambler Bros. warehouse, where the picture was taken, that they were one short. The mystery of the missing goose has not yet been solved. Just in case you don't know all of the nimrods, they are from left to right, Russell Carroll, Gordon Arnold, Bill Sutherland and Ted Foley. These boys keep in practice during the off-season months by doing quite a bit of skeet shooting at the [illegible] and [illegible] league [illegible] town. —Photo by Studio of Photographic Art, Vermilion

VERMILION DELIVERED PRICES OF GENERAL MOTORS CARS

FROM time to time, as a matter of public information, we have published the Retail Delivered Prices of General Motors Automobiles.

In accordance with this practice and to eliminate any uncertainties or confusion, we are again publishing the present Retail Delivered Prices. These prices include Standard Factory Equipment, Dominion Taxes and spare tire. Provincial and Municipal Taxes where such apply, license fee, and optional equipment are, of course, additional.

We sell these makes and models at the prices shown. You may rest assured, we will distribute them as fairly as possible with proper regard for orders placed with us and dependent upon the availability of models.

Should you be offered, from some other source, a new car, or one with low mileage, we suggest that you pay no more than the prices listed. You will obviously find it to your advantage to wait a little longer, until we are in a position to deliver a car against your own order.

We are sorry to say that delivery to you may be delayed for some time yet. This is due, in particular, to the shortage of many materials. General Motors has done a splendid production job under the circumstances and expects to steadily increase the rate of production. Meanwhile, these conditions, combined with the wide popularity of General Motors cars, and such an unprecedented demand, mean that delay in some instances is quite inescapable. We entreat your patience and understanding while the shortage exists.

We realize that our success depends upon the confidence and goodwill of our many customers. We will strive at all times, through good business practices, to justify, and therefore retain, this most valuable asset.

RENT CONTROL UNTIL 1949

It is expected that before Xmas — quite possibly in November — the Government will make a firm statement of its intentions regarding rent control, says The Financial Post in an Ottawa despatch.

The Government is expected to ask authority from Parliament for extension of present control through to March 31, 1949. It will probably be indicated at the same time that this is the only form of control on which the Government will seek extension of its powers beyond the present March 1948 deadline.

WHY?

Why do people listen to the radio? Why do some prefer one program others another? These and numerous other questions are answered in the [illegible] film "Why Radio Works". [illegible] that this is probably the first concrete means of telling the public more about the whys and wherefores of radio listening. CJCA's public relations department has been working [illegible] this fall showing the film [illegible].

[illegible] who to date have [illegible] and heard it is a cut as [illegible] possible. It includes Men's [illegible] Ministerial Assoc., Social Education Group, Labor Unions, Business Women's club, Service clubs, Retailers, Sales Representatives, University Women's club and others.

In all cases the interest shown was intense and has been well reflected in the barrage of questions fired at us truly following each showing.

We feel very happy about the whole campaign, as we believe it's a definite step in the right direction, long overdue.

Britain Builds Ships

ONE OF THE GRIMMEST FEATURES of the recent war was the Battle of the Atlantic. The high rate at which ships carrying vitally needed cargoes from this continent to Britain were destroyed constituted one of the major difficulties in defeating the enemy, and represented staggering losses in men, ships and supplies. In wartime these sinkings were extremely serious, and they have continued to affect the shipping situation ever since because of the critical shortage of ships which resulted from such extensive losses. Ever since the end of the war efforts have been made to build merchant and passenger ships in sufficient numbers to meet the great post-war demand for shipping space, but many are still needed to fulfil [illegible] requirements.

* * *

Large Program Is Undertaken

In this connection the British Ministry of Information has recently given out some details of the ship-building program in that country. The United Kingdom is possessed of a fine tradition for the craft of building ships and every big ship-building yard there is now carrying out an extensive construction program to replace wartime losses. Ships under construction at the present time are estimated to amount to more than 2,[illegible] gross tons, while there are another 2,000,000 tons under repair or being converted for other uses than those for which they were originally [illegible]. In spite of the severe shortages of labor and materials with which the builders must contend, Britain is reported to be now building more ships than all other countries put together and is endeavoring to fill [illegible] her own needs but to supply other countries.

* * *

To Fill Many Outside Orders

Since the end of the war overseas countries have placed 321 ships valued at $160,000,000 with United Kingdom ship builders. These do not include large orders from other parts of the British Commonwealth. More ships are being built, however, for British shipping companies than for those of any other country, and these companies will receive more than one-third of the present world construction. Britain is, in the words of the article published by the Ministry of Information, making valiant efforts to restore the service on the seven seas which won such prestige before the war. It is clear that the building up of her merchant and passenger fleets is a most important factor in post-war recovery, and United Kingdom ship builders are to be commended for the splendid effort which they are making at this time.

Peppermint Now Grown On B.C. Farm

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C.—Oil extract from peppermint enough to supply Canadian requirements may soon be produced in the Fraser Valley district.

An experimental [illegible] acre field of peppermint [illegible] is being grown on the model farm operated by [illegible].

Roots of the plants were imported from Oregon two years ago and oil is being extracted by a distillation process in a small pilot plant. Harvesting is now in progress.

The mint patch must be kept entirely free of weeds. It is cut like hay, the stems and leaves being allowed to cure before being put through the still. The oil brings $7 a pound and is used chiefly by gum [illegible].

The name of Portland, Ore., was decided by flipping a coin.

Railway From Vancouver To Alaska Planned

Project Calls For 1,000 Miles Of New Road To Fairbanks

WASHINGTON.—Plans for construction of a railroad from Vancouver to Fairbanks, Alaska, are under consideration by a group of private investors.

Marshall Ramsey Diggs, Washington counsel for the group, said his clients had been studying the project for several years and he hoped to be able to announce definite plans, along with the names of the backers, within 30 days.

Diggs said the idea calls for taking over 345 miles of railroad now owned by British Columbia and building another 1,000 miles into Fairbanks, where the proposed road would connect with the Alaska railroad.

Diggs predicted that either his group or some other "will start this railroad within three or four years.

"The present plans contemplate that the railroad will be constructed by private capital. We hope that after we reach Alaska our government will aid in the construction but we have received no commitments from it though government officials have shown great interest.

"We are anxious that a railroad be built to the territory for we believe that is the only way it ever will be opened up.

"And in view of the present Russian situation we should have such a connection with our territory.

"The railroad will open up vast resources, and in Canada tap country exceedingly rich in natural resources such as coal, timber and pulp wood."

Reporter Gets Even With Girl At Dinner

MEMPHIS, Tenn.—All was even today between a newspaper reporter and a girl who fluffed powder in his soup.

Tom Simmons said that he was tired of women using cosmetics at restaurant tables. So he came prepared for revenge.

While at dinner a girl at the next table brazenly powdered her face, he said. "Some of the powder floated into my soup."

Simmons asked the waiter for a bowl of hot water.

The next moment Simmons pulled out a tube of shaving cream and a razor and started shaving.

"If the girls can make up their faces in restaurants," Simmons said, "I can shave at the table, too."

New Product To Destroy Poultry Lice

Soon to appear on the market is a new product manufactured to destroy poultry lice by a completely and radically new method.

Wilson's Roost Paint by name, it will reach the poultry raiser in the form of a paint which will be applied by brush to the chicken roost. When the chickens roost, vapors from the roost paint will rise through the feathers of the chickens and kill poultry lice.

This new approach to the problem of getting rid of poultry lice will be welcomed by poultrymen as it does away with the old and slow necessity of dusting each individual chicken with louse powder.

This is a new line for the firm who make Wilson's Fly Pads, used in Western Canada by thousands of families with great success.

"We have found men who had accidents due to these causes, for instead of having their minds on driving they were thinking of the poor breakfast they had."

MAY ISSUE ONLY $25.00 U.S. FUNDS WITHOUT PERMIT

OTTAWA.—The amount of United States funds Canadian banks may issue to Canadians needing American dollars without the filling out of a special Foreign Exchange Control Board form has been reduced from $100 to $25 but a board official said that no change of policy was involved.

Describing the change as purely technical, he said it was made to give the board a better opportunity to scrutinize the amounts of American funds being made available in small amounts in the face of the dwindling American dollar position of Canada.

No change has been made in the maximum amount of $500 which banks may issue to Canadians in American funds without a direct reference to the Foreign Exchange Control Board, but in all cases over $25 a form must be filled out.

In cases where a Canadian requires more than $500 in American funds for any purpose, he must make his application to the Foreign Exchange Control Board.

Now that may be all right for a little character like myself, but let me tell you, these grown-ups sure are lucky what with Mom serving them Crown Brand Corn Syrup with so many of their dishes. And she uses it in her baking, too, as a sweetener. I can hardly wait until I'm old enough to have some hot waffles or pancakes smothered with delicious Crown Brand. If it's as good as it is in my cereal—mmmmm!"

For years doctors have recommended the use of Crown Brand Corn Syrup as a satisfactory carbohydrate acting as a milk modifier for bottle fed infants.

AMBULANCE IN DEMAND

The Vermilion Ambulance recently purchased by the Red Cross, is already proving its value and two emergency calls have been made for its use.

The first occasion was in taking an elderly bedridden lady from the hospital to her home 12 miles north. It was impossible to move her in anything but an ambulance. Billie Pilkie piloted the machine on this occasion and was accompanied by Bill Harris. The trip was made in complete comfort by the patient.

The second call was received Wednesday at the Board of Trade meeting, from a point 19 miles north-west of town where a man was desperately in need of transportation to the hospital. He couldn't sit up. Unfortunately the ambulance is being painted but Tom Watts offered his panel delivery. Billie Pilkie volunteered to drive and Harold Moyer to accompany him. The truck was fitted with a bed and the patient was in the hospital at 4 o'clock that afternoon.

The obtaining of the ambulance appears now to have been a timely and merited move and one for which we will be quite thankful as time goes on.

CARD OF THANKS

We would like to take this opportunity to thank all our friends and neighbors for the lovely easy chair given to us as a farewell present.

WEDDING BELLS

CLARK—WATSON

A very pretty wedding was solemnized on the afternoon of November 10th at the home of Mrs. M. Watson of Hindville, when Mary, daughter of Mrs. M. Watson and the late Mr. H. D. Watson, became the bride of William Clark, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Clark of Wildmere. The ceremony was conducted by the Rev. E. S. Reikie beneath pink and white streamers with green house plants surrounding.

Entering the living room on the arm of her brother, Frank, the bride was lovely in a rose peplum afternoon dress of rayon alpaca with white accessories. The bride's veil, caught to her head by a spray of orange blossoms, was one previously worn by her mother at her wedding.

She was attended by her twin sister Mabel who wore a teal-blue embroidered afternoon dress with white accessories.

Mr. Frank Clark, brother of the groom, was best man.

The wedding march was played by the mother of the bride, and during the signing of the register two sisters of the bride, Fay and Lillian sang, "Oh Perfect Love."

The reception following the ceremony was attended by 30 guests. The brides' mother chose a black dress with white trimmings for the occasion while the mother of the groom wore a brown white-trimmed, two-piece suit.

A three-tier wedding cake was decorated in pink and silver, embedded in white tulle and entwined by pink blossoms.

When leaving the bride wore a top coat of olive green with black accessories. The young couple will reside on the groom's farm in Wildmere district.

Wedding of Wide Interest to the Clandonald District

ROTH—CUSACK

A wedding of interest to Clandonald and district took place on Tuesday, the 18th at St. Mary's R.C. church, Handel, Sask., when Miss Philomena Cusack, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Cusack of Clandonald became the bride of Mr. John Roth, son of Mrs. M. Roth and the late Mr. Bernard Roth of Handel, at a nuptial High Mass celebrated by Rev. Fr. [illegible]

The bride who was given in marriage by her brother-in-law looked charming in a gown of traditional white satin brocaded in a lily-of-the-valley design made with a bouffant net skirt. Her long veil cascaded from a pleated sweetheart halo headdress and she carried a bouquet of pink and white roses.

The bride's only attendant was her sister Mrs. P. Tener as matron of honor attired in a midsummer sky blue gown with a white shaped veil caught in place by a halo of white gardenias. She carried a bouquet of pink and white glads.

The groom's younger brother [illegible] Roth acted as best man.

During the signing of the register the choir sang "On this Day" and Ave Maria.

After the ceremony a wedding dinner and reception was held at the home of Mrs. P. Tener for forty guests. A dance in honor of the young couple was held in the evening at Kolbold hall. After a short honeymoon they will reside at Handel.

Vermilion Lodge, Order of the Royal Purple Instituted

AUXILIARY TO B.P.O. ELKS VERMILION LODGE No. 121

Another step forward in the progress of Elkdom in Vermilion was taken Tuesday evening when Honored Royal Lady Lillian S. Whittaker, supreme district deputy, of Edmonton, duly instituted the Vermilion Lodge No. 106, Order of the Royal Purple. Mrs. Whittaker was ably assisted in her duties by Mrs. Lillian Hutchings, Past Honored Royal Lady, also of Edmonton.

The ceremony took place in the Elks hall and was witnessed by a large attendance of the B.P.O.E. Distinguished visitors were also present from Lloydminster, including Grand Chaplain Bro. C. Conway, who is also District Deputy G.E.R. of District No. 10; Bro. Bob Noyes, Exalted Ruler of Lloydminster Elks, Bro. J. Kinney, Mrs. Noyes, Honored Royal Lady, and Mrs. Kinney, Honored Loyal Lady, both of Lloydminster O.O.R.P.

Following the institution of [illegible] Royal Purple, Lady Whittaker and Lady Hutchings duly installed the officers of the newly formed Vermilion Lodge, which election took place at a meeting of the ladies held Monday afternoon. They are as follows:

Honored Royal Lady — Lady F. Park
Associate Royal Lady — Lady M. Logan

Outer Guard — Lady R. Walsenberger
3-year Trustee—Lady A. Doddech
2-year Trustee—Lady G. Simonsen

At the conclusion of the installation Lady Whittaker expressed her deep gratification for the splendid reception she and her assistant had received, also for the great interest shown by the Vermilion ladies, there being 73 names on the original application for the granting of a charter. She wished the newly formed lodge every success for the future.

Brothers Conway and Noyes, and Mrs. Noyes added their felicitations and best wishes to Vermilion Lodge O.O.R.P.

At 10.15 p.m. the local Elks took over and proceeded to serve the ladies and guests a sumptuous buffet luncheon with roast turkey being the main item on the menu. Some 75 ladies and brother Elks were seated at the tables. Bro. Don Logan, Exalted Ruler of Vermilion Lodge, acted as chairman and called on several of those present for a few remarks during the supper. Bro. C. W. Robinson, first Exalted Ruler of the Vermilion Elks Lodge, spoke a few words of congratulations to the ladies as well as to the refreshment committee, as did Ladies Whittaker and Hutchings.

Honored Lady Fay Park expressed the deep thanks and appreciation of the ladies of Royal Purple for the work of instituting officers and to Vermilion Elks Lodge for the magnificent hospitality accorded them. V.S.A. Reunion and Fall Dance A Huge Success

ALUMNI ATTEND FROM MANY POINTS

The Fall Dance and Alumni Reunion held at the Vermilion school of agriculture last Friday was one of the most successful events of its kind ever held there.

A large crowd of local people were in attendance, and an unusually large number of former students were back to visit their old school. It was estimated that over a hundred ex-students were present, some of them from many years back. One group chartered a 32-passenger bus in Edmonton and were unable to accommodate all those who wished to join the party. Other northern Alberta points represented were Daysland, Camrose, Innisfree, Vegreville, Mannville, Islay, Kitscoty, Tofield, Lloydminster, Provost, Bon Accord, Chauvin and St. Paul. Alumni Class '23 and of more recent years could be found mingling in the gay crowd. Mr. Cameron Hay was master of ceremonies assisted by Robert Shopland, president of the Students Union.

A gathering of about 450 filled the school gymnasium to capacity. The music supplied by the Vermilion Orioles, the setting of the new stage, and the freshly decorated gym, all added to the enjoyment of the evening.

A feature of the event especially dear to Alumni members came with the singing of the traditional college song, the second verse of which was sung by members of former years.

The Alumni executive were very pleased with the response to the gathering shown by former students and were appreciative of comments and support from the general public.

Turbine Engines Here For New Power Plant

Two large turbine engines, which will be used in the new 5000 K.W. power plant to be built here next year by Canadian Utilities, have arrived in Vermilion. These have been unloaded and a large shed erected over them for the winter. One and maybe two more of the turbines will follow.

Our problems are great because we aren't.

BOARD OF TRADE REJECTS MARGARINE

The Vermilion Board of Trade went on record Wednesday as being definitely opposed to the manufacture of margarine in Canada. The discussion and debate was engendered by the following resolution forwarded by the Canadian Chamber of Commerce and asking that a decision on the motion be reached by its member boards. "Does your Board or Chamber favor the adoption by the Canadian Chamber of Commerce of the following resolution? Resolved that the Canadian Chamber of Commerce exert its full influence with the Federal authorities to authorize and permit the manufacture and sale of margarine in Canada?"

The debate was rather a one-sided affair and most of the points were built around the harm that would be done to the dairy industry of Canada if the manufacture and sale of margarine were allowed. It was also pointed out that Canada was at present trying to conserve her balance of trade and lower a line by cutting down imports. Many of the ingredients of margarine would have to be imported.

In addition to a large number of speakers, Robert Fair M.P. for Battle River was present and took a large part in the discussion. George M[illegible] well, president of the board, was in the chair and there were 34 members present.

HORSE BARN

A committee has been investigating ways and means of providing some sort of shelter for horses in the town and reported that the town council were quite prepared to co-operate to some extent. It was pointed out in this connection that the town act does not allow for any such activities as operating or the building of horse barns. Another difficulty was that there were not any town-owned lots anywhere near the business area [illegible]. The committee is to continue its work and bring in its final report next Wednesday. This matter also produced some interesting debate.

Visitors included Mr. Chas. Walker of Port Alberni, B.C. introduced by his son [illegible] Mr. Tom [illegible] of [illegible] at present [illegible] the V.S.A. teaching staff introduced by [illegible] Percy [illegible] of [illegible] Bomber rugby [illegible] R[illegible] Carroll. Bill [illegible] now a [illegible] [illegible] town, was given a hearty welcome to board of trade meetings.

The Board of Trade meetings are becoming more and more interesting with every meeting and any [illegible] business man not attending is really missing something which he would probably enjoy greatly.

Local Officials Attend Alberta Air Cadet Conference, Calgary

The following interesting report of the Air Cadet conference held at Calgary last week is given by Fl. Walker commanding officer No. 97 squadron Vermilion.

"I had the pleasure of attending a well organized and representative conference of Air Cadet Commanding Officers, chairmen of provincial committees and personnel of the RCAF at the Palliser hotel in Calgary Nov. 7. Mr. W. Sutherland, one of our best instructors, and a member of our local committee was with me as also was FS Harold Bushell.

The principal speakers were Air Marshall R. Leckie, Air Vice-Marshal Guthrie of NWAC, Alec Ross, Vice President of the Air Cadet League of Canada and George Ross, the managing director of the Air Cadet League of Canada.

The work of the Air Cadets in the past was reviewed by Alec Ross and for the year 1948 he mentioned that their objectives were a continuation of exchange trips with Great Britain. Medical examinations for Cadets, Wing Formation with a band for former centres, a revised scale of pay for officers and instructors and a simplified system of [illegible] the summer camp was also to be continued with more [illegible] for the Cadets. Flying scholarships will also be available for selected cadets who are adequately schooled in ground subjects. To make this successful he stressed the importance of the local [illegible] and asked that they fulfil their [illegible].

Both AM Leckie and AVM Guthrie stressed the importance of the movement as a youth training organization and emphasized that it is [illegible] civilian and under the control of a civilian body, the RCAF supplying material and summer training. So much importance is given to the Canadian organization that an Empire conference is to be held in Ottawa (next Feb.) at which representatives from all parts of the British Empire and from the U.S. will study the problems. It is recognized that Canada has the best system in the Air Cadet movement and these other countries are coming here to get ideas.

Looking over last year [illegible] it is found that there are [illegible] cadets in Alberta and [illegible] of these 513 went to summer camp and 21 selected. 7 went on exchange trip [illegible] England among them Harold Bushell. All cadets are fully insured while on parade and as mentioned [illegible] steps are being taken to give them complete medical attention.

[illegible] scholarships to Royal Roads [illegible] combined Naval and Air force [illegible] at Victoria are available to air cadets. Five of these scholarships [illegible] by western cadets last year. This year too, a free issue of clothing is to be made to Air Cadets.

At the end of the Conference a delicious banquet was served in the [illegible] parlor of the Palliser, at the conclusion of which the three exchange cadets gave a resume of their trip to England. Harold Bushell acquitted himself very creditably and Vermilion has [illegible] reason to be proud of the prestige that he has brought to Vermilion by being selected as one of the exchange cadets.

Farm Accident Takes Life of Emil Grob

Emil Grob, aged 53 years, died at the Vermilion hospital Saturday Nov. 15th from injuries received on Thursday when he was crushed between a loaded hay rack and a heavy plank gate.

The accident occurred on the farm of R. W. Hart four miles west of Vermilion for whom Mr. Grob worked. He was a fully experienced farm hand and had arrived at the Hart farm only the Saturday before his fatal accident. He came from Owlseye, Alberta, and was accompanied by Mrs. Grob.

The accident happened shortly after 1 o'clock. Following the noon hour Mr. Grob preceded Mr. Hart to the barn and hooked up his team to a rack loaded with hay which stood beside a heavy plank gate. He apparently began to climb up on the load from the side of the rack next to the gate. The horses started and crushed the unfortunate man between the rack and the gate. Mr. Hart coming to the farm yard found the injured man less than five minutes after the accident. Medical aid and the ambulance were summoned immediately and the victim removed to the hospital. He suffered broken ribs and internal injuries.

The deceased was born in Switzerland. He came to Canada in 1927 and spent most of his time in Saskatchewan and district. He is survived by his widow who was with him at the Hart farm, a son, Emil of Montreal, and two daughters, Mrs. Roman Zellweger at Owlseye, and Mrs. Grant Burgess, Guernsey, Sask.

The body was taken to Guernsey where funeral services and interment will take place this Thursday afternoon.

Interesting Crop Figures for 1947

VERMILION DISTRICT RANKS WELL TO THE TOP

The figures are:

Churches Help T.B. Seal Sale

Christmas Seal Sunday this year will be on Nov. 23, it was announced today by C. R. Lichoy, general secretary of the Alberta Tuberculosis Association. Special programs will be used in many churches and leaders of all denominations have endorsed the appeal for funds.

Archbishop J. H. MacDonald and Bishop Carroll have spoken for the Catholic clergy in Alberta in a joint statement promising the support of members of their faith.

The Anglican communion in Alberta, represented by Bishop H. R. Ragg, Bishop W. F. Barfoot and Bishop A. H. Sovereign, will be urged to back the Christmas Seal appeal in all [illegible] ways.

Brig. Rufus Raymer divisional commander of the Salvation Army, has added his voice to those of other religious leaders.

The Rev. J. R. Geeson, president of Alberta Conference, United church of Canada and the Rev. R. J. Burton, M.B.E., moderator of Alberta Presbytery, the Presbyterian Church in Canada have endorsed the [illegible] sale on behalf of members of these churches.

The Rev. Dr. W. C. Smalley president of the Baptist Union, commends the association for its work, and endorses the campaign.

Mr. Lichoy said, "No season of the year could be more appropriate for such an appeal. It is a significant and hopeful sign that there are no denominational lines in a campaign of mercy like the Christmas Seal sale."

MORRISON NEWS

The Morrison club met at the home of Mrs. Edmund McFadyen and presented Mrs. McClelland with a handsome travelling case. Mrs. McClelland and her husband are leaving soon for a visit to their old home in Ireland. The presentation came as a complete surprise to the recipient. A very enjoyable social time was spent.

Quite a number of young people from Morrison attended the dance at the college Friday evening last. A truly grand time is reported.

Hauling feed and butchering seem to be the chief activities of the people hereabouts at the present time.

The Morrison club is going to hold a Xmas entertainment at the school but plans as yet have not been completed.

Mrs. Gould spent last week end in Vermilion with her daughter Joan who was ill with the flu.

Miss Lila Bawnar has returned home after a lengthy visit in Edmonton. Lila is planning to spend part of the winter at the coast and intends to take her little nephew Kenny Gunn with her. Baby is making fine progress at the hospital.

NEVER LEAVE LITTLE ONES ALONE —

A four-year-old boy, locked in his little southern Alberta home with his year-old brother for "safekeeping" was burned to death within 5 minutes. The baby was seriously injured.

The mother, it appears, had left the children alone to visit a neighbor for just a few minutes. What happened is not known, except the house was destroyed in a sudden "flash" fire and the children were trapped.

This mother will never forgive herself. But how many other mothers will do about the same thing and risk their children's lives? Of course, all parents are sure, when they leave their little ones alone, that nothing will happen to their children. But there is only one safe rule: Never leave young children alone.

NEW CAR RACE IS ON

Packard has a commanding lead with 17 new styled body types in production. Hudson is second with the biggest change in 20 years in the business.

But overshadowing the field is the distinct possibility of a late dark horse entry by Ford. If this materializes, Ford might take the 1948 or 1949 sweepstakes.

A survey by The Financial Post showed a general feeling that the new post-war car promised by Henry Ford II might be a reality early next year. This was endorsed by Ford recently. He said there would be little change in the 1948 models and indicated the radically new car would go into production some time in 1948.

The others of the "Big Three" are reported to be planning identification changes only. This has already been announced by General Motors. Chrysler hasn't said anything officially but the feeling in the trade is that there won't be any major changes in the Chrysler models.

Christmas Seals have helped to reduce tuberculosis from the first cause of death in 1912 to 7th in 1947.

COYOTES PUT SHEEP BREEDERS OUT OF BUSINESS IN B.C.

WISTARIA, B.C. — Predatory animals, particularly coyotes are reported to be driving sheep breeders out of business in this north central B.C. area.

Charles Priest lost 27 ewes and lambs.

Coyotes are reported so numerous that even the wild rabbits are disappearing.

In addition to predations by coyotes, farmers are losing sheep to bears. Seven black bears were killed between Wistaria and Nadina.

Growth Of Industry In West Seen

Factory Production Outstrips Agriculture In Four Western Provinces

(By Jack Aveson, Canadian Press)

Western Canadians believe they may have found a magic word which will provide a safeguard against recurrence of conditions which brought general bankruptcy slightly more than a decade ago.

The word is "industrialization".

Rapid Growth

The growth of industry is seen in every western city where smokestacks and factories have multiplied rapidly. And the visual evidence is backed up by statistics.

In 1929 the gross value of western manufactured products totalled $592,018,000. In 1933, when depression was sweeping the world, the gross had slipped to $290,767,000, but by 1944—the last year for which complete statistics are available—it had climbed to $1,436,767,000.

There are good indications that this rise was not just a wartime development, for 1946 figures are estimated to have held up to the 1944 top.

Industrial production has thus passed agricultural income, which in itself jumped from $568,952,000 in 1936—in 1940 it was down to $378,819,000—to $964,123,000 in 1946.

These figures include the three Prairie provinces and British Columbia, the last always a greater manufacturing centre than the Prairies.

The details by provinces, using available figures or estimates: Industry: Manitoba (1946) $320,000,000, Saskatchewan (1944) $175,349,000, Alberta (1946) $235,000,000, British Columbia, $655,941,000.

Farms (all 1945): Manitoba, $153,401,000, Saskatchewan $414,845,000; Alberta, $299,126,000, British Columbia, $73,704,000.

Argument in Favor

Western industrial exponents quote the old saw about not keeping all your eggs in one basket and argue as follows:

(1) Diversity of products gives a better chance of retaining at least some markets, even in depression, while a solely agricultural community is hit disastrously by a fall in farm prices.

(2) The West has an abundance of raw materials and should, so far as economically sound, manufacture at home rather than ship out and buy back in finished form at extra cost.

(3) The West can support a much larger population, but to do so must have industries to supply employment.

(4) Modern transportation has brought world markets closer.

(5) Water power, natural gas, fuel and other basic items on the Prairies and in British Columbia could be stepped up to provide motive power for expansion.

Drawbacks include long distances to markets (modern transportation notwithstanding), lack of skilled artisans (training and selected immigration are held to be the key to this problem) and shortages of electrical power in some places, notably Saskatchewan.

Federal policies concerning immigration, tariffs and transportation, especially freight rates, are important factors.

AUCKLAND, N.Z.—"Don't ask me why I'm leaving, don't ask me why," the soloist sang at a dance at the central fire station here. He finished the first line when the reason became clear—the siren wailed and the firemen disappeared in a flash.

"NERVES" She Called It

Losing interest—losing friends—she never went out any more—always tired. "Nerves", she thought—but it was her kidneys—the filters of her blood—that needed attention. She used Dodd's Kidney Pills at once. The improved action of her kidneys helped to clear away blood impurities and excess acids. Fatigue, backache, headache, lack of energy disappeared. Dodd's Kidney Pills contain essential oils and medicinal ingredients that act directly upon the kidneys—and help restore their normal action. 146

Imports From U.S. Sets All-Time Record

OTTAWA—Canadian imports from the United States for the first nine months of the current calendar year exceed in value the imports for any 12-month period in the commercial history of the two countries, the Department of Trade and Commerce reported in its publication Foreign Trade.

The northward flow of goods for the nine months ended last September had a value of $1,446,200,000 compared with $1,447,200,000 for the 1944 calendar year, when imports from the United States reached an all-time record that has now been shattered.

The figure declined during 1945, as the war was drawn to a close, but rose again in 1946 to a peace time peak for the 12 months of $1,405,300.

CANADA GOOSE TOOK REVENGE ON HORSE

One record of "revenge" by a Canada goose came to light in a Toronto hospital when an Orangeville, Ont., farmer was admitted for treatment after X-rays had disclosed a fractured collarbone. He had been knocked from his horse in a deliberate attack by a goose. This bird and mate were semi-domesticated on the farm—and the same horse drinking at a pond, had stepped on the nest some days before.

MANAGED TO GET TWO DOGS DISINHERITED

In Los Angeles, Sherman Bainbridge, writer and editor, managed to break the will of his brother Carleton Bainbridge, attorney, who left a $30,000 estate to two dogs. Witnesses testified that the lawyer had said his dogs enjoyed bedtime stories and the movies, and that they spoke English. On Oct. 16, the jury ruled that Carleton Bainbridge had been of unsound mind.

LETTERS FROM CHINA BY AIR MAIL COSTS $30,500

TRAIL, B.C.—It costs money to air mail letters from China. A Trail man recently received an air mail letter bearing $30,500 in stamps.

Harry Wong, Trail Chinese received the letter from relatives in Canton. The dollars were, of course, Chinese. The letter bore six stamps valued at $5,000 and one for $500. There were so many stamps they continued round to the reverse side of the envelope.

MARSHALL SETS WAR CASUALTIES AT 15,000,000

CHICAGO — The total number of Second World War casualties exceeded 15,000,000 for all combatants, State Secretary Marshall, former United States Army Chief of Staff, said in an article he contributed to "Ten Eventful Years", published by the Encyclopedia Britannica.

Allied military personnel dead totalled 10,650,000 and the axis powers' losses totalled 4,650,000 Marshall wrote.

MR. KING'S SUCCESSOR—

It can be taken for granted that the line of succession to the Liberal leadership in Canada is now established, reports The Financial Post.

The line of succession became clear with Rt. Hon. Louis St. Laurent's decision to remain in politics.

Prime Minister King can certainly be expected to remain in office during the present session of Parliament and indeed until he has passed the Walpole landmark on which he has set his heart and hopes.

But it now seems reasonably certain that there will be a Liberal convention next summer or early fall at which time Mr. King will relinquish the leadership in favor of his Secretary of State for External Affairs.

Shortly after the war concluded, and because it was of timely importance, we — your General Motors dealers—issued a statement outlining our business policy.

In the interests of our customers and the community as a whole, we have decided that this policy should now be reaffirmed.

It will be our continuing purpose, therefore, in all our dealings with you to adhere to the following principles:

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY—

The Technical Point

By Richard Hewitt Carr

AFTER the waiting, Greg should have been glad to see her. The reflection looked at him from the mirror behind the soda fountain. She was toying with a brownish-looking drink. He carefully noted the light hair that was neither blonde nor brown, the clear features and the creamy skin. To Greg, these were important details, they fitted the description, but the very fact left him uneasy. He must be sure.

He sipped his own drink and waited. Presently, the girl [illegible] up her check and moved behind Greg and the other people sitting at the counter. She paid at the cashier's desk and [illegible] through the street door.

Timing his movements so that he could be a few paces away and still observe, Greg followed.

There was something elusive, exciting about her. Perhaps it was the assurance in the click of her heels, the swing of her walk, or the way the sun played golden-havoc in her hair. So this girl had to be Laura King!

[illegible] glanced back, and he wasn't sure she hadn't noticed him.

About five minutes and two city blocks later, her feet hesitated, moved from the flow of people and turned into the station. Because it was less crowded here, Greg carefully lengthened the distance that separated him from her. But he kept his eyes on her, through the street floor and on, up the long steps that led to the trains.

The waiting room held no interest for her. She didn't stop until she reached the train platform.

She had, Greg reasoned, also timed herself perfectly, for a train gate was opening and she seemed now to be searching for a familiar face among the passengers filtering past. She fingered the long strap on her bag nervously.

He waited until the last person had come through the gate. He was certain now and the time had come.

He sauntered over. "Hello, Miss King." His voice was easy, almost gentle. He nodded toward the silver shield in his half-opened hand.

"Yes," she said, "I understand."

The train announcer's voice broke blatantly from the amplifiers. A truck wagging a load of baggage swished by them. A gate clanged shut.

Greg had always liked his job. Unpleasant at times? Certainly, it was. But Greg, if you don't do your work, there would only be someone else. Someone must always do the unpleasant tasks.

"Over here," he said, taking her arm. "We can sit down."

At one end of the waiting-room was a restaurant. They sat down at a table.

"We have been looking for you quite a while, Miss King." His tone made the words a question.

"I was looking for someone, too," she said quietly.

"Who?"

"The one man who might help me."

He liked the level steadiness in her eyes.

"And when you found him—he let you down." Greg was startled at the final sound of his own words.

"He said he would be on that train. He promised to meet me—"

"How could anyone help you?" he asked bluntly. "The bank says the entries were made by Laura King."

Her face was taut, tense. She leaned forward. "When an executive like Rand Cleverson tells you to do something, you do it. They began to audit the books and he wasn't there and - well I just kept staring at his name on that brass-lettered block on his desk."

She looked down at her hands folded before her on the table. The knuckles were white. "The longer I stared, the more I realised how he had planned, thought it through. I finally reached him by telephone and he said he would talk to me." She looked out toward the train platform. "Silly, of course. I should have known he wouldn't be on that train."

"We might find him," Greg suggested.

"There's no proof. It's his word against mine. The law, everyone, will say I'm guilty!"

For a moment Greg watched her closely. Then he got up slowly, deliberately. "Well, Miss King, I guess that's all."

They walked out, into the waiting-room and he could feel her hand, light, touching his coatsleeve. They moved on, followed down the long steps to the street-level. They were passing the open telephone booths and Greg stopped.

"Wait," he said. "I want to call Headquarters."

He dialed. The voice came. It was saying plenty. When it finished, Greg slipped the receiver back on the hook. He turned quickly to the girl.

"They brought Cleverson in to ask him a few routine questions and—" Greg paused, pushed his hat up at a rakish angle. "Cleverson confessed, [illegible]"

Laura King trembled visibly and turned pale. Her eye fluttered and she swayed, half-fainted, into his arms.

"There, there," consoled Greg. "Why, I won't even have to take you in." He swallowed hard. "The warrant for you was dropped two hours ago, when Cleverson cracked. Technically, I shouldn't have picked you up. I—"

"But I'm glad," she looked up with a weak smile. "I'm glad that you did. Technically, of course."

Saskatchewan Well Represented

Saskatchewan is well represented among the first group of Flight Cadets to pass through No. 1 Manning Depot, R.C.A.F. Station, Toronto, to start their careers as aircrew officers in the Regular Air Force. There are 31 in the course, and seven are from Saskatchewan, shown above in a decompression chamber which tests aircrew trainees for altitude endurance. They are (left to right) Flight Cadets G. K. Murray, Aneroid; J. W. Mawson, Dundurn; A. A. Ekman, Vonda; C. D. Wilken, Redvers; A. B. Robertson, Wapella; W. D. Houston, Tisdale; and A. J. R. Laurie, Arcola. Of the seven shown above, all but Murray, a direct entrant, enlisted as airmen last year in the peacetime force and were selected from the ranks to qualify for aircrew duties and commissions. Several had previously served in the Air Force, having won flying brevets shortly before the end of hostilities.

MAY SEND UP TO 20 LBS. SUGAR AS GIFTS TO U.K.

OTTAWA. — Now that sugar rationing is off, Canadians will be able to send shipments up to 20 pounds to their friends in the United Kingdom merely by filling out the proper customs form.

One catch is that the British recipient will have to pay approximately 80 cents duty on a 20-pound bag, but a shipment would go a long way to bringing his 10-ounce-a-week ration up to Canadian ration-free [illegible].

This ration now gives the average Briton about 32½ pounds of sugar a year, compared with the former Canadian ration of about 45 pounds for the year. The British ration is exclusive of preserves and "sweets".

Toronto Royal Fair Attracting Dominion-Wide Interest This Year

Exhibits from the province of Manitoba have earned the distinction of being first to arrive at the Royal Agricultural Winter Fair. Ten carloads of livestock and a carload of wagon equipment arrived from Manitoba on Nov. 10th. The exhibits left Winnipeg Saturday Nov. 8 and arrived a day before they were expected. Entries from Saskatchewan were unloaded in second place.

Western Canada has displayed keen interest in the 1947 Winter Fair. The Alberta government is assuming one-quarter of the freight charges to the Fair on car lots of livestock approved by the Livestock Board. The province is also furnishing feed for the livestock and absorbing miscellaneous costs of assembling and shipping. Seed and grain exhibitors are encouraged by the Alberta government's offer of $25 to first prize winners in the seed show, and $50 to champions in the grain show. Saskatchewan and British Columbia also offered incentives to potential prize winners.

Youth in agriculture is being stressed in this year's program for the Winter Fair and the response from all sections of the country has exceeded all expectations. Alberta is sending no less than 5 teams, two of them girls, to the national junior judging contests. They are entered in the beef, dairy, grain, food and clothing judging.

Large groups of 'teen-aged agriculturists will represent northern, western and eastern Ontario. Plans are nearing completion for the 'teen-agers to arrive in Toronto in an impressive motor cavalcade. In co-operation with Winter Fair officials, the deputy minister of education has notified the schools within a 100-mile radius of Toronto that pupils attending the Fair in supervised groups may do so without affecting their attendance records.

On Wednesday Nov. 19 directors of the Winter Fair will select a junior executive committee from the youth representatives and turn the show over to them for the day.

Why Cars Cost More

In announcing price increases on all Ford products, D. B. Greig, president, listed these increases in The Financial Post to explain the 59% jump in the retail price of cars and trucks since 1939.

Wages up 57%, taxes 31%; carburetor costs 50% more, generator 55%; front fender 103%; roof panel 88%; rear floor mat 94%; windshield glass 59%, piston rings 126%; headlamps 46%; cushion springs 80; ignition wiring harness 167%; oil pump 125%, starting motor 75%; chassis 187%; motor and transmission assembly 50%; body assembly 60%.

Among the primary materials, copper has almost doubled; zinc is up by 150%; lead by 236%. Coal, which Ford uses at the rate of 250 tons a day, costs four times as much at the minehead. Lumber used in shipping cases costs twice as much.

THE ANSWER IS THERE

(Being the Popular Report for 1947 of the British and Foreign Bible Society, by the Rev. John A. Patten, M.C., M.A.)

The author propounds the question regarding the Riddle of Life. He asks if the answer to our present chaotic condition lies in Science or one of the isms current in our day.

Mr. Patten shows that the Word of God has become the universal Book, breaking down racial prejudice and national antagonism. In God's plan lies the answer.

Throughout these pages the shortage of Bibles is constantly emphasized. Many in war zones were so deeply indebted to the Bible for their inspiration that others are now clamoring for a copy of The Book. The Chinese, despite inflation prices, are eager to purchase Bibles. The Germans have requested 20 million Bibles and New Testaments.

Although the movements toward literacy have enthused many Christians, the author shows that these have fallen far short of complete success. The work of translation, halted by war, is again moving forward and many countries with a low literacy figure have been encouraged by the visit of Dr. Frank Laubach.

One may sum up this very vital report by saying that it is the story of "Relighting the Lamps of Truth" in many lands that have been dark through a period of years.

Radiograms

Another Stan Ross Contribution

What's behind the Lassiter land deal? This question is on the lips of Albertans since the day Stan Ross, CJCA commentator shook the issue out in the open.

Some months ago the provincial government launched upon a 100,000 acre land development project for veterans. C. B. Lassiter was contracted to clear the land, the job to be financed by the government on a seven year crop share repayment basis.

The other day Lassiter was informed that the deal is cancelled and that all moneys owing the government must be repaid in a few days. This was all hush-hush till the Stan Ross newsroom got on it. Stan got the lowdown and posed a few awkward questions relative to the recent developments. He wondered where Lassiter stood—where the 25 veterans who had begun establishing themselves stood—what was behind it all.

In a few hours there was excitement on all sides. The public talked about it on street corners and over coffee. The Canadian Legion called emergency meetings in behalf of the vets concerned. The government called special cabinet meetings in an effort to satisfy the public's curiosity.

And Stan Ross was hounded on all sides by news reporters and other interested groups anxious to get in on the know-how. It was another scoop for Stan Ross and another exemplification of CJCA's slogan—"First with the News."

WOODVALE

The snow seems to have come to stay despite optimistic predictions of weather prophets that it would disappear and we would have a lovely spell of at least three weeks. Several fields of greenfeed are still not stooked in this neighborhood but all the grain has been threshed or combined.

Our belated but very best wishes go to Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Clark Jr. (nee Mary Watson) for a long and happily married life. The week before their wedding a shower was held for the bride-to-be where she received many useful and beautiful gifts from her friends in the Hindville district.

Dan Ford has gone to the Elson district where he has taken a trucking job for a coal mine. Mrs. Ford with the two children, Phyllis and Allan are staying for the time being with her parents Mr. and Mrs. Glidden south of Vermilion. We hope they all will be back in the spring again, as all these empty farmhouses make our countryside look so deserted and we miss the friendly neighbors.

A Red Cross meeting was held on Nov. 5th at the home of Mrs. Van Wageningen with 6 members stitching away like mad to finish a quilt before dark. Herman Wolters brought four ladies and Mrs. Ford bravely came on the stoneboat pulled by the tractor. As usual a very pleasant afternoon passed only too quickly. Next meeting is scheduled for Jan. 7 at Mrs. Lysons, if that will be convenient for the hostess.

Adam Dusek is back again to work this winter for Mr. E. G. Green who has been laid up with a bad attack of rheumatism these past weeks. We're glad to have Adam's happy face and cheerful personality back in the district. We hope that Mr. Green will soon be better and up and around again.

Roger Watt now has 2 trucks hauling gravel. One is driven by Cliff Crocker. Maybe we'll see some gravel on our newly-built road soon.

The Islay boys have been doing their bit for Remembrance day selling poppies in the district, reaching quite a number of people who otherwise would have missed the chance to help this worthy cause.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Dixon moved a few weeks ago from the Roger Watt place to their own home west of the Woodvale school.

Several carloads of young folks of the district attended the dance at the V.S.A. on Nov. 14th and report a very good time.

The buzz or hum that bothered our telephone line greatly has been reduced to a murmur by removing a tree leaning on a wire. Maybe someone will find the reason for the remaining noise and the poor connection with central before winter comes in earnest with its blocked roads.

There will be no Woodvale news for awhile as the writer is going for a few weeks holiday to Edmonton and Calgary.

Wildmere Winks

The community joins with the writer in extending our sympathy to the Darwick family in their recent bereavement in the loss of a loving husband and father. Each week it seems that one of our pioneers pass on to their well earned rest. Their passing leaves behind fond memories of their kind deeds and friendship that will never die.

Our local boys held a curling meeting at the home of Adam Smith on Tuesday Nov. 11th with a fair attendance. Work on the rink has commenced in the way of ice making so it will not be long until the boys are curling once more. Just now most of the rocks are in Edmonton to be sharpened.

Mrs. Dan Ford and children of Tolland are spending a few days visiting her sister-in-law Mrs Frank Gibson and family of Bonnwood before she moves to town for the winter. Dan has gone to work near Westlock for the winter.

A nice crowd attended Schneider's sale on Tuesday Nov 11 despite it being the coldest day of the season. Bidding was fairly brisk and most of the articles sold very well. Lots of hot coffee and lunch was on hand at all times. On Wednesday evening prior to the sale their many friends and neighbors met at Optimist school and presented Mr and Mrs. Schneider with a lovely set of silverware.

Albert Carlson Sr. is now back on his farm in Wildmere and John Christensen of Triangle is wintering a bunch of cattle on his farm. John bought the feed sold at the Herman Lybon sale.

Mr Wm Garnett Jr now has a phone in. He bought out Everett Isley's share and his number is 2211 [illegible] for a local call one long and one short ring.

Adam Smith who has been ill in the hospital these past two weeks with pneumonia returned to his home in Wildmere on Saturday afternoon. He is still quite weak but has not lost his cheery smile and we all wish him a speedy recovery to health.

A good crowd attended the wedding dance of Mr and Mrs. Wm. Clark Jr held at Triangle on Friday night. A small shower was held after supper for the young couple. Mr and Mrs. Everett Isley furnished the music. Jimmie was M.C. Everyone wishes the happy couple the very best for the years to come.

Mrs Charlie Morand visited Thursday and Friday in Triangle with some of her former neighbors, Mrs. F. Reed and family and others.

Charivaris were the fashion on Sunday night. Bonnwood and Thornecliffe folks called on Mr and Mrs John King and a few Wildmere folk along with Tolland, Hindville and Triangle shook the house of Mr and Mrs Wm. Clark Jr. We did not hear how many called at the King house but we hear there were 3a at the Clarks.

Mr and Mrs Cliff Cruthers and Mrs Morand visited at the home of Mr and Mrs Albert Smith of Bonnwood on Sunday.

Don't forget the W.W.I. dance and bazaar to be held at our school on Friday Nov 28th.

ALLANDALE

Cards and dance at the Allandale school on Friday Nov 21st. Proceeds in aid of Xmas tree fund. Everybody welcome. 16-6

Christmas Seals have helped to reduce tuberculosis from the first cause of death in 1902 to 7th in 1947.

Jolly Masquerade Held at Rye School

On Wednesday evening, Oct. 29th, Rye school was the scene of a jolly Hallowe'en masquerade party. The school was very amusingly decorated with witches, goblins, pumpkins and black cats. The original costumes were enjoyed by the children and also by those parents who were present. The evening was spent very pleasantly playing games, bobbing for apples and singing songs. Especially enjoyed by all were songs by Michael Mulgrew and Donald MacGillivray. Later the children sat down to a decorated table for lunch. Much credit is due to our supervisor Miss Helen Panhow for the success of the party.

A very successful dance was held at Rye school on Oct. 31st, the occasion being a farewell party for Mr and Mrs Roderick MacDonald and family who are leaving for B.C. Their many friends in the Kinelwyn, Dewberry and surrounding districts gathered to wish them good luck in their new life. Excellent music was provided by Mr. Horace and Willie Oxin. Songs by Madeline, Tommy and Audrey Bensmiller, Kathleen Glottisky, George Butz and Marvin Burns were much enjoyed by all. A gift of cash from those present was given to Mr and Mrs MacDonald who thanked their friends in short speeches. Jack Grant Jr. and Roderick Burns also spoke briefly. All are very sorry to see Rody and Alice and their children leave the district. Rody was a hard-working trustee on the Rye school board for many years. Everyone wishes them all the best and we hope they won't forget old friends in the Kinelwyn district.

Chatsworth Chatter

Winter certainly has a good grip on the country now. Lakes are frozen deep and, in spite of the snowfall, skating is being enjoyed without the doubtful pleasure of shovelling rinks.

Harry Good had the misfortune to lose five young horses recently when they strayed to Steve Jacobs and had access to an open granary of wheat and barley.

Mr. Neil East of Victoria, B.C., who has been visiting relatives and friends at Vermilion and Dewberry, left on his return trip on Monday, the 10th.

A baby daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Ben Fish on Wednesday, Nov. 12th.

The Chatsworth Country club meets at Mrs. [illegible] this Thursday Nov. 20th.

Mr. and Mrs. [illegible] and family returned on Saturday from a [illegible] trip to Edson.

Impressive Remembrance Day Parade at Elk Point

SPONSORED BY THE CANADIAN LEGION

An impressive Remembrance Day parade was held at Elk Point when members of the Elk Point branch of the Canadian Legion, B.E.S.L., sponsored a parade, which they headed. They were followed by members of various youth organizations of the town—St. John Ambulance and Nursing Cadet Divisions; 1st Elk Point group Boy Scouts, Girl Guides, Wolf Cubs and Brownies. About 30 Legionnaires and 65 girls and boys paraded. Following the parade, the "Last Post" was sounded by Mr. J. Younghans during the lowering of the Union Jack. The assembled group stood respectfully silent for two minutes in respect of those killed in the last two wars. Following "Reveille" the groups assembled in the new Legion hall to hear addresses from the religious leaders of the community. In addressing the group, and about 100 guests assembled, Rev. Father Morin, O.M.I., stressed the bond of unity between the countries of Europe, where the Canadian soldiers had fought, and Canada. He paid tribute to the European families who were caring for the graves of Canadians who had fallen in the battles of Europe. Mr. Harry Day, in the absence of Rev. Blackmore of the United church, expressed the view that all Canadians should never forget their debt to those who so gallently had given up their lives that our future might be free. Comrade President E. Arnott of the Canadian Legion gave thanks to those who helped make the parade a success.

Those in charge of the parade were Officer in Charge—Mr. E. Arnott, Legionnaire; Cadet Supt.—J. Jacobson, No. 214 Ambulance Cadets; Cadet Lady Supt.—Mrs. N. B. Sumpton, No. 258 Nursing Cadets; Scoutmaster J.V. Jacobson, Boy Scouts; Capt. Mrs. N B. Sumpton, Girl Guides; Acting Cubmaster Vern Raham, Wolf Cubs; Acting Tawny Owl, Marion Johnson, Brownies.

Motorists Warned of Poisonous Fumes

Fresh warning of the dread danger of carbon monoxide has been given by officials of the Alberta Motor Association.

This is the time of year when motorists have to be especially on guard against these poisonous fumes, which in past years have taken a dreadful toll of lives. Many motorists still drive old model car having not been able in some cases to obtain newer models as soon as desired. Motor club officials say that care to avoid carbon monoxide should be taken particularly in the case of those operating old machines.

Many fatalities have occurred while starting up the car in the garage when preparing to leave for work in the morning. Make certain that one or more of the car windows [illegible] and that there is sufficient space for fresh air to circulate.

Carbon monoxide works stealthily but in a deadly way [illegible] against it. During the winter [illegible] see that plenty of fresh air [illegible] ing to ward off the poisonous fume.

The World of Wheat

By [illegible]
Director, Research Department, Searle Grain Company Ltd.

$3.00 WHEAT ARRIVES

About a year ago a prominent person in western Canada made the prediction that if the Wheat Futures Market were to be opened speculators would soon push the price of wheat up to $3 which [illegible] bring about "$3 wheat."

Well not only $3 wheat but [illegible] wheat has arrived not pushed up by speculators, but deliberately set by the Canadian government itself and being the price which the Canadian government, through its agent the Wheat Board, sets for Canadian wheat to all countries in the world except Great Britain. Are we then bound to have "$3 wheat" as the [illegible] gentleman forecasted a year ago? And if it does come must we blame the Government itself [illegible] the price $3 and over?

The truth is, of course, that no one has any control over the price of wheat at any time. Price is only a reflection of the factors of supply and demand throughout the world [illegible] themselves are [illegible]. Whenever therefore conditions [illegible] high prices, those high prices [illegible] come. All a [illegible] it is doing [illegible] how to permit [illegible] the high price.

An Encouraging Report

THERE ARE A NUMBER OF WAYS in which the prosperity of a country may be measured. The amounts of bank deposits, the volume of foreign and domestic trade and the values of industrial stocks are all indicat ons of the financial status of a nation. Another index of prosperity is employment. No country with a large percentage of the population out of work can be considered to be flourishing industrially or financially, while, on the other hand a high rate of employment is looked upon as an indication of prosperity. During the depression which followed the financial crash of 1929 unemployment in this country reached alarming proportions. The situation was gradually improving when the war came and thousands of men and women were absorbed into the armed services and into war industries.

* * * * *

Figures Show An Increase

At that time when record levels of employment were reached there was some anxiety as to what would happen after the war when those who were demobilized from the services together with workers from war plants would again be requiring regular employment. Although the wartime demand for labor has not continued there has been no serious unemployment situation, [illegible] recent figures issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics show that at the end of August this year, more than 5,000,000 Canadians were employed. This marked an increase of approximately 187,000 over the number employed in May of this year and 130,000 more than the total of employed workers in August 1946. The number of unemployed at the time of the survey amounted to 73,000 and this figure was reported to be close to the lowest level of unemployment reached during the war years.

* * * * *

Survey Covers Large Section

The survey which was commenced on the 19th of August of this year was part of the eighth quarterly review of labor conditions in Canada. The report was based on observations made on a scientifically chosen cross section of approximately one per cent of the civilian population living outside of institutions. Some 25,000 households, selected at random in all parts of the country were interviewed to secure material for the report, which is a most encouraging one. Seasonal drops in the demand for labor in agriculture and other industries where the need for workers is not always the same are to be expected but it appears that in spite of factors such as that Canada is now maintaining a high level of employment and this is one very significant indication of the measure of prosperity which we are enjoying at this time.

Wheat King Had Worthwhile Hobby

Announcement of the retirement of Dr. Seager Wheeler, O.B.E., who plans to move from his farm at Rosthern, Sask., to Victoria, recalls, says the Lethbridge Herald, that not only did he receive the crown of world wheat king five times but that he developed two new varieties of wheat, Red Bobs and Kitchener, which won for him on two occasions.

Dr. Wheeler was a good farmer but he had a hobby and that was trying to be a better farmer. To this end he set aside some of his acres for research in plant breeding.

Speaking of birds, it is correct to say a stand of plovers, a watch of nightingales, a bevy of quails and a cast of hawks.

Alberta Oil Output May Supply Canada

For First Time In Five Years Oil Production On The Increase

(By Lorne Bruce, C.P.)

EDMONTON — For the first time in five years Alberta's oil production is on the increase and with the still-undefined Leduc sector of the Edmonton field already a major producing area oilmen now are considering the possibility of this province turning out enough crude to meet all Canada's requirements.

At present Canada produces only about 10 per cent. of its total crude oil needs and a sharp upward spurt in production would be needed to satisfy domestic demands but an official Alberta government report says that in the immediate future the advance in production should become "spectacular."

Chief cause for optimism is the finding of oil at a well 2½ miles west of the western boundary of the Leduc field. This practically doubled the field's size and it now contains a proven area equal to that of Turner Valley, one of North America's major fields.

Production from the 32-year-old Turner Valley field has been declining steadily since it reached a peak of 10,000,000 barrels in 1942 but the decrease has been stopped and an upward rise started by boosted production from the Leduc, Lloydminster and Princess fields.

The provincial government's oil statistician predicts that "1948 is expected to witness the most outstanding advance in production."

Already Leduc, just southwest of Edmonton's city limits has 15 oil wells all major producers of high quality oil and three others now drilling have shown promise of coming into production within a short time.

FARM TOWN BOOMS AFTER GAS, POTASH, OIL DEPOSITS FOUND

UNITY, Sask.—Ever since a natural gas drilling crew accidentally uncovered vast potential gas, oil, potash and salt deposits near this farm town, 106 miles west of Saskatoon, Unity has been a bit bewildered.

Although a flurry of activity increased the population by more than 50 per cent. in two years and is bringing industrialization to the district, civic officials say Unity will not become a boom town.

Resources Minister Phelps of Saskatchewan called the potash discovery—vital to agriculture and chemical industries—Canada's most important mineral find in 20 years. Mining engineers here say the Unity deposits stretch for at least 15 miles and are the world's thickest.

Below the potash, engineers say, lies a huge salt layer more than 400 feet thick. Above are gas-bearing sands which they are sure contain oil in commercial, but undetermined, quantities.

Home Must Be Readied for Winter

With more materials now becoming available, homeowners will soon have an opportunity of remodeling and modernizing their homes—for many of them a long-awaited project they have been thinking about through all the war years.

With winter months just ahead the first essential is a sound roof. A weathertight roof safeguards the home against wet, cold weather, is a prime protector of plaster, wallpaper, home furnishings and the major bulwark against critical fuel shortage. The United church, Mannville, was the scene of an attractive double-ring wedding recently when Rheta Bernice, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eber McFadden, of Mannville, became the bride of Mr. Malcolm Alexander Smith, elder son of Mr. and Mrs. David Smith also of Mannville. Rev. K.C. McLeod performed the ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a gown of white sheer with a softly draped lace peplum terminating in a deep point at the back. The lace bodice was styled with a sweetheart neckline and long, tapering sleeves and a handmade lace headdress held her full length veil in place. Her only jewelry was an opal pendant which had been worn by her mother on her wedding day 30 years ago. She carried a bouquet of deep red carnations.

Mrs. George Watling attended her sister as matron of honor, wearing a powder blue taffeta gown with an all-over pattern of cut velvet. Miss Jean Smith, the groom's sister, was bridesmaid. She was gowned in a pastel pink sheer. Each carried a bouquet of baby chrysanthemums and asters in blending tones.

Best man was Mr. John Smith, brother of the groom and the ushers were Mr. Eddie McFadden and Mr. Murray Rose. The wedding music was played by Master Robin Stuart and during the signing of the register Mrs. K. C. McLeod sang, "O Perfect Love."

Princess Elizabeth Has Devoted Life To Service Of The Empire

(By The Canadian Press)

THE pink tassels yawned, burbled and blew bubbles—and seconds later, as dawn whipped across London's Mayfair on April 21, 1926, elderly Sir William Joynson-Hicks, then Britain's home secretary, greeted His Royal Highness, the Duke of York, and said: "It's a girl!" Then Sir William bustled off to the Lord Mayor to herald the news that former Lady Elizabeth Angela Marguerite Bowes-Lyon had borne "a babe, female, of true royal blood" who in a few short years would have all Britain at her [illegible] knees and in two decades would be the central figure in a romance of world interest.

PRINCESS ELIZABETH

Observers of 21 years ago were quick to sense that Princess Elizabeth Alexandra Mary would never be far from the shadow of a crown. But few who stood around the font in the private chapel of Buckingham Palace five weeks later could guess how close [illegible].

Historic Times

Her kicking legs warmed by an antique robe which had covered the infant limbs of a queen and three kings, Elizabeth roared her disapproval without realizing her christening came when among other events of the times, the British Commonwealth of Nations arrived at maturity.

[illegible] decision of Britain and the Dominions to define themselves as autonomous communities within the Empire, equal in status, in no way subordinate one to another in any aspect of their domestic or external affairs though united by a common allegiance to the crown.

She graduated from the nursery and entered the schoolroom when the Statute of Westminster in 1931 set solemn seal to that concept. While a gangling teen-ager self-consciously opening the door to public life, she watched the Commonwealth link arms in defence of that concept. At 21, a young woman in love and marriage a few weeks away, she called on her generation to walk [illegible] in perpetuating our union.

Flipping back the newspapers of that time when a proud, sparkling-eyed mother softly told her first child to "hush" as the ancient ceremony of the Church of England came to a climax, today's reader would discover that:

Gentle King George V of the neatly iron-grey beard, who was to dote on this baby, was enjoying vigorous health.

Bachelor Edward VIII, then Prince of Wales, and Elizabeth's "Uncle David" was still unmarried. Even if he clung to bachelorhood, her own parents—the quiet, shy Duke and Duchess of York—might have a son who would sit on the throne.

But the news columns of the period would also tell how the shadow of the regal headdress became each hour more substance than fancy after Elizabeth's 11th birthday in 1937. "Grandpapa England" as Elizabeth fondly called her grandfather, was dead, the new king had abdicated to retire with "the woman I love" and her father was gravely weighing the responsibilities of the crown he wore.

A shy, serious and retiring child, Elizabeth could not comprehend fully the implications of those muddled weeks.

Perhaps that's why she could grin and wave on Coronation Day as she passed her tired parents, her stiff-backed granny and their retinue on [illegible] Buckingham Palace balcony.

Free Life

Far from that balcony, far from the cheering throngs who cried "Hello Lilibet", loomed the future, the great, inescapable responsibility of being the sixth British queen since the Norman Conquest.

[illegible] was father to guide and inspire, a young king who defeated by sheer will power his nervous speech defect. Behind him, calm, steady, was her grandmother Queen Mary, to whom regal precedence, duty and devotion to a proud dynasty were all-important.

"The Bambino" as Queen Mary called Elizabeth, would have a good life. There would be cracking good family parties, outdoor trips, pets, riding and friendly companionship.

From the first, the King and Queen were determined to have their daughter's life as free from clammy traditionalism as possible.

She had to be a natural child. Affectations could develop later, but in childhood, let there be nonsense, let there be nursery junkets, and let there be a little girl with a silly giggle who would slyly collect worms and butterfly cocoons while wondering what it might be like to feed a pet turtle.

And, of course, the result at 21, was a sturdy, vibrant young woman with a lot of her father's serious mien, but not at all lacking in her mother's sense of humor.

Although slow in appearing, her smile was broad and unaffected when it lit her face.

Loved Smoky London

And it lit her face often in early life. Perhaps the atmosphere of the [illegible] grandparents, the Earl and Countess of Strathmore, where she was born, had a lot to do with it. In any event, the London residence of one of Scotland's most ancient families will long remain a nostalgic memory for Elizabeth.

Later she and her parents moved to 145 Piccadilly, a bigger home with [illegible] and a large garden where she could play and wave and chortle at the sightseers who insisted on peering through the iron railing.

Then, there were long trips to the country — Glamis in the Scottish Highland, where younger sister Margaret was born in 1930. But Smoky London always remained a place of adventure from the day "Grandpa" first sent a coach to take her driving through Kensington Gardens and Queen Mary ordered an urban excursion.

While Canadian lungs roared cheers to her parents in the spring of 1939, Elizabeth and Margaret went adventuring. They had their first ride in a London underground. It was much more restful fun than sitting sedately in a limousine with a royal flag flapping and whipping about its radiator.

Forbidden to have an automobile of her own, Elizabeth chalked up a personal triumph during the war by driving a military car through rush-hour traffic, twice around Piccadilly Circus. That marked her graduation from the Auxiliary Territorial Service school where she had been a member since her 18th birthday.

Knew The People

As is the case today, she knew London's teeming peoples, the rich and the poor. On V-E day 1945, she and Margaret stood with their parents on Buckingham Palace balcony, waving to the adulating crowds below.

This time, however, the tumult and rejoicing were too much. While the city went wild, she slipped away into the throng to get her first street's-eye view of her tired but happy King and Queen.

Peace had again come to her island and with it new demands, tedious tasks and sober responsibilities for an heiress called "princess" by right of royal birth, but lacking a title in peerage and rated a commoner by law.

Princess Elizabeth then seemed to blossom.

Early in 1947 she and Margaret Rose accompanied the King and Queen to South Africa. It was her first visit outside the British Isles, and her first intimate contact with that Commonwealth whose destiny she would dedicate herself to at legal maturity.

Pledge Of Faith

At Cape Town she observed her 21st birthday with this pledge of faith to her Empire:

"Will you, the youth of the British family of nations, let me speak on my birthday as your representative?

"Now that we are coming to manhood and womanhood, it is surely a great joy to all to think that we shall be able to take some of the burden off the shoulders of our elders who have fought and worked and suffered to protect our childhood.

"We must not be daunted by the anxieties and hardships that the war has left behind for every nation of our Commonwealth...

"There is a motto which has been borne by many of my ancestors'—a noble motto—'I serve.' Those words were an inspiration to many bygone heirs to the throne when they made their knightly dedication as they came to manhood.

I cannot do quite as they did, but through the inventions of science I can do what was not possible for any of them. I can make my solemn act of dedication with a whole Empire listening.

"I declare all my life shall be devoted to your service and the service of our great imperial family to which we all belong, but I shall not have the strength to carry out this resolution alone, unless you join in it with me. God help me to make good my vow, and God bless all of you who are willing to share it."

Canadian Stamp To Honor Princess

OTTAWA — The Royal wedding between Princess Elizabeth and Lieut. Philip Mountbatten will be officially marked in Canada by a special stamp issue, The Ottawa Journal learned from a reliable source. Denomination, date of issue, or details of color or design could not be learned, but collectors of special issues will be interested in learning that craftsmen are now at work on a special design for the forthcoming issue.

PLANTED CROSSES OF REMEMBRANCE

LONDON: Princess Elizabeth and Lieut. Philip Mountbatten planted crosses of remembrance recently in the fog-shrouded field of remembrance at St. Margaret's, Westminster Abbey.

A portion of the old churchyard is allotted to Empire services and one cross there was inscribed "In memory of the fallen of Canada".

Lieut. Philip Mountbatten Won Citizenship In Service On Seas

(By The Canadian Press)

TALL, blonde Lieut. Philip Mountbatten, R.N., came to the British people as a gay and jolly Lancelot in a distraught, unromantic period of their history. The times and his background enlisted to make him an anachronism of sorts. Born a prince of the Hellenes, although having no Greek blood and little or no agility with the classic tongue, he helped defend Britain in war, and in peace charmingly won the hand of her future queen—and a Commonwealth's affection for a man's man.

LIEUT. PHILIP MOUNTBATTEN

But the great-great-grandson of Victoria, and grandson of Prince William of Denmark who accepted Athens' sceptre and throne in 1863 as George I, could not long remain an anachronism to Britons.

They soon discovered early—in 1946—that of all the eligible young blades in post-war Britain, it was Philip who most intrigued Princess Elizabeth.

From then on, the handsome naval lieutenant, who combined "pusser" King's Rules-and-Admiralty-Instructions bearing with strikingly effective ability to wear crisp-cut bara-thea uniforms, became the dashing hero of bobby-soxers, spinsters and [illegible].

Bold-face type and newspage stories began to tell of Philip. He who had wooed and won tomorrow's queen became public domain, as far as his previous life was concerned.

Born At Corfu

Admirers, admirers and critics read:

He was born at Corfu, largest island in the Ionian Sea, June 10, 1921. His father was the late Prince Andrew of Greece, and his mother was Princess Alice, eldest daughter of Prince Louis of Battenberg, a German who acquired British citizenship in 1868 and was First Sea Lord at the start of the First World War. Philip's maternal grandfather changed his name to the less Germanic "Mountbatten" in 1917.

The father of Elizabeth's consort died in Monte Carlo in 1944. His sisters are Margarita, who married Prince Gottfried of Hohenlohe-Langenburg; Theodora, who married the Margrave of Baden; Cecilia, the Grand Duchess of Hesse bei Rhein, who was killed with her husband and their two sons in a plane crash in 1937; and Sophie, wife of Prince Christopher of Hesse.

One year before Philip's birth—1920—his cousin, King Alexander, died from the bite of a monkey. Two years later, his uncle, King Constantine, abdicated and fled Greece to Palermo, Italy, where he died in 1923.

Then Philip and his sisters became exiles. With his family, the child prince sailed to England where he spent most of his childhood with relatives—particularly "Uncle Dickie", now Admiral Earl Louis Mountbatten, governor-general of the Dominion of India.

The shy, pale-faced boy soon began sprouting legs and out-grew his knickers. Private tutors could be fine, but Philip was old and big enough to go to school where he could have intimate association with lads his age. Besides, that shyness hardly became a Mountbatten.

So Theodora, one of his four beautiful sisters, decided she should enter him in Salem School, Baden, Germany. There, at the age of 12, he gave vigorous display of a happy characteristic which in later years would capture the fancy of most Britons but cause anguish to steeped-in-Nelson-tradition Royal Navy instructors. He found he could chuckle and chortle at tradition, solemnities and crass silliness. He could be a saucy—with a purpose.

For example, at Salem the Nazi "Kinder" inculcation became the order of the day. However, when the Nazi salute was called for, Philip became convulsed—with laughter. No warning of dire discipline could halt his merry guffaws.

Schooled in Scotland

Nervous relatives removed him from Salem during a mid-summer term and packed him off to Gordonstoun public school, Elgin, Scotland.

Said Sister Theodora:

"We thought it better for him and also for us, if he returned to England—right away."

Gordonstoun, quite unlike most "old school tie" institutions, presented itself a grim, bleak picture to adolescent, fun-loving Philip.

Accommodated in an ancient Scot castle on the cliff-girt coast of Morayshire, its spartan outline and curricula—did not present anything in common with Eton or Harrow, as the prince learned.

For within its walls, youthful Britons—aristocrats all—painfully memorized the adage: "There ain't no such animal" insofar as class distinctions were concerned. Philip soon caught on to the school's central scheme of democratized association and how to live like a he-man.

The life-companion of Elizabeth became adept at bouncing out of bed, taking long hikes, clambering hills and tossing javelins before breakfast.

As at all schools of its type, stories are told. Dick Clelland, barber at nearby Elgin town, for example is said to have become impatient with students who messed up his shop window with mucky fingers.

He rushed out one day, waved a razor, and delivered the toe of his boot to the back quarters of a lad waiting for a tram. Prince Philip so it is said, turned and asked:

"Pray, sir, for what do I receive this kick?"

His query might have pleased and bewildered some of his teachers. It seemed so unlike the precipitous student they knew.

Confidential Report

However, in the summer of 1947 a former teacher at Gordonstoun wrote:

"During 1939 the Royal Navy asked for a confidential report of his (Philip's) character.

"I often reflect since his engagement to Princess Elizabeth was announced... of what we said: 'Philip is a born leader, but he will need the exacting demands of a great service to do justice to himself.'"

His report, said the teacher, carried such a qualifying tail-piece because, although Philip always had the greatest sense of service of all boys in the school, he had to be vitally concerned with the importance of what he was doing before he could do it well."

Perhaps it is a throwback to the Danish seafaring blood in him, but even at the Scottish school Philip made no bones about his love of the sea.

In that love he was to find a fulcrum in which he could test his teacher's appraisal.

At 15 he belonged to a band of juvenile, but sincere seamen. He came to know knots, basic seamanship and could take out a cutter, command it and bring it safely to dock—without an instructor.

His seamanship senior could report:

"He is one of the most efficient members of the seamanship guild of [illegible] to take charge of a cutter under oars or sail. He is thoroughly trustworthy and not afraid of dirty, arduous work."

Visit To Greece

But buoyant, happy-go-lucky or not, Philip knew the impact of tragedy and the demand of mature decision. Two events profoundly marked his boyhood. One was the death of his sister, the Grand Duchess of Hesse in an airplane accident. The other was restoration of King George of Greece in 1935. At that time the late crown prince was unwed, Philip, sixth in line to the Greek throne, was invited to spend his holidays at the Athens royal palace. Intrigued, he went, stayed briefly, then returned to England to try entry exams for the navy to meet the "exacting demands needed" to prove him leader of men.

But by far more important, he came back, as he said, because "England is my home".

Accepted, Philip entered the Naval College, Dartmouth, as a cadet—to win instant popularity with fellow juniors in Nelson's traditions. Some of his salty fellows thought they were being kidded when told he was a Greek prince. He looked so much like a gangling, even-tempered Briton.

He won their respects as a good mateiot, gaining four firsts and one second to nudge him into the sub-lieutenant class. While there he won the King's Dirk as the best cadet on his team.

Then came his maturing going to sea in actual war atmosphere. In 1940 he was serving in battleships and cruisers. By 1942, at the age of 21, he became first lieutenant of a destroyer responsible for his sea-warrior mates' discipline. Three years later he participated in action through the Mediterranean and on the Pacific. He was a witness of Japan's surrender in Tokyo Bay.

After restless peace settled over the world, Philip was chosen an instructor in one of the Royal Navy's stiffest training courses.

Made British Citizen

Lieut. Philip Mountbatten's most prized award, aside from the Atlantic, Africa, Burma and Italy Stars, and Victory and Coronation medals, is his British citizenship, won by fighting for it on the seas of the world.

In 1947, like any other defender-stranger of Britain he applied and was granted [illegible] ing the title of prince that was his hereditary right.

As "Mr." or plain Lieut. Mountbatten, he seized upon the opportunity of squiring Princess Elizabeth to West End theatres, private parties, and night clubs.

Rumors flew, gossips bit their lips. Then on July 10, 1947 Princess Elizabeth radiant and with eyes sparkling as brightly as the three-diamond engagement ring on her third finger, listened to her father's message to all the peoples of the Commonwealth:

"It is with the greatest pleasure that the King and Queen announce the betrothal of their dearly beloved daughter Princess Elizabeth to Lieut. Philip Mountbatten, R.N., son of the late Prince Andrew of Greece and Princess Andrew (Princess Alice of Battenberg) to which union the King has gladly given his consent."

Mr. Mountbatten had won three things: The man's way to leadership, as his Scottish teachers insisted, citizenship for service freely given in defence of an adopted land, the right to love, share and necessarily fulfil the honored place of consort to the sixth Queen of Britain since the Norman conquest.

Royal Ruling — No Wedding Bells For Margaret Yet

LONDON: Buckingham Palace sources said that King George would not permit Princess Margaret, 17, to be engaged or married for at least three years.

The sources were commenting on what they described as the "inevitable" reports linking Margaret's name with those of eligible Europeans. Such rumors have arisen intermittently since she was 14.

Home For Royal Couple Believed to Be Estate 25 Miles From London

Official home of Princess Elizabeth and Lieut. Mountbatten is reported to be Windlesham Moor. This is front view of house on the 50-acre estate in Surrey, one of the most beautiful in Britain, 25 miles from London.

Mansion and grounds of Windlesham Moor, seen from the air, include a nine-hole golf course. Because of the huge gifts of food, the austerity wedding of the princess may benefit the people of Britain more than the bride.

The use of gloves was probably known to cave dwellers in pre-historic times.

As a result of the enumeration of citizens eligible to vote at municipal elections, the town voters' list now numbers 1043 names. The enumeration this fall was taken by Alba Hildreth.

Of the 1043 names, 729 are on the list by virtue of owning property or by paying business tax. The remaining 314 are qualified to vote by right of residence, having resided here permanently since April 1st, 1947.

Brimacombe Blk. Undergoes Extensive Improvements

BUILDING MODERNIZED — CORNER GREATLY BRIGHTENED

A construction project watched with considerable interest is being carried out at the big Brimacombe block. With the installation of 23 feet of plate glass windows on the west side and the changing to a corner entrance, the results of a mammoth amount of work are beginning to show.

The owners M. G. Brimacombe and son Fred, have had a full basement excavated, size 50 by 60 feet with a clear [illegible] feet below the new steel beams. Steel girders were installed throughout, some of these running through to the second story. Cement footings and full cement foundation have been put in by Contractor Chas. Lipsey and company. Some of the cement work is not yet completed but the big basement is being closed in and work can be carried on regardless of weather. To really appreciate the [illegible] one has to see it. The whole of the building has been straightened up and raised with jacks.

Tentative plans call for the installation of additional plate glass windows along the entire north side of the building, and the possible use of black vitrolite to finish the exterior from the entrance and below the windows. This would result in an even more bright and attractive corner.

The Brimacombe block was built back in 1907 but all the beams and sills were found to be in good condition.

The reconstruction and renovation of the Brimacombe block is a major building project in town this year being exceeded only by the $15,000 Canadian Legion Memorial hall.

New Key Cutter At Rowe and Spencer's

A new and intricate little machine which will prove a boon to that portion of the populace who lose their car keys has been installed at Rowe and Spencer's garage. It is a key cutting machine which arrived there this week after having been on order for over two years. With this machine door and ignition keys for all popular makes of cars can be cut. This will prove a very welcome service indeed and the best idea is to have an extra set of keys made before you lose the originals.

Fire Destroys Cleland Home

The farm home with entire contents of Mrs. Cleland and three sons of the Auburndale district were completely destroyed by fire last Friday evening. Mrs. Cleland and the boys were away at the time visiting their daughter and sister Mrs. Ian Richardson and family at Flatbush, Alberta. The disheartening news was phoned to them Saturday by Miss Isabel Cleland of Vermilion. The three boys returned immediately leaving Mrs. Cleland with her daughter.

Neighbors were looking after the stock and the house while the Clelands were away. Everything had been alright at the house less than hour before the fire was noticed. All hope of salvage was gone long before anyone reached the scene of the fire and cause of the outbreak is unknown.

Eminent Canadian Violinist Will Play In Vermilion

TUESDAY EVENING, DECEMBER 9

On Tuesday evening, Dec. 9th, the choir of First United church, Vermilion, will present in the church a concert by Egon Grapentin distinguished violinist, of Edmonton.

This concert it is hoped will be the first of a series, similar to the Celebrity Series which are offered in the cities, and which would fill a long-felt want. This concert tour of Mr. Grapentin which will include his visit to Vermilion is under the management of Prairie Concerts, an organization which has plans and connections with other artists for several more concerts if the success of this venture justifies further offerings.

To be successful, however, this concert will require the whole-hearted support of the general public of Vermilion and district, and the sponsors are hopeful that such support will be forthcoming. Remember the date and the place and get your tickets early.

SALE OF SEALS IS GOING WELL

Christmas Seal returns are coming in very well, according to R. A. Roscoe, the president of the Alberta Tuberculosis Association.

Mr. Roscoe said: $125,000 is a large sum to collect in Alberta, considering that we leave it entirely with the individual as to whether he gives and how much. Last year nearly 65,000 individual contributions were received. This year we hope that at least 75,000 Albertans will be sufficiently interested in our work to help us."

Mr. Roscoe pointed out that to date nearly 400,000 residents of Alberta had received a free chest X-ray by the Christmas Seal Mobile Chest X-ray units, and that the annual Seal sale provided a large part of the funds needed for their continued operation.

Last year in Canada nearly 6,000 persons died of tuberculosis. Mr. Roscoe said and a great many of those deaths were unnecessary. Christmas Seal funds are used mainly in the effort to prevent future unnecessary deaths.

The World of Wheat

By H. G. L. STRANGE

Director Research Department Searle Grain Company, Ltd.

The "Crop Testing Plan" has now compiled the analysis of a large number of growing samples of barley, each sample representing a field of which farmers thought in every instance was true-to-type malting barley that would command the malting premium. The results are as follows: 70.5% of the samples classified as A, that is to say they were true-to-type of a good variety, 17.6% classified as B meaning that these crops were beginning to be mixed with inferior varieties, and 11.9% graded C and Mixtures, which means that they did not consist of any one variety, but were mixtures of varieties which certainly could not grade as malting barley. 2.0% of the samples were found to be of an entirely different variety than the farmers thought they were growing. O.A.C. was the most popular variety with 12% of all the samples, Plush second with 21%; Olli 3rd with 14%; Hannchen 4th with 8% and Montcalm with 3.2%.

The results show a considerable improvement over last year when only 58% graded A. There is however still room for betterment. The use of Registered seed is the only method that will ensure a crop true-to-variety.

Canada produces about 250 million pounds of animal and vegetable oils and fats, but consumption is just about twice that figure.

Production of flax in Canada this year is estimated at 11,500,000 bushels. There is no problem whatsoever in marketing that output and a crop of equal size would be welcome in 1948.

Christmas Seals

By

E. L. Ross, M.D., Medical Director Sanatorium Board Of Manitoba

Last year more than 5,700 Canadians died of tuberculosis, 324 of these in Manitoba. We are in the habit of congratulating ourselves on the fact that tuberculosis has been pushed from first to seventh place as a cause of death. While we may be thankful for this progress we should not forget that tuberculosis is the greatest cause of death between the ages of 15 and 45 years and with life expectation being roughly 65 years, you can see how wasteful this disease is in life years and these the most productive years. Such facts are regrettable since tuberculosis is curable and can be prevented and curbed to such an extent that it could become a very negligible factor in the health picture.

How can this be done, you ask? It can be done by finding all the cases of tuberculosis that exist at present and providing treatment for them until they are no longer infectious.

Tuberculosis is a secretive disease. It does not blazon forth its symptoms until the mischief is well advanced. Cough, expectoration, tiredness and loss of weight, when due to tuberculosis, usually means disease that is more or less advanced. This results in the necessity for prolonged treatment and increases the probability that the germ has been passed on to someone else in the family or community. The only means of wiping out tuberculosis is prevention, which is based on the discovery of sources of infection at an early stage. This can be done by the "all-seeing eye" of the x-ray.

Within the last few years the development of x-ray equipment that takes pictures on miniature films has made it possible technically and financially to x-ray the whole population. Besides travelling clinics the Sanatorium Board now operates continuously two large bus-like mobile x-ray units each x-raying a thousand people daily. In Manitoba this year these units have x-rayed 250,000 people. During the past four years over 500,000 people have had chest x-rays and a first survey of the province outside of Winnipeg has been completed. One in 2,000 x-rayed is found to have tuberculosis that requires treatment or advice. In January an organized and comprehensive survey of the City of Winnipeg will begin and continue until every part of the city is covered.

This intensive and greatly increased program to discover new cases early and seek out unknown sources of infection is financed by the Christmas Seal Sale and the fund-raising activities of the Associated Canadian Travellers. It is essential that this service be continuous if our goal of tuberculosis eradication is to be accomplished. To realize this an even greater public response through the Christmas Seal Sale is needed. Money thus raised is used entirely for prevention; not one cent is spent for hospitalization. Sanatorium treatment is free to the individual requiring it and financed by taxation.

I appeal to all citizens to support generously the Sale of Christmas Seals being conducted for the support of travelling clinics and mass x-ray surveys. Every case of tuberculosis discovered early prevents the infecting of an untold number of others.

You can be a partner in the campaign against tuberculosis by buying Christmas Seals. 2000

Postman Jailed For Courtship

LONDON — A lovesick postman has been jailed for trying to court the unwilling daughter of a peer.

Short, bespectacled Richard Harrison, 24, who delivered mail to the home of Lord and Lady Norton of Fillongley, Warwickshire, fell in love with Hon. Mary Norton, 25, and took to walking into his Lordship's hall unannounced to ask her to go for walks.

A week ago Lord Norton obtained a court order banning him from the mansion for life. Accused of violating the order, Harrison was ordered committed for contempt of court. When the court asked what excuse he had, he replied:

Health LEAGUE of CANADA presents TOPICS of VITAL INTEREST

Study Strain

Warning against eye-strain comes from Ottawa. Health authorities urge the provision of sufficient light for close work and study. They point out that continuous eye-strain can undermine general health. Artificial light, they say, is bad for the eyes only when it is too weak or creates glare.

If one is suffering from hot or tired eyes, blurred vision or dull headaches, it is suggested that the family doctor be asked to check the eyes to ensure that sight is right. It is pointed out that modern developments in the field of ocular science afford easy relief for eye troubles.

Baby Teeth

Irregular teeth, which ruin the appearance, literally have their roots in childhood. They may be due to neglect of baby teeth, to such child habits as thumb-sucking or lip-biting, or to mouth breathing due to adenoids or other nasal obstruction, to retaining baby teeth longer than normal or to neglect and loss of the first molar on the second set.

Dental officials at Ottawa advise regular twice yearly examinations to enable dentists to off-set such conditions.

Squinting

No matter how young a child is, he should be given special medical attention if he squints. Medical authorities declare that squinting which develops in infancy should be investigated and treated. If left too long, the vision in the squinting eye may be lost through disuse. This, the experts say, is very likely to occur if nothing is done before the age of five or six years is reached.

A rubber sponge is a wonderful help: it's excellent for brushing suede shoes, and makes a grand "brush" for removing dust and lint from hats and clothing. Excellent for corduroy and velveteen.

DIES TRYING TO SAVE CHILDREN—Trapped in her burning home at Rivieres-aux-Renards, tiny Gaspe fishing village, Mrs. Patricia Roy died with five of her six step-children. It is believed Mrs. Roy passed up the chance to jump from a second-storey window in an effort to save the children. Only member of household to escape was Marie Mathurin, the maid, who leaped to the ground.

SCIENTIST PLANNING ROCKET-BORNE "SKY CAMERAS"

AZUSA, Calif. Rocket-borne telescopes photographing the heavens at heights of 300 to 600 miles— and artificial meteors from the earth bombarding the moon and Jupiter—were envisioned by a California Institute of Technology scientist.

"Rocket-borne telescopes are destined to relegate earth-tied telescopes no matter how big and powerful, such as the 200-inch, to a secondary role, said Dr. Fritz Zwicky, professor of astrophysics. The institute's 200-inch mirror is to be installed soon on Mt. Palomar.

He said he is now laying plans for research on large primary rockets such as the V-2 which would carry secondary rockets. The latter, he hopes, would reach 300-600-mile heights, bearing scientific equipment. The telescope and camera-bearing rockets would return to earth for examination by scientists.

A square foot of tempered glass can withstand a pressure of 60 pounds to the square inch.

Luck Of One Prairie Farmer

One Canadian prairie farmer who stood to profit mightily by the lifting of ceilings on barley was Oscar Bruce Lassiter of Lethbridge. He had taken a big gamble in June when, having lost one stand of barley to cutworms, he decided to reseed 2,300 acres to the same grain. It was touch and go all through September and early October; a killing frost would have blighted his crop. But the unseasonably warm weather compensated for the late Summer drought which had delayed the ripening of the "90-day" grain.

Recently, with combines taking an average of 25 bushels from every acre, "O.B." Lassiter was collecting a jackpot. The first seeding had cost about $6,000, the second $7,000 and the harvesting would run to $10,000. With barley bringing growers around $1 a bushel (delivered at a nearby elevator), Lassiter was pretty sure of a $40,000 gross profit. Under the ceiling it would have been only $25,000. Said a neighbor, in admiration and envy: "He sure took a chance." —Time Magazine.

ALMOST AN ENGLISHMAN

Napoleon narrowly missed being born an Englishman. England and France had been wrangling about the possession of Corsica for several years, and it was just a few months before Napoleon's birth, in 1769, that the controversy was settled in favor of France.

CANADA'S POTATO CROP DOWN

Ample Domestic Supply, But No Export Surplus

OTTAWA. — Canada's potato crop this year will be sufficient only for domestic needs, leaving no surplus for export to Britain, where a shortage has necessitated potato rationing, agriculture department officials said.

One official placed this year's Canadian crop at 72,000,000 bushels, down nine or 10 per cent. from 1946, and said increased exports would only have the effect of boosting domestic prices as well as creating shortages here.

In any event he added the amount of potatoes Canada might send to Britain in an emergency would make no difference to rationing in that country. The newly instituted potato ration has been pegged at three pounds weekly for each consumer.

Last year a quantity of Prince Edward Island potatoes was sold to Britain but the British Government was not anxious to take more at that time because of stringent British regulations governing the importation of fruits and vegetables.

This year's Maritime crop is mainly seed potatoes, leaving little in the way of a surplus for export. The seed crop however is adequate and there will be a substantial export of Maritime seed potatoes to many parts of the world.

WILDLIFE ODDITIES

Wildlife oddities of unusual interest are brought to the attention of the Wildlife service of the Department of Mines and Resources in Ottawa from time to time. A bull frog in Quebec that swallowed two ducklings, a hen in Nova Scotia that returned after three weeks' absence, accompanied by a flock of nine sturdy wild ducks, a deer in Prince Albert National Park that chews tobacco, a bear with four playful cubs that meets trains at Jasper and many others.

The latest report is from Waterton Lakes National Park in Alberta, where a cutthroat trout taken by an angler from North Lineham Lake during September, contained, among other items of food, a dusky mountain shrew. The shrew is a tiny, furry gray mammal 4½ inches long, that lives chiefly on insects. The trout weighed 1 lb. 6 oz. was 14½ inches long and was approximately 7 years old. It was quite fat and in excellent condition.

This is the first record, so far as is known, of a cutthroat trout in a national park having been found to feed on a mammal, since the usual diet of this species consists of insects, other invertebrates and small fish. It is also the first record in a national park of a shrew of this species occurring in an altitude of 7100 feet above sea level. The shrew is a terrestrial species, and how it became available to the trout is not known.

Lineham Lake, one of a series of five lakes in a beautiful bowl-shaped hanging valley, is one of the less accessible lakes in Waterton Lakes National Park. As in other lakes in the park, trout of excellent quality are present in considerable numbers, to the delight of visiting anglers.

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY—

THE PURSUED

By JOHN H. CRAVE

THE street was poorly lighted, but here and there a streetlamp sparkled in the rain. Halfway to the party at the Randolph's, Marie Wilkins saw the headlights of a car coming slowly behind her. I wonder, she asked herself, could that be Ed? Perhaps he had relented and had come after her, was trying to find her on the way. He [illegible] going to be kind about her storming out of the house after their foolish quarrel at the dinner-table. She [illegible] have hurt him deeply when she had said "All right, Ed, if you won't come to the Randolph's with me tonight, I'll go to the party myself, even if I have to walk!" She had flashed her hazel eyes at him. "And Jim Fowler will see that I get home—if I do come back."

Now she felt remorseful, walking alone through the rain, utterly miserable.

Her good coat seemed now quite as bedraggled as her hair. Her nose, she thought, needed a touch of powder, and her eyes smarted with tears that the scattered raindrops only partly concealed.

Marie looked back over her shoulder, and saw to her disappointment that she did not recognize the car. It seemed to be following her, so she began to walk more quickly.

Alarming thoughts raced through her head as she remembered how the papers were full of stories [illegible] purse-snatching and worse. It had been anger rather than courage that had led her out on such a night. She clutched her purse and drew her coat more tightly around her. She still had a long block to go.

Even when she quickened her pace the car kept along beside her, its headlights shining like a torch on the wet pavement. Suddenly she was furious that Ed had allowed [illegible] to go out in the rain, when taxis were just not to be had. She had always been impetuous, and in the unreasoning bitterness of this, their first quarrel, neither had taken time to think.

The hood of the car was [illegible] her now. She was afraid to look into the car. "I must not run!" she repeated to herself. "Perhaps they will drive on. I'll just go along and mind my own business. But I do wish I'd worn my old coat!"

The car stopped, and three tall men jumped out. In a panic, Marie ran up the steps of the nearest house and pounded on the front door. She could see through to the kitchen. A fat woman with gray hair was coming slowly towards the door, smoothing her dress, patting her hair. The woman stopped to close a closet door and stooped down to pick up a newspaper from the floor.

"Oh, hurry!" called out Marie, frantically, "hurry, please!" The three men ran up the steps behind her.

"Well, what do you want?" asked one of the men. "Who are you looking for?"

"Anything we can do for you?" asked another as he took out his latch-key and opened the door just as the woman reached it.

"Oh," exclaimed Marie, "Oh, my goodness! You live here!"

"Who's this, Frank?" asked the gray-haired woman. "I thought it was a stag-party you're having tonight."

"I don't know who it is, Mother," said the man she called Frank. "Never saw her before."

"Oh, I must have the wrong number," said Marie. "I've made a mistake." She was trembling as she backed away, frightened and embarrassed. "I must be on my way."

She started down the [illegible]. The woman with the gray [illegible] her. "Come in and have a [illegible] tea with us," she invited. "The kettle's on, and it will just take a minute." She looked down the street. "You must be soaked in this rain."

"Well, thank you," said Marie.

The woman poured the tea and set out cups in the kitchen. "My son's having a few friends in for cards," she said. The cup was not very steady in Marie's hand, but the warm, sweet tea revived her spirits.

"You seem frightened, my dear," said the woman. "Frank can drive you home."

"I thought I was being followed," admitted Marie, "but I couldn't impose on you further."

"I don't like to see you start out again alone, my dear," said the woman. Her gray eyes were kind. She eyed the ring on Marie's finger. "Would you like to telephone from here? I doubt if you could find a taxi on a night like this, but perhaps your husband. . ."

"Yes, I would like to phone," interrupted Marie. "I was just on my way to a party a couple of blocks from here."

As she sat down at the telephone in the hall she thought of how she [illegible] been about to phone Jim Fowler [illegible] she left the house, knowing he would have been glad to drive over and pick her up. She could have used some of his sympathy after her words with Ed! After a moment she began to dial a number. Outside the rain was still splashing on the panes.

Then, impulsively, she put her hand down on the instrument and dialed a different number. She had to let the phone ring for several seconds. Her face lit up as someone answered.

"Hello, my Darling," she said. "Please, can you come for me? No, I'm fine." She turned to the woman for the address and gave it on the phone. "Thanks, Dearest," she said. "Yes, I'll wait here for you." She was smiling as she hung up.

A few minutes later a car drove up in front of the house and a man in a raincoat and a brown hat came up to the door. Marie went out on the porch to meet him.

The gray-haired woman followed her. "Thank you so much," Marie said to her. "I don't know your name, but I would like you to meet my husband, Ed Wilkins."

"I'm Mrs. Hubly," said the woman. "I'm glad I was able to help you. Sorry you had such an experience."

"It wasn't so bad," said Marie. "I'll never forget this evening—never." She held tightly to Ed's arm as they walked to the car.

Very Old House Now Has Modern Lighting

GRANVILLE FERRY, N.S.—After 245 years of candle light and kerosene lamps, one of the oldest houses in Nova Scotia has had its first glimmer of the incandescent miracle here as workmen put the finishing touches to an electric lighting system.

John L. Amberman, the 82-year old owner whose great-great-great-grandfather built the house in 1702, said he would have had the job done long ago except that he and his wife were afraid it would detract from the interest of the homestead.

SOCIETY OF FRIENDS AWARDED PEACE PRIZE

It's pleasant to note in this unsettled world that a quiet band of Quakers has been awarded the Nobel peace prize.

The Society of Friends is one of the smallest of religious organizations numerically. But except for the Red Cross, no relief agency is so well or so favorably known.

Quakers do not support war yet none are as ready to relieve the pains of war. They keep alive the hope that meek shall inherit the earth.

MOUSE SAVED, TOO!

SASKATOON, Sask. — A canary saved a life that a mouse jeopardized in a fire here. Firemen say the fire started in the home of Mary Erwin when a mouse chewed on some matches and ignited them. The canary, frightened by the flames, woke the occupants.

ADDING ONE LETTER MAKES BIG DIFFERENCE

NEW YORK. — The mother of a boy at Dartmouth got a telegram from him reading, "ARRIVING FRIDAY EVENING BRINGING SEVEN FOR DINNER AND TO SPEND NIGHT." The poor woman gathered herself and dashed about, rounding up sufficient sheets, blankets, cots, and towels to deal with the invasion. She turned the living room into a dormitory and got in an extra maid. Her son turned up on Friday, sure enough, accompanied by a pleasant, towheaded young classmate named Sven.

Air Force Reports Three North Poles

WASHINGTON. — The United States Air Force, reporting on geographical, navigational and weather discoveries made during Arctic operations, said it had determined that there are three magnetic North Poles instead of one. (A magnetic pole is the point toward which an ordinary magnetic compass turns.)

The poles are located in an elliptically shaped zone with the main pole on Prince of Wales Island, instead of the long-reported position at the lower tip of Bothia Peninsula. There are local poles on Bathurst Island and Bothia Peninsula, a statement said.

NOT SYMPATHETIC

LONDON. — Leonard Morris got two answers to his newspaper advertisement threatening to hang himself unless somebody rented him an apartment. The answer was pieces of rope in each instance.

WOULD EQUIP FARMERS' HOMES WITH EXTINGUISHERS

PENDER ISLAND, B.C. — Owing to the number of disastrous fires here during the last year, the Farmers' Institute will endeavor to have every home on the island equipped with a chemical extinguisher.

Decision was made at the quarterly meeting at Hope Bay Hall with Vice-president William Brown as chairman.

HAS WHOLE NEIGHBORHOOD TO BACK HIS STORY

DE SMET, S.D. — Wayne Moller, farm youth, says he has the whole neighborhood to back him up on this story. He went hunting just before an electrical storm, sighted his prey and fired. Down came 68 geese . . . electrocuted at that moment by a bolt of lightning.

There are 136 kinds of snakes in North America.

THAT WAS A GOOD MOVIE, MAW—LET'S TOP IT OFF WITH A SODA!
WHY, THAT SOUNDS REAL NICE PAW!
I HAD A WONDERFUL EVENING, PAW, THANKS A MILLION!
DON'T MENTION IT— IT WAS NOTHING!
YOU HAVE A PRETTY GOOD HUSBAND, MAW! I'LL BET MOST MEN DON'T TAKE THEIR WIVES TO DINNER AND A SHOW FOR THEIR BIRTHDAYS!
THAT'S RIGHT— THERE'S ONLY ONE LITTLE THING—
MY BIRTHDAY ISN'T UNTIL NEXT WEEK! BUT YOU HAVE A GOOD WIFE TOO— I'M NOT A BIT CROSS LIKE MOST WIVES IF THEIR HUSBANDS FORGET THEIR BIRTHDAYS!

Maybe the high price of meat is responsible or perhaps just the hunting fever has struck the district. The following hunters have gone west of Edson by truck and car, Frank Bowman, Frank Mead, Stewart Hartwell, Steve Romanchuk, Max Maddex, Vic Ismail Hoadley, Donald and Ben Timanson.

Mr Grant general manager of the Co-op Life Insurance of Alberta, addressed the last meeting of the board of directors of the Dewberry Co-op store. So impressed were the board by his explanations of the Co-op insurance that they have now taken out membership insurance.

CORRECTION—The whist drive in aid of the hockey club will be held Friday Nov. 28th. The date which appeared last week was a mistake.

Wildmere Winks

Everyone is enjoying the pleasant break in the weather this week, after three weeks of winter the mild spell is very welcome.

Congratulations are extended to Mr. and Mrs. Allen Coburn (nee Audrey Wilson formerly of Triangle but now of Vermilion) for many years of happiness. The young couple were married Saturday Nov. 22 at Lloydminster.

Don't forget the W.W.I bazaar, dance and fish pond at the Wildmere school Friday Nov. 28. Also a chance to win a cake and quilt. Isley music.

Mr. and Mrs. Wallington called to see Mr. Smith on Sunday. While he is still quite weak he is very cheery and jolly. He gets up for awhile each day.

Mrs. Morand has returned to her home in Calgary after spending the past three weeks with her mother during the time her father was ill.

Everyone was extremely sorry to hear of Mrs. Cleland and family losing their home and all belongings by fire Friday night last. They suffered a big loss felt all the more keenly at this time of the year. Personal belongings can never be replaced.

(The Standard regrets that a very interesting report of the W.I. meeting held in Vermilion Thursday Nov. 21 at which Mrs. Morton the provincial president of the W.I. spoke, had to be held over until next week due to lack of space and time for setting.)

Sidney E. Barwick Laid to Rest

Funeral services for the late Sidney E. Barwick, who passed away November 10th, were held at St. Saviour's Anglican church Thursday Nov. 13 at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. The Rev. T. W. Teane officiated.

Mr. Barwick was in his 81st year. He was born in Yorkshire, England on Sept. 12th, 1867. He grew to manhood in his native country and in the year 1892 was married. The family resided in England until 1906 when they left the comforts of the old country and came to the then sparsely settled Canadian West, coming directly to Vermilion and Mr. Barwick homesteaded north of town. This was the family home from that early date until the deceased retired from active farming in 1939. He and Mrs. Barwick moved into Vermilion and purchased their home here in that year. During all that time a partnership for their farming operations existed between Mr. Barwick and Mr. George Brown who still continues the farming activities.

In 1942 Mr and Mrs. Barwick celebrated their Golden Wedding anniversary when the very large number of friends who called on them was a wonderful tribute to the affection and esteem felt for them throughout the town and over a wide district.

Mr. Barwick was a true Britisher, to him there was no country like Canada. He was a devout member of the Anglican church.

His sociable nature, alert mind, bright and cheery disposition, made him a well loved husband and father, his home ever a happy one. His long life was well lived and useful.

Mr. Barwick leaves to mourn his loss his sorrowing widow, one son Ronald of Vermilion; two daughters, Mrs. S. J. Loughlin (Elsie), of Los Angeles, Calif., and Mrs. L. E. Littlewood (Gladys) of Victoria, B.C. There are four grandchildren. Two other grandsons gave their lives for their country while serving with the Royal Air Force.

Pall bearers were S. C. Heckbert, R. Hutchison, L. McFadden, W. P. Pilkie, A. M. West, T. Dick.

Moyer Bros. were in charge of arrangements.

Beautiful floral tributes were received from: Loving Wife and family; Tom, George and Phyllis; Ted and Eunice, Alice Keith, Tom, Dorothy and Audrey; The Kaisers; Mr. and Mrs. Carl Heckbert; The Reading Club; Mr. Taylor and Frances; Addie Mead and the boys, Jessie and Glenda; Dr. and Mrs. Stephens; The Simonson Family; Mr. and Mrs. A. Mannville Business Man Attends Conference

James McCauley of Mannville spent several days the week of Nov. 17th in Minneapolis, Minnesota, and Moline, Illinois, visiting the home offices and the various plants of the Minneapolis-Moline Power Implement Co. and conferring with officials of the company.

With other farm implement dealers from Alberta, he observed first hand the production methods of the huge Minneapolis plant of the company and discussed with company officials and engineers the production outlook for the coming year on farm machinery.

Following the Minneapolis conference, he spent the latter part of the week in Moline, observing work carried on there and discussing with officials problems of meeting the unprecedented demand for modern farm equipment.

Islay Girl Married At Vermilion

WINTER—McFADYEN

The First United church, Vermilion was the scene of a pretty wedding on Friday, Nov. 7th at 2 p.m. when Miss Annie Alma McFadyen, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. S. McFadyen, of Islay became the bride of Mr. Arnold Edward Winter, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Winter of the Battleview district. The Rev. Rotkie officiated.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was lovely in an afternoon dress of light grey crepe with chapel veil. She carried a bouquet of pink and white carnations and baby mums with maiden hair fern.

Mrs. Edwin A. Murray of Wainwright, sister of the groom, acted as matron of honor, wearing an afternoon dress of light rust crepe with green accessories. She carried a bouquet of pink and white roses with fern.

During the signing of the register the organist played "O Promise Me".

A reception was later held at the home of the groom's parents.

Mrs. Winter, mother of the groom, received in a dress of blue silk with brown accessories and a corsage of white roses. The bride's mother chose a blue suit with brown accessories and a corsage of white roses.

Later that evening the newlyweds were hosts to a number of friends at a wedding dance held in the Battleview school.

The happy young couple are now residing in Vermilion.

A Threat Of Disaster

A NUMBER OF FACTORS ARE CONTRIBUTING to the present unstable world conditions. Clashes in political ideologies are receiving a great deal of attention, and equally alarming are the threats of widespread economic disaster. A report recently made public in Washington by the International Emergency Food Council warned that "the twin problems of food and dollar shortages could result in world-economic collapse if not chaos." Thirty [illegible] nations are represented on this council, which serves mainly as an agency to allocate scarce foods fairly in areas where there are serious shortages. The report, which dealt with the present world food situation, was far from encouraging and carried a strong note of warning against impending disaster.

* * * * *

Less Food But More People

Attention was drawn to the fact that there are now [illegible] more people [illegible] than there were before the war, but [illegible] food production is [illegible] per cent less than the per capita world production before the war. In addition, due to a [illegible] the food output in [illegible] countries the [illegible] this year are from two to three per cent less than those of last year. Less grain has and potatoes were produced in [illegible] this season, while there was a decline in the corn crop in the United States. At the same time smaller food crops were produced in [illegible] and several other countries which import much of their food supply. It was also reported that Europe is desperately short of food for its livestock at a time when that continent is striving to rebuild its livestock [illegible].

* * * * *

Supplies Sent From Canada

As a remedy for the approaching crisis the report suggested the utmost co-operation, both national and international, in the matter of producing and distributing food. It is distressing to most people to realize that while the food consumption per capita on this continent is the highest in the world, in some parts of Europe and Asia it is at near starvation levels. Canada has contributed greatly to the world food supply during the years when the need in Europe and Asia has been so great, and the grain, meat and other supplies sent from here have provided relief in many distressed areas. This continent is one of the few sources of abundant food supply in these times and it is to be hoped that, in co-operation with other producing countries, means may be found of averting a collapse such as the Emergency Food Council warns us may now be impending.

PALO ALTO, Calif. It is highly unlikely that mankind can be wiped out by atomic radio-activity, according to Dr. Douglas M. Whitaker, Stanford biologist who was a member of the Bikini atom bomb expedition.

However, he said in an address, if mankind is destroyed so will be all other forms of animal life, leaving bugs to inherit the earth.

Immigrants To Canada Total 32,028

Decrease Of 14,226 From Corresponding Period Of Last Year

OTTAWA.—A total of 32,028 immigrants came to Canada from various countries during the six-month period ended Sept. 30, but the figure was 14,226 below that for the corresponding period of 1946, the resources department reported.

The decrease might be traced to the dropping off of heavy movements of dependents of servicemen from overseas.

Meanwhile, another department announcement said that with the arrival in Canada of 863 displaced persons aboard the S.S. General Stewart, the total number of displaced persons entering the Dominion so far will be raised to 5,757.

Of the latest number, 1,385 are people brought to Canada under the provisions of the close relatives scheme, 113 are orphan children being adopted by families in all parts of the country, and 4,259 are workers admitted in groups in response to requests by Canadian industry.

Of the 4,259 workers, 3,439 have been engaged by lumber companies, 365 are domestics who have been employed in institutions and homes, 100 are textile workers, 306 railroad workers and 75 miners.

However, Belgian, Danish, Dutch, Finnish, French, German, Icelandic, Norwegian, Swedish and Swiss immigrants totalled 3,000 compared [illegible].

From all other races came 4,570 immigrants compared with 1,277 a year ago.

The 32,000 total for this year was broken down as follows: adult males, 13,771, adult females, 12,071, children under 18, 6,186.

Destination by provinces of the immigrants to Western Canada, most of whom were farmers, unskilled, semi-skilled or skilled workers, trading class workers, miners and domestics, was:

Ontario, 17,366, Manitoba, 1,213, Saskatchewan, 1,907, Alberta, 1,687, British Columbia, 4,290; Yukon Territory, 21; and Northwest Territories [illegible].

SEAL SALE IS 21 THIS YEAR

This year Tuberculosis Associations across Canada are celebrating the coming of age of the Christmas Seal Sale.

Those of us who are old enough will no doubt recall the Christmas when the first nationwide tuberculosis seal appeared in Canada. Simple in design, it depicted a sleigh drawn by reindeer with the TB cross in the upper right hand corner. Beneath were the words "Christmas Greetings and Good Cheer."

The seal appeared in 1927.

No Christmas has passed by in the intervening years without a TB seal. The money raised from the sale has steadily increased from $44,612 in '27 to its present proportions of $1,200,000. All this money has been spent to combat tuberculosis. Death rates from this disease have fallen in the interval from 81.7 per 100,000 of the population in 1927 to 45 in 1945.

The Tuberculosis associations do not plan any formal festivities to mark the sale's 21st birthday. There will be no debutant parties or coming out balls. Instead, they are simply asking the public to co-operate to the fullest possible extent in buying the Christmas seals. If the over-all Canadian total could be brought up this year to a million and a half dollars they could feel that the sale had come of age indeed.

In Alberta the objective is $125,000. This is only 15 cents for each person in the province, and only 60c for every family. Unfortunately only about a third of our householders are annual contributors. Many of these give a dollar or less. This means that a great many fives, tens and twenties will be needed to make the objective. Let's do it!

Farewell Party for Mr. and Mrs. M. Schneider, Family

A farewell party was held recently at the Optimist school in honor of Mr. and Mrs. M. Schneider and family who are leaving the district to make their home at Bentley, Alberta. A large crowd attended and during the evening Mr. and Mrs. Schneider were presented with some lovely silverware and a beautiful table cloth. Frank Shongrunder acted as chairman and T. Thompson as the M.C. Thanks are extended to Leo Geisle and George Stewart for supplying the music.

The family will be greatly missed by all who know them and a decided gain for the place they chose for a home.

Mary and Martin heartily thanked all for their kindness. At the close all joined hands and sang, "For They are Jolly Good Fellows".

Mr. and Mrs. Schneider hope to have any of their friends who are down that way drop in to see them.

Dot McCormick Soloes, Celebrates Birthday Same Day

Wednesday afternoon Nov. 26th was a red letter day in the life of Miss Dorothy "Dot" McCormick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cliff McCormick. Dot is a student of the Vermilion Flying school and on the 26th she celebrated her birthday by flying solo. In soloing she gave her instructor Mr. Ken Crewshaw and others present a very fine display of her flying ability, making several circuits and landing in a very satisfactory manner.

Dorothy is a keen student and will probably make her mark in aviation circles as time goes on. As far as is known Dot is the only lady in Vermilion or district with the objective of a private or commercial pilot's license. No doubt there will be more news of this young aviatrix later.

Officials Test Ski-Equipped Planes At Local Airport

Mr. Ken Saunders and other officials of the Dept. of Transport landed at the Vermilion airport Tuesday morning flying a twin engined Anson for the purpose of conducting acceptance tests for new ski installation on Stinson aircraft. The Stinson aircraft tested on Tuesday was from Yellowknife and was flown by Mr. Dick Dennison of that town. The new installations, tested for the first time in the province, worked out perfectly.

Mr. Saunders and members of his party praised the very fine condition in which the Vermilion airfield is kept. The field has been newly rolled with the rollers recently purchased by the town. They also commended the new hangar built by the Vermilion Flying school.

The fact that Vermilion runways were rolled and packed makes Vermilion the only airport in central or southern Alberta that has snow conditions favorable to the carrying out of these tests.

Rogan and the late Mr. Rogan. He is now married and is living in Calgary where he is a member of the staff of the Canadian Bank of Commerce.

The investiture was attended by Jim's mother of Vermilion, Mrs. Sarah Rogan; his wife of Calgary and Miss Jessie Scott formerly of Vermilion now of Edmonton.

Gifted Violinist to Play Here

AT UNITED CHURCH DEC. 9th

Considerable interest is being manifested throughout the district in the approaching concert to be given in the First United church, Vermilion under the auspices of the church choir on Tuesday evening of next week Dec. 9th. There has been a brisk demand for tickets and as the accommodation is limited by the size of the church, intending patrons will be well advised to secure their tickets beforehand. Egon Grapentin the young violinist from Edmonton who will be heard in this recital accompanied at the piano by his wife is one of Canada's most outstanding concert violinists.

Born 27 years ago in Europe of Hungarian and French parents Mr. Grapentin came to Edmonton and started his musical career at the same time he began his formal education at six. His first teacher in Edmonton was Prof. Alexander Nichol and the young lad studied with this tutor for 9 years. During this time he entered all violin competitions open to him at annual Alberta Musical festivals, and was awarded first class honors on every occasion.

At the age of 16 Mr. Grapen is went to Philadelphia to study under such famous teachers as Thaddeus Rich former concert-master of the Philadelphia Philharmonic and Yash Stimpin. In New York he studied under the famous Renno Rabinoff who has been frequently heard as soloist with the New York Philharmonic Symphony and also worked with Hugo Kortschak. This American study was made possible by Grapentin being awarded the Edmonton Civic Opera Society scholarship on 3 separate occasions.

During recent years Mr. Grapentin has been heard in recitals and concerts in many cities of the U.S. and Canada and has also been heard frequently on the radio during the last two and a half years over [illegible] broadcasts and many more [illegible] station performances.

Music lovers of the town and district are therefore assured of a great treat next Tuesday evening and once again let us remind you to get your tickets early.

Figures Reveal Magnitude of Water & Sewer System

NEARLY 50,000 TONS OF EARTH MOVED

The magnitude of the work involved in ditching for the Vermilion water and sewer system can best be appreciated when the enormous quantity of earth it was necessary to hoist from hard-pan street surfaces in order to pave the way for laying the water and soil pipe is considered. Then again the distance the ditching machine used by the Dominion Construction Co. travelled would extend in a straight line to within a very few miles of Mannville.

Nearly five miles of water mains were laid in the streets in [illegible] & 8 inch sizes. In addition to this pipe was laid from the well to the reservoir, to the hospital and to all of South Vermilion. There remain [illegible] feet of water pipe to lay. 42 valves have been set in the mains along with other fittings such as tees, bends, plugs and so on. Ten hydrants are in position. The well house and the reservoir are completed and water is pouring from the well to the power plant of the Canadian Utilities at the rate of several thousand gallons per day by special arrangement between the Utilities and the Construction company.

Nearly six miles of sewer pipe have been laid, the pipe ranging in size from 8 to 12 inches and from 6 to 17 feet in depth [illegible] feet remains to be laid [illegible] 102 manholes have been built. The total depth of these manholes strung together would [illegible] length of [illegible] town blocks [illegible] and west. At the disposal [illegible] circular trickler filter with [illegible] of 42 feet is completed. The [illegible] tank 26 feet long, has been built but is not yet housed [illegible] system [illegible].

[illegible] about [illegible] tons of earth were moved [illegible] to lay the water pipe and 27,[illegible] tons to [illegible]. The quantity of earth removed [illegible] excavation for the sewer [illegible] plant was [illegible] 1,740 tons.

These figures were supplied by the engineers [illegible].

Provincial government bounty on coyotes will remain at $5 throughout the winter, E. S. Huestis, game commissioner, announced Friday.

It had been planned to drop the bounty from $5 to $2 at Oct. 1, but as an incentive to killing and trapping the animals the bounty will remain at the $5 level, Mr. Huestis said.

Trappers also will be able to keep the full market value of the pelt, Mr. Huestis added. The $5 bounty will remain in effect at least until the end of next March.

Board of Trade Notes

Alex Katz acted as chairman of the meeting of Nov. 26th and the business transacted was, briefly, as follows:

That the board of trade approves the idea of providing accommodation in town for the stabling of farmers' teams and were quite willing to undertake all the details in connection with the construction of such a building providing a suitable site could be secured from the town. The site desired was on 1st street North on the lot where the hitching rail is now located. Reg Mitchell, Russell Carroll and Melvin Hill were to approach the council again to talk the matter over.

The Agricultural committee was empowered to arrange an agricultural meeting for the evening of Dec. 12th. Full details as to the results of this appear elsewhere in this issue.

A letter was written to M.D. of Vermilion River asking that more gravel be put on the north river hill road.

Another of the younger members, Fred Brimacombe was chairman of the meeting held Wednesday of this week. He welcomed Mr. Ralph Wilson to the gathering. Mr. Brimacombe also congratulated Ken Urquhart on his election as a director of the Trans-Canada Highway Association (Yellowhead route) which is an association covering all of the four western provinces.

Reg Mitchell reported re horse barn and the difficulty of securing a central site. However the committee hasn't given up hope and are still working on the project. All other plans for the building have been completed.

Bill Pilkie reported re activities at the airfield covered elsewhere in this issue.

Jack Kerns gave details of the meeting of interest to farmers also covered elsewhere in this paper.

K. G. Urquhart gave a report of the Trans-Canada Highway association annual meeting and convention which he attended at Saskatoon, touching on the very definite progress made in regard to a real highway across Canada to the coast via the Yellowhead route, the only logical all-Canadian route and a road that would be usable 12 months of the year.

TIMES CHANGE —

It appears that provision of a barn for the stabling of farmers' teams during the winter months is a definite must. As pointed out by one farmer to the business men on Wednesday it will be an extraordinary winter indeed if the side roads are not blocked by snow for weeks and even months before spring comes again. Then there is no recourse except to horses. He mentioned too that there is always the odd occasion that demands a stay overnight and horses just cannot be left standing. The occasional emergency trip to the hospital is still made even in winter and a warm team must definitely have shelter. Some concession in the way of taxes might have kept a horse barn operating as a private enterprise but even that is doubtful as the days of the barn as a profitable yearly business have been gone for some time.

Other towns have faced the same situation before this and have provided the necessary accommodation. The sooner Vermilion does likewise the less an issue it will become.

Payments to Living Policyholders

BY CANADIAN LIFE INSURANCE COMPANIES

TORONTO. — Payments to living policyholders and beneficiaries in the Province of Alberta by life insurance companies operating in Canada has reached a total of $2,107,448 in the first three quarters of the current year, the Canadian Life Insurance Officers Association has announced.

The Alberta total was made up of $1,661,202 on 787 ordinary life policies; $80,000 on 246 industrial policies and $166,246 on 147 group policies.

For the whole of Canada, $133,229,-730 was paid out by the life insurance companies in the 9-month period.

The figures were compiled by the Canadian Life Insurance Officers Association based on the data of companies representing more than 96% of the life insurance in force in Canada.

Will Your Seed Grow?

Knowing that good seed will be scarce by spring, Alberta farmers are making sure of their supplies now. In this rush for seed there is one point that should not be overlooked — the germination test.

J. E. Birdsall, Supervisor of Crop Improvement for the Alberta Department of Agriculture says that germination test, always advisable, is more important than ever this year. Whether the seed is from your own fields, from those of a neighbor or from any other source, you are advised to make sure that it will germinate satisfactorily. You can test the seed at home, take advantage of the seed testing service offered by the grain companies or send a one pound sample to the Plant Products Division, Dominion Department of Agriculture, Calgary.

Mr. Birdsall points out that there is a fee of 75c charged by the Plant Products Div., but that only tests carried out by this Division are recognized for the sale of seed on grade. Other tests re quite satisfactory for determining germinating ability of a sample to be used by the grower.

A.M.A. Studies Plan Check Car Thefts

Measures to check the prevalence of car thefts reported in some centres are receiving the attention of officials of the Alberta Motor Association.

In numerous cases, the theft of the car has meant a serious loss to the owner, especially one who depends on such a vehicle in operating his business. At a time when the number of new cars going on the market is limited, the consequences can be quite serious to the individual owner.

In order to curb the number of car thefts, the Edmonton branch of the A.M.A. is considering a plan of offering cash rewards for the recovery of same.

Under the plan, there would be a cash reward of $100 in a major case, such as recovery of the machine and conviction of the thieves. In other cases where merely the finding of an abandoned car was reported, the reward would be in the neighborhood of $25.

The practice of offering rewards was adopted some years ago by some U.S. motor clubs and it was found that this soon acted as a deterrent on the number of car thefts.

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY—

LOVE FROM DADDY

By EDNA CORNELL

PEGGY McNAUGHTON gazed through the window at teen-agers strolling into the school grounds.

She watched the bobbing of colored head scarves and curls, and flashes of diamond socks as bare legs crossed again and again toward the hub of learning. Bicycles hurled along dirt paths. Laughter and girlish voices popped up everywhere.

Would her own small children one day step across the street into this structure of higher education? Or was Terry to make the whole thing impossible by refusing to fight the one thing which held him so securely in its grip?

Peggy turned from the window, where scrim curtains trembled against the ice-blue pane. She looked through the dinette where cigarette ashes lay on the maple table. She saw glasses standing in white rings of their own making, empty bottles with gold labels, black scuff marks on the linoleum.

Were her efforts worth while? Could a home be built on crumbling foundations?

She pussy-footed through the dinette, hating the dead ashes, the odorous bottles, the smoke-film on the windows. She went into the living room, not wanting to remember the smashed bottle on the hearth, or its reason for being there.

She thought of marriage, and Terry. Terry with his grasshopper moods, and bantering manner; his quick smile, and rough black hair. Terry was like one of those bundles of quilt pieces, full of surprises and disappointments, of brightness and ugliness.

The old minister had quoted: "For better or for worse." And he might have added: "Because there will be a fine little son and daughter, one day."

It might help to throw ones' self across the bed and weep, as women do when seeking refuge. It might help to pick up that blue Chinese vase and send it smashing against the wall, but mothers didn't do that. They didn't seek refuge in befuddlement either. They just went on day after day, as if all the world were a beautiful serene place, and their individual hearts were not sore and heavy with grief. Peggy knew their little tricks of camouflage. They took extra precautions with make-up to cover up the tiny lines of strain etching firmly, oh so firmly, into youthful skin. They rubbed vaseline on eyelids to counteract the feverish shine in their eyes. And they dressed with care. Rundown heels and torn nylons were sure signs of weakening.

Peggy sank down on the mouse-grey chesterfield, cupping her chin in the pink-leather palms of her hands. The girlish chatter had ceased, and sparrows twittered unceasingly. A bus cruised by, followed by a cracking motorcycle.

In two and a half hours, Jackie and Barbs would be home, chattering wildly about their day at school. To them, life was a normal, happy affair, except for those occasions when they witnessed Terry's fall from his paternal pedestal. And because they were so ready to reinstate him, the break would be difficult.

But it must be done, and done now!

The realization called for action. She jumped to her feet and gathered up dishes and bottles. She would brush up ashes, vacuum the rug, put flowers on the table.

She would leave the house tidy as usual, but when she went out this time the door would be locked for the last time. There would be no turning back now. She and Terry had had their last quarrel, and any further conversation would be done before a lawyer.

This was the end of Mr. Terry McNaughton and his nonsense. He could rejoice alone, and repent alone. She'd had enough!

Rushing through the house, Peggy felt light-hearted, because at last she was standing up for her rights. She would find a job, and the children must accept a few responsibilities. An apartment would be difficult to locate, but one room and a gas plate would be fine for a start.

Wings grew to her slim ankles, now that she'd made her decision. The house was tidy again. Peggy stepped into the tiled bathroom, stripped off her clothes, pushed her golden hair under a plastic cap, and turned on the shower. She held up her face and her arms letting the warm water wash away her weariness. She rubbed herself dry, and slipped into fresh underthings, and a tailored dress. Clothes and thoughts must be practical from now on, for she would be the breadwinner!

Never again would she be hoodwinked by endearments and gifts! Terry, like Custer, had made his last stand, as far as she was concerned.

She screwed pearl studs to her ear lobes, and patted the golden waves of her hair. She smoothed the blue dress over her hips, easing away untidy lines, and pinned a clip to the [illegible]

It was then she heard the footsteps running lightly up to the door, and the double chime murmuring through the house. Who on earth could that be at a critical time like this?

She opened the front door warily, and saw the florist's boy in blue uniform. He saluted smartly and handed her the box. She took it to the kitchen and opened it on the table, folding back the pink tissue. Nestling in maidenhair fern, there was a white card.

Peggy was still cradling the flowers against her face when the children burst in the back door. Jackie flung down his books, and with typical male unconcern sniffed: "Flowers, huh? Gee I'm hungry!" His world was still secure.

Barbara stole up soft eyed and gentle. "Oooo. Aren't they pretty, Mum?" Then her blue eyes mirrored concern and anguish. Her lips trembled slightly. "M-mmy," she whispered, "you're crying."

Peggy swallowed with difficulty. She looked at her daughter's anxious little face, blurry through tears. "Crying? Oh, no, Honey. You see these flowers are still damp with dew. I just got a little water on my face."

"Are those flowers little kings wrapped in ruby velvet and sparkling with diamonds? You told me that once."

"These are little messengers from the king."

"You look so pretty, Mommy," Barb said, fascinated.

"Do I, dear? I guess that's because I want to look extra nice when Daddy comes home tonight," softly said Peggy, treasuring the card from [illegible]

U.S. Farmers To Boost Grain Output

Increase Needed To Provide Good Share Of Food For Hungry Nations

WASHINGTON.—The government called on U.S. farmers to produce about 9,000,000 more acres of grain crops next year than were harvested this year.

Secretary of Agriculture Clinton P. Anderson announced the national production goal of 356,000,000 acres for 1948. The goal included 296,000,-000 acres of cultivated crops and 60,000,000 acres of hay.

Anderson said the suggested goals would require a "heavy drain on our already strained soil resources. But that is inevitable, he said, if this nation is to provide a good share of the food needed so desperately by hungry nations abroad.

"Farmers must take all possible precautions to guard against irreparable damage to the land," Anderson said. "In the years to come there will be an urgent need for greatly accelerated conservation."

While the grain goals remained high, reductions were suggested in the numbers of grain-consuming livestock. Next year's goal for production of poultry and eggs, pigs and cattle were far below the wartime level but still slightly higher than average for five pre-war years.

In the Franco-Prussian war, besieged Parisians moved 60 persons and more than 4,000,000 letters out of Paris by balloon.

SALT PLANT COMPLETION BY END OF FEBRUARY—FIRST SALT IN MARCH

(By J. V. Jacobson)

Construction will be completed about February 28th on Alberta's new independent salt plant now being constructed at Elk Point, according to information received here by the Elk Point Chamber of Commerce. It is expected that the first salt will be produced early in March. Officials who have been appointed include M. M. Porter of Calgary who was [illegible] president of the board of directors of the newly formed Alberta Salt Company and other members of the Board are H. R. Milner of Edmonton, J. G. Spratt of Calgary, L. D. M. Baxter of Winnipeg, J. F. MacMillan, Winnipeg, K. Gerald Hanson, Montreal and J. R. Donald, Montreal. Mr. C. A. Robinson of Calgary has been appointed as secretary-treasurer. G. L. Williams, who has had extensive experience in salt processing and marketing with Canadian Industries at Windsor, Ont., has been appointed as general manager and Mr. Herbert Ayres, who has been employed for several years with McMurray Salt Company and with Abasand Oils, has been appointed as the [illegible].

The Alberta Salt Company, whose offices are located at 54 Canada Life Building in Calgary, is a subsidiary of Anglo-Canadian Oil Co. Ltd., and Home Oil Co. Ltd., with head offices in Calgary and the Calgary and Edmonton Corporation with head offices in Winnipeg. All of these are western companies actively operating in the West and concentrating their activities in developing the West.

Through the enterprise of these 3 companies which instead of disposing of their properties to outside interests chose to develop them, the West for the first time now has its own wholly Western-owned Western [illegible] salt supply.

Two salt wells and three natural gas wells have already been completed at the plant. The main buildings, the power unit and the salt evaporation plant are practically completed. These buildings are of steel and brick construction with the salt evaporation plant three stories high with a two storey extension. This is the building in which the brine pumped from the company's wells will pass through the various stages of evaporation. By scientific control and regulation of these stages, a complete [illegible] will be produced [illegible] the most pure and [illegible] salt.

The huge salt resources here lie between [illegible] and [illegible] feet below the surface and comprise three beds of solid salt over 100 feet in total thickness.

Discovery of these deposits followed [illegible] geological investigations and were the result of wildcat drilling for oil. To develop the salt beds discovered it was necessary to have an abundant supply of water which was furnished by the nearby Saskatchewan river, and a good supply of natural fuel which in this case was the excellent supply of natural gas from a nearby well with a flow of over 2 [illegible] cubic feet per day.

The salt itself lies close enough to the surface to be recovered at an exceedingly low cost.

Above the salt the extensive supplies of natural gas already tapped by the company's three wells lie approximately a thousand feet from the surface. Distributing facilities for the salt to the cities and farming areas of Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba as well as B.C. through to the Pacific coast, is offered by a branch line of the Canadian National Railways running right past the door of the plant. The local Chamber of Commerce has been urging the completion of the railway gap from Heinsburg to Frenchman's Butte, to facilitate shipping salt to the Eastern markets.

Nowhere else in Canada are the factors for the economical production of salt so favorable as those found at this plant, which lies about 145 miles north-east of Edmonton.

In many parts of the world, salt is mined like coal. In others, it is cut from surface beds in the same manner as ice is cut from frozen rivers and lakes in winter. The cleanest salt however is considered to be that recovered through salt wells by the process used here.

By this method, water from the North Saskatchewan river will be pumped down the wells dissolving the salt at the bottom. The resulting brine is forced to the surface through an inner casting running up through the centre of the pipes. The brine then flows into huge vats. In these vats, the water is completely evaporated and any impurities are run off leaving only the pure crystal salt.

The rated capacity of the plant will be 125 tons per day. It will require a staff of about 45 full-time employees. It is being constructed by the Whitham Construction Company of Edmonton.

The Spirit of Christmas

By Adjutant Charles Stewart

"He don't believe in Christmas", said my companion speaking of a man he knew.

"Doesn't believe in Christmas'? I wonder why?"

"Well, he has come to believe that Christmas is just a farce. What with two World Wars in the last 30 years and the turmoil of present day living, he thinks that all this talk of a Prince of Peace is just a myth. We extol peace on earth, and good will to men, but we are never entirely free from the gruesome monster of war. So as far as he is concerned Christmas is just a date to perpetuate a futile ideal."

I thought over this man's twisted philosophy and wondered if his mental reaction to present circumstances was becoming general among the younger generation.

It would be a pity, and a grave mistake, if many copied this attitude of defeatism.

There are some points that all of us would do well to keep in mind.

The peace we talk about, and read about at Christmastime, is spiritual peace. This peace is not affected in any way by wars or world conditions, however, if we all had spiritual peace, earthly peace would follow automatically. We can have spiritual peace with our earthly peace, but we can never have earthly peace among nations unless we first of all have the spiritual peace we commemorate at Christmas time.

The desire for real peace is not — as our friend seems to think—a futile idea. A great many sincere Christian people are living testimonies to the existence of this peace.

I believe that the silly fairy stories some parents tell to their children has something to do with the tendency of youth to become skeptical; so many things which they were led to believe as true were later admitted to be untrue, that subconsciously, they feel that they have been cheated, and are suspicious of that which is not readily understood.

I remember quite well my early childhood. My mother, as did most mothers, told wonderful tales of a genial, red clad, rosie-faced man who lived near the North Pole, and while I sat wide-eyed and open-mouthed, she would tell how every Christmas Eve he would harness up his reindeers and bring toys and gifts to all the children that is IF they had been good! (How she used to use that "IF" to get her own way!)

The story never failed to fire my imagination until one day I met the inevitable snag to my childish belief. I lived in a city and the great day in the lives of city children had arrived. Santa Claus with due pomp and ceremony, had come to town. Out we went, my brother and I, to be presented to this idolized personage. It was a breath-taking moment when he asked me in a deep musical bass voice, "What would you like Santa to bring you?"

I have forgotten what I asked for, but firmly fixed in my mind was the memory of the man. He was tall with a prominent convexed front, slightly bow-legged. He possessed a deep pleasant voice.

Too soon came the time to go home so holding firmly on to my mother's skirt (fortunately those were the days when women's skirts were good and long) I managed to get through the crowd without being lost. Mother remembered that she needed to get something at another department store and seeing that it was near at hand we went in.

It was at this store that I met the snag to my immature belief. For the second time that day I saw the one and only Santa Claus.

But oh dear! Whatever had happened to him? His musical bass had become a clear tenor, his legs were not bowed in the least, and I guess Mrs. Santa didn't know a thing about Box soap — For Santa had shrunk terribly.

Why he was only half his size now!

Well, after that I did a lot of thinking and investigating and presently I found that my belief in Santa Claus needed some adjustment.

But, despite the surprise of that discovery, I still believe in Santa Claus, for Santa Claus is the SPIRIT OF CHRISTMAS.

Don't let anyone or anything stamp or smother this spirit from your heart. The Spirit of Christmas is really the Spirit of Christ.

God gave the world the greatest gift, a Saviour who brings Peace to men of Good Will. The Prince of Peace is needed more today than ever. Have you made room for him in your life? I trust that you have. When a man gets the peace of God in his soul he is never poor, but the richest man who lacks this divine gift is a miserable pauper in the things that really matter.

Set Christ and His principles on the throne of your heart, for

"Though Christ a thousand times in Bethlehem be born
And not in thee thy soul remains eternally forlorn."

Tuberculosis takes 16 Canadian lives every day. In 1908 the death rate was five times what it is now.

Ideas which can't stand on their own legs have to be defended by force of arms.

MR. FARMER—YOU BE JUDGE AND JURY, TOO!

During the world-wide depression of the thirties, prices for everything, including wheat, went crashing down. Millions of people all over the world were unemployed. So many United States banks failed that President Roosevelt closed all banks for a while to avoid nation-wide panic. Since that time, certain people in Western Canada have never ceased to attack The Winnipeg Grain Exchange and blame its Members for the then low world price of wheat.

Our Members had no more to do with that low price than you did. It was caused by the world-wide depression and the excess of supply of wheat over demand because many people couldn't even afford to buy bread. Every fair-minded farmer knows that, despite years of misleading and contrary propaganda put out by the leaders of the "Pools."

Up to now, The Winnipeg Grain Exchange has ignored this misleading propaganda, but the time has come to refute it. So, in a series of advertisements (of which this is the first), The Exchange will tell you how its Members operate and answer some of the questions asked at farmers' meetings. These advertisements will appear in this paper and in leading farm papers for some months to come. Please read them.

You have heard the "Pools'" side often enough. Now read our side and be Judge and Jury in the matter. Our Members do not fear your verdict.

Meantime, mail the coupon below for a free copy of the booklet "An Explanation of the Canadian Wheat Board Act 1935 and Amendments Thereto." It's important for you to know how you are now being regulated and controlled.

To The Winnipeg Grain Exchange,
Winnipeg, Manitoba.
Please mail booklet to which you refer above.

Hughes told the committee that Meyers "himself suggested" while in uniform that he "might like to have" the post of Hughes' aircraft manager.
